"With few exceptions there is no capitalist press." So learnedly spoke Mr. Murphy, democratic politician and leading light of Connecticut labor fakerdom, to whom credit may be given for the original and beautiful contribution to the cause of class peace—that of urging the affiliation of the New Haven Central Labor Union to the New Haven Chamber of Commerce

And so that the future historian may be aware of this great historic and significant occasion, be it recorded, that for the 4-5-6-7th days of September, 1928, there descended into the old city of New London, to be precise, into its Mohican Hotel, the town's richest non-union hostelry, a happy, gay, back-clapping body of men, than whom no merrier a gang was ever seen.

Rivers of Whiskey.

And bootleg whiskey in rivers ran. And real beer found a ready market, and cigars, both union and non-union made, were freely passed, and hours merrily chased, and wisecracks cracked, and daddy, mammy songs lustily sung, and speeches lengthy by fat and pompous gentlemen, glorifying our "institushuns" held, and all was well and everyone was happy. It was Connecticut labor holding its 43rd state convention.

To omit the great combats this assembly witnessed (those sober enough to witness anything but another bottle) would prove a lack of sportmanship on the part of the writer of these lines. Yes, there was such fierce and gruel combats, and prizes given to the winners.

The main attraction, the gladiators, Mr. Murphy, the above mentioned president of the New Haven C. L. U. local aldermen, well-known democratic politician, versus Mr. Moore, beloved son and democratic politician of Torrington; Mr. Donahue, favorite son of Danbury and one more backer of the illustrious champion of the common people, "Al Smith." And these found a three cornered ring vying for the presidency of the organization, and the plums that fall with it. Such as labor selling, political graft, etc.

One must admit though, methods used by the above mentioned were the most honorable. No harsh voice was ever raised at the convention, no ungentlemanly procedure that any were guilty of.

Weapons were whisky bottles, cigars, political favors promised, rumors passed, some whispering, all in good ward-heeling fashion.

Whether Mr. Moore's bootleg was of a better grade, or was it that his cigars were passed more freely, or a tacit understanding between candidates—as many claim—but be it reported, that it is Mr. Moore who shall until the next convention, as president, be privileged to all pretty plums that lie in wait for up-and-at-it labor presidents to come and pick 'em.

Big-Hearted Eagan.

A high moment was also that of renominating Mr. John Eagan, wiry, small and vicious labor faker, every inch of him, for secretary.

He was unanimously re-elected.

For any delegate to have suggested a frame of mind other than unanimity on this proposition, would spell a bloody nose, or some other way of inviting disaster.

Eagan, though small in stature, is big in his love for the labor movement, as long as it is bona fide, within the prospective wing of the A. F. of L. and in every other way respectable.

It was Mr. Eagan, by the way, who had recently gotten in touch with the police commissioners of all the cities in Connecticut, advising them to the effect that the miners' relief committee, as also the textile relief committee, are not bona fide. That they are rather "the doings of those dirty bulshevics," and that no permits for tag days, etc., be given to representatives of these committees. A warning the bona fide, labor loving police of Connecticut well heeded.

Mr. Eagan, may I repeat, was re-elected unanimously—or almost so.

Whispering Campaigns.

A progressive delegate to this convention, Brother Hearing, president of Stamford C. L. U., well known and well liked trade unionist. One who had dared going to the Soviet Union as a member of the recent trade union delegation, was defeated for vice presidency, thru a whispering campaign. "Don't vote for Hearing, he's "Comoonistic."

The machine reigneth supreme.

There were speeches rendered by many International vice presidents, shyster lawyers "representing labor's interests," and ministers of the gospel. All lauded the "achievements of labor," "the great strides made forward," and, "as I look back some years . . .," who sang the praises of "your leaders who know when to stop in their demands," and called upon the Lord to "assist in this holy endeavor." Over-fed looking individuals beamed with self-satisfaction.

There was a report of delegates.

The Booze Was Good.

"Well, president and brother delegates, I can report that everything in our locals is going along fine. . . . We had a little hard times, but it is gettin' better. Though a lot of our men are loafing just at present. We might expect some hard times this winter. . . ."

"Brother president, and delegates, in New Britain conditions are good. We have 64 men in our local. Of late about 18 are out of work. We got most of the shops organized—that is outside of the big shops, where they work 18 hours a day—"

"Making progress . . ."

"Same as last year . . ."

The Clarion Call.

There were various resolutions submitted. The resolutions timidly told a tale of open shoppers, of their vigorous onslaught on labor, here, there, and everywhere, of "unfair" legislators, mean and unfriendly to labor, of "unjust" injunctions, etc.

And with them the clarion call to battle. How? By what means? Information cheerfully given.

". . . That we again submit this resolution to the Honorable Senator Bingham, calling upon him to reconsider . . ."

". . . That we call upon the delegates to take back with them to their local unions, that the La France fire fighting apparatus manufacturing company are unfair to labor . . ."

". . . That Knick-Knack suspenders are made under open shop conditions . . ."

". . . In view of the fact the K. O. X. Mfg. Co. manufacturing toilet specialties are unfair to organized labor, therefore, be it resolved . . ."

The Militants.

In strong contradiction to this environment, there sat at this convention a small group of men sober and earnestly watching the proceedings, at times stating on the floor truths somewhat unpleasant, in unmistaken terms calling to real battle, voicing such terms as "Class Struggle" "Capitalist rule" daring to proclaim that labor "has no friends within the capitalist parties; that labor must have a party of its own; that one-sixth of the globe is at present under the rule of workers and farmers; that the A. F. of L. to survive must initiate a militant campaign to organize the unorganized."

They presented resolutions that did not have that whining, pleading tone about them, rather, every line of which called for united effort in militant struggle.

Discretion the Watchword.

These workers were a minority at this convention.

Their speeches sneered at by labor faking machine; their resolutions "non-concurred" or made gentlemanly, the "offensive" lines removed.

Discretion the watchword.

This would not give a complete picture of this great gathering, were we to omit mention of the theoretical heights it rose to; the splendid learnedness, the deep and sympathetic insight into the needs of the American labor movement it has shown.

Those moments when the convention's great ideological leader, the often above mentioned Mr. Murphy, in simple phrases, fatherly, told to those assembled (it was in his attack against the resolutions for a labor party and recognition of the Soviet Union) such glazing truths as, "That the only people in Russia who have the right to vote are the Comoonists;" "that no family life, the very basis of our great commonwealth exists there;" "that people live in daily terror for their very lives."

And oh, the worst of all! That these very Bolsheviks seek to undermine our great and glorious institushuns, citing, "the breaking up by these Communists of the Miners' Union, the slandering campaign carried on by these same Bolsheviks on the great leaders of this union." "The actions of these Comoonists in New Bedford, where this very moment they seek to 'disorganize' the textile workers' organization."

Does the American labor movement need a party of its own?

Harken, labor, to the words of this great leader!

"This (a labor party) has never proven of practical value in this country."

"Labor, with minor exceptions, has and is receiving fair treatment at the hands of these so-called capitalistic parties."

"Al Smith, for one, has always stood one hundred per cent with labor."

"We are Americans, proud of our institutions, and by-gawd, still stand by them."

"The American worker has reached a higher standard of living . . . . houses. . . . automobiles. . . . never dreamt of even before, with few exceptions."

"The non-partisan policy laid down by the great founder of the bone fide labor movement, Samuel Gompers, has proven of great value."

Many, many such gems of thought.

The "Socialists."

Oh, yes, lest we forget, there were a number of socialists present at this convention, men whose names regularly appear on the ballot, opposite that of the hand and torch, in various cities of the state of Connecticut, offering the voter the opportunity of voting for "radicals".

P. S.—After close of the convention, on leaving the hotel, while there still rang in my ears the closing utterances of the great Murphy, relating to our great commonwealth, its institutions guaranteeing to all native and alien justice and freedom, the right to. . . .the right to. . . .the right. . . .where with few exceptions . . . .

One of these "exceptions," in the form of an aged, wizened little woman, poorly dressed, with harrassed afraid eyes, approached me, stealthy putting a circular into my hand, quickly and fearfully passed on. A moment later, two representatives of the law had a tight grip upon her, ready for any violence that she might attempt.

CAMPAIGN CORNER

Here are some excerpts from letters containing campaign fund contributions: "Enclosed please find one dollar as my donation to the Communist Campaign Fund. Knowing that capitalism is decaying and the revolutionary proletariat arising, I remain,

Your for Communism,
THOMAS TUOLO.

"Enclosed please find two dollar bills, one from me and the other from my friend John Chanas, for carrying on the election campaign as I know very well that DuPont will not help you out in your election work. We workers have to do it alone, although our contribution is small because we have to work for very small weekly wages as I am sorry that we can't do better.

And a surprise for "Big Bill the Builder," mayor of Chicago. One of the employes in city hall sends a check for $5.00 to the Communist Campaign Fund. No doubt if Big Bill knew his name he would be fired quicker than a police chief who did not know how to shake down the bootleggers.

So much for money. As you already know, the Communist ticket is on the ballot in Texas tho the assistant secretary of state is kicking and threatening to throw it off. The candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party for lieutenant-governor is Comrade J. L. Swan, an eighty-year-old veteran of the class struggle. He was active in the Populist Party in Texas and served as commissioner of Jones County on the P. P. ticket. He was a charter member of the Socialist Party of Texas, having helped to organize it. Swan was a familiar figure at all the state conventions of the S. P. and contributed much to the success of their meetings there in former years. Since the Socialist Party deserted the class struggle, Comrade Swan, like thousands of other revolutionists quit that organization and joined the Workers (Communist) Party.

Foster speaks in Milwaukee on September 10th at the Bahn Frei Hall. Five thousand leaflets have been issued for this meeting. Sympathetic organizations have been mobilized for the meeting and they will appear with banners greeting the Workers (Communist) Party. Following the Foster meeting the Milwaukee comrades will inaugurate a Red Week which will continue until September 17. plans for a special edition of the Daily Worker with special reference to the Wisconsin situation are being made.

The comrades in Nebraska are giving the Red Baiters something to bark about. They got the Communist ticket on the ballot in jig time and now the militarists are trying to throw it off. But this is easier said than done despite the sympathy of the state authorities for the war mongering patriots. Governor McMullen is warning the people against the "red menace" and the papers are featuring Communist Party activities. Good stuff!

Told You So

THIS is the strange story of Mr. Skaggs. Twenty years ago he slept in a Kansas City railroad station because he did not have enough money to rent a bed in a hotel. Somehow or other he got to the Pacific Coast and is today the owner of a chain of grocery stores valued at $17,000,000. All he needs is a publicity man to make him famous.

T. J. O'Flaherty

OUR readers must not assume that the way to start out on the road to wealth is to sleep in a railroad depot. Usually it is the way to start to the nearest police station. Perhaps Skaggs got the idea of chain stores while scratching himself on a hard seat in the depot. Lots of bright ideas come to one in his sleep. The trouble is that they are hard to remember the morning after. But there must be a "Skagg Way" of doing this. If there isn't, Skagg will never be anything more in history than a big coffee and cocoa man.

HERBERT HOOVER insists that there are no unemployed in the United States. This is not exactly correct. What he claims is that there is no unemployment problem. A casual reading of the society columns of capitalist press proves that there are hundreds of thousands of parasites whose only problem from one end of the year to the other is to devise new tricks to kill time. This army of unemployed is supporting Hoover and Smith.

THE capitalist newspapers that are supporting Al Smith claim that there are over 4,000,000 unemployed in the country. The Hoover press can't see it. If Smith happened to be in Hoover's place the democratic party press couldn't see a jobless man on the Chicago slave market. Hoover is trying to create the impression that the prosperity of American imperialism is shared by the entire population, but he will have a hard time trying to convince a hungry man that he is wrapped around a hot meal.

VAUCLAIN, head of the American Locomotive Company says that he believes in the full dinner pail. He believes that Hoover is the best little pail-filler running for the presidency. The officials of the American Federation of Labor believe in the full beer can. They believe that Al Smith will have "growlers" rushing as in the good old days before the great thirst. We often heard of a man falling between two stools, but if the American workingclass heed these political confidence men and their press agents, they will be left sitting between two empty cans.

THE revolutionary workingclass will shed no tears of sorrow over the passing of James Duncan, former first vice-president of the A. F. of L. and former president of the Granite Cutters' International Union. Duncan was one of the most reactionary of the fossilized crew of labor fakers that graced the executive council of the A. F. of L. and disgraced the American labor movement. His chief contributions to history were his visit to Russia in 1917 as a member of the commission headed by Elihu Root, with the object of sabotaging the Revolution and keeping the socialist reactionary Kerensky in power and the organization of the Tanyard Club of Boston where the labor leaders made whoopee until they were too feeble to carry a stein to their lips.

THE socialists are jubilant over the vote cast for Victor Berger in the Milwaukee primaries. And well they may. Listen to the Milwaukee correspondent of the New Leader explain the "victory:" "It was furthermore pointed out by the socialists who undoubtedly will vote showed that many thousands of socialists who undoubtedly will vote the socialist ticket on election day, entered the republican primaries to help out the progressive candidates. This has been often done by socialists whenever the progressives were in a difficult contest with the stalwarts for the nominations. That is why some of the greatest victories for the socialist party in Milwaukee were achieved when the primary vote was lowest.

57 CITIES SEND DELEGATES FOR NEW MILL UNION

All Sections of Trade to Be Represented at Convention

Credentials for 250 Already Filed

With preparations in full swing both in New York City and in textile centers throughout New England and the middle Atlantic states, the coming national convention of textile wrkers to be held at Irving Plaza, New York City, on Sept. 22 and 23 will undoubtedly be a great success. Delegates are expected, judging from reports sent in from the different textile centers and from credentials received—from 57 cities covering all sections of the industry—cotton, silk, woolen and worsted, knit goods and miscellaneous sections. The 250 delegates who have been already elected will make this convention a fully representative one, covering a much bigger territory than the 113 delegates who attended the convention of the United Textile Workers held last week, which represented only 42 cities.

Two important problems face the arrangements committee of the new national textile union which is to convene at Irving Plaza on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 22 and 23. These are: (1) Accommodations for over 250 delegates who will arrive in New York soon, and (2) the demand for a large number of volunteers to assist at the sessions of the convention.

All who want to aid in the formation of a genuine textile workers' union are urged to get in touch at once with I. Zimmerman, at the local office of the Trade Union Educational League, Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square.

Many Cities.

In Massachusetts the following cities will be represented by delegates coming from woolen, worsted and cotton mills: Lawrence, Lowell, Fitchburg, Maynard, Blackstone, Holyoke, Florence, Leeds, Waltham, Taunton, Forge Village, Salem, New Bedford, Fall River, Adams and Easthampton. A delegation of 56 workers will represent the 56 mills on strike in New Bedford, fully demonstrating the overwhelming support which the National Textile Mill Committees has among the workers there. Twenty-five workers from Fall River will represent that center, proving that the American Federation of Textile Operatives, which organized only a handful of skilled workers there, and betrayed even these few, has no hold upon the workers of Fall River.

Pennsylvania will send delegates from Philadelphia, Chester, Easton Allentown, Bethlehem, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Nanticoke, Old Forge, Edwardsville, Luzorne and Reading. The industries represented from Pennsylvania wil be woolen and worsted, cotton, rayon, silk throwing, silk weaving, hosiery and other knit goods and dyeing.

Large Delegations.

From New Jersey, delegations will be present from Passaic, Pater-

149 KNOWN DEAD IN FLORIDA GALE

76 Negro Workers are Among Victims

Latest reports coming here from the storm-stricken area in Florida indicates that the total death toll to date may reach the figure of 250.

Verified reports, however, stated that 149 people were definitely known to be dead, and over 150 others injured. Of the dead only eleven have been identified. The other 138 remain unidentified. Seventy-six of the known dead are Negroes, who had been employed on the fields in Florida previous to the disastrous storm.

The hurricane, which is considered now to be far more severe than that which hit Miami two years ago, is expected to hit New York City today or tmorrow. It is travelling northward at a tremendous speed. It is thought, however, that most of the force of the storm will have spent itself before it reaches New York.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 18.—Sweeping north along the coast of Georgia and South Carolina, the hurricane which has been raging in Florida and the West Indies continues to leave death and destruction in its wake. Much of its original fury, however, seems to have been spent and the storm is expected to pass out to sea over Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Working class families and poor farmers are reported suffering the most. Their homes, poorly constructed and often flimsy, have been swept down like houses of cards. The total of deaths in Florida and

NEGROES JOIN WORKERS PARTY

Election Drive Warmly Greeted in Harlem

The campaign activities of Harlem members of the Workers (Communist) Party, with headquarters at 143 East 103rd Street, has procured many new members for the ranks of the only working class party in the country, according to A. Moreau, campaign manager of the Harlem section. Especially among the Negro workers has the message of the class struggle found root. At every one of the four open-air meetings, held weekly in Negro Harlem, some Negro workers join the only party which welcomes all workers.

The firm, four-square stand taken by the Workers (Communist) Party on the question of lynching, discrimination as shown in Jim Crow laws, and segregation, has proven to Negro workers that the party of the proletariat is the party of all workers.

In a final drive to secure a sufficient number of signatures to entirely clean up all the districts, congressional as well as assembly, in

Lewis Toots Horn of Big Boss Hoover

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 18.—In a statement taken to be a confirmation of a secret agreement with the republican presidential nominee, John L. Lewis, arch-wrecker of the miners' union, today endorsed the hypocritical labor address made by Herbert Hoover at Newark yesterday.

It is genreally believed that Lewis is slated for a fat job from the republican administration of Andrew Mellon for whom he has just broken the miners' strike. In some quarters it is stated that Lewis may become secretary of labor under Hoover should the latter be elected.

Endorses Open Shop Candidates.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 18. (U.P.)—"Herbert Hoover penetrates to the very heart of America's industrial and economic problems when he declares for full and stable employment for the workers of the nation," John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared today in commenting on the republican presidential nominees speech delivered at Newark, N. J., last night.

"His Newark address reveals his intimate and comprehensive grasp of the economic factors which are an every-day concern of the average American," Lewis said.

HOOVER'S LIES TO SWELL RED RALLY

Expect Workers to Fill Central Opera House

Hoover's campaign in the east to win the workers over to the platform of the party of Big Business, opening with his Newark speech in which he fancifully fabricated facts and theories concerning American workers will have the net effect of considerably swelling the attendance at the first huge Communist campaign rally, to be held Sept. 28 at the Central Opera House, according to the District Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party who will speak at the Central Opera House rally will expose the gross misstatements made by the republican candidate as well as the democratic party's claim of being the friend of labor and the socialist party treachery against militant labor.

G. O. P. Glib Phrases.

"The glib phrases of the republican candidate, such as the 'unparalleled service to employes' performed by the republican party; 'foundations of prosperity'; 'no decrease in daily wages' and other such blatant contradictions to facts had very little effect on the ears of those of the workers who suffered in the Passaic textile strike, or on the oil workers of Bayonne. However, if aimed at those defunct and

USSR FORMALLY ACCEPTS TREATY

Ratifies Kellogg Pact With Sharp Criticism

MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—The resolution passed by the Praesidium of the Central Executive Committee, accepting the Kellogg pact, while severely criticizing it and condemning the British and French reservations, amounts, to formal ratification of the treaty, according to a statement issued today by Tass, official news agency.

The resolution was passed by the Praesidium between sessions of the Central Executive Committee and according to the constitution is valid.

SMITH TRIES TO FOOL MID-WEST

Opens the Presidential Drive in Omaha

OMAHA, Sept. 18.—Just as Herbert Hoover, the republican candidate for president, tried to befuddle the wage-earners of the east with dishonest statistics and evasive promises, so Al Smith, the Tammany product who heads the democratic ticket, tried to work a confidence game on the farmers of the middle-west by pretending to approve the McNary-Haugen bill. In his opening speech of his presidential campaign here tonight, Smith said in part:

"As I read the McNary-Haugen bill, its fundamental purpose is to establish an effective control of the sale of exportable surplus with the cost imposed upon the commodity benefited. For that principle, the democratic platform squarely stands, and for that principle I squarely stand. Mr. Hoover stands squarely opposed to this principle by which the farmer could get the benefit of the tariff. What remains of the McNary-Haugen bill is a mere matter of method, and I do not limit myself to the exact mechanics and methods embodied in that bill.

"Here is a cleancut issue, which the farmers and the voters of this country must decide. It remains but to work out the details by which the principle shall be put into effect, and I have pledged myself to name a non-partisan commission of farm leaders and students of the problem to work out these details."

Promises Another Investigation.

In order to create the impression that he is gravely concerned about the farm problem beyond the inveigling of the exploited and impoverished farmers to vote for him, Smith promised to appoint such a "non-partisan" commission as soon as he is elected. "I shall make that appointment," said Smith, "not when I take the oath of office, but as soon as I am elected."

He did not mention the real question facing the farmers—the question of the disproportion between the price of their products and the cost of production. Nor did he propose any relief from the deathly grasp of the mortgage bankers who keep the farm population in a condition of servitude that is in many cases approaching peonage.

Attacking Hoover and the republican program he, like all other candidates of the old parties, did not refer to the Communist proposals for farm relief, which propose a moratorium on farm mortgages.

The democratic politicians, with the aid of Tammany experts on fake demonstrations, packed the auditorium which holds 8,000, and mobilized a bunch of hoodlums on the outside at so much per head in order to create the atmosphere of en-

MASS PICKETING IN NEW BEDFORD

Paige Mill Attempt to Open Is Resisted

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 18.—While the mill barons, the A. F. of L. Textile Council chiefs, and their flocks of "mediators" are polluting the atmosphere with talks of "peace" and "settlements" on the basis of the Frieder speed-up system, the mill owners are showing definite signs of preparations for an offensive to open strategic mills with the aid of strikebreakers and police. This is shown by the marshalling of scab forces to reopen the big Paige Mills.

Following up their policy of warning away the strikers from Batty's attempt to arrive at a sell-out settlement by granting the speed-up to the Mill owners, the Textile Workers' Union of the Textile Mill Committees are straining all their energies to resume mass picketing, which will prevent the owners of the Paige and other mills

MINE MEET TOMORROW

Pat Toohey Will Describe Miners' Fight

The revolt of 2,000 Illinois miners against the betrayal and vote-stealing of the Lewis-Fishwick machine will be graphically described by Pat Toohey, secretary of the new National Miners' Union, at the Miners' Solidarity Mass Meeting in Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., tomorrow evening.

John Watt, formerly secretary of the Illinois sub-district where he was for many years in the forefront of the fight against the corrupt and traitorous bureaucracy, will also give an official report on the historic Pittsburgh convention, where 600 rank and file leaders from every mining state in the country met and pledged themselves to build a new union that will organize all of the nearly 1,000,000 coal diggers under an honest, fighting leadership.

TO DEFY UKASE OUTLAWING RED DRIVE SPEAKERS

Martins Ferry Mayor Tries to Ban Nearing

Jingoes Back Move

"Free Speech But Not for Communists"

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 18.—The present city administration of Martins Ferry is living up to the precedents set by all former administrations of that trust owned town. The present flunkey of the steel trust, Mayor Duff, has issued a ukase prohibiting Communist campaign meetings.

When approached for a permit to hold a meeting at which Scott Nearing was scheduled to speak on Oct. 14, the mayor said: "Neither Scott Nearing nor any other Communist can speak in Martins Ferry as long as I am mayor of the city."

It was explained to the mayor, who had prohibited a Sacco-Vanzetti meeting and arrested scores of workers when they attempted to hold it, that the Workers (Communist) Party was on the ballot in Ohio and was as legal as the democratic or republican parties. "Don't you believe in free speech?" he was asked.

"Yes, I believe in free speech," was his reply, "for the other parties and their candidates but not for the Communist Party."

The police chief of this steel corporation city has notified all hall-owners to refuse to rent their halls to all "reds." Meetings of miners the International Labor Defense and other workers' meetings are branded as a "menace to public safety" and prohibited.

The chief of police, Muhleman also promised that if Scott Nearing were to appear in the city he would get a "reception" from the police.

When it was made public that the Nearing meeting was to be held in spite of the orders of the mayor and the police, organizations like the Junior Mechanics, a group of strong 100 per centers, sent resolutions to the mayor and to the police commending them on their work of "clearing the city of reds."

Workers are getting ready to appear en masse at the Nearing meeting to test their right of free speech and assemblage, while the local press talks of an "October revolution in Martins Ferry."

CLOAK CHAIRMEN TO MEET TODAY

Executive to Present Vital Plans

Shop chairmen and representatives in the New York cloak and dressmaking industry will meet in monthly conference here today to survey full month's activity in the organization drive to build a new union. The conference will be held in Webster Hall, 119 E. 11th St., immediately after work.

Preliminary announcements from the headquarters of the local body of the National Organization Committee declare that special plans of vital significance to the workers in New York are to be considered tonight. The N. Y. local of the N. O. C. is the executive committee of the shops chairmens' monthly conferences.

The workers in the trade have learnt to look forward to these conferences, where reports of the progress of the union-building drive are recorded and new plans for further work discussed. More substantial inroads on the open shop conditions of the cloak and dress trade have been made in the last month than have been reported as the total of any one month's work since these conferences began, it is disclosed.

Section Three "Daily" Agents Meet Tomorrow

The second conference of all Daily Worker agents of Section 3 will be held tomorrow evening, immediately after work, 6:30 p. m. at 101 W. 27th Street.

This conference has been called for the purpose of making the final preparations for the Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar. All those who participated in the previous conference are urged to attend this important meeting.

FIRE IN STRASBOURG.

STRASBOURG, France, Sept. 18 (UP).—Fire destroyed the docks and burned stores of food valued at 16,000,000 francs tonight. Coffee sugar and cereal stores were ruined.

Fights for Miners

"Mother" Bloor, who has been touring the country for the new miners' union, reports that nothing can stop the march of the miners.

'MOTHER' BLOOR SURE OF VICTORY

Says Nothing Can Stop March of Miners

Ella Reeve Bloor, "Mother" Bloor to the thousands of militants in the labor movement who have heard and seen her in action during the many years of her sacrifice for the working class, appeared at the office of the Daily Worker yesterday with a stirring report of the convention just held at Pittsburgh for the formation of a new National Miners Union.

"Say that in the face of the greatest sacrifices, in spite of hitherto unbelievable terrorism, in spite of the united attacks of the police, the Lewis gangsters, and the coal operators, in spite of hunger, starvation and death itself the new miners union lives!"

With these opening words, Mother Bloor, one of the charter members of the former United Mine Workers of America, who, with the development of the rebellion against Lewis,

MINERS' RELIEF STANDING FIRM

Police Fail to Stop Its Activities

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18. — A third attempt to disrupt the National Miners' Relief Committee was defeated yesterday when the local district attorney failed after a personal effort to secure a subpoena authorizing him to take over the books and records of the committee for examination before the Erie grand jury.

Two similar attempts made following the illegal raid on the offices of the committee last Friday likewise had failed when federal judges held that the demands of postal inspectors were too broad and failed to mention the specific charges against the committee.

Exposes Hand of Lewis.

Alfred Wagenknecht, relief director of the committee, issued a statement yesterday in which he pointed to the evidence that the raid had been undertaken at the request of John L. Lewis, union wrecker of the former United Mine Workers. Wagenknecht's statement follows in part:

"In the name of the National Miners' Relief Committee, I desire to state that Post Office Inspector, George V. Craighead, acted far be-

11 Boys Murdered On Farm, Is Charge

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18 (UP)—Belief that at least 11 small boys had been mistreated, murdered and buried on a farm was expressed tonight by Sheriff Sweeters of Riverside County, who is leading an investigation into the story of Sanford Clark, 15.

SPECIAL BAZAAR EVENT

Novelties at Children's Day, October 6

Among the special features that will make the great National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar at Madison Square Garden an event without equal will be Children's Day, Saturday, Oct. 6.

Children's Day will be held from 12 noon to 5 p. m. and everything will be arranged to interest the children. For five hours the grown-ups will have to content themselves with second place and the children will reign supreme.

Special booths are being planned for this day, where articles that will make any normal child's mouth water will be sold. Toys will, of course, be much in evidence and they will be sold at prices that will annihilate any hesitation that may lurk in the minds of thrifty parents. Novelty games and dramatic performances will also be arranged—all for the working class children.

Arrangements for the bazaar are

350 PRISONERS STRIKE AS STATE OFFICIALS REFUSE TO PROBE CRUELTY CHARGE

800 Stage All-Night Demonstration to Protest Jail Conditions

Warden Refuses Food to All in Effort to Quell Growing Protest

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 18 (U.P.).—More than 350 prisoners at the Maryland Penitentiary refused to work today, after a night of rioting in which 800 are said to have joined.

The strike and uproar were against the refusal of State Welfare Director Janney to order a public hearing on charges of cruelty by officials and guards at the prison. At intervals in the night the prisoners, all locked in their cells, screamed and shouted, rattled the steel bars, banged on metal walls and threw flaming wads of paper from cell doors facing the street.

Starve Strikers.

The showdown came at 6:30 a. m. when the first morning bell rang. Warden Patrick Brady had announced prisoners who refused to work would not eat and at 6:30 guards went through the tiers and aroused all prisoners.

Of 545 convicts in the west wing, 300 refused to go to the shops and remained in their cells. The remainder were allowed to march to the dining halls as usual, and were given breakfast. Then they were marched to the shops.

In the east wing, 35 or 40 of the 311 men remained in their cells. In the south wing, housing 260 men, 15 refused to work.

Those who remained in the cells will go without food, Brady said, pending a decision by Janney on whether the men will be allowed to state their grievances publicly.

Brady said it is possible the men in the cells have food supplies sufficient to last several days. Water is provided each in his cell. It is regarded as probable the men have had a strike in mind for several days, and probably laid in provisions from the prison commissary.

"If I had a place to confine 40 or 50 of these men, I could end this outbreak in 10 minutes," Brady said.

The inhuman brutality with which prisoners are treated has led to a number of protest demonstrations in various jails thruout the country. A number of prisoners were killed last year when they protested against barbarous treatment in Folsom prison in California.

SEATTLE LABOR HEARS FOSTER

1,200 Workers Attend Communist Meeting

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 18.—Twelve hundred workers last night packed the large hall of the Moose Temple to hear William Z. Foster, candidate for president of the United States on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, present the platform of the party of the class struggle.

Foster was given a great ovation by the workers. They cheered repeatedly as he brought up the different points of the Communist platform. Workers and active trade unionists of the city attended the meeting in large numbers.

The meeting of the Workers (Communist) Party candidate for president was about three times as large as that which was held under the auspices of the socialist party when Rev. Norman Thomas spoke. The Thomas meeting was attended by a small group composed mostly of middle class residents of Seattle.

WORKERS STORM FOOD STORES IN FASCIST ITALY

Demonstrate Against Mussolini

(Wireless to the Daily Worker)

ITALIAN FRONTIER, Sept. 18.—Aroused by severe unemployment and the high cost of living discontented Italian workers are demonstrating against the fascist-controlled unions and the fascist regime. Numerous demonstrations and attacks on government centers are reported.

Demonstrations in the provinces of Emilia, Romagna, Ferra, Imola, Molinella and Forli have taken place. Other centers demonstrated against the useless fascist masons trade unions.

The situation in Bologna is so severe that the workers proposed storming the food stores.

The fascist leaders promise everything to soothe the movement but the workers have no confidence in them.

At the Pisteja the police and fascists tried to break up a demonstration by attacking the workers fiercely. In spite of the fascist counterattack the demonstrators charged the emergency court.

MILLINERS HOLD PROTEST RALLY

Demand End of Right Wing Terror

Rank and file members of the Millinery Local 24 yesterday crowded Bryant Hall in a protest meeting against the reactionary policies of their union officialdom, and condemned unanimously in a resolution the bureaucrats' provocation of a bloody attack on the membership at the last union meeting, because the militants there demanded the immediate passage of measures for unemployment relief.

Workers beaten up at the last membership meeting rose to speak from the rostrum and tell how their demands for an unemployment relief fund for the ever growing circle of jobless millinery workers was answered by the officials with an attack on those leading the fight from the floor of the meeting. Morris Fein, Milton Weich, Victor Chibulsky, M. Eltzer and Eva Schaffran spoke at the meeting.

Attack Misleaders.

The last to speak before passage of the resolution was H. Zukowsky, leader of the left wing workers in the union. After pointing out that the last three years in the industry were the most prosperous in the trade, and therefore a time when better conditions can be fought for and easily won, Zukowsky declared that the leadership of the union had not only not won any improvements in working standards but had allowed the trade to develop the contracting system and other evils which were ruining the industry and causing severe unemployment.

In proof of this contention he offered the fact that the workers won with comparative ease the concession of shorter hours after their officials were ready to give up these demands. Zaritsky, president of the International, has always been and still is openly propagating the return to the 44-hour week and the piece-work system, he stated.

Workers (Communist) Party on Ballot in 23 States; Expect 15 More in Six Weeks

MASSACHUSETTS NEW HAMPSHIRE SWELL BIG TOTAL

New England Workers Overcome Obstacles

The two great industrial states of Massachusetts and New Hampshire are now on the Communist ballot bringing the total number up to twenty-one or nine more than in the election campaign of 1924.

The states now on the ballot in addition to Massachusetts and New Hampshire are New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, West Virginia Ohio, Michigan, Maryland, Illinois Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, Iowa, Nebraska, Arizona, Montana, Kansas, Arkansas and South Dakota.

With six more weeks between now and election day the goal of thirty states originally set by the National Election Campaign Committee is certain to be reached with the probability that at least thirty-five states will be in the red column by the time the last filing day is reached.

Overcome Obstacles.

In Massachusetts and New Hampshire, the workers had heavy obstacles to overcome, the election machinery in several important cities being in the hands of the agents of the mill barons who took advantage of every technicality to prevent the Party from getting on the ballot. The success of the Workers (Communist) Party in New England was due in a great measure to the prestige gained thru the activity in the great textile strike in New Bedford and Fall River. While the socialist party is lined up with the labor bureaucrats who are betraying the strike to the textile barons, and fighting the militant Textile Mills Committee with the aid of the police, the Communists are not only fighting the employers but the city and state governments as well as the reactionary labor leaders.

The only New England states on the Communist ballot in the last elections were Massachusetts and Rhode Island. This will leave only two states out, Vermont and Maine where there is yet no Communist organization to speak of.

Want Worker-Organizers.

Another important election campaign development is the inauguration of a drive for 1,000 rank and file organizers to go out into the small industrial cities thruout the country, spreading Communist propaganda and organizing Party units. Every available vehicle will be mustered into action to bring the workers from place to place. The National Office of the Party will supply the necessary material, literature, subscription blanks for Party papers and membership cards.

Workers who speak any of the foreign languages will work among the workers of that particular language. There are hundreds of thousands of foreign-language-speaking workers in heavy industry, and where there is no Communist organization they are at the mercy of the employers who use bourgeois politicians of foreign birth or descent to keep them tied to the capitalist political chariot.

Plan Extensive Drive.

Women's organizations, youth organizations and Negro organizations will be pressed into service. This is the greatest organizing plan ever conceived and executed by the Workers (Communist) Party and if the rank and file respond as they are expected to, it will build the Party in sections where the Communist message never penetrated before and will develop hundreds of workers for leading functions in the Party.

The Communist election campaign is now in full swing. Foster and Gitlow are now speaking in the northwest. They are met by enthusiastic gatherings of workers in every city and each meeting brings in many news members to the Party.

Organizers are busy throughout the country, doing the necessary work to place the Party ticket on the ballots in the various states.

The Negro campaign is making great headway in New York City, where great mass meetings are held weekly with Comrades Moore, Welsh and other Negro leaders exposing the role of the republican, democratic and socialist parties as tools of big and small business, pointing out that the two big capitalist parties have sanctioned the lynching of Negroes in the south and the many discriminations practiced on them in federal and state institutions by both parties. The socialist party, the pretending not to draw the color line refuses to help in the organization of the Negro masses for a struggle against capitalism. The Workers (Communist) Party alone, as our Negro comrades point out to their people, is the only party that has the program that means freedom for black and white workers.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—The Swedish municipal workers officials have decided to break all relations with the Soviet municipal workers, according to a report issued by the International Federation of Trade Unions from Amsterdam.

The Swedish rank and file have again and again demonstrated their willingness to co-operate with the workers of the Soviet Union.

Wall Street Candidate Greeted by Newark Politicians

When Herbert Hoover arrived in Newark at 7 o'clock Monday evening, the only people who were present to greet him were a group of Jersey G. O. P. politicians, less than 200 in number. At the Essex Armory, later in the evening, he delivered his bombastic spiel on "prosperity" in the United States, while hundreds of unemployed Newark workers listened. While the speech was in progress, members of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League distributed over 10,000 leaflets to the workers of the industrial city.

WORKERS SCHOOL OPENS FALL TERM OCTOBER 1

The Workers School of New York City, the biggest labor school in the United States, will begin its fall term October 1 at its new headquarters, 26-28 Union Square, with 75 classes in English, Trade Unionism, Labor Problems, Public Speaking, Labor Journalism, Literature, History, Economics, Politics, Imperialism, Communism and Marxian Theory. Among the instructors scheduled to give courses are: Jay Lovestone, William Z. Foster, Bertram D. Wolfe, Max Bedacht, Benjamin Gitlow, William W. Weinstone, M. J. Olgin, Scott Nearing, Robert Minor, D. Benjamin, Joseph Freeman, Beatrice Becker, J. Mindel, A. Markoff, Juliet S. Poyntz, A. Trachtenberg, John J. Ballam, Ray Ragozin, Joseph Brodsky, William F. Dunne, A. Bittelman, Will Herberg, Robert Dunn and Michael Gold.

Classes will be given every evening from 7 to 8:20 p. m. and from 8:30 to 9:50 p. m. and on Saturday afternoons. Registration for classes is now going on.

Plans are under way to take care of the largest registration in the history of the school. From present indications it appears that over 2,500 workers will study at the Workers School in order to prepare themselves for more effective work in the labor movement. This will practically double the record registration of last fall when over 1,800 workers enrolled for courses in the school to train themselves for the class struggle.

The school is now situated at 26-28 Union Square, where it occupies the sixth floor, comprising 12 rooms. For more detailed information write to the Workers School for free catalog or phone Stuyvesant 7770.

imaginative workers whose fictitious names are used by the democratic and republican machines of New Jersey every year to 'vote' their tickets, his speech may have been effective."

Workers' Party Platform.

Contrasted with the rotound phrases used by the capitalist politicians in an attempt to drag the wool over the workers' eyes every election, is the concrete platform and demands of the Workers (Communist) Party in this as in every election campaign. Specific demands are made by the Workers Party on unemployment, the right to strike, social legislation, traction housing, schools, youth and child labor, Negroes, farmers—in short, every social, economic and political matter which at all touches the lives of the millions of workers, is treated by the Workers (Communist) Party in its platform, not from the viewpoint of the "good of the people" but from that of the good of the workers.

Workers of New York and vicinity are urged to come early as the rally will begin promptly at the scheduled time. The doors of the Central Opera House will be open at 7 p. m. on Friday, Sept. 28. Delegates from various trades in the city are expected to come in a body organized evidence of the support of the only working class party on the political field by all progressive workers.

Harlem, another Red Sunday will be held there September 23. According to M. Nemser, section organizer, Harlem will be entirely through with its signature drive by the beginning of next week, after which the Harlem members will pitch in and help other sections.

Another feature of the election campaign work in Harlem which has met with good results is the noonday meetings held weekly at the yards of the Interborough Rapid Transit and New York Railways companies, at 99th St. and Lexington Ave. One such meeting will be held there today, with John Sherman, of the Daily Worker, as chief speaker. Many successful distributions of Communist literature have been made among the I. R. T. employes, whose ranks are filled with company spies to detect any inclination toward honest, militant unionism among them.

Besides speaking on the platform of the Workers (Communist) Party in the election campaign, Sherman will discuss organization problems.

Distribute 1,000 "Dailys."

The election campaign in Harlem during Negro Week was opened Monday evening with a mass distribution of 1,000 copies of the special Negro edition of the Daily Worker.

The workers who participated in the distribution were gratified by the friendly response from the Negro workers, who welcomed receiving a copy of a daily newspaper which openly proclaimed its solidarity with them and fought against the exploiters of Negro labor.

Lower Harlem is having a distribution tonight, starting from its headquarters at 143 E. 103rd St. The canvass committee elected for this very important election and press activity should appear at headquarters not later than 6:30 p. m.

SHE CHIDES STRIKERS

Washington "Lady" Won't Aid Relief

Fred Biedenkapp, national secretary of the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square, yesterday revealed a letter from Katharine W. Fisher, 21 First St., Washington, D. C., which the relief secretary characterized as an evidence of "the sour-milk of human kindness." The letter, which follows in full, was in reply to appeal for funds sent out by the relief organization last week.

"Disapproves" of Strikes.

"I do not doubt," Miss Fisher writes, "that conditions are bad in New Bedford, but I so disapprove of strikes as a method for attempting to remedy them that even if I did have money to spare I should not contribute it.

"How can anyone expect to cure conditions in the cotton textile industry of New England by the ancient method of the strike? People must be fed, of course, but why not let them work.

"I would much more be likely to give a dollar for a child whose father is working than to one whose father is striking. Please remove my name from your mailing list."

Strikers Will Stick.

In commenting on the letter Biedenkapp said: "I know that a thousand workers will give the lie to Miss Fisher's letter by sending money to help us feed the 30,000 heroic strikers, men, women and children, who are valiantly withstanding the New England mill-barons. And I know that the New Bedford and Fall River strikers will give the lie to her by remaining on strike until they have won their just demands."

SHOE WORKERS MEET THURSDAY

Call Lasters, Heelers to Brooklyn Hall

The drive to organize New York's thousands of shoe workers began slowly and is now gathering force as the union announces mass meetings for the workers, the great majority of whom are unorganized. Arion Temple, 21 Arion Place, Brooklyn, will be the scene of a mass meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. to which all lasters and wood heelers in Brooklyn have been called for the purpose of launching an organizational drive in these important crafts.

In a call issued to these workers, the president of the Independent Shoe Workers' Union of Greater New York and its managing organizer, J. Magliiacano, declare:

"Since the bosses have been having a free hand our prices and conditions have been reduced to those of slavery days and they will surely continue to be reduced unless something will be done to stop it.

"The cause for these conditions is only due to the fact that while the bosses have been united we remained divided and while the bosses have taken advantage of the situation, we have done nothing to put a stop to their attempt to reduce us to virtual slavery.

"The time has now come that we must begin to consider ways of improving the deplorable conditions under which we are working.

"The Independent Shoe Workers' Union of Greater New York has been recently organized by the rank and file and is the only organization which is interested in organizing the shoe workers of Greater New York. Realizing that you lasters and wood-heelers make up the most important crafts in the trade and the ones who suffered most of the abuse of the bosses, it is therefore calliing you to this meeting."

thusiasm. For days the democratic ward-heelers and other professional politicians who are for sale to the highest bidder have been busy rounding up a gang to stage the Smith demonstration. Money for the purpose was plentiful; probably supplied from the coffers of Mr. Raskob and other members of the House of Morgan oligarchy.

At certain obvious and specific signs this corralled aggregation of bought and paid for claquers would stage an imitation Tammany Hall outburst. This menagerie the reporters of the capitalist press called a "farmer audience."

Avoided "Equalization Fee."

Smith then concluded his speech, which was lengthy and detailed, with his statement upon the McNary-Haugen Bill, which has as the principal part of its machinery the much discussed equalization fee. The fee was not mentioned by the governor. Farm relief leaders call it "the heart" of the measure. He merely left this question open by saying he is not limited by the bill's mechanics.

Power Gang Hearing Shows New Activities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (U.P.).—Resuming its investigation of propaganda activities of public utilities, the Federal Trade Commission today discovered new efforts to sway public opinion in Iowa, Canada, and New Jersey.

In Iowa, it was developed, utilities enlisted the State University and the State College in their publicity campaign. Correspondence showed authorities of both institutions were friendly to utilities and were anxious to aid in their development "in any way possible."

COLLEGE BRIBED BY OFFICIALS OF POWER TRUST

Iowa State School Got $15,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (UP).—A campaign of Iowa utilities interests to retard a movement for municipally-owned power plants in that state was described today as the Federal Trade Commission resumed its investigation of the power industry.

Municipalities where the sentiment in favor of a publicly-owned plant was strong were circularized with literature designed to persuade citizens against taking such a step, H. P. Weeks, director of the Iowa section of the National Electric Light Association, testified.

In addition, Weeks said, his organization distributd 165 copies of a utilities propaganda magazine each month among members of the Iowa state legislature.

Total payments of $15,000 to Iowa State College since 1925 were revealed by other checks placed in the record. The payments averaged about $3,500 annually and were made, Weeks explained, in connection with research into rural power development.

Revenues of his association, Weeks said, were derived from Iowa utilities and from the National Electric Light Association.

A joint legislative committee is maintained by Iowa utilities to guard their interests at sessions of the state legislature, Weeks testified. He said the committee represented electric power and railway companies.

Brownsville in Final Drive for Signatures

With the finish of the signature drive in the twenty-third assembly district of Brownsville, the members of Section 8 of the Workers (Communist) Party are concentrating all their forces in the twenty-second assembly district during the last two weeks of the drive.

According to R. Macklin, campaign director of the Brownsville section, the total number of signatures to be obtained in the 22nd A. D. will be safely tucked away in the safe of the District Office before the drive officially ends on the last day of September.

All members of Sections 2 and 3 who live in Brownsville are urged to report in Brownsville for the signature drive every evening.

Austrian Social-Democratic Congress Agrees to Raise Workers' Rent Three-Fold

DECIDE WORKERS MUST NOT HEED FASCIST MARCH

Would Allow Seipel to 'Protect' Unionists

(Wireless to the Daily Worker.)

VIENNA, September 18. — The congress of the social democratic party of Austria closed today capitulating entirely in the question of the tenant's protection measures and arriving at no decision in regard to the fascist provocative demonstration planned for October 7.

The congress unanimously passed a resolution, incorporating Otto Bauer's point of view, which was a complete capitulation on the question of rent and housing. The resolution called for a three-fold raise in rent which would provide for the construction of new houses and the social democratic parliament fraction was granted full freedom in action respecting this matter.

The social democrats, it is generally thought there, are ready to sacrifice tenants' protection and abandon re-elections if the government promises housebuilding.

Passive Tactics.

There was no decision on the party tactics to be followed regarding the home defense corps demonstration for October 7, regarding which the Communist Party of Austria has issued a call to all workers to mobilize a counter-demonstration. But Renner, Julius Deutsch and Otto Bauer asserted that the home defense people want a collision with the working class and therefore the best proletarian tactics were to leave the fascist provocation alone. They declared that it was the government's duty to protect the republic from fascism and therefore that Seipel, and not the workers, must do this.

The present party committee was unanimously re-elected.

At the previous session of the social democrats congress Skaret gave the party committee report which dealt chiefly with organization questions.

The workers were consoled for the capitulations and defeats by the increased membership of the social democratic party. Otto Bauer spoke on the tenant's protection laws, demanding re-elections. Bauer declared that the social democrats prepared the negotiations but the maintainance of the tenants' protection measures was less important than new houses.

son, Hillisburg, Rutherford, West New York, Union City, Trenton and Weehauken. The Passaic workers, who after their splendid fight in 1926 found themselves betrayed by the UTW which took them over, are now completely with the new union and have already withdrawn from the UTW and elected their delegation of 25 workers to attend the convention of the National Textile Mill Committees. In Paterson also where only last week the members of the Associated Silk Workers voted down a motion to affiliate with the UTW on liberal terms, the textile workers are overwhelmingly in favor of the new union.

Connecticut will send delegates from New London, Shelton, Manchester, Ansonia and Bridgeport. Rhode Island will be represented by delegates from Providence, Pawtucket, Pawtuxet Valley, Woonsocket, Nantic, Artic, Central Falls and Valley Falls. From New York state there will be delegates from Utica, Buffalo, New York City and Astoria, L. I. Delegates will also come from Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H., from Baltimore, Md., and probably also from some of the southern states.

Noted Soviet Scientist Speaks at N. Y. Meet

(By United Press)

Two hundred archaeologists and anthropologists, representing 25 foreign countries, met yesterday in a general discussion of the depopulating of the two Americas and the probable source of that population.

Chief among today's disclosures was that of Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the U. S. National Museum, who said his study of the races of Alaska convinced him that the races of Asia had populated that country and had lived practically without land connection for many years.

Another who took a prominent part in the discussion of the parallelization of the races of Siberia and North America was W. G. Bogoras, of the Academy of Sciences, Leningrad, Russia. Bogoras drew a marked similarity in the religious practices of the two peoples.

"Mr. Craighead has nothing in hand to base his action upon excepting the complaint made by officials of the United Mine Workers of America, with which organization we differ greatly in regard to labor policies. The United Mine Workers of America desires to disrupt our activities because we sympathize with the progressive miners who are opposed to the officials of the United Mine Workers of America. These progressive miners are now building a new union and Mr. Lewis, the President of the United Mine Workers of America hopes that by this action of the Post Office Department it will become impossible for us to give further relief to the progressive miners and thereby they will again be whipped into support of the Lewis, Murray, Fagan machine.

Praised By Coal Diggers.

"The activities of the National Miners' Relief Committee have been open and above board for the 13 months of its existence, and in full view of all those interested in the miners cause. No charge or complaint of any kind has ever been made by any contributor to the funds of this committee. The financial report issued up to June 1st shows that 82 per cent of the funds collected were spent for relief. The tens of thousands of miners and their families that have been given relief by us, as well as the several hundred contributing committees all speak in high praise of our accomplishments.

Work Will Go On.

"We do not intend to allow ourselves to be intimidated by Post Office Inspector Craighead acting upon the complaint of John L. Lewis. John L. Lewis may be able to put the post office department to his use, but we do not intend to allow John L. Lewis to disrupt our work by use of the post office department. We shall not allow post office inspector Craighead to step into our office for the purpose of securing information for John L. Lewis."

ENGLISH TORY SPLIT LOOMING

LONDON, Sept. 18.—As the conservative party conference at Yarmouth scheduled for September 27 draws near, there is much talk of a split in the ranks of the conservative party due to the protective tariff issue and the general economic depression in England, and the possibility of a laborite-liberal coalition winning power.

Premier Baldwin, who is returning to London this week, will attempt to induce Lord Birkenhead, who has threatened resignation, to remain in the cabinet and will do all in his power to avert a split threatened by Joynson-Hicks and his followers.

There are many rumors of a change in the cabinet even before the party conference, which, it is believed, will replace the anti-protectionists with those favoring the strong protective policy of Baldwin.

MADRID, Sept. 18 (UP).—The foreign office officially denied today a rumor that Premier Primo de Rivera had been shot while on a visit to Barcelona.

"MOTHER" BLOOR SEES VICTORY FOR MINERS

became one of the leaders of the revolt, began a graphic picture of preparations for the convention and ending with the vicious attack on the meeting by the army of Lewis thugs, in co-operation with the Pittsburgh police.

"Previous to the convention," Mother Bloor declared, "some of the miners may still have clung to the hope of being able to accomplish something by working within the old United Mine Workers' organization. If this notion still existed previous to the vicious attack on the miners last week, it has been completely dispelled.

"The attack upon us had just the reverse effect that the Lewis thugs and the police intended. The miners have been drawn together by the event. You can't beat the coal diggers through terror. You can't beat them at all!" Mother Bloor declared with that characteristic clenching of the fist and compression of her firm lips which have become known wherever the struggle of the workers is most bitter.

Optimistic as to Future.

Mother Bloor was unusually enthusiastic over the accomplishments of the convention. "It marks the beginning of a new era for my brothers, the heroic coal diggers," she said. "Of course, we have a bitter struggle ahead of us, but we are on the march and you can't stop the march of the miners onward."

Asked to comment on the news that over two thousand Illinois miners had walked out on strike against the Lewis-Fishwick wage cut, she replied quickly: "That is just what I expected and have been predicting. The miners will fight the wage cuts and will defeat both the operators and Lewis."

Mother Bloor lead a delegation of 23 Indiana miners to the convention. They traveled in old broken down Ford cars and slept out of doors. The journey lasted nearly three days. Three of their cars broke down and at times it appeared as if the delegation would never arrive.

"But a miner is never licked till the last moment," she said, "and then he wins!"

She also attended the funeral of George Moran, Bentleyville militant, who was shot down by Louis Carboni, a Lewis thug, because Moran had joined with the rank and file forces.

"Standing over the grave of the heroic coal digger who had given his life for all of us, in the presence of hundreds of coal diggers, some of whom had walked many miles to attend the funeral, I could see and feel the meaning and power of the great miners' struggle, a movement which nothing can hold back."

Mother Bloor paid particular tribute to the courage and spirit of Moran's widow, who many times repeated the words over her slain husband's grave. "Brave soldier," "brave soldier." It is such courage and sacrifice as this which will win for the coal diggers and for the American working class," Mother Bloor said.

Before leaving the Daily Worker office she laid special emphasis on the need of supporting the National Miners Relief Committee, without whose help the work of relief could not be carried out.

Kidnapers Hold Boy

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (UP).—Two more letters were received today by A. Frank Ranieri, whose ten-year-old son, Billy, has been in the hands of kidnapers for several days. Both letters renewed threats of death for the boy unless demands of the kidnapers for $15,000 are met. Police meanwhile captured three new suspects who picked up a decoy package containing the money for the boy's return. Their names were not revealed.

MASS PICKETING IN NEW BEDFORD

from creating the first fissure in the ranks of the 28,000 strikers, solid for over 23 weeks.

Largers mass lines this morning and afternoon was the answer the Mill Committees' adherants gave yesterday to the police terror of arrests and persecutions of pickets.

Pinto Gets Ovation.

Auguste Gonsales Pinto, returning today from Maine, where he was sent by the union to recuperate from the effects of a beating in jail, administered by the police on his 14th arrest, went to the Paige picket line immediately after reporting to the union headquarters.

A tremendously enthusiastic ovation was accorded him by the strikers picketing there.

More than 1,000 strikers gather around the gates of the mill now, after it was learned that the mill owners had succeeded in obtaining 65 scabs. The bosses immediately answered this with a heavy increase in the police guard, who, it seems had received special instructions to be provocative and brutal. Police caution has yet prevented a more vicious assault than that in which a picket leader was yesterday thrown from his bicycle. The resentful attitude of the crowd of strikers halted any intentions of the police then to harm the striker. It is generally expected, among the striking workers, that the Paige Mill will be the center of the gathering storm.

1,000 in March.

Following the morning picketing of the Paige mill, the over 1,000 strikers rallied in marching formation and began a march to the Potomska Street strike hall. As soon as the line began to move about 50 police rushed it in an attempt to break it up. Despite the repetition of the police attempt to break up the line at a further point along the line of march, at Acushnet and Blackmer Sts., the workers succeeded in holding their lines intact till they got down to the hall. This they did by forming and reforming on the sidewalk opposite to the one on which the police dispersals took place.

It was clearly seen, however, that the mill barons are not yet ready to give the signal for mass arrests, because of a desire to show that things were quiet at the mill gates.

Ranks Stiffen.

Pinto, the oft-arrested strike leader, is again making his regular appearance on picket lines on his bicycle. Sergeant Velho, one of the most vicious labor haters here, left instructions to his subordinates at the Paige Mill to "break their heads if there's any more trouble here."

A visible stiffening of the strike ranks is observable as the workers show signs of rallying again in large masses, despite police restrictions of ten to a picket line.

MUSSOLINI LAWS, MORE STRINGENT, ASSURE "VOTES"

New Oppression for Workers Planned

ROME, Sept. 18.—The dictates presented to the Grand Council of the national fascist party by Mussolini include two laws, one making the grand council an integral part of the government machinery, the other laying down a new "charter" for labor. Both laws are designated to assure the "elections" for the chamber of deputies that are to take place March 24, 1929.

The new law of Mussolini charges the grand council with the duty of approving every "candidate" from each district, a complete list of which will be drawn up by the fascist party.

What the "charter" for labor will provide has not been revealed, but it cannot be more stringent than the one already in effect, which declares all strikes illegal, forbids the formation of other than fascist unions, and provides for wage cuts that cannot be protested against.

Mussolini also announced that the new fascist chamber will convene on April 21, the anniversary of the founding of Rome, which he will use as an occasion for grand festivities and to turn the eyes of the very much exploited population to the past.

ROME, Sept. 18.—The population of Italy pays higher taxes than the population in any other country was revealed by figures recently published.

Thirty-eight per cent of all earnings are turned over to the government in the form of taxes, direct and indirect. The English pay 27.3 per cent of their total earnings, the French 29.2 per cent. All occasions are utilized to extract taxes from the population, such as purchases in any store, restaurant bills include government stamps, as well as all posters, signs and every article of merchandise.

Dictator of Peru to Assure Re-election by Big Suppression

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 18.—The bill providing imprisonment and confiscation of property of those guilty of activities against the state either at home or abroad, which has already passed the chamber of deputies, is now ready to be considered by the senate.

President Leguia of Peru has introduced this bill as an extraordinary measure against his opponents and to pave the way for his re-election in the approaching elections. The dictatorial nature of the present regime is further illustrated by the suppression of the independent labor movement.

Leguia and his followers have already begun the publication of a new newspaper, "El Civilista," which is devoted to the campaign for the president and to the attack of his opponents.

the National Miners' Union, will speak and tell of the plans made at the convention to organize the mass of unorganized miners.

Pledging the support and solidarity of the New York workers, will be several leaders of workers' struggles in other trades. Ben Gold, leader of the fight to build a new furriers' union, Hyman Koretz, one of the leaders of the movement which is building a new cloakmakers' union; Gladys Schechter, organizer of the Military Workers' Union; Harold Williams, secretary of the Negro Committee for Miners' Relief; and representatives of the Youth Conference for Miners' Relief and the Children's Relief Scout Groups will speak. Martin Abern, assistant national secretary of the International Labor Defense, will also have an important message for the workers of New York.

Final arrangements for the meeting were completed last night by the Executive Committee of the Shop Delegates' Conference for Miners' Relief. The meeting is being held under the auspices of the Shop Delegates' Conference and of the National Miners' Relief Committee, 799 Broadway.

The members of this section are already busy collecting articles for a booth where unique Czecho-slovak art novelties will be sold. The members are also losing no time selling tickets and collecting names for the Red Honor Roll.

Sub-section 3-E is also determined to have a booth of its own. Furniture is the specialty selected by the members of this sub-section.

Other organizations are also busy working for the bazaar and workers everywhere are showing signs of that proletarian energy which promises to make the Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar the greatest event of its kind ever held in this country.

REPORT SPANISH REVOLT GROWING; PREPARE TROOPS

De Rivera Shot at Barcelona, Rumored

HENDAYE, French-British Frontier, Sept. 18 (UP).—Reports of impending revolutionary trouble in Spain persisted today, despite the government's prompt action last week in arresting persons suspected of plotting an uprising.

Nothing was known definitely, although the garrisons in Madrid and other places were ordered to be in readiness while police investigated.

The government was uneasy about certain military elements, particularly artillery officers, whose movements were watched closely. Troops were kept in barracks. Army officers were ordered to wear their uniforms and side-arms constantly.

Some false rumors were circulated in other countries, but the United Press received reports from Spain that no overt acts had taken place.

In the village of Camas, between Seville and Huelva, civil guards found 180 dynamite cartridges in a wrecked automobile and arrested the occupants, Benito Gonzales and Jose Lopez Vaquez, a 17-year-old boy. Gonzales, a miner, admitted the cartridges were stolen from a mine at Cerro Andevalo, police said. He buried them in a field, it was added, and dug them up with the intention of carrying them to an anarchist band in Seville.

"Socialist" Bloc in Argentina Sides With Foreign Oil Interests

BUENOS AYRES, Argentina, Sept. 18.—The "socialist", radical and conservative coalition, siding with the foreign oil interests against the domestic oil firms, will attempt to oppose the nationalization bill by absenting themselves from the chamber of deputies thus causing the absence of a quorum.

President elect Irigoyen's party will press the bill and try to railroad it through the congress. The oil nationalization bill provides for the expropriation of all oil concessions to private and foreign firms. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has the largest American investment in Argentina.

Clothing Worker Tells How Amalgamated Officials Broke Up Strike, Allowed Cuts

MILITANT WAS DRIVEN FROM SHOP TO SHOP

Misleaders Run Union for Bosses' Benefit

(By a Worker Correspondent)

In my activities in the Amalgamated for the last five years (I have been a member of that organization since its birth) I have experienced personally certain deeds that deserve the attention of every member in that organization. It concerns not only the members of the Amalgamated, but members of other unions as well. For similar conditions exist in other unions, although I shall speak only of the Amalgamated because it is here that I have gathered the facts.

These facts are important because they involve the fundamental principle of the rank and file. It shows the gradual loss of these rights. It shows that the constitutions that guarantee these rights have become meaningless. They exist in name only. It shows how the power to direct the policies of the union has been almost entirely usurped by the officialdom. It shows how the officials betray and sell the workers. It shows how the machine is put to work to punish those who protest against such betrayals. It shows further how workers are punished for exposing those officials who betray and sell the workers.

Business Agent Aids Boss.

Chicago, 1924. At that time I worked for M. Lauther, a pants contractor. Lauther wanted some additional work on the pocket-section. The business agent, Morris Schaps, told the workers that they would make the additional work for the same price. "Because," said he, "the workers of Edelman's shop are making the same grade work for the same price." Through records of the two shops I convinced Schaps that Edelman paid more money for the same operation. Did he take back his order? He did not. Did he have other reasons for carrying out his order? If he did he never disclosed it to the workers.

Under the circumstances there was either to be a strike by the workers against agent or boss or do the additional work for the same price. The workers decided to strike. I was their leader. For a day and a half Schaps and his fellow officials used all kinds of dishonest methods to break the unity of the strikers, but failed. Finally the contractors' representative, Soviack, admitted that we were entitled to more money for the extra work. We then went back to work. The adjustment, however, due to the fact that the workers and officials were fighting one another, was actual robbery, because we received only about one-third of the price we were entitled to for the additional work.

Shortly after that the contractor wanted some more extra work done on the same operation. The same agent, after winning over several workers on the section, by promising them his influence to promote their standing in the political machine of the union, as well as more lucrative jobs in the shop, said at first that he would fight for more money for the new work. However, when he realized that he had brought about disunity among the workers by having the few henchmen work for him, declined to obtain an adjustment on the new work.

Disregard Award.

I then took the case to the Trade Board, at which a hearing was granted by the chairman, Dr. Mullenbach. Dr. Mullenbach decided against the contractor and for the workers' claim, on the ground that extra work means more money, regardless of conditions existing in other shops who make the same grade of work.

However, it took about eight months before the Trade Board's decision was carried out. For eight months Schaps sought to disregard that decision. For eight months he delayed making the adjustment, in the hope that he would find a way that would justify his disregarding the board's decision. And he almost succeeded when I was absent from the city for awhile. I was informed of his attempt to disregard the decision and I immediately returned. The board's order was then carried out, but he succeeded, on technical grounds, in removing me from the shop.

I then registered a complaint with the manager of the union, Sam Levine. At that time I did not know that Levine co-operated with the agents in the granting of concessions to bosses. Of course it was a mere joke to bring complaints to the manager under these circumstances. However, since I had no intention of prosecuting Schaps at that time, I was satisfied with having the case on record, believing, at the same time, that this would be a lesson for him not to do the same thing in the future. This, however, was a mistake.

Allows Reductions.

The work of the agent, Schaps, in allowing reductions in wages has been done in other shops as well. Apparently he has done that on a large scale. This is evident from the fact that a large number of votes were cast against him and a small number of votes for him in this period. In fact, the organization, as cause I fought him and because I registered the complaint against him. However, Spitzer, being a close friend of Schaps, was determined to avenge not only his friend and the rest of the officials, but also himself. Spitzer acted as toast- the insurance. The board had decided that I was entitled to the claim, despite all the efforts to the contrary by the officials. Morris Spitzer, business agent of the local, then told the board that he wanted to investigate my claim. Though there was nothing to be investigated, as usual he was granted, or rather took, the privilege himself with a purpose in mind that will soon be seen. Let us remember now that he made this request after the board had invested my claim and found that I was duly entitled to the claim, as I originally received it, but later deprived of same as an act of vengeance by Schaps be- to utilize their influence since then to take me off the job and get rid of me.

Having failed to punish me in this way they found other effective weapons. They punished me through the unemployment insurance, as others have been by the same method. Here the dirty work is being done by Dr. B. Squires, the supposed impartial chairman, who, in a public speech, spoke of Sam Levine as being an angel, a god. . . . Well, we can't blame Squires for characterizing Sam Levine as being an angel or a god. Dr. Squires could not hold the $10,000 per year job unless he did some dirty work for the officialdom. He can hold this job only as long as he is willing to be their tool, since he is selected by them and not by the membership. Dr. Leo Wolman, of the Amalgamated Research Department, is doing similar work for the officialdom.

When I was deprived of my insurance I went to the executive board of my local with a claim for me in the struggle for justice. He allowed several reductions on the pocket section. He got away with that because I was no longer there to lead and fight for them.

Driven From Shop to Shop.

As for myself, I was blacklisted. I was discharged from one shop after another for no reason at all. Had it not been for a certain incident that enabled me to obtain a job without the officials' knowledge, which would have enabled them to inform the boss, as he did before, of the dangerous character he had in his shop. I would have been compelled to leave the city as well as the trade. But they have not failed a whole, and Manager Levine in particular. found it necessary to remove Schaps from Chicago as a result of his unpopularity, as indicated by the large number of votes registered against him at that time. So they took him away from Chicago. They gave him a job in Cincinnati, where he still is.

Was Schaps punished in any way because he betrayed and apparently sold the workers in Chicago prior to his removal from that city? He was not. The job they gave him in Cincinnati is not only as good as the one he had in Chicago, but much better.

Before Schaps was removed from Chicago he had determined to punish me for having exposed him before the manager of the union. He punished the rest of the workers in Lauter's shop who have been with master at a banquet for Schaps before the latter's departure for Cincinnati, and, at which banquet Schaps was presented with a radio and testimonials by Spitzer, presumably for the great work the former had done in behalf of the workers . . . he had decided to be my judge. . . .

Keep Case From Local.

Spitzer was ready to give me justice. The board's decision then did not mean anything. Spitzer was going to take care of everything. Board decisions do not mean a thing to Spitzer. However, while he could easily do anything with the board, he was not quite so sure with the local. And he was particularly unwilling to have the local know why the officials are persecuting me. So my case was delayed from reaching the local meeting for six months. Then a report of one sentence was read. The report was just the opposite of the board's decision. No one spoke on the question, either for or against. The man who was responsible for the report was not present at that meeting. There could be no decision. Everything was fixed. The officials giggled.

Shortly after this I was fortunate in securing official statements which proved not only that I was entitled to my insurance, but also proved a conspiracy to punish me by depriving me of it. The conspirators, included Dr. Squires, Prof. John R. Commons, who played a minor, but not innocent, part, and the officials, particularly Levine and Schaps.

Fearing that the members of the local would learn of the conspiracy, they stopped having local meetings. Until a short time ago Local 144 did not have a regular local meeting for about ten uonths, although the constitution of the Amalgamated states very clearly that locals must have at least one meeting each month.

Unusual Meeting.

Finally there was a regular meeting. But this meeting was an unusual one. Instead of reading the minutes on the various questions that I took up with the executive board, particularly the question relating to the conspiracy, and my challenge and offer of one thousand dollars to anyone who disproved the existence of such a conspiracy, to confuse and avoid the issue, they decided to suspend me from the local for not buying a ticket to the local's picnic. . . . When Brother Nathan Green and others reminded the chair that members cannot be suspended for refusing to buy such tickets because it would be depriving individuals of their freedom to choose their entertainments as well as other liberties that come under the category of personal freedom and individual liberty, as guaranteed by the constitution—a freedom that is enjoyed even under monarchs and dictators. Agent Spitzer ordered the chairman not to allow a discussion on constitutional rights. When Brother Nathan Green reminded the local that it is a violation of the constitution not to have regular meetings each month, the chairman again obeyed Spitzer by avoiding the issue.

I saw the same thing happen again and again at board meetings. The chairman of the board, who is supposed to be impartial and who is also supposed to use his own initiative in directing matters for consideration before the board, is doing everything the agents want him to do.

CHINA SEAMEN REBUILD UNION

By LOH-TAN-HSIEN.

The fact that the workers of South China are fast recovering from the heavy blows dealt them during the reaction of the past year is evidenced from many reports of renewed activity. Notable among these is the conference held in Hongkong for the revival of the Seamen's Union. It will be recalled that the members of this union in 1922 waged a world famous strike for many months, eventually winning a brilliant victory, securing substantial wage increases and improved working conditions. This victory had an enormous influence in stimulating the labor movement of the entire country and until the forcible dissolution of the union last year by the combined efforts of the big shipping companies aided by both the imperialists and the reactionary Chinese authorities it was looked upon as one of the most militant and effectively organized of all Chinese trade unions.

Work Under Great Difficulties.

Organization of the seamen after the breakup of their union has been very difficult. Company spies, government detectives representing the governments of the corporations concerned and the anti-labor Chinese authorities as well; the fear of the workers lest they be summarily seized for participating in a labor organization, and difficulties of dialects,—between natives of Kuantung and Fukien Provinces, for instance,—all these had to be overcome. Nevertheless good progress had been made already, delegates reporting the organization of 51 branch unions during the months of April, May and June.

Of these 30 were formed on the steamers and 21 in the dormitories which house the men on their arrival at Hongkong or in between voyages. It is estimated that this furnishes the nucleus of an organization on almost one-half of the big ships which stop regularly at this port. Despite the still incomplete organization there have been struggles during each of these months, principally over the matter of the arbitrary discharge of workers.

Organizers Work In Disguise.

Organization work has naturally been easiest among those shipping lines whose seamen are recruited from participants in the great strike of 1922. A difficulty encountered here, however, was the attitude of a good many that they were "superior" to the ordinary run of seamen just because of their part in that struggle. In many cases organizers could not directly broach union matters, but had to disguise themselves as peddlers, thus drawing out the sentiment of the men approached.

Another difficulty springs from the oppressive tactics of the Kuomintang "Reorganization Committee," which aims to tie the seamen to the reactionary militarists. The savage repression exercised by this committee has brought about a state of mind among the common seamen which is only gradually being overcome. Contributing towards arousing a new militancy are the successive wage reductions forced on the workers. Just recently their pay has been again cut, this time by ten per cent.

Basis For Strong Movement.

Not only are the militant seamen interested in the rebuilding of their own organization, but they realize clearly the need of the powerful all-inclusive alliance of the workers of all trades and industries. They therefore took the initiative in calling a conference of representatives of all the Hongkong workers in order to lay the foundation for a strong labor movement in that city. Literature was issued and circulated in the working class quarters with such slogans: "All Hongkong Workers Should Unite!" "The Seamen Have Rebuilt Their Trade Union!" "Now Let the Other Workers of Hongkong Rebuild Theirs!" etc., and calling for organized struggle against the cutting of wages, lengthening of work hours and unemployment. National issues, such as the Anti-Japanese boycott, and international, such as the war against war.—these have also the attention of the organization, the effort being to develop a thoroughly militant union alive to all the issues which effect the workers and to furnish them on effective leadership.

Besides Hongkong the reports of Swatow and Singapore are centers for organization activity. Two seamen sent to Swatow last February for this purpose were arrested and executed upon their arrival by the Kuomintang authorities. Two more sent later met a similar fate. In Singapore the situation is a little better, for the union maintains a semi-legal status. There are two branch unions, with twenty more steamers on which units are functioning. At a recent conference an executive committee of thirteen was elected, five of whom are to reside there to supervise the work. It was also decided to publish a paper to be entitled "The Singapore Seamen."

Well Organized Body.

The Seamen's Union (Hongkong) is governed by an executive committee of seventeen, with nine alternates. The Standing Committee numbers nine, of whom seven are required to be constantly in the city. Under this Standing Committee there are five sub-committees: secretarial, organizational, agitation and propaganda, investigation, and financial. Each sub-committee chairman must be a member of the Standing Committee.

There is a special apparatus for establishing and maintaining connections with the workers. Various other institutions, such as workers' clubs, classes, etc., have been established also. It should be remembered in connection with this work that in Hongkong, as in other British controlled territories in China, the organization of labor unions is strictly forbidden under severe penalties, while such activity in Chinese controlled territory as in Swatow is enough to ensure a summary execution. It is under conditions such as these that the Chinese workers are forging the tools for their ultimate victory.

WORKERS MUST UNIONIZE IN THE DE LAVAL CO.

Beginning to Think About Conditions

(By a Worker Correspondent)

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., (By Mail).—Since we in the De Laval Separator Co. began to think about our conditions, the management of the factory has done everything to twist the issue.

At first it advertised in the factory that we ought to go and hear the faker O'Brien and for over a week he was standing on the corner telling us what a good constitution and government we have and how "prosperous" we are, in spite of the fact that our wives and children have to work in the factory because we cannot make a living on forty cents an hour

Want Cheap Hands.

Now Mr. Miller, our manager, comes out in the press saying that the trouble is that we haven't enough skilled tool-makers and that the city should teach the children a skilled trade. Then the Separator Company will have cheaper skilled hands.

Why don't you, Mr. Miller, mention the wages that skilled tool-makers are making in your factory? And how many tool-makers do you need? We will supply you with a couple of thousand in one day.

And how many first class mechanics, carpenters, masons, bricklayers, plasterers and painters have been walking the streets in the last ten months? No, Mr. Miller, it is not a question of the constitution or other fake issues that have nothing to do with the case. Our only salvation is a strong union, not only in the De Laval, but in all Poughkeepsie factories. And we want a union whose leaders will not sell us out to the bosses, a real one, made by us and for ourselves.

RED ELECTION DRIVE SPEEDED IN TRENTON

Workers Respond to Campaign

(By a Worker Correspondent)

TRENTON, N. J., (By Mail).—The Workers Party 1928 election campaign has opened with great enthusiasm and success in Trenton. With the formation of a campaign committee, plans and details were mapped out for the future activities which will make our Party a factor to reckon with in this city.

Many Negroes At Meet.

Altho activities were opened as early as February, the campaign was really initiated at an open air meeting at which Herbert Benjamin spoke. The meeting was a marked success, not only from the point of view of attendance, but from the amount of literature sold, especially among the Negro workers. Such meetings are being held regularly in every section of the city and as the election draws nearer will be increased in number.

The workers of Trenton are at the present time suffering from Coolidge "prosperity," a "prosperity" which to the bosses means greater production and enormous profits but to the workers means low wages, unemployment and a body-grinding speed-up system.

Traction Crisis.

The unemployment of last winter has decreased very little and many are still out of work. A number of rubber mills have shut down permanently and at those factories where production increased due to the speed-up very few workers were re-employed. The working conditions are bad in general.

A crisis is developing among the traction workers, not only against the corporation itself, but also against the officials of the union who, thru cooperation with the traction officials, are daily betraying the workers.

A spontaneous strike is imminent among the workers at the Scammell China Co.

Important tasks confront our Party here in the near future.

—WOR-COR.

DEVIL'S ISLAND.

PARIS, Sept. 18 (U.P.). — Mutiny broke out today in the prison of San Martin, on the island of Re off La Rochelle.

Custodians cornered the leaders in their cells and put down the insurrection.

Among those who rebelled were prisoners awaiting transfer to Devil's island, the dreaded French penal colony in Guiana.

CYCLONE IN MEXICO.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18 (U.P.).—Dispatches from Vera Cruz reported today that a severe cyclone was approaching that city. The harbor was ordered closed. The barometer was falling rapidly. It rained all day yesterday.

"The Great Power" at the Ritz Is Pretty Weak Tea

MYRON C. FAGAN, a man of many plays, is still glued to the gospel that without good works a man's wealth will avail him nothing when he takes flight on golden wings to the celestial region where a Christian is supposed to be held to a strict accountability for his worldly indiscretions.

Mr. Fagan worked his theory into a piece titled "The Great Power," which is now holding forth at the Ritz Theatre, with John T. Doyle doing his best and doing it well to make John Powers, the money mogul, so wicked that it would take a god with a heart as soft as a cream puff to resist the temptation to let him off with anything less than a couple of million years in purgatory.

Mr. Power was as hard as hickory on every man, woman or child that stood between him and whatever goal he aimed at. His ruthlessness sent his wife to an early grave and brought on a feud with a Mr. Wray, his first business partner. Not content with dancing over Wray's grave, Power made war on Wray's descendants. Wray's daughter adopts heroic measures to save her brother from the wrath of the ogre Powers, and went to the extreme of leading Power's adopted son to expect favors that no nice girl would confer on a young man without legal sanction, in order to possess certain incriminating documents.

But darn it if she did not fall in love with the fellow, and shoot her former sweetheart, thus bringing on further complications which called for district attorneys, and questionings and surprises, at the end of which Powers was knocked out as flat as Mike McTigue. Whereupon Mr. Fagan sends his chief character into a trance during which he sees the angels. After his bout with god, Powers becomes a better if not a bigger man, love has its inning and the curtain comes down.

Just another play. —T. J. O'F.

TWO SHOWINGS OF "IN ABRAHAM'S BOSOM"

The cast of "In Abraham's Bosom" includes Alston Burleigh, Thomas Mosely, Lillian Gillum, Mitchell Bliss and Harry Harr . The play will have two showings at the Provincetown Playhouse on Saturday and Sunday, September 22 and 23, before it leaves for Schenectady for a road tour. Cincinnati, Detroit, St. Louis and Kansas City are also on the itinerary.

Fascists Failed to Break Up Red Meets in Astoria; Turn to Bay Ridge

TAMMANY MEN FAIL; DETERRED BY WORKERS

Meeting Scheduled for Friday

The Tammany fascists parading under the emblem of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, after turning tail from Astoria, where the Workers (Communist) Party now holds large weekly election meetings, are concentrating their attacks in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, where they are attempting the same strong arm methods to break up Communist open air meetings.

At the corner of 50th St. and 5th Ave., in Brooklyn, the fascists drove up in a large truck marked "V. F. W." as the Communist meeting was being adjourned by Mania Reiss, and attempted to break up the meeting prematurely. Despite their attempts the meeting had a normal finish. Mania Reiss, seeing the crowd of veterans advancing upon the platform, told of the intrepidity of 30 Astoria fascists in beating up four Workers Party speakers.

A worker standing in back of the Communist platform overheard the patrioteers plotting a rush on the platform, and when one of their number commented on the size and evident sympathy of the crowd of workers with the speakers, another one said, "Well, aren't we getting paid for it?"

The Tammany affiliation of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was evidenced by their shouting for Al Smith, the candidate of Tammany.

That the fascists, after being whipped by the Communists in Astoria, are trying their luck in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, is seen by the Communist election campaigners as evidence of their determination to try to break up Bay Ridge Communist meetings in the future. Just as, after the Astoria meeting at which the Communist speakers were beaten up large crowds of workers mobilized to resist further fascist attacks, so will the workers mobilize in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn next Friday evening. Many workers whose anger was aroused over the Astoria affair and who participated in the huge meeting there, will travel to Bay Ridge on Friday. The meeting is scheduled to open at 8 o'clock.

'DAILY' TO START DRIVE IN JERSEY

The Election Campaign Drive of the Daily Worker for 10000 new readers will be carried into the state of New Jersey on an extensive scale today, when Louis Siselman, who recently returned from a tour of the middle west for the "Daily," will begin work in New Jersey.

He will go on an extensive itinerary throughout the state for a period of two weeks, visiting such cities as Newark, Bayonne, Cliffside, Elizabeth, Jersey City, Linden, New Brunswick, Passaic, Patterson, Perth Amboy, Freehold, Atlantic City, Plainfield and several others.

The members of the Workers (Communist) Party and sympathizers in the cities which Siselman will visit, have been urged to give Siselman their best cooperation in his campaign to get new readers for the Daily Worker.

YANKS GAIN FULL GAME ON ATHLETICS

The New York Yankees took the St. Louis Browns into camp yesterday in a slugging bee, 14-11. While the Athletics took a beating from the Cleveland Indians, 3—2, the Yanks gained a full game and are now leading by two games. Pat Collins, Yankee catcher, hit his first homer in a blue moon.

It took Heimach, Johnson, Pipgras and Hoyt, nearly the entire Yankee pitching staff, to keep the Browns from winning. Wiltse started for St. Louis and Blaeholder and Stoelecki succeeded him in the box.

Walberg and Rommel allowed Cleveland only five hits, but the Athletics still couldn't make it. Miller and Hudlin pitched for Cleveland. Tucker hit a homer for the Indians.

The Giants beat Pittsburgh in the tenth inning of a tough battle, but the Cards also won from the Phillies, so the Giants failed to gain in the race. Grimes and Dawson pitched for Pittsburgh; Fred Fitzimmons for the Giants. Terry's homer in the tenth settled the issue for the Giants.

CALL RALLY FOR JERSEY WORKERS

Weisbord, Others Speak on New Mill Union

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 18.—Passaic textile workers, members of the Passaic local unions of the United Textile Workers that have broken away from that decayed A. F. of L. organization, are called to a mass meeting Friday evening, Sept. 21, at 8 o'clock in the Ukrainian Hall, President Street.

Albert Weisbord, leader of the Passaic strike of 1926 and the present heads of the Passaic local unions will speak to the workers about the National Convention of Textile Mill Committees to be held the next day in New York for the formation of a new national textile workers' union.

Lena Chernenko and George Roscoe, active as leaders in the big Passaic strike, will also speak at the meeting. Sentiment among the workers in this city for the growing movement to build a new textile union, justifies the belief that the meeting will be one of the largest held in a long time.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—It is understood that the French Navy Budget for 1929 will call for the construction of one cruiser, six torpedo boats, seven submarines, and two dispatch boats.

Besides this increase in the French navy, plans have been made for the construction of a large chain of forts along the eastern frontier, in addition to a large increase in the size and equipment of the army.

Mencken and Smith Grovel Before the Same God

The newest adherents of Wall Street's democratic party circus are those super-sophisticates of the American Mercury, H. L. Mencken and George Jean Nathan. The Mercury editors have achieved eminence and affluence as satirists of the American babbitry. Their chief customers, however, are the smart-alecky sons and daughters of those whom they hold up to scorn. Proclaiming themselves relentless enemies of mediocrities who strut upon the political stage, they have come forth as supporters of the man in the brown derby, the most palpable fraud in political life, the very personification of all the gutter-snipe, ward-heelers of the lumpen proletariat. The choice of the Menckens, the Nathans, as well as the Heywood Brouns and all the other limpid liberals is the big chief of the sewer grafters, the building inspection shake-down artists, the license swindlers, the corrupt police, the denizens of the "roaring forties," the confidence men, the professional ball players, the race track touts, proprietors of gambling joints, the pickpockets, the second-story men, the comedians, the bootleggers, the gangsters, the soft-shoe and buck-and-wing dancers, the leaders of jazz bands, the ladies of the evening and their business agents.

As the candidate of the democratic party controlled by the House of Morgan, Al Smith, is the connecting link between the parasitic lowest strata and the parasitic upper strata of American society—the figure-head of a combination that is the class enemy of the useful members of society, the workers and farmers.

This man Smith, with his brown derby in one hand, a cane in the other and an elongated cigar tilted at an angle of thirty degrees, presents a picture that ought to furnish a lively topic for the satirists. But what do the editors of the Mercury say about this low buffoon, this court jester of Wall Street? Mr. Nathan states briefly: "My choice is Smith. At least he is no shuffler and no hypocrite."

Let us examine the fate of the main Smith plank of last year. It was the question of prohibition. Smith was the most audible wet in the whole country. Yet, in his campaign, he is careful to avoid anything that might be interpreted as unwillingness on his part to enforce the Volstead Act. In fact, as far as the main plank of his pre-nomination platform is concerned, his campaign has completely collapsed. Perhaps Mr. Nathan may be able to find another name for this sort of evasiveness, but to us it appears as shuffling and hypocrisy of the most transparent type.

Mr. Mencken is more explicit. But his observations are as banal as those of any of the babbits, the dolts and yokels he scores in the "Americana" column of his Mercury. Says Mencken of Al Smith:

> "He is an able man and a very good public official. He has the sort of experience that the presidency needs, and he has the sort of courage and frankness that it needs even more."

After this eulogium, Mencken qualifies his support of the disciple of religious superstition:

> "The objection to Al on account of his faith seems to me to be sound. In every religious man there is a screw loose; he is not to be trusted completely. But we must take what we can get. Al as a catholic is plainly superior to the methodists and baptists who now run the country. The superstitions he cherishes at least have some dignity; they are not merely low-down. If we must choose between being governed by the pope, who is a scholar and a gentleman, and the methodist bishops, who are bounders and ignoramuses, I choose the pope."

A more trivial, inept attempt at political observation would be hard to find. It is identical with the political analysis of the ku klux klan, which claims that the election of Smith means the domination of the nation by the pope of Rome. The difference between the ku kluxers and Mencken is that the kluxers annihilate the straw-man they erect, while Mencken embraces it as the best that can be had out of a bad situation, one that forces the avowedly highly cultured, civilized and scholarly Mencken and his crowd to choose between catholic and protestant administrations.

If Mr. Mencken and his followers and admirers would devote even a small portion of their time to investigating politics they would discover that the real power that governs this country, whether the republicans or democrats are in control, has its seat in Wall Street, not in the vatican at Rome or in the house of a methodist bishop. And even though the ku klux klan, the popes and the bishops as well as the politicians and the Mercury editors claim to have divergent beliefs, in reality they all worship, under different names and forms, the same identical god, the one, universal diety that determines the destiny of them all—CAPITAL.

It is not the pope that will dominate the United States government, in case of the election of Smith, but the identical power that dominates the government of Andrew W. Mellon, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover—Wall Street, the citadel of the mightiest imperialism the world has ever seen. And this same power influences the pope and the other political puppets in the vatican with the same decisiveness with which it influences the protestants of the world, as well as the eminences of the American Mercury and the lame-duck columnists of the calibre of Heywood Broun. These gentlemen, who profess to be spokesmen of the "intelligent minority," (to resort to the euphemism with which they flatter their bourgeois prejudices) talk much about the achievements of science. Has it ever occurred to them that there is a science known as political economy? That there is a scientific analysis of politics as a reflex of the economic antagonisms of classes?

If these gentlemen ever heard of Marx, Engels, Lenin and other giants of the revolutionary movement, it was only in the most superficial form. With typical bourgeois flippency and intellectual snobbishness they amuse their masters by devising myths about the labor movement. If they publish a story about labor in their magazine it must be written in the form of the old fashioned yellow back novels containing the exploits of heroes of the wild and wooly west or follow the style of "Old King Brady detective stories," in order to hold the interest of the ladies and gentlemen and scholars who subscribe to the Mercury.

It would be a waste of time to try to convince such people of the scientific accuracy of the Communist criticism of capitalist society, or to talk to them of our program of revolutionary action that will initiate a society wherein ignorance and superstition will be eradicated because the very ground upon which they grow will be destroyed. Such an attempt would only evoke an outbrust of hilarity on their part.

The Menckens, the Nathans, the Brouns and their followers mock everything except the one god they all worship, the god of capitalism—gold. Before that god the pope and Smith, the methodist bishop and Hoover, Mencken and Billy Sunday all grovel in utter abasement as dogs crawl before the master that kicks them.

The New Mine Strike in Illinois.

The strike of 2,000 Illinois miners employed by the notorious Peabody Coal Company against the attempt of the operators and the Lewis-Fishwick machine to enforce a wage-cut emphasises the invincible militancy of the coal diggers. There was a time when the miners would have accepted the decisions of the Lewis machine, but the struggles of the past two years have completely unmasked them as agents of the employers.

Not only did Lewis, Fishwick & Co. wreck the miners union by endeavoring to remain in control of it after they had been repudiated by a referendum vote of the membership, not only did they aid the employers defeat the miners in the strike in Pennsylvania and Ohio, but at this very moment they are trying to force the miners to accept agreements ratifying their betrayal.

The ex-labor faker and discredited stool-pigeon of the Peabody Coal Corporation, Frank Farrington, praises his successor as president of the Illinois miners, Harry Fishwick, and condemns the new National Miners' Union. It is indeed a tribute to the new union to incur the public denunciation of such a rat as Farrington.

It is to be hoped that the other miners who voted overwhelmingly against accepting the wage cut agreement will follow the example of the Peabody miners. It is not enough, however, to strike against such sell-outs. The Illinois miners should affiliate enmasse with the new National Miners' Union in order effectively to conduct a struggle against wage-cuts and for union conditions.

BEING a "visiting fireman" who drops in occasionally to snap out a few paragraphs, I can enjoy the scenery with joy unalloyed by the thot that it is a substitute for a salary. This vista has one drawback however. It breeds wanderlust. This does not mean to imply that the Daily Worker journalists hanker for more luscious assignments but that a wide open space tempts one to see what is on the other side of it.

THIS train of thot is provoked as much by an attractive advertisement that lies before me as by the scenery, and the fact that my brain is somewhat fagged as a result of sitting up until 3 a. m. listening to a spirited and interesting dialectical discussion on the latest attempt to solve the mystery of why people live, at least some of them. The advertisement I speak of is from the office of World Tourists, Inc., 69 Fifth Avenue, New York City. And it gives many reasons why a solvent proletarian should wish to wander.

WHERE I would like to go, if I had $375, is Soviet Russia. As most of you know the anniversary of the Russian Revolution is approaching and thousands of people from all over the world are flocking to the Red Capital of the Soviet Union to witness the celebration of this greatest event in world history. The Soviet Union is worth visiting any time of the year but to be able to take in an anniversary of the Revolution is compensation for a lifetime of misery.

The Sixth Red World Congress

War Danger and Colonial Questions Among Those Taken Up at Communist Meet

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

Two major features among others characterize the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International that met nearly two full months—July and August—in Moscow. These are:

First:—The unusual number of important questions placed on the agenda of the congress, all of them receiving careful and detailed attention, including the report on the international situation and the tasks of the Comintern by Comrade Bukharin, the program of the Communist International, the imperialist war danger, colonial question, the economic situation in the U. S. S. R. and the situation in the C. P. S. U.

Second:—Increasing representation from the colonial and semi-colonial countries and the vast American Negro population, with China, Indonesia, India and Latin America, as well as the Negro problem in the United States and Africa being continually in the center of the discussions in the congress.

Ten Years.

The Sixth Congress assembled after the triumphant celebration of the glorious tenth anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, and on the eve of the tenth anniversary (March, 1929) of the Comintern itself.

In pointing out that the tasks of the world Communist movement have become extremely complicated, Comrade Bukharin said, in opening the congress, that:

"The decline of capitalism does not follow a straight road. It proceeds along zig-zag lines, through partial improvements of various parts of the capitalist system—through, what we call, partial capitalist stabilization. This created for the Communist movement new and great difficulties. It confronted the Communist International with new problems. It compelled the Communist International as a whole and its parties individually to think and elaborate very intricate tactics of preparation and mobilization of the forces of the working class. It compelled the Communist International to seek in every-day life, on the basis of the development of the contradictions of capitalist stabilization, the means of mobilization of the masses for a new battle, for a new, more sweeping and more destructive blow at capitalism."

Intricate Problems.

The entire discussion of the whole congress was bent toward solving these intricate problems; the task of this congress "of proletarian revolutionaries." Thus the gathering became a "serious review of the general staffs of the various detachments of the International Communist army."

Unanimous on all the vital questions that came before it, the congress also registered unanimity for the declaration that at present the principal danger in the Comintern comes from the right tendency. This danger is kept alive by the period of stabilization, the survival of parliamentarianism, the influence of social-democracy and certain specific peculiarities in trade union activities. This danger, assuming various forms in the different parties, manifested itself in the aspiration to legality at any price, by excessive submission to bourgeois laws, in ignoring the necessity for accentuating the class struggle, in wrong policies toward the social-democracy, insufficient accentuation of the struggle against the "left" social-democracy, in the inadequate internationalization of the parties as was the case in regard to the Chinese revolution, and in trade union activities where general trade union discipline is frequently considered more important than our Party discipline.

Score Trotskyism.

The greatest danger to the Comintern came, some time ago, from the so-called ultra-lefts. These endeavored to set up an international organization. The collapse came with the complete rout of the Opposition in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. It was declared that Trotskyism is a social-democratic tendency. The history of the Lenin Bund has shown that the core of the opposition has migrated to the social-democrats. The dialectics of the relationships between the so-called "ultra-left" and the right could be distinctly seen. After the defeat of the Trotskyist opposition, which represented a bloc of the right and ultra-left, the chief danger is undoubtedly the right wing danger.

The congress showed itself fully aware that the imperialist war danger is growing from month to month. In this connection Comrade Bukharin, in his closing remarks on the tasks of the Comintern, criticized those comrades who "keep internal contradictions in one pocket and external contradictions in another," declaring that this was a reflection of an under-estimation of the war danger. From the objective point of view it is the reflection of the right wing dangers in the Communist International. The principal danger that threatens us is the under-estimation of the war danger. It was pointed out that the various parties do not link up the war danger with other questions in such a way as to subordinate all other tasks to the task of combatting approaching war.

Fight War Danger.

Thus the struggle against the imperialist war held the center of attention at the congress in the discussion, not only on the general report submitted by Comrade Tom Bell (Great Britain), but also on the supplementary reports of Comrades Schneller (Germany), Garlandi (Italy), Lovestone (United States), and Barbe (France).

The Eighth Plenum (May, 1927) of the Comintern, in the midst of the raid on Arcos in Great Britain, the assassination of Voikov in Poland, and the attacks on the Soviet embassies and consulates at Peking and Shanghai, had already thoroughly considered and acted on the war danger. The Sixth Congress, therefore, had behind it a year of struggle against the war danger, and the many valuable experiences resulting therefrom. The congress joined in the international demonstrations against war on the anniversary of the outbreak of the European slaughter, which ended now nearly ten years ago with the armed truce that still suspends the world on another volcano's brink.

Note Changes.

The Theses on the Struggle Against the Imperialist War points out that the changes in the world situation since the Fifth World Congress are characterized by a tremendous intensification of all the contradictions of capitalism, by the great economic and political strengthening of the Soviet Union, by the rapid growth of the national revolutionary movements in the colonies and semi-colonial countries, above all, in China. The Theses deals with this problem under five main headings: (1) The Imminence of Imperialist War; (2) the Attitude of the Proletariat Towards War; (3) the Attitude of the Proletariat Towards the Army; (4) the Attitude of the Proletariat to the Disarmament Question and the Struggle Against Pacificism, and (5) the Defects and Tasks of the Communist Parties.

The Theses declares that a war of imperialism against the Soviet Union is an open counter-revolutionary class war of the bourgeoisie against the proletariat of every country. Its chief aim is the overthrow of the proletarian dictatorship; the basis for the tactics of the proletariat of capitalist countries for the struggle against his war is furnished by the Bolshevik program of struggle against imperialist war: the transformation into the civil war. In this connection considerable attention is given to the fact that the social-democracy is serving more and more brazenly as an active counter-revolutionary preparation for war against the Soviet Union. The proletariat is urged to give the greatest attention to the methods of the social-democracy with which the latter is ideologically preparing the war against the Soviet Union. Some of these methods are: (a) Dissemination of such lies and slanders as "Red Imperialism" and "Red Militarism," "Identity of Fascism and Bolshevism," etc.; (b) the malicious propaganda that the dictatorship of the proletariat is the cause of war or one of the causes of war; (c) the hypocritical attitude that "We are for the support of the Soviets but against the Communists and the Comintern"; (d) propagation of defeatism towards the Soviet government under a "left" mask. The war danger during the last year has given us several examples, especially on the part of the German social-democrats. These examples are no less clearly expressed by the allies of the social-democracy, the Trotskyists, e. g., in their phrases about "Thermidorism," "kulakisation," etc.

Reformist Betrayers.

The so-called left leaders of the social-democracy, who were characterized by the Eighth Plenum as the most dangerous enemies of Communism in the labor movement, have completely confirmed this characterization in recent months, particularly at the Brussels Congress of the Second International.

Considerable attention is given to the national-revolutionary wars of the oppressed colonies and semi-colonies which Lenin predicted in 1916, have changed from a theoretical certainty into a world historical fact in recent years. As examples of such wars are mentioned the war in Morocco against French and Spanish imperialism, uprisings in Syria, wars in Mexico and Nicaragua against American imperialism, and finally the great Chinese northern expedition in 1926-27. Since the national-revolutionary wars will play an important role in the present epoch of the world revolution, the proletariat is called upon to devote the greatest attention to the experience and lessons of these wars.

In outlining the struggle of the proletariat in capitalist countries against pacifism, it is emphasized that the most important tool of the imperialists in the disarmament farce is social-democracy which spreads among the masses the illusion that genuine disarmament and abolition of war are possible without the overthrow of imperialism.

Colonial Question.

The Theses on the Colonial Question, presented by Comrade Kuusinen, was based on the Theses of the Second Congress written by Lenin. It was much more detailed and reviewed developments up to the present time. The Sixth Congress declares that the "Principles on the National and Colonial Question" adopted at the Second Congress still have full validity, and still serve as a guiding line for the further work of Communist Parties. Since the time of the Second Congress the actual importance of the colonies, however, has vitally increased as crisis factors in the capitalistic world system. All basic questions of the revolutionary movement in the colonies and semi-colonies are immediately bound up with the greatest epoch-making struggle between the capitalist and socialist systems, which are now being fought out on a world scale in the form of the struggle of world imperialism against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, and within each of the various capitalist countries between the existing bourgeois class regime and the Communist movement.

The Theses reviews in detail the essence of imperialist colonial policy, the various types of colonial countries and the position of the peasantry, the question of the bourgeois-democratic revolution in the most important countries, and sets forth the immediate general tasks of the Communists. Most important features of the theses are its declarations on "decolonization" and its analysis of the bourgeois-democratic revolution. The theses declares that all the talk of the imperialists and their lackeys about the "decolonization" policy of the imperialist powers towards their colonies, about the fostering of their "development in liberty," is nothing else than an imperialist lie. It is extremely important that the Communists, in both the imperialist and colonial countries, shall completely unmask this lie.

Communist Program.

The phase of the bourgeois-democratic revolution which is at present involved in countries like India and China, with relatively broadly developed class differentiation, and the Union of South Africa, the Philippines, Algiers and Tunis, and in part of Morocco, where class differentiation is likewise relatively developed, is the phase of transition to the Socialist revolution. The historical meaning of this phase consists precisely in the preparation of the pre-conditions for the proletarian dictatorship of the socialist revolution.

One of the monumental achievements of the congress was the building of the program of the Communist International. This task had been specially referred to the Sixth Congress. The original draft as submitted by Comrades Bukharin and Stalin went through a long period of the most intense and searching discussion, both in the congress itself, as well as in several commissions. The program is not only a summing up of the experiences of the Russian Revolution and the international labor movement, but is a fighting weapon of the world proletariat. It is emphatic testimony to the growing internationalism of world labor under the Marxist-Leninist banner, convincing proof of the fact that the Communist International has fallen heir to the traditions of the First International, while the Second International, with its insuperable national antagonisms continues to give convincing proof of its bankruptcy. The Program testifies to the Leninist Unity of the Comintern, the international fighting party of the world's proletariat. The world program is the best proof that the Comintern is a world party, the collective will of the vanguard of international labor. One of its treasured contributions is the estimation of the new functions of the social democrats. It also refers to the role of the American Federation of Labor in the regime of the dollar imperialism. The Program says:

"The commercially cynical and secular imperialistic form of subjection to the ideological influence of the bourgeoisie is represented by contemporary 'socialist' reformism. Copying their gospel from the tablets of imperialist politics, their model today is the deliberately anti-socialist and openly counter-revolutionary American Federation of Labor. The 'ideological' dictatorship of the American servile trade union bureaucracy, which in its turn is the expression of the 'ideological' dictatorship of the American dollar, has become, through the medium of British reformism and His Majesty's socialists of the British labor party, the most important composite part of the theory and practice of the whole of international social-democracy and the leaders of the Amsterdam international. Moreover, the leaders of the German and Austrian social-democracy embellish these theories with Marxian phraseology and in this way mask their utter betrayal of Marxism."

Thus from the sixth world congress, an epoch-making event in the forward march to victory of the world's working class, there goes forth the appeal of the closing paragraphs of the world program declaring:

"Communists do not think it necessary to conceal their views and intentions. They openly declare that their goal can be achieved only by the violent overthrow of the present social system.

"Let the dominant class tremble before the Communist revolution. The proletariat has nothing to lose but its chains! It has the whole world to gain!

"Workers of all countries, unite!"

NEW BEDFORD POLICE USE GUNS AND CLUBS ON PICKETS

POLICE GAS 5 IN ATTACK ON PRISON STRIKE

Men Defy Riot Guns, Tear Bombs in Protest

Governor Makes Threat

Won't Probe Cruelty to Prisoners

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 19.—Barricading themselves against a large detachment of police who, armed with riot guns, tear bombs and gas masks, broke into the Maryland penitentiary, more than 400 prisoners continued their demonstration against brutal prison conditions and the continued refusal of the state authorities to investigate prison conditions. Five men were gassed by the police.

Fighting against the heavily armed detachments of police who attempted to club them into submission, the half-starved prisoners barricaded themselves into their cells and attempted to ward off the police attack.

Plant Sharpshooters.

Sharpshooters have been placed at vantage points in the jail in order to shoot down leaders of the demonstration if the police are unable to quell it by use of gas and clubs.

The demonstration which began yesterday was renewed this morning when gongs summoned the men to work.

Ignore Ritchie's Order.

Ignoring Governor Ritchie's threat to severely punish them unless order was restored, the men refused to go to work and resumed their demonstration. Attempts on the part of Warden Patrick Brady and the police to segregate the men failed.

All food has been refused to demonstrators by the warden in an effort to starve them into submission.

The demonstrations were provoked by the refusal of the Maryland authorities to investigate charges of inhuman cruelty in the treatment of prisoners.

HOOVER'S LIES TO SWELL RED RALLY

Expect Workers to Fill Central Opera House

Hoover's campaign in the east to win the workers over to the platform of the party of Big Business, opening with his Newark speech in which he fancifully fabricated facts and theories concerning American workers will have the net effect of considerably swelling the attendance at the first huge Communist campaign rally, to be held Sept. 28 at the Central Opera House, according to the District Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party who will speak at the Central Opera House rally will expose the gross misstatements made by the republican candidate as well as the democratic party's claim of being the friend of labor and the socialist party treachery against militant labor.

G. O. P. Glib Phrases.

"The glib phrases of the republican candidate, such as the 'unparalleled service to employes' performed by the republican party; 'foundations of prosperity'; 'no decrease in daily wages' and other such blatant contradictions to facts, had very little effect on the ears of those of the workers who suffered in the Passaic textile strike, or on the oil workers of Bayonne. However, it aimed at those defunct and

Hurricanes Sweep Algeria; Three Dead

ALGIERS, Algeria, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Hurricanes and rain storms of unparalleled intensity in this region caused wide-spread destruction here from Friday until Sunday night.

Streets were flooded to a depth of 50 centimetres, all electric power failed and the harbor water lashed the jetties and docks. Part of the capital is isolated and the splendid public buildings have been more or less damaged. Three persons are known dead at Belcour and Pescade. Several others are missing.

SOCIALISTS BOW TO FASCISTI

Make Agreement With Home Defense Corps

(Wireless to the Daily Worker.)

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—An agreement between social-democrats and the fascist organization, the Home Defense Corps, in regard to the provocative demonstration the latter is going to hold on October 7, is probable, and a compromise on the reduction of the tenants' protection measures is being prepared, as a result of the social-democratic congress which was just concluded here.

Negotiations Superfluous.

The social-democrats, in an attempt to come to an agreement with the Home Defense Corps, has proposed that the fascist demonstration take place in the morning, and that the social-democratic demonstration take place in the afternoon.

The negotiations, however, are superfluous since the object of the demonstration was to intimidate the social-democrats, and they have already dropped the tenants' protection measures.

That the social-democratic congress decision to compromise is already effective is demonstrated by the "Reichpost," Chancellor Seipel's paper, which recognizes the attitude of the congress on the reduction of tenants' protection as a basis for negotiations.

Praised by Fascist.

Dr. Seidle, commander of the Home Defense Corps, praised the social-democrats for their action. A speedy agreement seems very likely, which will provide the prohibition or the entire withdrawal of both demonstrations on the basis of the social-democratic capitulation.

Mexican Reactionaries Burn Town Buildings

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19.—Fifty reactionaries entered the town of Toliman during the absence of the garrison and burned the post office, according to despatches from Queretara.

Two other municipal buildings also were burned. Federal troops started in pursuit of the counter-revolutionists.

PLAN RED RALLY IN LOS ANGELES

William Z. Foster Will Address Workers

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 19.—William Z. Foster, candidate for President on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, will be the principal speaker at an election rally and workers press picnic to be held at Whiting Woods, 2 p. m., Sept. 23.

The long and militant record of the Communist presidential candidate has long been known throughout the west, and the interest of the workers has been heightened by the fact that Foster will present the platform of the only party in the United States which stands unconditionally for the interests of the working class.

Busses for the grounds of the Press Picnic will leave the Cooperative Center, 2708 Brooklyn Ave., and 122 W. 3rd St., at 9 and 11 a. m. All workers who intend to go should be at these points on time.

'HOT DOGS' AT 'DAILY' BAZAAR

Knit Goods Workers to Have Booth

"Hot Dogs" will blossom in great profusion at the Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar at Madison Square Garden Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7. The delicatessen clerks whose "hot dog" stand at last year's bazaar was one of the most popular features of the event intend to outdo themselves this year.

Not only "hot dogs," but corned beef, bologna, salami and similar flora will be marshalled in large quantities to stop the hunger of the thousands of workers that will crowd Madison Square Garden during the four days of the bazaar.

Other organizations are also making plans for the great proletarian bazaar. The knit goods workers will have a booth where all sorts of knitted articles, sweaters, mufflers, hose, etc., will be sold at prices that

Organize for Fight on Syndicalist Law

(Special to the Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19.—Deliberately maneuvering to keep the Workers (Communist) Party off the ballot in Ohio, officials of the state today stated that only seven thousand signatures had been submitted in the drive to place the Communist Party on the ballot in this state.

The Cleveland district of the Party which has directed the state campaign through I. Amter, district organizer, today branded as the move as an obvious fraud. Amter pointed to the fact that he held in his possession a receipt signed by the secretary of state for Ohio for 19,000 signatures.

The time for offering any objections to the placing of any parties on the ballot has long since expired, Amter further pointed out. That the present move by the representatives of the big boss parties is a newly arranged frame-up is indicated by the fact that the state had already put in an order for cuts of the election emblems indicating that the Workers (Communist) Party would be included in the elections.

An issue will be made of the case, it was announced, and every effort will be made to secure a reversal of the decision. The case has been put into the hands of the attorneys who are now handling it.

NEGROES JOIN WORKERS PARTY

Election Drive Warmly Greeted in Harlem

The campaign activities of Harlem members of the Workers (Communist) Party, with headquarters at 143 East 103rd Street, has procured many new members for the ranks of the only working class party in the country, according to A. Moreau, campaign manager of the Harlem section. Especially among the Negro workers has the message of the class struggle found root. At every one of the four open-air meetings, held weekly in Negro Harlem, some Negro workers join the only party which welcomes all workers.

The firm, four-square stand taken by the Workers (Communist) Party on the question of lynching, discrimination as shown in Jim Crow laws, and segregation, has proven to Negro workers that the party of the proletariat is the party of all workers.

In a final drive to secure a sufficient number of signatures to entirely clean up all the districts, congressional as well as assembly, in

SELL OUT RAILROAD WORKERS

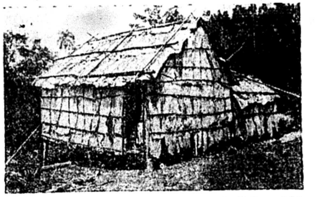
CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—A dispute between representatives of 55 western railroads and 70,000 trainmen and conductors over wages and working conditions will go to President Coolidge for "settlement," it was announced today after federal mediators had failed to adjust the differences.

The mediators confessed failure of negotiations after conferences throughout the week.

The trainmen and conductors have taken a vote favoring a strike in event of no final agreement.

Although the strike vote was overwhelmingly in favor of a walkout the union officials made it clear on a number of occasions that it would sell out and prevent strike action.

Why Hundreds Perished In Hurricane



Hundreds of Porto Rico peasants, living in little match-box houses like this, perished when the hurricane swept over the island. These tiny hovels, in which Wall Street houses its Porto Rican serfs, could not witstand the storm.

"LIBERAL" EDITOR IN PAY OF POWER TRUST

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Payment of $500 to William Allen White, famed Kansas editor, by the National Electric Light Association for a speech, was revealed today in the federal trade commission's investigation of the power industry.

White received this sum on May 20, 1926, it was said, as compensation for delivering a speech at the Atlantic City convention of the association that year, the hearing developed.

$10,000 to Harvard.

Another payment of $10,000 to Harvard University was developed during an examination of A. Jackson Marshall, secretary of the N. E. L. A. Marshall testified that Harvard received $30,000 annually from the association as a contribution toward research work in utility problems.

Checks showing total payments of $30,000 to Northwestern University were also placed in the record.

Bribery in Jersey.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (UP).—Activities of New Jersey utility interests in keeping track of and attempting to influence legislation in that state were disclosed today in the federal trade commission's power investigation.

With William H. Roth, Philadelphia, secretary of the New Jersey Utilities Association, as a witness, the commission developed a close surveillance maintained by his group over actions of the state legislature at Trenton.

500 ARE DEAD IN FLORIDA STORM

80-Mile Gale Hits New York

SEBRING, Fla., Sept. 19.—Conditions resulting from Sunday's hurricane are almost indescribable along the upper shores of Lake Okeechobee.

Suffering and death are everywhere. It is probable that several hundred lives have been lost in the devastated communities about the lake. Weeks will be needed to determinne accurately the number of dead and injured, so deep is the debris and wreckage.

Colonel L. S. Lowry, Florida National Guard, in charge of relief work in the Okeechobee area, estimated after a survey that "the hurricane death list may reach 500."

Because of scarcity of food, shelter, clothing and medical supplies suffering is intense.

Sanitary conditions are alarming. The stench from hundreds of dead cattle, horses and other animals is unbearable.

Whipping a cold stinging rain before it, a gale, rising gradually from 20 to 80 miles an hour swept New York City and the entire eastern seaboard yesterday and gave shivering New Yorkers a mild taste of the Florida hurricane.

Signs were torn down, windows broken and trees uprooted by the gale which was described as being on the edge of the Florida hurricane. Part of the support of a sign on the outside of the Workers School on the fifth floor of the Workers Center at 26-28 Union

SMITH TRIES TO FOOL MID-WEST

Opens the Presidential Drive in Omaha

OMAHA, Sept. 18.—Just as Herbert Hoover, the republican candidate for president, tried to befuddle the wage-earners of the east with dishonest statistics and evasive promises, so Al Smith, the Tammany product who heads the democratic ticket, tried to work a confidence game on the farmers of the middle-west by pretending to approve the McNary-Haugen bill.

He did not mention the real question facing the farmers—the question of the disproportion between the price of their products and the cost of production. Nor did he propose any relief from the deathly grasp of the mortgage bankers who keep the farm population in a condition of servitude that is in many cases approaching peonage.

Attacking Hoover and the republican program he, like all other candidates of the old parties, did not refer to the Communist proposals for farm relief, which propose a moratorium on farm mortgages.

The democratic politicians, with the aid of Tammany experts on fake demonstrations, packed the auditorium which holds 8,000, and mobilized a bunch of hoodlums on the outside at so much per head in order to create the atmosphere of en-

GITLOW TO TALK IN LOS ANGELES

Workers Plan Welcome for Red Candidate

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 19.—Benjamin Gitlow, vice presidential candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party, will address the workers of Los Angeles on the Workers (Communist) Party platform on October 7 at 8 p. m. at the Music Arts Hall, 233 South Broadway.

According to a statement issued by the local Los Angeles branch of the Workers (Communist) Party, the workers of the city will have "an opportunity to hear a clean-cut Communist speak on the class struggle and the election issues. The speech will be delivered by Benjamin Gitlow, one of the leaders of the Workers (Communist) Party, and its standard bearer in the present National Campaign."

Present reports indicate that a big and enthusiastic welcome will be extended to Gitlow on his arrival. The arrangement committee expects to have a filled house on the night of the speech.

RAP N. J. MISLEADERS

Score Federation's Smith Endorsement

(Special to the Daily Worker)

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 19.—Charging that neither Herbert Hoover nor Al Smith have the interest of the working class at heart, Herbert Schaffer, secretary-treasurer of the Orange Typographical Union today sent a letter to the New Jersey State Federation of Labor, protesting the federation's action at its annual convention last week in endorsing Smith. The Orange Typo body takes in printers in Orange, Montclair and Bloomfield.

At the meeting of the Typo Union here, John M. Hague, an official of the union for over 25 years, charged that the endorsement of Smith was forced thru the convention by the officials of the federation, who maintain close connections with the corrupt New Jersey democratic machine. INJURE SCORES, JAIL 15 WHEN STRIKERS PROTEST BEATING OF LINE LEADER

Sgt. Velho, Terrorist, Beats Unconscious Old Worker, After Pistol Shots Fail to Hit Him

"Resume Mass Picketing!" Shout of Thousands as Wave of Indignation Sweeps Thru City

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 19.—Infuriated at the enthusiastic mass picketing demonstration conducted in front of the Paige Mills by over 1,000 textile strikers despite a driving rain, a squadron of police, headed by the terrorist Sergeant Velho, brutally clubbed scores of strikers, and fired shots into their lines in a charge to break up their daily march back to the Potomska Hall. Fifteen were arrested, charged with rioting, and obtained their release later only after bail of $500 was provided by the International Labor Defense.

Seize Strike Leaders.

Deliberately removing their raincoats and taking out their clubs to get ready for "business," the column of police with Velho in the lead walked up to where the workers were forming for the homeward march. Velho grabbed C. Lamieras and A. G. Pinto, the last having just returned from a rest home to recuperate from a police beating in jail, and demanded a "parade permit." When the picket leaders replied, "We don't need a permit," Velho shouted to his thugs, "Get the leaders!"

The two picket leaders were seized by the police as the line began to move, and threw them into the police wagon. Roused to anger by the way Pinto and Lamieras were being handled, the hundreds of strikers surged forward, protesting against this brutal treatment of men who were still sick from their injuries. A concerted dash by the police, who slugged right and left with their clubs and blackjacks injuring many men and women, was the answer to their protests. Pinto's brother was suddenly seen to fall, bleeding, to the ground.

Club Aged Worker.

Velho himself was chasing with upraised club after 63-year-old Frank August, when the thug leader suddenly drew his revolver and fired three shots in the old striker's direction. August dodged and twisted and thereby escaped being hit by the flying bullets. Other police, however, seized him and threw him into the police wagon.

At the station house on the South End, the aged worker was dragged out of the patrol and thrown into a cell, where he lay for a few minutes before Sergeant Velho stalked in, pulled the striker upright, tore the glasses from his eyes, and beat him up till August was unconscious. "We're going to kill you, you bastard!" was what Velho told the striker before beginning to slug him into unconsciousness.

Strikers Bitter.

"Now we'll have mass picketing again," were the exclamations of the 15 strikers as they walked out of the court. At strike headquarters, in the streets, everywhere the strikers gather, this slogan was repeated in giving expression to the tremendous indignation sweeping thru the ranks of the tens of thousands on strike.

NEW MILL UNION CONVENTION TO OPEN SATURDAY

N. Y. Workers Invited to Attend

Bringing greetings of solidarity from other militant sections of the working class, representatives of the following organizations will address the national convention of textile workers at Irving Plaza this Saturday afternoon, Sept. 22, at 2 p. m.—for the militant furriers, who have themselves recently formed a new union, Ben Gold; for the garment workers, S. Zimmerman; for the new miners union, Pat Toohey; for the Workers International Relief, which is now playing such a decisive role in raising relief for the New Bedford textile strikers, Fred Biedenkapp, national secretary of the organization; for the International Labor Defense, also active in defending the arrested strikers in New Bedford, James P. Cannon.

This battery of well-known speakers will express the unity of the working class, and the solidarity of its different sections which are fighting similar battles today against corrupt leadership in the unions as well as against the attacks of the employers. The workers of New York City are invited to attend the convention, the first session of which will open promptly at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Sept. 22, at Irving Plaza, Irving Pl. and 15th St. The convention will be in session all Saturday afternoon and evening; it will open again at 10 o'clock Sunday, Sept. 23, and will continue throughout the day. All sessions are open to the public.

Latest reports by telegraph indicate that the convention will be even bigger than was at first expected. One hundred and fifty delegates will attend from New England alone. Delegates will come from locals which have severed connection with the United Textile Workers. They will come from workers' clubs in unorganized centers the membership of which is composed of textile workers, they will come from textile mill committees in factories, and they will come as individuals from unorganized mills. Altogether the convention will display a network of organization already established reaching broadly and deeply into the textile industry. Upon this foundation will be built up a national union, militant and aggressive, fighting for the material and cultural advancement of the textile workers.

Assassin of Obregon Is Sane; Trial Soon

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Jose De Leon Toral, assassin of president-elect Alvaro Obregon, is entirely sane, medical authorities said in a report prepared for submission to the trial court today.

The report embodies the results of the latest medical and psychological tests. Blood tests previously had shown no hereditary insanity.

The defense has asked a mental examination of Carlos Castro Balda, accused of complicity with Toral. The date of the trial has not yet been set.

Workers (Communist) Party on Ballot in 23 States; Expect 15 More in Six Weeks

MASSACHUSETTS NEW HAMPSHIRE SWELL BIG TOTAL

New England Workers Overcome Obstacles

The two great industrial states of Massachusetts and New Hampshire are now on the Communist ballot bringing the total number up to twenty-one or nine more than in the election campaign of 1924.

The states now on the ballot in addition to Massachusetts and New Hampshire are New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, West Virginia Ohio, Michigan, Maryland, Illinois Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, Iowa, Nebraska, Arizona, Montana, Kansas, Arkansas and South Dakota.

With six more weeks between now and election day the goal of thirty states originally set by the National Election Campaign Committee is certain to be reached with the probability that at least thirty-five states will be in the red column by the time the last filing day is reached.

Overcome Obstacles.

In Massachusetts and New Hampshire, the workers had heavy obstacles to overcome, the election machinery in several important cities being in the hands of the agents of the mill barons who took advantage of every technicality to prevent the Party from getting on the ballot. The success of the Workers (Communist) Party in New England was due in a great measure to the prestige gained thru the activity in the great textile strike in New Bedford and Fall River. While the socialist party is lined up with the labor bureaucrats who are betraying the strike to the textile barons, and fighting the militant Textile Mills Committee with the aid of the police, the Communists are not only fighting the employers but the city and state governments as well as the reactionary labor leaders.

The only New England states on the Communist ballot in the last elections were Massachusetts and Rhode Island. This will leave only two states out, Vermont and Maine where there is yet no Communist organization to speak of.

Want Worker-Organizers.

Another important election campaign development is the inauguration of a drive for 1,000 rank and file organizers to go out into the small industrial cities thruout the country, spreading Communist propaganda and organizing Party units.

Every available vehicle will be mustered into action to bring the workers from place to place. The National Office of the Party will supply the necessary material, literature, subscription blanks for Party papers and membership cards.

Workers who speak any of the foreign languages will work among the workers of that particular language. There are hundreds of thousands of foreign-language-speaking workers in heavy industry, and where there is no Communist organization they are at the mercy of the employers who use bourgeois politicians of foreign birth or descent to keep them tied to the capitalist political chariot.

Plan Extensive Drive.

Women's organizations, youth organizations and Negro organizations will be pressed into service. This is the greatest organizing plan ever conceived and executed by the Workers (Communist) Party and if the rank and file respond as they are expected to, it will build the Party in sections where the Communist message never penetrated before and will develop hundreds of workers for leading functions in the Party

The Communist election campaign is now in full swing. Foster and Gitlow are now speaking in the northwest. They are met by enthusiastic gatherings of workers in every city and each meeting brings in many news members to the Party.

Organizers are busy throughout the country, doing the necessary work to place the Party ticket on the ballots in the various states.

The Negro campaign is making great headway in New York City, where great mass meetings are held weekly with Comrades Moore, Welsh and other Negro leaders exposing the role of the republican, democratic and socialist parties as tools of big and small business, pointing out that the two big capitalist parties have sanctioned the lynching of Negroes in the south and the many discriminations practiced on them in federal and state institutions by both parties. The socialist party, tho pretending not to draw the color line refuses to help in the organization of the Negro masses for a struggle against capitalism. The Workers (Communist) Party alone, as our Negro comrades point out to their people, is the only party that has the program that means freedom for black and white workers.

BERLIN, Sept 19.—The Swedish municipal workers officials have decided to break all relations with the Soviet municipal workers, according to a report issued by the International Federation of Trade Unions from Amsterdam.

The Swedish rank and file have again and again demonstrated their willingness to co-operate with the workers of the Soviet Union.

Wall Street Candidate Greeted by Newark Politicians

When Herbert Hoover arrived in Newark at 7 o'clock Monday evening, the only people who were present to greet him were a group of Jersey G. O. P. politicians, less than 200 in number. At the Essex Armory, later in the evening, he delivered his bombastic spiel on "prosperity" in the United States, while hundreds of unemployed Newark workers listened. While the speech was in progress, members of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League distributed over 10,000 leaflets to the workers of the industrial city.

WORKERS SCHOOL OPENS FALL TERM OCTOBER 1

The Workers School of New York City, the biggest labor school in the United States, will begin its fall term October 1 at its new headquarters, 26-28 Union Square, with 75 classes in English, Trade Unionism, Labor Problems, Public Speaking, Labor Journalism, Literature, History, Economics, Politics, Imperialism, Communism and Marxian Theory. Among the instructors scheduled to give courses are: Jay Lovestone, William Z. Foster, Bertram D. Wolfe, Max Bedacht, Benjamin Gitlow, William W. Weinstone, M. J. Olgin, Scott Nearing, Robert Minor, D. Benjamin, Joseph Freeman, Beatrice Becker, J. Mindel, A. Markoff, Juliet S. Poyntz, A. Trachtenberg, John J. Ballam, Ray Ragozin, Joseph Brodsky, William F. Dunne, A. Bittelman, Will Herberg, Robert Dunn and Michael Gold.

Classes will be given every evening from 7 to 8:20 p. m. and from 8:30 to 9:50 p. m. and on Saturday afternoons. Registration for classes is now going on.

Plans are under way to take care of the largest registration in the history of the school. From present indications it appears that over 2,500 workers will study at the Workers School in order to prepare themselves for more effective work in the labor movement. This will practically double the record registration of last fall when over 1,300 workers enrolled for courses in the school to train themselves for the class struggle.

The school is now situated at 26-28 Union Square, where it occupies the sixth floor, comprising 12 rooms. For more detailed information write to the Workers School for free catalog or phone Stuyvesant 7770.

imaginative workers whose fictitious names are used by the democratic and republican machines of New Jersey every year to 'vote' their tickets, his speech may have been effective."

Workers' Party Platform.

Contrasted with the rotound phrases used by the capitalist politicians in an attempt to drag the wool over the workers' eyes every election, is the concrete platform and demands of the Workers (Communist) Party in this as in every election campaign. Specific demands are made by the Workers Party on unemployment, the right to strike, social legislation, traction, housing, schools, youth and child labor, Negroes, farmers—in short, every social, economic and political matter which at all touches the lives of the millions of workers, is treated by the Workers (Communist) Party in its platform, not from the viewpoint of the "good of the people" but from that of the good of the workers.

Workers of New York and vicinity are urged to come early as the rally will begin promptly at the scheduled time. The doors of the Central Opera House will be open at 7 p. m. on Friday, Sept. 28. Delegates from various trades in the city are expected to come in a body organized evidence of the support of the only working class party on the political field by all progressive workers.

Who wins when you read your bosses' paper?

SHE CHIDES STRIKERS

Washington "Lady" Won't Aid Relief

Fred Biedenkapp, national secretary of the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square, yesterday revealed a letter from Katharine W. Fisher, 21 First St., Washington, D. C., which the relief secretary characterized as an evidence of "the sour-milk of human kindness." The letter, which follows in full, was in reply to appeal for funds sent out by the relief organization last week.

"Disapproves" of Strikes.

"I do not doubt," Miss Fisher writes, "that conditions are bad in New Bedford, but I so disapprove of strikes as a method for attempting to remedy them that even if I did have money to spare I should not contribute it.

"How can anyone expect to cure conditions in the cotton textile industry of New England by the ancient method of the strike? People must be fed, of course, but why not let them work.

"I would much more be likely to give a dollar for a child whose father is working than to one whose father is striking. Please remove my name from your mailing list."

Strikers Will Stick.

In commenting on the letter Biedenkapp said: "I know that a thousand workers will give the lie to Miss Fisher's letter by sending money to help us feed the 30,000 heroic strikers, men, women and children, who are valiantly withstanding the New England mill barons. And I know that the New Bedford and Fall River strikers will give the lie to her by remaining on strike until they have won their just demands."

NEGROES JOIN WORKERS PARTY

Harlem, another Red Sunday will be held there September 23. According to M. Nemser, section organizer, Harlem will be entirely through with its signature drive by the beginning of next week, after which the Harlem members will pitch in and help other sections.

Another feature of the election campaign work in Harlem which has met with good results is the noonday meetings held weekly at the yards of the Interborough Rapid Transit and New York Railways companies, at 99th St. and Lexington Ave. One such meeting will be held there today, with John Sherman, of the Daily Worker, as chief speaker. Many successful distributions of Communist literature have been made among the I. R. T. employes, whose ranks are filled with company spies to detect any inclination toward honest, militant unionism among them.

Besides speaking on the platform of the Workers (Communist) Party in the election campaign, Sherman will discuss organization problems.

Distribute 1,000 "Dailys."

The election campaign in Harlem during Negro Week was opened Monday evening with a mass distribution of 1,000 copies of the special Negro edition of the Daily Worker.

The workers who participated in the distribution were gratified by the friendly response from the Negro workers, who welcomed receiving a copy of a daily newspaper which openly proclaimed its solidarity with them and fought against the exploiters of Negro labor.

Lower Harlem is having a distribution tonight, starting from its headquarters at 143 E. 103rd St. The canvass committee elected for this very important election and press activity should appear at headquarters not later than 6:30 p. m.

SHOE WORKERS MEET THURSDAY

Call Lasters, Heelers to Brooklyn Hall

The drive to organize New York's thousands of shoe workers began slowly and is now gathering force as the union announces mass meetings for the workers, the great majority of whom are unorganized. Arion Temple, 21 Arion Place, Brooklyn, will be the scene of a mass meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. to which all lasters and wood heelers in Brooklyn have been called for the purpose of launching an organizational drive in these important crafts.

In a call issued to these workers, the president of the Independent Shoe Workers' Union of Greater New York and its managing organizer, J. Magliacano, declare:

"Since the bosses have been having a free hand our prices and conditions have been reduced to those of slavery days and they will surely continue to be reduced unless something will be done to stop it.

"The cause for these conditions is only due to the fact that while the bosses have been united we remained divided and while the bosses have taken advantage of the situation, we have done nothing to put a stop to their attempt to reduce us to virtual slavery.

"The time has now come that we must begin to consider ways of improving the deplorable conditions under which we are working.

"The Independent Shoe Workers' Union of Greater New York has been recently organized by the rank and file and is the only organization which is interested in organizing the shoe workers of Greater New York. Realizing that you lasters and wood-heelers make up the most important crafts in the trade and the ones who suffered most of the abuse of the bosses, it is therefore calliing you to this meeting."

thusiasm. For days the democratic ward-heelers and other professional politicians who are for sale to the highest bidder have been busy rounding up a gang to stage the Smith demonstration. Money for the purpose was plentiful; probably supplied from the coffers of Mr. Raskob and other members of the House of Morgan oligarchy.

At certain obvious and specific signs this corralled aggregation of bought and paid for claquers would stage an imitation Tammany Hall outburst. This menagerie the reporters of the capitalist press called a "farmer audience."

Avoided "Equalization Fee."

Smith then concluded his speech, which was lengthy and detailed, with his statement upon the McNary-Haugen Bill, which has as the principal part of its machinery the much discussed equalization fee. The fee was not mentioned by the governor. Farm relief leaders call it "the heart" of the measure. He merely left this question open by saying he is not limited by the bill's mechanics.

Power Gang Hearing Shows New Activities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Resuming its investigation of propaganda activities of public utilities, the Federal Trade Commission today discovered new efforts to sway public opinion in Iowa, Canada, and New Jersey.

In Iowa, it was developed, utilities enlisted the State University and the State College in their publicity campaign. Correspondence showed authorities of both institutions were friendly to utilities and were anxious to aid in their development "in any way possible."

Swedish Labor Fakers Attack Soviet Union

MOSCOW, Sept. 18.—The trade rapproachement between the Soviet Union and Germany has been followed up by the conclusion of a new agreement between the German Krupp works and the Soviet Government.

Under the new agreement the Soviet government and Krupp officials are to have equal representation on the board of directors of the concession company. Krupp will bring in 3,000,000 marks worth of equipment while the Soviet government will contribute 1,500,000 gold rubles. If the concession is found unprofitable the invested capital will be repaid by the Soviet government in 1937.

COLLEGE BRIBED BY OFFICIALS OF POWER TRUST

Iowa State School Got $15,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—A campaign of Iowa utilities interests to retard a movement for municipally-owned power plants in that state was described today as the Federal Trade Commission resumed its investigation of the power industry.

Municipalities where the sentiment in favor of a publicly-owned plant was strong were circularized with literature designed to persuade citizens against taking such a step, H. P. Weeks, director of the Iowa section of the National Electric Light Association, testified.

In addition, Weeks said, his organization distributd 165 copies of a utilities propaganda magazine each month among members of the Iowa state legislature.

Total payments of $15,000 to Iowa State College since 1925 were revealed by other checks placed in the record. The payments averaged about $3,500 annually and were made, Weeks explained, in connection with research into rural power development.

Revenues of his association, Weeks said, were derived from Iowa utilities and from the National Electric Light Association.

A joint legislative committee is maintained by Iowa utilities to guard their interests at sessions of the state legislature, Weeks testified. He said the committee represented electric power and railway companies.

Brownsville in Final Drive for Signatures

With the finish of the signature drive in the twenty-third assembly district of Brownsville, the members of Section 8 of the Workers (Communist) Party are concentrating all their forces in the twenty-second assembly district during the last two weeks of the drive.

According to R. Macklin, campaign director of the Brownsville section, the total number of signatures to be obtained in the 22nd A. D. will be safely tucked away in the safe of the District Office before the drive officially ends, on the last day of September.

All members of Sections 2 and 3 who live in Brownsville are urged to report in Brownsville for the signature drive every evening.

General Strike in Rosario Called for Tomorrow; May Spread Thruout Argentina

STRIKE CALLED BY PERU STREET CAR EMPLOYES

Protest Dismissal of Union Secretary

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 19.—All trolley workers in Lima and Callao will walk out on strike this week as a protest against the dismissal of the secretary of the Tramwaymen's Federation by the Lima Power and Electric Company, in which United States capitalists hold large interests.

The strike was called by the Tramwaymen's Federation, the union of the trolley workers, when the secretary was dismissed by the company.

The union is determined to remain on strike until the secretary is permitted to return to work.

As this strike occurs the senate is considering the legislation, already passed by the chamber of deputies, which provides punishment for all anti-government and radical labor activities.

ar County.

Muselin and Resetar were found guilty by a Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation judge on a charge of violation of the infamous Flynn Anti-Sedition Act of Pennsylvania, and were sentenced to five years in the workhouse and a fine of $500 each. The Steel Corporation and the American Legion actively participated in the prosecution, fearing the popularity these two workers enjoyed among the steel workers of Woodlawn, Pa. The case is now in the hands of the supreme court of Pennsylvania and is expected to come up for hearing on Sept. 24.

The Labor Party of Pennsylvania endorsed the national ticket of the Workers (Communist) Party at its state nominating convention in Philadelphia. The Workers (Communist) Party is supporting the Labor Party state ticket with the exception of the senatorial candidate, a reactionary labor faker. William F. White is the Communist candidate for U. S. senator.

NANKING TROOPS ARE STILL HUGE

Facts Show Disbandment Fake Move

HANGCHOW, China, Sept. 18.—While the Nanking government is loudly parading the disbandment of thousands of "surplus troops" it has gathered under its banner, the facts indicate that much of this sort of news is mere propaganda to convince the rest of the world that the Kuomintang militarists have shed their claws and cut their fangs and became perfectly respectable self-sacrificing idealists for the common good. Events here and there unfortunately indicate the contrary. Thus 180 "disbanded" soldiers of the First Army Corps on their arrival here were at once incorporated into the local Peace Preservation Corps. A case of "paying Peter by robbing Paul."

The fact is that the only soldiers of any of the armies that may be disbanded will be those whom their commanders consider unreliable in loyalty to those commanders themselves or who may be considered to be in excess of the commanders' need and ability to feed or, moreover, who are inclined to join up the rebelling peasants. Not one of the rival generals is willing to reduce his forces to the point where his chances for survival are endangered.

An illustration of the method of "disbandment" resorted to in such circumstances is reported from the south. Troops of two Kwantung government divisions fought a pitched battle against another division of troops under the same provincial control in an effort to disarm the latter after a request to disarm had been refused. Another illustration comes recently from the north where several thousand troops stationed in Shantung had been ordered disarmed. Dissatisfied with the meagre discharge allowance given them they revolted.

TRY TO APPEASE U. S. OBJECTIONS

Ask for Secret Arms Conference

GENEVA, Sept. 19.—A secret conference of the five leading naval powers, including the United States, to straighten out all difficulties presented by the Franco-British naval pact in preparation of the Geneva "disarmament" conference, was proposed to the League of Nations by Dr. J. Loudon, president of the "disarmament" commission.

Lord Cushendun, acting foreign minister of England, and the French representative declared themselves as entirely surprised by the suggestion and asked time to confer with their governments.

Loudon declared that the purpose of the conference would be to induce other powers, notably the United States which has declared itself opposed to the principle of the naval pact, to meet British and French representatives in an attempt to arrive at some sort of a compromise.

OHIO POLITICIANS AIM TO BAR COMMUNISTS

(Communist) Party of Kansas, E. B. Eastwood, secretary of the International Labor Defense, Kansas City, and six other workers on charges of violating the criminal syndicalism law of the State of Kansas, has been put over until Monday, Sept. 24. A preliminary hearing was held on September 10 and 11.

The vicious state criminal syndicalism law is being used by the open-shoppers and big business interests to smash labor organizations and specifically to outlaw the Workers (Communist) Party and to wreck the International Labor Defense, which is defending the arrested workers.

Arrested For "Cause."

Oehler, Eastwood and others were arrested on August 21 while holding a meeting before the packing house plant of Armour's, during the noon hour. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Workers (Communist) Party with Cushing and Oehler participating. The police officers early in the meeting seized the literature consisting of the platform of the Workers Party and applications for membership. The second arrests, at which Oehler spoke and in which the other defendents participated, was a Sacco-Vanzetti meeting under the auspices of the International Labor Defense. Among the literature seized were copies of Max Shachtman's and Eugene Lyons' books on Sacco and Vanzetti, copies of the Labor Defender and a book of Sacco-Vanzetti cartoons. The state is relying upon this literature together with Oehler's speech as evidence of a violation of the syndicalism law.

Campaign to Repeal Law.

A campaign for the repeal of the Kansas law has been initiated by the International Labor Defense.

"A state-wide conference," stated Martin Abern, assistant national secretary of the I. L. D., 80 11th Street, New York, today, "has been called for Sunday, October 14, 2 p. m. at Stanley Hall, 6th and Central, Kansas City, Kansas.

A protest mass meeting was held under the auspices of the International Labor Defense on Thursday, Sept. 20, at Kansas City, Kansas with Stanley J. Clark well-known orator and others speaking.

A resolution was adopted at this meeting and is also being presented to organizations throughout the state which pledges the workers to a fight for the defense of the new victims of capitalist class justice and to a fight for the appeal of the syndicalist law.

Finnish workers' clubs of Brooklyn and Harlem are also co-operating, determined that the Finns shall not lag behind other nationalities in this great international undertaking.

Many working class organizations have, however, not yet started work and this fact is pointed out by the National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee, 30 Union Sq., which stresses the necessity of complete co-operation if the bazaar which will give new life and new power to the two fighting proletarian dailies is to be a success.

Square was torn down and broke a window in the editorial office of the Daily Worker on the fourth floor.

Thousands of workers were caught in the storm, particularly at the noon hour and after work, and found difficulty in keeping their balance. Hats were blown off and umbrellas collapsed under the impact of the wind. The storm reached its greatest fury at night, lashing every part of the city at the rate of from 70 to 80 miles an hour.

A spectacular episode in the storm was the struggle of about 20 firemen to fasten a scaffold that was swinging unsteadily on the 37th floor of the 45-story Transportation Building at Broadway and Barclay St., next to the Woolworth Tower Three firemen risked their lives when they crawled out on the scaffold to steady it while their fellow-workers pulled it in thru the window.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 19.—Thousands of hurricane victims are still struggling for food and shelter. There is danger of a serious situation among the starving inhabitants if relief is not speeded.

Travellers returning from the interior region told today of women and children kneeling by the roadsides, their hands extended in prayer for food.

Suffering is terrible in the devastated settlements where relief workers have not been able to operate. Disease threatens to cause further loss of life and the injured are in dire need of medical attention.

Food riots are reported to have broken out in various parts of Porto Rico and 2,000 members of the National Guard, called out by Governor Horace Towner, are terrorizing starving workers and farmers on the pretext of maintaining order.

REPORT REVOLT IN VENEZUELA GROWS STEADILY

2,000 Soldiers Join the Rebel Army

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia, Sept. 19.—Counter to the official communiques given out by the dictator Gomez of Venizuela, the government forces have been unable to suppress the revolt, in which troops and the population are involved, according to the reports of those who have participated in the revolt and who are seeking asylum here.

Newspapers here publish interviews with Venezuelans who have fled their country to avoid arrest, which indicates that a large portion of the troops have joined the revolt. The reports say that General Marcelino Torres and General Garcia, who are alleged to be the leaders, are still holding out with 500 armed men.

In the state of Carabobo 800 men are reported to be continuing the revolt under the command of Captain Chirino; and 400 under the command of Colonel Ignacio Sanchez in the state of Curumana, and another group in Panaquibo.

Due to the strict censorship exerted by Gomez over all news from Venezuela, it has been impossible to get direct news of the revolt.

Some time ago it was reported that Gomez had prepared a ship for flight if necessary, but this report was followed by an official notice from the Venezuela government that the revolt had been suppressed.

ZAGREB WORKERS ROUTE COSSACKS

Burn Imperial Czar's Banner

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—The Russian imperial flag was burnt and a troop of mounted Russian cossacks, attached to a circus visiting the city of Zagreb, Jugoslavia, were attacked by workers, a dispatch from that city said.

When the circus, managed and manned by counter-revolutionary emigres, camped in Zagreb, which is much aroused over the severe and brutal methods used by the police to suppress Communists and Croatian autonomists, the militant workers, angered at the reminder of czarist oppression, attacked the cossacks, wounding three, and burnt the flag.

ARGENTINA OPPOSES HIGH U. S. TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Relations between the United States and Argentina are strained by a proposal to increase the American import tariff on maize. Exclusion of Argentine grains and meat products from the United States market, by high tariffs and "sanitary" regulations, has been a source of constant friction between the two countries, and has even led to ar agitation in Argentina for reprisals in the form of boycott against American goods.

American farmers organizations are demanding an increase in the maize tariff from fifteen to twenty-two and a half cents per bushel. The Argentine government has protested the proposed increase, pointing out that ninety-five per cent of the import of maize in the United States come from Argentina.

In an official communication, the Argentine government says that it looks upon the proposed increase "with deep concern . . . not because of its possible effect on our trade with the United States, but rather because of the principles involved and the fact that if such a measure were adopted it would add to many others which unhappily in recent times have been hampering the importation of our products in this market."

The republican administration desires to make a gesture of relief to the American farmers by increasing the duty on maize. At the same time, it is reluctant further to antagonize Argentina, where American trade has already suffered because of resentment against such discriminations in addition to the general anti-American sentiment induced by Nicaragua events. Moreover, Argentina threatens to spoil the beautiful unanimity of Kellogg's so-called "peace" treaty by refusing to adhere to that document on the ground that it indirectly establishes the Monroe Doctrine as giving the United States special interest and rights in Latin America, a doctrine which Argentina has publicly repudiated.

Foreign diplomatic circles are watching the Argentine protest against the maize tariff with sympathy because of the general opposition in other countries against the American "protective tariff."

AUSTRALIA GOV'T TO BREAK STRIKE

Shipowners Use Scabs Against Dockworkers

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 19. — Australian ship-owners today decided to employ scabs to break the dock-workers strike which has spread to all the leading ports.

This action followed the declaration of the court of arbitration that the strike was illegal, because the workers had refused to comply with the board's decision, providing for a wage cut.

It is likely that the government will cooperate with the shipowners, since by the new labor legislation all labor disputes must be settled in the court of arbitration and any decision from its ruling is construed as illegal.

The Federation of Dock Workers called the strike when the court of arbitration ruled against them and allowed the wage cut to remain.

5 UNIONS JOIN WALK-OUT WHEN CALL IS ISSUED

All Industries Will Be Tied Up

ROSARIO, Argentina, Sept. 19.—All tools will be laid down, all public services will be suspended, and all business activities will come to a standstill when workers here will walk out on strike tomorrow, answering a call for a general strike issued by the Federation of Trade Unions.

Today five additional unions joined the strike of a number of other unions as a protest against prevailing wages and working conditions here.

The port workers, who had succeeded in completely tying up the port of Rosario, the second largest port in Argentina, as a protest against the employment of non-union workers, will also join the general strike tomorrow, it is reported.

The warehouse workers, who had formed themselves into a union yesterday, are asking for a 30 per cent increase in wages and if the demands are rejected they will join the general strike.

Government officials are greatly alarmed and the firm directors almost panic-stricken, since the strike threatens to spread to Buenos Ayres, the largest port in the Argentine, which would practically mean a national general strike, which had been brewing for the last three months.

Thousands of tons of grain of the summer and fall harvests await shipment and will have to remain on the docks.

Wallach Brothers Steals Wages of Workers, Worker Correspondent Says

AMALGAMATED FAKERS WON'T UNIONIZE FIRM

Company Robs Men of Afternoon's Wages

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Hart, Schaffner and Marx, clothing manufacturers of Chicago, said to be one of the first concerns to accept unionization of its shops, which were organized by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, recently opened up retail clothing stores in many cities, under different names, in which the alteration shops are not organized.

Wallach Brothers, chain clothing stores in New York, is owned by Hart, Schaffner and Marx. The alterations from nine stores are gathered in at No. 114 E. 22nd St., where normally seventy-five tailors are employed who work fifty-two hours a week and receive twenty-seven dollars a week wages.

Wallach Brothers' (i.e. Hart, Schaffner and Marx) manager and the foremen are so insolent to the tailors that many times they did not pay for whole afternoons merely because some of the workers, upon returning from their noon lunch period, neglected to register the time on their time-cards, although their cards were properly recorded upon at quitting time which showed that they had been in the shop; moreover, the foremen knew of their urgence. I have known four cases in which the company stole the afternoon's wages, particularly those of a poor woman who was told not to complain about or she would be "fired."

Just how a unionized concern can operate an open shop, paying the lowest possible wages in the city is a question to be asked from the officialdom of the Amalgamated who know quite well that Wallach Brothers is none other than the Hart, Schaffner and Marx Company. Why have they not attempted to organize this alteration shop? In fact, some of the workers of this shop appealed to the Amalgamated quite a few times for organization, but the Amalgamated flatly refused to take steps to do so.

Is this a concession to Hart, Schaffner and Marx by the Amalgamated? We are inclined to believe that it is so.

—JOHN LUCAS.

FRANCE, BRITAIN HIDE NAVY PACT

Cushendun Would Put Up Arms Conference

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—The opposition of the United States government to the Franco-British alliance implied in the naval pact and to the attempts of the allied powers to cancel war debts owed to the United States is taken on authoritive sources here to be the cause of Lord Cushendun's strong demands that the preparatory disarmament commission meeting be postponed until some form of naval agreement with the United States be attained.

At the meeting which considered the calling of the disarmament commission Cushendun insisted that the meeting be held in February or March instead of November, as urged by the German government. The French and British governments also are united in their refusal to publish the Franco-Brtiish naval pact.

Observers here believe that the disarmament commission would be a complete fiasco, even as far as satisfactory agreements between the European and United States governments are concerned, unless Washington can be induced to grant some sort of a compromise, or other agreements can be entered into which would pacify the American government's naval ambitions and in some way counter-act the implied threat in the Franco-British naval pact.

URUGUAY ELECTIONS MAY BRING DICTATOR

The precarious majority of the "Colorados" (the union of all liberal factions) in the Uruguayan Chamber of Deputies may give way in the coming congressional elections to a majority of the "Blancos" (the conservatives) and a virtual dictatorship.

The liberals have been in power for the last fifty years, but having split in several factions, the conservatives, whose official name is "Partido Nacionalista," first succeeded in winning a majority in the "National Administrative Council" which shares the executive power with the president, and later secured an absolute majority of the senate and several posts in the cabinet. Thus, while the President Campistegui is a "Colorado," the ministry is coalition comprising members of all liberal factions and the conservatives.

The "Batllista" Colorados is the strongest and most advanced wing of the liberals. They are anti-clerical and reformist. The other Colorado factions, the "Vieristas" (from their leader Viera) whose party name is "Radicales Colorados" (Red Radicals) and the "Colorados Riveristas" (from their leader Rivera) represent the right wing of the liberals, the former the bureaucracy, and the latter the landowners and the rural business people.

Communists Hold Balance.

In the Chamber of Deputies the two conservative factions, (the "Partido Nacionalista" and the "Radicales Nacionalistas") have 59 deputies, and the three liberal factions have 61 deputies, 50 Batllistas, 8 Riveristas and 3 Vieristas. There is in addition one Catholic deputy which increases the number of conservatives to 60. Thus the two Communists often held the balance of power.

President Campistegui belongs to the Riverista (the conservative) wing of the Colorados. The Riverista and Vierista factions of the liberal coalition have demanded that all important political posts should be divided equally among the three factions; although the third faction, the Batllistas, greatly outnumber the other two. The Batllistas refused this demand. Thereupon the two minority factions decided to break away from the coalition and to oppose their own candidates against the Ballistas. This would seem to assure a victory to the conservatives (Blancos) who will have to compromise with the dissident "Colorados" to keep their support in parliament.

Dictatorship Looms.

President Campistegui is preparing to put down any opposition and it is announced that he is "substituting almost all chiefs of police and of the army units by elements of his entire confidence,' that is by Riverista or conservative heads of the armed forces.

Thus a period of reaction or even a dictatorship may be inaugurated shortly in the hitherto most liberal of all South American countries.

Uruguay received several loans in the last two years from New York bankers and in every Latin American country where the American bankers have large interests and a considerable measure of control, dictatorships are replacing constitutional rule, as has happened in Chile, Cuba, Peru, Bolivia.

POLICE ARREST YOUNG WORKER

Try to Intimidate Her at Station House

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Tillie Lurye, 17, a member of the Young Workers (Communist) League, was arrested last night at a meeting held at 7th St. and Ave. B. Two fat protectors of the peace, hearing the young girl speak, got out of their auto, and one of them approached her and listened a few minutes. The speaker, in the hope of educating the big policeman, began quoting constitutional rights, and gave an instance of a policeman addressing a Communist speaker and telling him "get off the platform or I'll kick you off." The listening officer, taking the remarks personally, came up, pulled at the girl's skirt impatiently, and roughly told her, "Get off or I'll kick you off."

Later, in the car on the way to the 5th St. station, he tried to convert her by saying that she was a "disgrace to America." At the station house Tillie was severely lectured and told by the judge that if she spoke again she would land behind the bars.

At last Saturday's meeting at Clinton Street, Tillie Lurye collected an audience of one thousand by her fiery speaking, and she expects to do the same next week in spite of the judge's ultimatum. The police inadvertantly did us a favor, for they doubled the size of the crowd, and gave us several more sympathizers.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18. — Hundreds of militant workers of this city and vicinity are expected to attend the "Three Bargain Days" which the Cloakmakers and Furriers Relief Conference is preparing for them.

The bazaar which will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28, 29 and 30, is expected to be the biggest event of the season and will be held at the Co-operative Center, 2706 Brooklyn Avenue Los Angeles, Cal.

The entire proceeds will be turned over to the Joint Defense for Relief of the Cloakmakers and Furriers.

GENEVA, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Italy has signed the League of Nations opium convention, which becomes effective next week.

LABOR TEMPLE BARS SPEAKER

Close Doors in Face of Anita Whitney

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (By Mail). —Anita Whitney, criminal syndicalism victim and Communist candidate for the senatorial shoes of Hiram Johnson, ex-Bull-Moose "progressive," was scheduled to speak in the labor Temple in the evening following the misnamed Labor Day, or on Sept. 4th. But on the advice of a "socialist" the management of the place changed its mind and closed the doors of the temple in the face of a real representative of workers and poor farmers of this city, state and nation, a reliable report stated.

"Red" Squad Present.

A last hour re-arrangement from that advertised in the Daily Worker was made and the lecture was given at the Walker Theatre Building, 730 South Grand Ave., on the same day and at the same hour as proviously announced in our daily. The affair was characterized as a successful one in every respect and a collection of about $630 was taken up in cash and pledges.

The "Red" Squad, absent at Labor Day and "Labor Sunday" meetings under the auspices of the A. F. of L. at which a prosecutor, a preacher and patriotic patriots of the American Legion played "friends of labor," was present, and paid its respects to the "Oakland Firebrand" (the expression of a reactionary penny morning sheet) but no arrests were made this time. Why? Probably, to prevent, as much as possible, the message of Communism in general and the program of the Workers (Communist) Party in particular from reaching the eyes and ears of the exploited workers of this city, county and state. "The arrest of 'reds' means propaganda for the cause" the labor baiters argue—sometimes.

Persecution and Prosecution.

Detective-Lieutenant William Hynes, chief of the "red" squad and the darling of the labor-hating (bitter) Better American Federation, has been very active during the last few months,. intimidating, jailing and prosecuting members of the Anti-Imperialist League, strikers and comrades working in the interests of struggling miners.

On May 1st, Hynes prevented the council of the foreign-born workers from holding their meetings at the public library. The management of that master class institution, which refused to renew its subscription to the Daily Worker last year, was told that some of the members of said council were "reds."

So you see, that the boss class, the A. F. of L. officialdom, the police and the socialists are all working hand in hand against the Communists—the only read representative of the working class today.

WORKERS SCORE BETRAYAL AT 13 HAMBURG MEETS

League Member Tells of Demonstration

(By a Worker Correspondent)

HAMBURG, Germany, (By Mail) —I arrived in Hamburg, Germany, August 25th, and I am very glad to tell you that I was fortunate enough to witness and participate in a demonstration arranged by the Hamburg district of the Communist Party and their brothers, the Young Communist League. This demonstration was to protest against the "socialist" German government's battleship ratification. One of the battleships is being built already. It will be called the Panzer Kreutzer A.

Our German comrades held 13 demonstrations in as many parts of the city. These demonstrations were not held in a square as are ours in the United States. Our German comrades marched through the streets and covered a large territory which belongs to their section.

I participated in a section where most of the comrades are seamen, longshoremen or are in some way connected with marine activity. These comrades are called Rote Marine (Red Marines) and were dressed in uniform. Other comrades were also in uniform. They were the Rote Front Kaemfer (Red Front Fighters). Both belong to a military organization called the Rote Front Bunde.

The women were in uniform and had a band on their arms. They are Red nurses and when the proletarian revolution will come in Germany they will give medical aid to the Red Army and the Red Fleet. These Red nurses are members of an organization known as Arbeiter Samaritan Bunde.

We had a workers' band, workers with red flags and a small truck wih a sign jeering at the social-democratic party. The S. D. P. of Germany is proud of the battleships which are now being built.

After the comrades marched through the streets and covered their territory, we stopped at a certain corner and held a meeting. We had speakers on both sides of the street. After the speakers concluded, our comrades demonstrated back to headquarters of the seamen's section of the party. (International Seamen's Club).

This demonstration shows that the police are helpless and afraid when the Communists hold demonstrations in Germany because the Communist movement in Germany is a big power. Street cars, automobiles, motorcycles, bicycles were held up for about eight minutes every time we passed a street intersection, but the police were afraid to interfere.

I hope that our movement in the United States will become a power as in Germany; I hope, too, for a Workers' and Farmers' government the world over. Long live the struggle for Communism!

Cohan Season Opens Monday With "Elmer the Great"

GEORGE M. COHAN begins his New York season next Monday. To make things interesting, he is bringing no less than three shows to town, three days apart. All three have had more than the customary short road tryouts.

"Elmer the Great," Ring Lardner's egostical ball player with Walter Huston starred, relights the Lyceum Monday. Nan Sunderland, Katharine Francis, Edith Luckett, Harold Healy and Thomas V. Gillen are in the cast. This comedy has been playing in Chicago for fifteen weeks.

"By Request," by the Nugents with Elliott featured, steps into the Hudson on Thursday, September 27. It also has been in Chicago. J. C. Nugent, Norma Lee, Eleanor Winslow Williams, Veree Teasdale, Harry McNaughton, Grant Mills and Charles Halton are the other players.

"Billie," in which Polly Walker is starred, deserts Philadelphia this Saturday, plays Newark for a week, and on Monday, October 1 will find its way into the Erlanger Theatre. Robinson Newbold, Val and Ernie Stanton, Joseph Wagstaff, Ina Hayward, Marjorie Lane and Charles Sabin are on the roster of the new musical show.

GEORGE M. COHAN.

Who will bring his two new productions to town next week, "Elmer the Great," on Monday at the Lyceum and "By Request," on Thursday at the Hudson.

Woods Will Open With "Jealousy" and "Fast Life" Next Week

A. H. Woods will inaugurate his production season by bringing two new attractions into New York next week. The first of these will be "Jealousy," starring Fay Bainter, and featuring Guthrie McClintic, at the Eltinge Theatre Tuesday evening. "Jealousy" is by Eugene Walter, who based his play on the French of Louis Verneuil.

On Wednesday, Woods will present "Fast Life" at the Ambassador Theatre, with Chester Morris and Claudette Colbert featured, and the large cast also includes William Morris and Crane Wilbur. This is the latest melodramatic work of Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer.

Another Woods production "The Trial of Mary Dugan," now playing its final two weeks at the Century Theatre will go on tour. Mrs. Leslie Carter in "The Shanghai Gesture" is another production to go on tour. The new Florence Reed show "The Legacy" is also on its way here.

4,500 German Textile Workers Locked Out

BERLIN (By Mail).—Negotiations between the mill-owners and the employees in the Duren textile industry having broken down, the employers locked out their workers yesterday.

Four thousand five hundred male and female workers are affected, and a prolonged struggle is feared.

The mill-owners refuse to consider any increase whatever in the present tariff, as they claim conditions in the industry are too bad.

The workers are demanding increases up to 15 per cent.

DELAY FASCIST FLIGHT.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Sept. 19 (U.P.).—The transatlantic flight of the sesquiplane Roma was again postponed today because a strong cross wind made a take-off hazardous, Captain Cesare Sabelli, commander and pilot, announced. An attempt to start will be made between 10 a. m. and 11 a. m. tomorrow.

The Tammany fascists parading under the emblem of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, after turning tail from Astoria, where the Workers (Communist) Party now holds large weekly election meetings, are concentrating their attacks in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, where they are attempting the same strong arm methods to break up Communist open air meetings.

At the corner of 50th St. and 5th Ave., in Brooklyn, the fascists drove up in a large truck marked "V. F. W." as the Communist meeting was being adjourned by Mania Reiss, and attempted to break up the meeting prematurely. Despite their attempts the meeting had a normal finish. Mania Reiss, seeing the crowd of veterans advancing upon the platform, told of the intrepidity of 30 Astoria fascists in beating up four Workers Party speakers.

A worker standing in back of the Communist platform overheard the patrioteers plotting a rush on the platform, and when one of their number commented on the size and evident sympathy of the crowd of workers with the speakers, another one said, "Well, aren't we getting paid for it?"

The Tammany affiliation of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was evidenced by their shouting for Al Smith, the candidate of Tammany.

That the fascists, after being whipped by the Communists in Astoria, are trying their luck in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, is seen by the Communist election campaigners as evidence of their determination to try to break up Bay Ridge Communist meetings in the future. Just as, after the Astoria meeting at which the Communist speakers were beaten up large crowds of workers mobilized to resist further fascist attacks, so will the workers mobilize in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn next Friday evening. Many workers whose anger was aroused over the Astoria affair and who participated in the huge meeting there, will travel to Bay Ridge on Friday. The meeting is scheduled to open at 8 o'clock.

Young Workers of New England Launch $5,000 'Build the League' Fund

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The Young Workers League of New England is working energetically to raise $5,000 to build its units and further organization of the young workers.

The Young Workers (Communist) League of District 1 appeals to all sympathetic organizations and individuals to help us raise the money.

Some achievements have already been recorded in the work of collecting funds. They are:

The fall festivals of the Finnish Workers' Club on August 31, $52.05; Camp Nitgedaiget (Labor Day), $13.60; Roxbury, Sept. 13 (house to house collections), $7.80; Boston, $23.35; contributions from individuals, $6.

You're in the fight when you write for The DAILY WORKER.

They Have Good Reasons for Boosting Radios

SEEK NEW GOAT IN I. R. T. WRECK

District Attorney Puts Blame on Worker

Evidence taken yesterday at the hearing into the responsibility for the recent Times Square subway disaster again revealed the fact that the blame will finally be fastened upon some rank and file worker rather than upon higher officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. The failure of these officials to repair equipment and maintain the railroad in a condition of safety has been shown as the most likely cause of this as well as of other wrecks. As usual these officials are expected to escape all censure.

After yesterday's session in the hearing being conducted by first assistant district attorney Ferdinand Pecora it was admitted by Gilbert C. Whitney, transit commission signal engineer, that William S. Baldwin, an I. R. T. signalman upon whom the company at first sought to fasten the blame, could not have turned the switch which caused the accident.

After Whitney was forced to admit this fact, Pecora recalled to the witness stand Harry King, a young train clerk who was in the tower at the time, and sought by his questioning of King to convey the impression that either King or another worker present in the tower at the time pressed a button which threw the switch.

Grocery and Butchers' Unions Will Hold Food Workers' Election Rally

Members of the Grocery, Fruit and Dairy Clerks and of the Hebrew Butchers' Unions, who have bitterly fought the reactionary policies of the Socialist-controlled United Hebrew Trades Council, are mobilizing for the Food Workers' Election Rally to be held Friday night, Sept. 21, 8 p. m., at the Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East 4th Street.

The mass meeting is called by the Food Workers' Section of the Trade Union Educational League, so that all food workers may hear the issues of the presidential campaign expounded by the only workingclass party in the country, the Workers (Communist) Party. Among the speakers will be John J. Ballam, acting district organizer for the Workers' Party, New York, and prominent food trades unionists including Philip Kleinberg, Local 500, Bakery and Confectionary Workers; Edward Schwartz, organizer, Grocery, Fruit and Dairy Clerks' Union; Sam Kramberg, executive board, Hotel and Restaurant Workers' International Alliance, A. F. of L.; E. Werner of the new Progressive Butcher and Chicken Workers' Union; and Gertrude Welsh, Local 1, Waiters and Waitresses.

In an interview last night, Schwartz of the Grocery Clerks Union stated that when the polling places open on election day the progressive food workers will be ready to cast their votes for the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party.

RANK AND FILE MILLINERS HOLD PROTEST RALLY

Demand End of Right Wing Terror

Rank and file members of the Millinery Local 24 yesterday crowded Bryant Hall in a protest meeting against the reactionary policies of their union officialdom, and condemned unanimously in a resolution the bureaucrats' provocation of a bloody attack on the membership at the last union meeting, because the militants there demanded the immediate passage of measures for unemployment relief.

Workers beaten up at the last membership meeting rose to speak from the rostrum and tell how their demands for an unemployment relief fund for the ever growing circle of jobless millinery workers was answered by the officials with an attack on those leading the fight from the floor of the meeting. Morris Fein, Milton Weich, Victor Chibulsky, M. Eitzer and Eva Schaffran spoke at the meeting.

Attack Misleaders.

The last to speak before passage of the resolution was H. Zukowsky leader of the left wing workers in the union. After pointing out that the last three years in the industry were the most prosperous in the trade, and therefore a time when better conditions can be fought for and easily won, Zukowsky declared that the leadership of the union had not only not won any improvements in working standards but had allowed the trade to develop the contracting system and other evils which were ruining the industry and causing severe unemployment.

In proof of this contention he offered the fact that the workers won with comparative ease the concession of shorter hours after their officials were ready to give up these demands. Zaritsky, president of the International, has always been and still is openly propagating the return to the 44-hour week and the piece-work system, he stated.

Textile Delegates to Attend Huge Picnic of the T. U. E. L. in Body

One of the outstanding indications of the role played by the Trade Union Educational League in the struggles of militant workers against exploitation by the bosses and against the reactionary policies of labor-betraying unions will be the attendance in a body of the textile workers who are forming a new union at the annual Trade Union Educational League workers' festival. The festival will be held this Saturday, Sept. 22, at Ulmer Park, Brooklyn.

The revolt of the textile workers against the class collaboration policies of the United Textile Workers is largely due to the left wing policies advocated by the T. U. E. L., which has taken an open stand against the bureaucrats in all right wing unions.

The festival this year is expected to outdo all previous workers' picnics, both in the matter of entertainment and enthusiasm. An excellent program of sports has been arranged, with competitors from the various trades participating. There will also be a poetry reading, with such well-known proletarian poets as Mike Gold, A. B. Magil, Edwin Rolfe, Beatrice Siskind and Adolf Wolff reading.

Coming as it does toward the end of September the festival is expected to draw larger crowds than usually attend open-air affairs.

Every new reader of The DAILY WORKER is a potential soldier in the coming battles of the workers.

D'OLIER DATA GOES TO JURY IN LONG ISLAND

Prosecutor Confuses Clear Case

Evidence gathered in a two weeks' investigation of the death of William D'Olier, president of the Sanitation Corporation, whose body was found Sept. 2 near Maspeth, will be presented to the September grand jury convening in Long Island City today.

District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe sought to give the impression that the case was a most baffling one in spite of the more than usual evidence pointing to the fact that D'Olier had been murdered in order to prevent him from giving testimony against the Queens sewer-graft ring. Newcombe will turn over the evidence to the grand jury in such a way, it appears, that no decision can be made by the jurors.

Meanwhile Newcombe, who has conducted an investigation of the former executive's affairs, was preparing to examine D'Olier's will, which was found among his effects, and its probable effect on the case.

Complete Steps for Electric Light and Power Merger Here

The final step in placing under one executive head the electric light and power service for four principal boroughs of Greater New York has beren completed with the election of Matthew W. Sloan as president and director of the New York and Queens Electric Light and Power Co.

He was elected president of the N. Y. Edison Co., on Aug. 28 and United Electric Light and Power Co., Sept. 4.

TRANSATLANTIC DIRIGIBLE.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 19 (U.P.)—Complete satisfaction with the performance of the new transatlantic dirigible Count Zeppelin, was expressed today by Dr. Hugo Eckner, reviewing yesterday's first trial flight. The great airship rose quickly, managed perfectly, and attained a speed of 69 miles an hour, its commander said.

For the Workers! For the Party of the Class Struggle! Against the Capitalists!

The newest adherents of Wall Street's democratic party circus are those super-sophisticates of the American Mercury, H. L. Mencken and George Jean Nathan. The Mercury editors have achieved eminence and affluence as satirists of the American babbitry. Their chief customers, however, are the smart-alecky sons and daughters of those whom they hold up to scorn. Proclaiming themselves relentless enemies of mediocrities who strut upon the political stage, they have come forth as supporters of the man in the brown derby, the most palpable fraud in political life, the very personification of all the gutter-snipe, ward-heelers of the lumpen-proletariat. The choice of the Menckens, the Nathans, as well as the Heywood Brouns and all the other limpid liberals is the big chief of the sewer grafters, the building inspection shake-down artists, the license swindlers, the corrupt police, the denizens of the "roaring forties," the confidence men, the professional ball players, the race track touts, proprietors of gambling joints, the pickpockets, the second-story men, the comedians, the bootleggers, the gangsters, the soft-shoe and buck-and-wing dancers, the leaders of jazz bands, the ladies of the evening and their business agents.

As the candidate of the democratic party controlled by the House of Morgan, Al Smith, is the connecting link between the parasitic lowest strata and the parasitic upper strata of American society—the figure-head of a combination that is the class enemy of the useful members of society, the workers and farmers.

This man Smith, with his brown derby in one hand, a cane in the other and an elongated cigar tilted at an angle of thirty degrees, presents a picture that ought to furnish a lively topic for the satirists. But what do the editors of the Mercury say about this low buffoon, this court jester of Wall Street? Mr. Nathan states briefly: "My choice is Smith. At least he is no shuffler and no hypocrite."

Let us examine the fate of the main Smith plank of last year. It was the question of prohibition. Smith was the most audible wet in the whole country. Yet, in his campaign, he is careful to avoid anything that might be interpreted as unwillingness on his part to enforce the Volstead Act. In fact, as far as the main plank of his pre-nomination platform is concerned, his campaign has completely collapsed. Perhaps Mr. Nathan may be able to find another name for this sort of evasiveness, but to us it appears as shuffling and hypocrisy of the most transparent type.

Mr. Mencken is more explicit. But his observations are as banal as those of any of the babbits, the dolts and yokels he scores in the "Americana" column of his Mercury. Says Mencken of Al Smith:

> "He is an able man and a very good public official. He has the sort of experience that the presidency needs, and he has the sort of courage and frankness that it needs even more."

After this eulogium, Mencken qualifies his support of the disciple of religious superstition:

> "The objection to Al on account of his faith seems to me to be sound. In every religious man there is a screw loose; he is not to be trusted completely. But we must take what we can get. Al as a catholic is plainly superior to the methodists and baptists who now run the country. The superstitions he cherishes at least have some dignity; they are not merely low-down. If we must choose between being governed by the pope, who is a scholar and a gentleman, and the methodist bishops, who are bounders and ignoramuses, I choose the pope."

A more trivial, inept attempt at political observation would be hard to find. It is identical with the political analysis of the ku klux klan, which claims that the election of Smith means the domination of the nation by the pope of Rome. The difference between the ku kluxers and Mencken is that the kluxers annihilate the strawman they erect, while Mencken embraces it as the best that can be had out of a bad situation, one that forces the avowedly highly cultured, civilized and scholarly Mencken and his crowd to choose between catholic and protestant administrations.

If Mr. Mencken and his followers and admirers would devote even a small portion of their time to investigating politics they would discover that the real power that governs this country, whether the republicans or democrats are in control, has its seat in Wall Street, not in the vatican at Rome or in the house of a methodist bishop. And even though the ku klux klan, the popes and the bishops as well as the politicians and the Mercury editors claim to have divergent beliefs, in reality they all worship, under different names and forms, the same identical god, the one, universal diety that determines the destiny of them all—CAPITAL.

It is not the pope that will dominate the United States government, in case of the election of Smith, but the identical power that dominates the government of Andrew W. Mellon, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover—Wall Street, the citadel of the mightiest imperialism the world has ever seen. And this same power influences the pope and the other political puppets in the vatican with the same decisiveness with which it influences the protestants of the world, as well as the eminences of the American Mercury and the lame-duck columnists of the calibre of Heywood Broun. These gentlemen, who profess to be spokesmen of the "intelligent minority," (to resort to the euphemism with which they flatter their bourgeois prejudices) talk much about the achievements of science. Has it ever occurred to them that there is a science known as political economy? That there is a scientific analysis of politics as a reflex of the economic antagonisms of classes?

If these gentlemen ever heard of Marx, Engels, Lenin and other giants of the revolutionary movement, it was only in the most superficial form. With typical bourgeois flippency and intellectual snobbishness they amuse their masters by devising myths about the labor movement. If they publish a story about labor in their magazine it must be written in the form of the old fashioned yellow back novels containing the exploits of heroes of the wild and wooly west or follow the style of "Old King Brady detective stories," in order to hold the interest of the ladies and gentlemen and scholars who subscribe to the Mercury.

It would be a waste of time to try to convince such people of the scientific accuracy of the Communist criticism of capitalist society, or to talk to them of our program of revolutionary action that will initiate a society wherein ignorance and superstition will be eradicated because the very ground upon which they grow will be destroyed. Such an attempt would only evoke an outbrust of hilarity on their part.

The Menckens, the Nathans, the Brouns and their followers mock everything except the one god they all worship, the god of capitalism—gold. Before that god the pope and Smith, the methodist bishop and Hoover, Mencken and Billy Sunday all grovel in utter abasement as dogs crawl before the master that kicks them.

The New Mine Strike in Illinois.

The strike of 2,000 Illinois miners employed by the notorious Peabody Coal Company against the attempt of the operators and the Lewis-Fishwick machine to enforce a wage-cut emphasises the invincible militancy of the coal diggers. There was a time when the miners would have accepted the decisions of the Lewis machine, but the struggles of the past two years have completely unmasked them as agents of the employers.

Not only did Lewis, Fishwick & Co. wreck the miners union by endeavoring to remain in control of it after they had been repudiated by a referendum vote of the membership, not only did they aid the employers defeat the miners in the strike in Pennsylvania and Ohio, but at this very moment they are trying to force the miners to accept agreements ratifying their betrayal.

The ex-labor faker and discredited stool-pigeon of the Peabody Coal Corporation, Frank Farrington, praises his successor as president of the Illinois miners, Harry Fishwick, and condemns the new National Miners' Union. It is indeed a tribute to the new union to incur the public denunciation of such a rat as Farrington.

It is to be hoped that the other miners who voted overwhelmingly against accepting the wage cut agreement will follow the example of the Peabody miners. It is not enough, however, to strike against such sell-outs. The Illinois miners should affiliate enmasse with the new National Miners' Union in order effectively to conduct a struggle against wage-cuts and for union conditions.

THE DAILY WORKER staff does not get paid frequently which makes it extremely inadvisable for a generous person to visit the editorial rooms. It means a hold-up. But to make up in some degree for the monotonous irregularity of the cashier's visits the management has provided the boys who provide you with snappy headlines and the low-down on things of interest to the proletarian home, with as good a view of Union Square as can be had from any vantage point in the United States.

BEING a "visiting fireman" who drops in occasionally to snap out a few paragraphs, I can enjoy the scenery with joy unalloyed by the thot that it is a substitute for a salary. This vista has one drawback however. It breeds wanderlust. This does not mean to imply that the Daily Worker journalists hanker for more luscious assignments but that a wide open space tempts one to see what is on the other side of it.

THIS train of thot is provoked as much by an attractive advertisement that lies before me as by the scenery, and the fact that my brain is somewhat fagged as a result of sitting up until 3 a. m. listening to a spirited and interesting dialectical discussion on the latest attempt to solve the mystery of why people live, at least some of them. The advertisement I speak of is from the office of World Tourists, Inc., 69 Fifth Avenue, New York City. And it gives many reasons why a solvent proletarian should wish to wander.

WHERE I would like to go, if I had $375, is Soviet Russia. As most of you know the anniversary of the Russian Revolution is approaching and thousands of people from all over the world are flocking to the Red Capital of the Soviet Union to witness the celebration of this greatest event in world history. The Soviet Union is worth visiting any time of the year but to be able to take in an anniversary of the Revolution is compensation for a lifetime of misery.

The Sixth Red World Congress

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

War Danger and Colonial Questions Among Those Taken Up at Communist Meet

Two major features among others characterize the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International that met nearly two full months—July and August—in Moscow. These are:

First:—The unusual number of important questions placed on the agenda of the congress, all of them receiving careful and detailed attention, including the report on the international situation and the tasks of the Comintern by Comrade Bukharin, the program of the Communist International, the imperialist war danger, colonial question, the economic situation in the U. S. S. R. and the situation in the C. P. S. U.

Second:—Increasing representation from the colonial and semi-colonial countries and the vast American Negro population, with China, Indonesia, India and Latin America, as well as the Negro problem in the United States and Africa being continually in the center of the discussions in the congress.

Ten Years.

The Sixth Congress assembled after the triumphant celebration of the glorious tenth anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, and on the eve of the tenth anniversary (March, 1929) of the Comintern itself.

In pointing out that the tasks of the world Communist movement have become extremely complicated, Comrade Bukharin said, in opening the congress, that:

"The decline of capitalism does not follow a straight road. It proceeds along zig-zag lines, through partial improvements of various parts of the capitalist system—through, what we call, partial capitalist stabilization. This created for the Communist movement new and great difficulties. It confronted the Communist International with new problems. It compelled the Communist International as a whole and its parties individually to think and elaborate very intricate tactics of preparation and mobilization of the forces of the working class. It compelled the Communist International to seek in every-day life, on the basis of the development of the contradictions of capitalist stabilization, the means of mobilization of the masses for a new battle, for a new, more sweeping and more destructive blow at capitalism."

Intricate Problems.

The entire discussion of the whole congress was bent toward solving these intricate problems; the task of this congress "of proletarian revolutionaries." Thus the gathering became a "serious review of the general staffs of the various detachments of the International Communist army."

Unanimous on all the vital questions that came before it, the congress also registered unanimity for the declaration that at present the principal danger in the Comintern comes from the right tendency. This danger is kept alive by the period of stabilization, the survival of parliamentarianism, the influence of social-democracy and certain specific peculiarities in trade union activities. This danger, assuming various forms in the different parties, manifested itself in the aspiration to legality at any price, by excessive submission to bourgeois laws, in ignoring the necessity for accentuating the class struggle, in wrong policies toward the social-democracy, insufficient accentuation of the struggle against the "left" social-democracy, in the inadequate internationalization of the parties as was the case in regard to the Chinese revolution, and in trade union activities where general trade union discipline is frequently considered more important than our Party discipline.

Score Trotskyism.

The greatest danger to the Comintern came, some time ago, from the so-called ultra-lefts. These endeavored to set up an international organization. The collapse came with the complete rout of the Opposition in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. It was declared that Trotskyism is a social-democratic tendency. The history of the Lenin Bund has shown that the core of the opposition has migrated to the social-democrats. The dialectics of the relationships between the so-called "ultra-left" and the right could be distinctly seen. After the defeat of the Trotskyist opposition, which represented a bloc of the right and ultra-left, the chief danger is undoubtedly the right wing danger.

The congress showed itself fully aware that the imperialist war danger is growing from month to month. In this connection Comrade Bukharin, in his closing remarks on the tasks of the Comintern, criticized those comrades who "keep internal contradictions in one pocket and external contradictions in another," declaring that this was a reflection of an under-estimation of the war danger. From the objective point of view it is the reflection of the right wing dangers in the Communist International. The principal danger that threatens us is the under-estimation of the war danger. It was pointed out that the various parties do not link up the war danger with other questions in such a way as to subordinate all other tasks to the task of combatting approaching war.

Fight War Danger.

Thus the struggle against the imperialist war held the center of attention at the congress in the discussion, not only on the general report submitted by Comrade Tom Bell (Great Britain), but also on the supplementary reports of Comrades Schneller (Germany), Garlandi (Italy), Lovestone (United States), and Barbe (France).

The Eighth Plenum (May, 1927) of the Comintern, in the midst of the raid on Arcos in Great Britain, the assassination of Voikov in Poland, and the attacks on the Soviet embassies and consulates at Peking and Shanghai, had already thoroughly considered and acted on the war danger. The Sixth Congress, therefore, had behind it a year of struggle against the war danger, and the many valuable experiences resulting therefrom. The congress joined in the international demonstrations against war on the anniversary of the outbreak of the European slaughter, which ended now nearly ten years ago with the armed truce that still suspends the world on another volcano's brink.

Note Changes.

The Theses on the Struggle Against the Imperialist War points out that the changes in the world situation since the Fifth World Congress are characterized by a tremendous intensification of all the contradictions of capitalism, by the great economic and political strengthening of the Soviet Union, by the rapid growth of the national revolutionary movements in the colonies and semi-colonial countries, above all, in China. The Theses deals with this problem under five main headings: (1) The Imminence of Imperialist War; (2) the Attitude of the Proletariat Towards War; (3) the Attitude of the Proletariat Towards the Army; (4) the Attitude of the Proletariat to the Disarmament Question and the Struggle Against Pacificism, and (5) the Defects and Tasks of the Communist Parties.

The Theses declares that a war of imperialism against the Soviet Union is an open counter-revolutionary class war of the bourgeoisie against the proletariat of every country. Its chief aim is the overthrow of the proletarian dictatorship; the basis for the tactics of the proletariat of capitalist countries for the struggle against his war is furnished by the Bolshevik program of struggle against imperialist war: the transformation into the civil war. In this connection considerable attention is given to the fact that the social-democracy is serving more and more brazenly as an active counter-revolutionary preparation for war against the Soviet Union. The proletariat is urged to give the greatest attention to the methods of the social-democracy with which the latter is ideologically preparing the war against the Soviet Union. Some of these methods are: (a) Dissemination of such lies and slanders as "Red Imperialism" and "Red Militarism," "Identity of Fascism and Bolshevism," etc.; (b) the malicious propaganda that the dictatorship of the proletariat is the cause of war or one of the causes of war; (c) the hypocritical attitude that "We are for the support of the Soviets but against the Communists and the Comintern"; (d) propagation of defeatism towards the Soviet government under a "left" mask. The war danger during the last year has given us several examples, especially on the part of the German social-democrats. These examples are no less clearly expressed by the allies of the social-democracy, the Trotskyists, e. g., in their phrases about "Thermidorism," "kulakisation," etc.

Reformist Betrayers.

The so-called left leaders of the social-democracy, who were characterized by the Eighth Plenum as the most dangerous enemies of Communism in the labor movement, have completely confirmed this characterization in recent months, particularly at the Brussels Congress of the Second International.

Considerable attention is given to the national-revolutionary wars of the oppressed colonies and semi-colonies which Lenin predicted in 1916, have changed from a theoretical certainty into a world historical fact in recent years. As examples of such wars are mentioned the war in Morocco against French and Spanish imperialism, uprisings in Syria, wars in Mexico and Nicaragua against American imperialism, and finally the great Chinese northern expedition in 1926-27. Since the national-revolutionary wars will play an important role in the present epoch of the world revolution, the proletariat is called upon to devote the greatest attention to the experiences and lessons of these wars.

In outlining the struggle of the proletariat in capitalist countries against pacifism, it is emphasized that the most important tool of the imperialists in the disarmament farce is social-democracy which spreads among the masses the illusion that genuine disarmament and abolition of war are possible without the overthrow of imperialism.

Colonial Question.

The Theses on the Colonial Question, presented by Comrade Kuusinen, was based on the Theses of the Second Congress written by Lenin. It was much more detailed and reviewed developments up to the present time. The Sixth Congress declares that the "Principles on the National and Colonial Question" adopted at the Second Congress still have full validity, and still serve as a guiding line for the further work of Communist Parties. Since the time of the Second Congress the actual importance of the colonies, however, has vitally increased as crisis factors in the capitalistic world system. All basic questions of the revolutionary movement in the colonies and semi-colonies are immediately bound up with the greatest epoch-making struggle between the capitalist and socialist systems, which are now being fought out on a world scale in the form of the struggle of world imperialism against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, and within each of the various capitalist countries between the existing bourgeois class regime and the Communist movement.

The Theses reviews in detail the essence of imperialist colonial policy, the various types of colonial countries and the position of the peasantry, the question of the bourgeois-democratic revolution in the most important countries, and sets forth the immediate general tasks of the Communists. Most important features of the theses are its declarations on "decolonization" and its analysis of the bourgeois-democratic revolution. The theses declares that all the talk of the imperialists and their lackeys about the "decolonization" policy of the imperialist powers towards their colonies, about the fostering of their "development in liberty," is nothing else than an imperialist lie. It is extremely important that the Communists, in both the imperialist and colonial countries, shall completely unmask this lie.

Communist Program.

The phase of the bourgeois-democratic revolution which is at present involved in countries like India and China, with relatively broadly developed class differentiation, and the Union of South Africa, the Philippines, Algiers and Tunis, and in part of Morocco, where class differentiation is likewise relatively developed, is the phase of transition to the Socialist revolution. The historical meaning of this phase consists precisely in the preparation of the pre-conditions for the proletarian dictatorship of the socialist revolution.

One of the monumental achievements of the congress was the building of the program of the Communist International. This task had been specially referred to the Sixth Congress. The original draft as submitted by Comrades Bukharin and Stalin went through a long period of the most intense and searching discussion, both in the congress itself, as well as in several commissions. The program is not only a summing up of the experiences of the Russian Revolution and the international labor movement, but is a fighting weapon of the world proletariat. It is emphatic testimony to the growing internationalism of world labor under the Marxist-Leninist banner, convincing proof of the fact that the Communist International has fallen heir to the traditions of the First International, while the Second International, with its insuperable national antagonisms continues to give convincing proof of its bankruptcy. The Program testifies to the Leninist Unity of the Comintern, the international fighting party of the world's proletariat. The world program is the best proof that the Comintern is a world party, the collective will of the vanguard of international labor. One of its treasured contributions is the estimation of the new functions of the social democrats. It also refers to the role of the American Federation of Labor in the regime of the dollar imperialism. The Program says:

"The commercially cynical and secular imperialistic form of subjection to the ideological influence of the bourgeoisie is represented by contemporary 'socialist' reformism. Copying their gospel from the tablets of imperialist politics, their model today is the deliberately anti-socialist and openly counter-revolutionary American Federation of Labor. The 'ideological' dictatorship of the American servile trade union bureaucracy, which in its turn is the expression of the 'ideological' dictatorship of the American dollar, has become, through the medium of British reformism and His Majesty's socialists of the British labor party, the most important composite part of the theory and practice of the whole of international social-democracy and the leaders of the Amsterdam international. Moreover, the leaders of the German and Austrian social-democracy embellish these theories with Marxian phraseology and in this way mask their utter betrayal of Marxism."

Thus from the sixth world congress, an epoch-making event in the forward march to victory of the world's working class, there goes forth the appeal of the closing paragraphs of the world program declaring:

"Communists do not think it necessary to conceal their views and intentions. They openly declare that their goal can be achieved only by the violent overthrow of the present social system.

"Let the dominant class tremble before the Communist revolution. The proletariat has nothing to lose but its chains! It has the whole world to gain!

"Workers of all countries, unite!"

FOSTER EXPOSES "LABOR" BUNK IN HOOVER'S SPEECH

Communist Candidate Cites Facts

Unemployment Grows

Indiana to Go on Ballot Soon

PORTLAND, Ore., (By Mail).—In his speech in Portland last night, William Z. Foster, candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party for president, gave the Communists' answer to Hoover's Newark speech on labor. Foster charged willful misrepresentation, stating that Hoover knows very well that the army of unemployed has not been reabsorbed into industry as he claimed.

"There are still at least 4,000,000 workers without jobs, and the process that is creating prosperity for employers results in unemployment, a vicious speed-up system, wage-cuts and the smashing of the trade unions," Foster said.

"In 1927 the factories of the United States produced 26 per cent more than in 1919, with 11 per cent fewer workers. Technological improvement together with speed-up has resulted in the creeping paralysis of unemployment for which neither Hoover nor Smith offers any cure or even relief. In 1919, for instance, according to the 'Annalist' for March, 1926, there were 10,689,000 employed in the big industries; in 1926 this had decreased to 9,850,000.

Opposed Social Legislation.

"Hoover cynically condemns any sort of social legislation to relieve the acute situation."

"He had the audacity to praise the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill in a section where the textile workers have carried on long and bitter struggles for decent wages and working conditions against the textile mill barons who alone bene-

NEW DRESS UNION ORGANIZES PHILA.

Shop Delegates Launch New Organization

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 20—With great confidence and an enthusiasm for the future of unionism among the clothing workers in this notoriously open shop city, the delegates assembled at the conference of shop committees in the dress industry, yesterday officially launched the Waist and Dressmakers' Local of the National Organization Committee for a new Cloak and Dressmakers' Union.

Many Delegates.

Eighty-nine delegates, representing the shop committees in 29 factories, and many individual workers, attending for shops where committees have not as yet been established, participated in the conference and thru their decisive action supplanted the corrupt right wing Sigman local here, with a new, energetic, and honest union, that will organize this overwhelmingly non-union center. Later bouquets of flowers were sent to the conference by the workers in the Philadelphia factories.

Charles S. Zimmerman, one of the leaders of the National Organization Committee, came from New York to speak to the conference and to report the tremendous progress being made by the movement for the new union thruout the nation in all centers of the ladies' garment manufacturing industry.

Unanimous adoption was accorded a resolution condemning as strikebreakers and union wreckers, the clique in control of the right wing local here. The resolution also charged the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union officials with refusing to organize the many sweat shops here, instead of carrying on a campaign of persecution of

No Attempt to Kill Trotsky; Soviet Union Nails New British Lie

MOSCOW, Sept. 20.—Reports published in the London press alleging that attempts had been made to assassinate Leon Trotsky are completely without foundation, it was stated here today.

The Izvestia has never published any statement (as the London press alleges) declaring that an investigating committee has been sent to Turkestan, and the foreign office has issued a statement denying the existence of any such commission.

2,000 HAIL NEW MINERS' UNION

Watt, Toohey Receive Big Ovation

Hailing the formation of the new National Miners' Union in one of the most enthusiastic demonstrations in the recent progress of the New York labor movement, over two thousand workers crowded Central Opera House last night to hear John J. Watt, president and Pat Toohey, secretary-treasurer of the new union, give an account of the events attending the formation of the organization.

"The miners have struck the first blow for freedom," Watt declared. "The needle trades workers, the textile workers, the steel workers—the workers of the world must rise to deliver the blows which will make them free." Watt received an ovation when he came to the platform.

Toohey Gets Hand.

Toohey likewise received a great hand from the New York workers who have watched closely the record of his heroic sacrifices in the great mine struggle, his numerous arrests, imprisonments and sluggings by the mine police. "Nothing can stop the building of a great and militant mine union which will carry on the fight for the organization of the half million coal diggers," Toohey declared.

The stage was decorated with signs of welcome, one of which read: "Hail National Miners' Union!" Throughout the meeting

FRENCH TEXTILE WORKERS STRIKE

Thousands May Follow Idle Operatives

PARIS, Sept. 20.—An enthusiastic general mass meeting of textile workers in Lille, Tuesday evening, called by the revolutionary unions, voted unanimously to begin the strike for improved conditions in Northern France. Nine mills in the Halluin district struck Monday, putting forward similar demands.

As previously reported, the left wing unions here had delivered an ultimatum to the mill owners demanding higher wages for men and women, with the proviso that refusal means a general walk-out by Sept. 23. The strike begins immediately.

Strike action here was taken despite the recent decision of the reformist leaders of the National Textile Workers Federation to sabotage the strike by advising their members to wait till they "study the wage question."

SOVIET CAMPAIGN FOR NEW CAPITAL

No Big Change in Policy

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—One of the results of the new Soviet policy to bid for investment capital is seen in the launching of a campaign through Soviet commercial agencies abroad to attract capital.

The change of attitude toward foreign capital as indicated by the Soviet decree of September 15 is the result of two decisive factors. The first is the growth of Soviet industry under state control; the building of socialism unaided by other countries. The second is the proved ability of the Soviets to meet their financial obligations as was evidenced by the recent deposits in German banks of Russian gold to cover a loan that does not fall due until next month, which tremendously raises the prestige of the Soviets among the international financiers.

The fundamental principles of Soviet concessions will remain, however, unchanged. After a given length of time the industries established with foreign capital will automatically revert to the government and become a part of the socialized industry.

Labor Faker in Racket Graft Skips Detroit

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 20.—Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit Federation of Labor, red baiter and champion labor betrayer, is now dodging a warrant issued for his arrest on charges of extortion.

Martel is charged specifically with having received from Manuel Jacoby, brother of Charles Jacoby, head of a large cleaning establishment, the sum of $500 which the labor misleader forced the firm to pay him. The $500 charge is believed to be but a small part of what Martel and his companion labor fakers have received.

Knowing that the warrant was about to be issued, Martel hurriedly left the state and is now in hiding. His attorney, John F. Simmons, is busy issuing statements

YOUTH MEET HITS FRACTIONALISM

Discuss Colonial Work at 20th Session

(Wireless to the Daily Worker.)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 20.—The problems of the international working youth were taken up by Schueller when he made the report for the Work Program Commission at the twentieth session of the Fifth World Congress of the Young Communist International, which opened under the chairmanship of Gorkic.

Schueller declared that the youth showed great interest in the theory of the Y. C. I., and that they must be encouraged and organized. "The Congress must combine theory with the daily political and economic slogans. The program shows that the working youth are fighting for the world dictatorship of the proletariat. It does more than complement the Communist International."

Program of Work.

The program emphasizes the social character of the revolution and deals effectively with the colonial youth. A chapter is devoted to the

STORM VICTIMS RIOT FOR BREAD

Troops Called Out to Terrorize Negroes

BULLETIN.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 20.—The complete death toll which the Florida hurricane has left in its wake, was today estimated to be between 700 and 800. With the destruction of all sanitary appurtenances, disease continues to spread throughout the stricken area at a terrific pace.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Refugee riots, hunger and threats of disease increased today the horror of the hurricane-stricken region around Lake Okeechobee, Florida, according to reports received here from relief workers in the field.

Rioting by Negro refugees in the devastated town of Pahokee caused officials to ask for troops which are intended to terrorize the starving Negroes.

Another report said that the bodies of 60 Negroes and two white persons had been recovered at Pahokee. Nearly all the homes in the town, on the shore of Okeechobee, were ruined, and debris-blocked roads hampered relief workers in getting foods and supplies to the town.

Fear of epidemics in the Okeechobee region compelled relief workers to dispose of bodies without identification.

The death estimate still was 400 but with a strong probability of its being increased. Some sources have estimated the deaths at from 600 to 800.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 20 (UP).—The menace of fire among fallen trees which have dried out until they are almost like tinder was added to the perils which beset this storm-ravaged island today.

NEW MILL UNION CONVENTION TO MAKE HISTORY

Announce Agenda for Week-end Parley

A highly significant turning point in the long history of the struggles of the nation's textile workers will be reached when the chairman's gavel will open the convention of textile mill committees, mill and union delegates, who assemble tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Irving Plaza Hall here, to launch a new mass national textile workers' organization.

Latest reports indicate that the workers in the textile plants of more than 60 cities will be represented by delegates they have sent to the convention. The United Textile Workers' Union of the A. F. L., decayed with corruption, had a representation from alleged locals in only 42 cities at their recent convention.

Inquiries made as to the probable plan of work to be followed at the two-day convention disclosed the following efficient and businesslike agenda: After several leaders of the militant trade union movement among whom are to be the leaders of the new left wing needle trades unions and of the newly formed National Miners' Union greet the convention, Albert Weisbord, head of the Textile Mills Committee will give an exhaustive report on the work of the T. M. C.

Following this a credential committee will be chosen which will go into immediate session, and will

PHILA. BOSSES BOW TO NEW FURRIERS' UNION

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 20.—An event that will crash into the camp of socialist and A. F. of L. trade union fakerdom here and in the other needle trades centers of the country, took place here today when the left wing Furriers Union accomplished the renewal of the old agreement with their employers' organization. This was effected despite tremendous pressure from the New York fur bosses' association, chiefs of the A. F. of L. and the heads of the right wing International Fur Workers' Union from which the Philadelphia union had broken away.

Despite the tremendous gains made in recent months by the workers in the fur industry in their campaign to drive out of existence their right wing betrayers, most of the past victories can be considered as negligible in comparison to this, inasmuch as this break they have succeeded in making in the hitherto united ranks of the employers. The true importance of the victory can only be estimated when it is considered that the Philadelphia employers' association was compelled, by the unanimous belligerent determination of the workers there, to sign a 3-year contract with an independent left wing union, that has split away from the A. F. of L., and affiliated with the movement to build a left wing national union of fur workers.

SCHIFFRIN CASE IN COURT TODAY

Defense Opens Office, Raises Funds

Two judges in the 161st St. courthouse will today conduct hearings in the case of William Schiffrin, left wing trade unionist, who faces a charge of homicide; two of his comrades, and three right wingers who were part of an armed squad, whose attack on Schiffrin resulted in the death of the right wing leader of the knife-wielders. One hearing takes place in the Homicide Court before Judge Smith, the others appear before the Magistrates Court in the same building.

Workers Agitated.

When Schiffrin was arrested by police, who later admitted in testimony that Schiffrin was valiantly defending his life single-handed against the onslaught of five men attacking him with knives, they at the same time arrested three members of the right wing "squad" and two militant workers who were some distance from Schiffrin, who had his back to a tenement wall.

The local Jewish labor movement is tremendously agitated over this case, with the right wing and all their organs of publicity mobilized to the straining point to send Schiffrin to a long term of imprisonment.

Opposing this frame-up force there stands almost the entire Jewish working class here who are or-

BEATING OF OLD STRIKER ANGERS CITY POPULATION

Workers Pouring Out to Picket Lines

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 20.—More than two thousand textile workers, forming a picket line double the size of yesterday's came out to the Paige Mill early this morning to demonstrate their defiance of the police terror of the past few days. They were again attacked by a patrol of about 100 police, sent out with the express purpose of jailing the leaders of the picketing.

Augusto Pinto, the victim of innumerable arrests and beatings, and one of the best loved strike leaders was today against arrested, as was Jack Rubinstein, Marion Botelho and Germaine Madieros. Pinto, who was arrested yesterday, has just returned from a Maine farm, where he was sent by the union to recuperate from a beating by the police while in jail.

Demonstrate Before Gates.

Today's demonstration, as yesterday's took place before the mill gates. Those arrested were later released on bonds put up by the union, for trial at the November sessions of the court.

The cry, "They've got Pinto," swept as a wave over the tightly packed workers lining the streets, then it surged thru the crowds of hundreds on the sidewalks while the police wagon passed thru.

Pinto as well as the other leaders heading the picket line refused to stop their picketing activities as they were ordered to do by the police.

The anger of the strikers grew as Rubinstein and the others were pulled into the waiting patrol.

At the jail Sergeant McCarthy in passing Rubinstein's cell rasped, "Do you know what they do to your kind down south? They tar and feather you!"

The greatest indignation is now widespread among the city's population because of the viciousness of the police, disclosed particularly in yesterday's attacks in which guns and clubs were employed.

Admits Use of Gun.

After many witnesses had sworn they heard the shooting in yesterday's police attack, Chief of Police McLeod was forced to admit the charge that Sergeant Velho had been compelled to use his revolver in defending himself. He thus reversed the positive denial made by Velho yesterday. Witnesses who came forward with the shooting charge were not only strikers but also members of the right wing Textile Council and even business men.

The police chief then asserted that Velho had fired at 63 year old Frank August in order "to defend himself."

This defense was ridiculed in a statement issued by the Textile Mill Committee which ironically pointed out that the massive Velho needed no revolver to defend himself against the frail old man.

In a counter statement to justify

POSTERS TELL OF BIG BAZAAR

A number of working class centers in New York City have broken out in a rash of green posters. The Workers Center, the Proletcos Cooperative Restaurant and other places now being investigated by special representatives of the Daily Worker are sporting these handsome green posters announcing that 100,000 articles will be sold at half price at the great National Daily Worker Freiheit Bazaar, to be held at Madison Square Garden Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7.

The verdant youthful color of these posters is in thorough keeping with the spirit that will animate the bazaar. The Daily Worker and the Freiheit are young newspapers and the Workers (Communist) Party is a young party. Moreover, revolutionists never grow old. The bazaar of the two great proletarian dailies will therefore be an affair of youth and joy, where old will feel young again.

Meanwhile old and young are working for the bazaar. That is,

THOUSANDS OF WORKERS FLOCK TO HEAR GITLOW

Poor Workers, Farmers Thruout Country Rally to Communist Election Drive

The working class is giving a receptive hearing to the message of the class struggle in this election campaign according to a report sent in to the National Election Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party by Benjamin Gitlow, Communist vice-presidential candidate who is now on the first lap of a nation-wide tour that will bring him from coast to coast, from the far northwest to the southeast, with the program of Communism around which the workers, poor farmers and oppressed Negroes are called upon to rally in the struggle against capitalism and the capitalist government.

Gitlow's report was written after his meeting in St. Louis, Mo. on September 16, where he spoke to over three hundred workers among those present being a large number of Negroes.

Increasing Militancy.

The vice-presidential candidate has spoken in Philadelphia, Ambridge, Pa., Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Youngstown, Lansing, Toledo, Grand Rapids, Michigan, Gary, Terre Haute, Indiana, and St. Louis, Mo.

Everywhere the masses showed that they are in a rebellious mood, against the capitalist system, that the speed-up system in industry is driving them into a more militant attitude towards the employers, that they are increasingly growing wise to the falsity of the claims of the capitalist parties' ability or willingness to bring prosperity to the workers and that they are beginning to realize that only thru struggle on the industrial and political fields under Communist leadership, can they wage a successful fight against the capitalists and the capitalist government.

Hits Mine Misleaders.

Bill Mathewson introduced Comrade Gitlow at the St. Louis meeting. The speaker after stating the aims of the Workers (Communist) Party sailed into the leaders of the United Mine Workers of Illinois,

Padmore, in Tour of Connecticut, Rallies Negro Workers for Red Election Campaign

THREE MEETINGS ATTRACT MASSES OF NEW HAVEN

Expect Great Response to Red Drive

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 20.—The Workers (Communist) Party presidential election campaign is proceeding at full speed in the state of Connecticut. Through the instrumentality of Charles Mitchell, district organizer, and a well-organized campaign committee, all the workers in the various towns have been mobilized to carry on the work. As a result the Party hopes to be placed on the ballot within a few days. This success has added much impetus to the spirit of the workers, who are leaving no stone unturned to see that the Communist program reaches the broad masses of workers in this industrial state.

Open-air Meetings.

One of the principal forms of activity conducted by the campaign committee is holding of open-air meetings in the most thickly populated centers of cities. These meetings have met with much success, and are bringing the Party excellent contacts. The workers who are unorganized and terribly exploited are realizing their true condition more and more and are rallying to the Party's leadership. This is especially so among the Negro workers, who are in the most destitute condition. These workers are engaged in the basic industries of the state, where they are given the hardest tasks for the lowest wages. Their living standards are, therefore, very low; many families are reduced almost to starvation.

Padmore Makes Appeal.

There is a healthy spirit of revolt among the Negroes against the other parties—republicans, democrats and socialists. George Padmore has been touring the state, addressing large audiences of Negro workers who enjoy his message and show their appreciation by expressing their willingness to support the Party in the coming election.

Padmore, after much difficulty, succeeded in obtaining a permit from the mayor of Hartford, a dyed-in-the-wool republican, to address the colored people of that town. Meetings were held for three nights in the Negro section and were well attended. It was the first time that the workers heard a militant tell his message of struggle for their full freedom from the yoke of wage slavery. Night after night the corners were packed for hours by both white and Negro workers, who applauded the speaker as he exposed the role of the capitalist parties and the labor fakers.

FOOD WORKERS MEET TONIGHT

Speakers Will Expose Old Parties

will-win-the-war' Hoover," the league secretary, G. Welsh, said yesterday in pointing out that the Workers (Communist) Party is the only political organization fighting capitalism. "Hoover is the great 'efficiency' expert who helped the scab Ward trust build up its $200,000,000 corporation. Millions in profits for the trusts and wage-cuts and unemployment for workers: that's what republican 'prosperity' means.

"And all New York workers know that Al Smith is equally a candidate of the big bosses. For the bakers, Smith's Tammany Hall government has meant night work, 12 to 14 hours. For the cafeteria, hotel and restaurant workers, speed-up and increased exploitation. For candy and biscuit workers, piece work and miserable pay."

How the socialist party is no different will be pointed out tonight by Sam Kramberg of the executive board of the Amalgamated Food Workers, who declares that socialist food trades unions help the bosses compete with large-scale production by allowing concessions in hours and wages below the union scale and by preventing the unionization of the unorganized.

"It is not necessary for food workers to make a choice between these three anti-labor parties," says John J. Ballam, who will represent the Workers (Communist) Party at tonight's rally. "Workers have their own party, the Workers (Communist) Party, that leads the workers' struggles not only at election time but every day of the year."

Speakers' Conference Tomorrow Afternoon

Rebecca Grecht, election campaign manager of the Workers (Communist) Party in the New York District, will lead the discussion at the next speakers conference to take place tomorrow, 2 p. m. at 26-28 Union Square, 5th Floor. Her subject will be "Trade Union Questions and the Election Campaign."

Leninist Young Communist League of the Soviet Union. The program also shows that the majority of the members of the Young Communist International must be workers.

The program goes on to demonstrate that the treatment of youth is an important task under socialism. "The education of new human beings is impossible under capitalism. This education begins in the Soviet Union. The Communist Youth League is necessary for the youth in the present struggle between the bourgeoisie and the workers. The Communist Party needs preliminary schooling and reserve forces.

Struggle for Communism.

"The social democrats demand longer schooling, we demand juvenile work without exploitation. The social-democratic idea of culture for youth organizations is: No alcohol, no tobacco, bad books—but games, sport and art. Our education is for the struggle for the realization of Communism."

"The program says that the Young Communist International is an independent organization but politically subordinate to the Communist Party. Young workers must reject independent economic organizations where trade unions exist or the trade union work will be neglected. The program deems the combat against reformism to be paramount in the economic struggle. Anti-war work is imperative and the pretended neutral bourgeois military youth organizations must be combatted and proletarian defense organizations must be formed.

"The program states that youth leagues be formed in the colonies. The Latin-American section of the program holds up the Young Communist League of the Soviet Union as an example.

Youth Great Hope.

"The unanimity of the Congress is a good sign for the future Young Communist International. The Congress shows the path to the youth. The youth is the greatest hope of the revolution." (Great Applause.)

In the discussion that followed the following spoke: Kossarev, of the Leninist Youth of the Soviet Union: Helmut, of Germany, in behalf of the Communist Youth of capitalist countries; Fen'inmin, of China, in behalf of the colonies.

Blenkle, of Germany, who reported for the Political Commission, reported that the increase in the unemployment of the youth was a consequence of rationalization. Blenkle condemned the fractional struggle in the American and Polish parties. "The war danger is too imminent," he said, "unity is imperative." The political resolution was passed unanimously.

Billoux, of France proposed the election of a new executive and the revision of the commission.

Rust, of England, proposed the enrollment of Australia, Persia, Palestine, Brazil, Corea and Syria as sections of the Young Communist International and Peoples Revolutionary Youth League Tanatua as sympathizer. The proposition was accepted.

Various comrades leaving the Young Communist League for the Party made farewell speeches, reporting their experiences. Chitarov, in the closing speech, pointed out the importance of the Congress, for it prepares the youth for the coming war. "Civil war is the reply to imperialist war," he said. "Today the enemy may triumph, tomorrow our forces." (Great applause. The "International" was sung.)

POWERS COMBINE AGAINST U. S. S. R.

Franco-British Naval Pact Disclosed

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The rumors concerning the Franco-British naval pact have been fully confirmed in authoriative reports published here which clarify the until now secret alliance of the two powers on all major issues, above all, providing for a common bloc against the Soviet Union and a mutual protection of economic interests abroad.

Imperialist Joint Action.

The pact provides, first, for a joint policy towards the Soviet Union on all points in the international situation. The pact further provides for a common policy in the Balkans in order to weaken the Italian influence there; a compromise on naval armaments which is calculated to provide the most efficient fleets for both powers.

War Alliance.

The pact further provides for full cooperation in the case of war, as was originally reported. There is to be full cooperation in the development of aviation, as is evidenced in the recent plane maneuvers over Paris which were attended by leading British military officers. An agreement on land armaments is also incorporated, which, it is believed, will grant France full freedom in the development of her land forces.

Another provision is said to be the use of the Rhineland evacuation question as a means to induce the United States government to cancel or make an agreement on the war debts. This point is fully confirmed by the recent maneuvers of the British and French diplomats at Geneva.

ganizing defense machinery to prevent the victimization of a fellow-worker.

The William Schiffrin Defense Committee, organized Wednesday evening, announces the calling of a broad conference of all labor organizations for the purpose of spreading the truth of the case among the rest of the workers, and thereby raise funds for his legal defense.

Appeal to Workers.

In its announcement the committee appeals to trade unions, fraternal societies, women's organizations, shop commitees, clubs and any other workers' organizations to send delegates to the conference to be held Sunday afternoon, Sept. 30, in Irving Plaza Hall, Irving Pl. and 15th St.

Committee Manager S. Lipsin substantiates the belief that this case has created a furore of interest, by announcing that contributions are flooding in from many workers and their organizations. The committee has established headquarters in the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square.

Unanimous Meeting Adopts Pact

sociation, all made special trips to threaten and cajole the Philadelphia bosses to refrain from signing a pact with the "Red International," as they termed the Philadelphia unions' affiliations.

Not all the offers of "concessions" to the employers could remove the spectre of empty factories, which the workers there presented by their threatening strike action. The bosses' minds were made up for them when 100 per cent of the workers answered the union call for a 1-hour strike recently. Another factor was responsible; the workers were busily engaged in mobilizing a general strike machinery if the employers were to decide to sever relations with their union and instead tender it to the dual scab union which the A. F. of L. had set up here overnight in the offices of the Sigman cloak union.

The fact that official recognition was granted is in itself a tremendous victory, but when it becomes known that the workers retained the 40 hour week and an additional important concession over last year's agreement, the brilliancy of the victory is easily apparent. The clause referred to is that instead of equal division of work "during slack seasons only," with interpretations of slackness in the hands of a boss agent "impartial chairman," the new agreement provides for division of work from May to March 1, or over ten months a year.

A telegram of congratulation greetings and a warning to fight for the new national union was received here from the New York Joint Board. At a local meeting the workers enthusiastically celebrated their victory last night and even a former right winger made a motion to thank the conference Committee.

Brownsville, Harlem Workers Active in Signature Campaign

The work of the members of the Workers (Communist) Party in Brownsville in the signature drive has been such that not only will the Twenty-third Assembly District be placed on tht ballot, as originally planned, but also the Twenty-second Assembly District. In the Bronx, due to the splendid signature drive carried on by the workers there, leading needle trades workers have been placed prominently before the workers as the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party.

In Harlem, several Red Sunday mobilizations have safely accounted for Communist candidates in the Seventeenth, Eighteenth, and Twenty-first Assembly Districts as well as in the Twentieth Congressional District. Negro members of the party in Harlem, as well as white, obtained hundreds of signatures in Negro Harlem. For the first time in the political history of the Party, an intensive signature drive was carried on in Boro Park, which, due to the nature and size of the territory presented many difficulties.

imaginary letters. Last week it was a letter from some gossipy woman in Syracuse to another gossip in West Virginia that evoked from Smith a denial that he had been drunk in public. This time it is a letter alleged to have been written by the "grand dragon of the realm of Arkansas" to a delegate to the democratic national convention, advising him to vote against Smith because of his affiliation to the Roman Catholic church. Smith tried to prove that he was more of a 100 per cent American than the klan.

Referring to his political record that has been under fire here Smith related with considerable zest a fairy tale about his legislative record and tried to create the impression that he is a friend of labor. He did not, of course, mention his fake unemployment investigation of last winter, nor the rotten conditions of graft and corruption that prevail in the operation of the so-called workmen's compensation law in New York State, nor did he mention the revival of sweat-shop labor that has had a mushroom growth in the past few years since the Tammany administration in combination with the employers in the needle industry and the socialists adopted a union-wrecking campaign in order to bring back the old conditions.

Nor did he refer to his sending troops into Lackawanna, N. Y., in 1919 to try to break the steel strike.

Opposition Grows Menacing.

The general impression left here is that of a childish defense of a rotten record. Smith's speech is said to seal the split that has taken place in the democratic party.

The audience was the usual riff-raff that follows his show and it is not improbable that many of them were imported for the occasion.

enthusiastic outbursts of applause greeted the remarks of the speakers.

"Mother" Bloor, now the best known woman militant in the labor movement, and one of the leading fighters in the new union, acted as chairman of the meeting. Among the other speakers were Martin Abern, assistant secretary of the International Labor Defense; Hyman Koretz, manager of the Organization Department of the Cloakmakers' Joint Board; Harold Williams, secretary of the Negro Committee for Miners' Relief, and Joseph Cohen of the National Children's Committee for Miners' Relief.

Describing the events attending the convention for the formation of the new miners' union just over at Pittsburgh, Toohey gave a vivid picture of the attack by the Lewis gangsters who led a two days' attack on the delegates with the result that scores were injured, some of whom are still in the hospital. "But the attack served only to strengthen the resistance and the determination of the coal diggers," Toohey declared.

In his talk Watt stressed the solidarity of the miners with other militant organizations which are now forming throughout the country. "I am glad that the New York needle trades workers are winning their fight for the maintenance of a fighting rank and file union," he said.

A collection was taken up after an appeal by Mother Bloor, for the relief of the miners and their families which netted $347.55. Many pledges were made. Benjamin Resnick gave $100 towards the collection.

The most colorful features on the program will be the custumed dancing and choruses by Lithuanian and Hungarian workers, accompanied by native music.

Striking textile workers from New Bedford and striking miners from Pennsylvania, will be present as evidence of the appreciation these workers have of the militant trade union policies advocated by the T. U. E. L. The textile workers and miners will be admitted free of charge. Failure to Declare Gin and Women's Apparel Costs Priest $539.58

The Rev. John J. Rongetti, of 409 North Second St., East Newark, N. J., pastor of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church, was yesterday fined $539.58 at the customs house for failure to declare a quantity of women's apparel found in his luggage when he arrived on the motorship Saturnia Monday night, and because 29 bottles of liquor were found in one of his trunks.

Of this sum, $115 was penalties for having the liquor, which included whiskey, brandy, gin, benedictine and wines. The righteous priest indignantly denied any attempt to smuggle goods into the country, maintaining that both the women's apparel and booze had been given to him by friends, and that he did not think they had to be declared for duties.

Later, at the church, his holiness said that he had "never touched spirits" in his life, but that he had intended to use it in his "work as a priest."

KODAK WORKERS ENDORSE WORKER PARTY PROGRAM

Robert Minor to Speak in Rochester

By DONALD BURKE.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Rochester will show a very different attitude toward Robert Minor, candidate for United States senator from New York State on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, when he speaks here tomorrow at the Labor Lyceum, 580 St. Paul Street, than it had the last time he was here several years ago. This will be due to the intensive work that has been done here by the Rochester section of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Rochester workers have not been satisfied merely to devote themselves to routine propaganda, but they have been very active in several large plants located here.

The Eastman Kodak plant is the most important point for attack. Here a shop paper has been distributed for many months. In this paper letters are printed every month showing the eagerness with which the paper is read, and the great desire for a union. Workers are coming to understand that the Communists are the only ones who really want them to organize.

In every issue of the Kodak Worker, issued in the name of the Eastman Kodak Nucleus of the Workers Party, noon-day meetings held each Friday at the Lewistown gate are announced. Speaking at one of these meetings on the subject of the election campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party, I was very impressed by the behavior of the audience.

They gathered many minutes before the meeting was opened, some approaching very directly to the scene of the platform, others drifting up casually as tho they had no particular interest in what was about to happen.

But before the meeting opened, an audience of about two hundred had assembled, and more were coming. By the end of the meeting, timed to allow them to return to work without missing the end of our remarks, over five hundred had gathered.

Minor's audience will be representative of George Eastman's slaves as well as those of the Northeast Electric, Bausch and Lomb, and many other large plants. And among these workers the Rochester section will continue its agitation.

Mussolini Regime of Oppression Strengthened in Face of Workers' Demonstrations

FASCIST GRAND COUNCIL MADE SUPREME BODY

Reign of Terror in Italy to Grow

ROME, Sept. 20.—The formal incorporation of the grand council of the national fascist party, which, under the direction of Mussolini, has always directed the government in the regime, and the declaration of its function as a dictatorial body, was "approved" by the grand council on the "advise" of Mussolini himself.

The new law provides that the grand council shall be the supreme ruling body which shall direct and coordinate all the activities of the government and give advise on all matters pertaining to the governing of the state. Its meetings shall be secret, and none of its members can be arrested or tried without the authorization of the grand council.

In this way, all power is guaranteed to Mussolini, who by this means has given his own immediate followers, chosen and appointed by himself, a legal and formal status as the dictating and ruling power of Italy. The senate, the chamber of deputies and the ministry can only do what the grand council decides, for members of the former bodies are also members of the council.

The suppression of all dissenting voices and the crushing of all opposition is thus fully guaranteed in a "legal" manner. All those "elected" to any governing body are first proposed by the grand council and the voters can only vote "yes" or "no." It also has full power to fill vacancies in the government.

In addressing the grand council, Mussolini stated that he had already laid out the course that the government must follow, not only during the coming year, but as far ahead as 1930.

bring in a report on the delegates attending. After a discussion on this question a vote on the seating of the delegates will be the signal for the beginning of the actual work of the convention.

Resolutions Committees will be elected and Committees for women, youth, education and constitution will be formed to begin their work, while the other delegates continue in congress. This, it is expected, will complete the first session on Saturday afternoon.

Sessions of the various committees elected the first session, will continue their work into Sunday morning, after completion of which they will deliver their individual reports to the delegates. The rest of the morning session and part of the afternoon will be given over to discussions of the numerous resolutions reported on by the sub-committees. These resolutions are to range over every phase of interest to textile as well as all other workers.

Choice of permanent officers, an National Executive Committee, and all other national functionaries, will then occupy the delegates the remainder of the Sunday session. The delegation, composed almost entirely of workers in the mills and leaders of strikes, will then depart for their sections and begin serious construction of the new workers' organization.

Charlie's Indian Blood Boils as Farmers Ask Pointed Questions

ROSEBUD, S. D., Sept. 20 (UP).—After being heckled by a farmer during his speech yesterday in Iowa, Senator Charles Curtis, republican candidate for the vice-presidency, came to the Rosebud Reservation today and took his fellow Indians to task for drinking, bootlegging and other indulgence in modern dances.

In Spence, Ia., Curtis lost his temper when a farmer in the audience insisted on popping questions at him about tax reduction and Teapot Dome. "You're too damned dumb to understand," Curtis shot back at the inquiring plowman.

Today the candidate was in a more reflective mood and spoke to the Sioux Indians of the reservation as a descendant of their own race. The occasion was the fiftieth anniversary of the reservation.

After praising the peace-time and war records of the Sioux, Curtis warned them against idleness, liquor and modern dancing.

Curtis's maternal grandmother was a princess of the Kaw Tribe.

who recently put over a sell-out agreement on the coal miners, tho it is clear that a majority of the coal diggers voted against it. Gitlow linked up Fishwick, president of the U. M. W. of A., Illinois district, with Frank Farrington, former Illinois miner, now the $25,000 official of the Peabody Coal Company. The speaker told of the National Miners' Convention in Pittsburgh to take the place of the U. M. W. of A. now wrecked by the treachery of Lewis, Fishwick and Company.

"Fishwick falsified the returns in the recent vote on the agreement submitted to the coal miners," Gitlow declared. "There is no doubt but the sell-out policy of the fakers at Springfield was repudiated by the great majority of the coal diggers. The miners of Illinois must build a powerful section of the National Miners' Union," he said.

Unemployment Grows.

Gitlow assailed the miserable conditions of the workers in St. Louis According to the police, unemployment is rampant, four thousand applying for jobs last week and only four hundred jobs available.

The speaker urged solidarity between the Negro and white workers for the common fight against the employers.

Despite a tremendous downpour of rain several hundred steel workers listened to Comrade Gitlow in Gary, Indiana. Great enthusiasm prevailed and there was a storm of applause when the vice-presidential candidate called on the steel workers to form mill committees and prepare for the mighty task of organizing the hundreds of thousands of steel workers into a militant industrial union.

Fake 8-Hour Day.

Gitlow ridiculed the fake eight-hour day "concession" made to the workers in the steel industry by the late Judge Gary. Some of the workers in Gary are working an eight-hour shift while others work ten hours. Those on the eight-hour shift are paid fifty cents an hour while those working ten hours only receive forty cents an hour. Thousands are working part time.

The speaker urged the steel workers, white and black to stand shoulder to shoulder against the steel barons. He exposed the illusions of capitalist democracy, declared that the Socialist Party had deserted the class struggle and no longer had a right to pose as a party of labor, that a vote for Norman Thomas was a vote for capitalism and that the Workers (Communist) Party was the only revolutionary political party in the election campaign that stood on the basis of an uncompromising struggle, for the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of a Workers' and Farmers' government.

Still Strong.

Gary was one of the battle grounds of the great steel strike, led by William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for the presidency. During the strike Gary was an armed camp with a great force of military on the ground under the leadership of General Wood, the notorious militarist who was afterwards rewarded for his services to capitalism by a post as governor-general of the Philippine Islands.

In Lansing, Ohio, a mining town, Gitlow addressed a large audience in Taylor's Grove. Owing to the activities of the Workers (Communist) Party in the coal strike, the miners are actively participating in the Communist Election Campaign. Forty per cent of those present at the Gitlow meeting were young workers and 75 per cent American-born.

Big Meetings.

The Gitlow meetings in Cleveland, Toledo and Youngstown, Ohio were enthusiastic for the Communist ticket and its election program. Those great industrial cities offer splendid opportunities for Communist propaganda and Party organization. In Ohio, as elsewhere the socialist party ekes out a precarious existence, hardly functioning in an organizational sense and owing whatever sign of animation it shows to a few old lawyers who come to life during election campaigns.

Comrade Patterson, candidate for governor in Ohio, spoke with Comrade Gitlow at Toledo. The Overland automobile works in that city employ 15,000 workers. The official labor movement barely exists, the labor leaders being completely won over to the policy of class collaboration, and making no attempt whatever to organize the workers.

Over two hundred workers attended the Gitlow meeting in Grand Rapids, Michigan. In 1924, an election campaign meeting was attended only by twenty-four. The Party organization there is growing and the comrades are confident of more rapid growth in the near future.

Negroes Attend.

In Pittsburgh, the Gitlow meeting attracted an unusually large crowd. An important feature of the rally was the presence of seventy-five Negro workers.

In Ambridge, Pa., a steel mill town, hundreds of workers were afraid to attend the meeting owing to threats made by the mill owners that attendance at the Communist meeting would mean dismissal.

"The prospect for building the Party in this election campaign," Comrade Gitlow declared in his report, "are exceedingly bright. The class-conscious workers are not fooled by the friendship claims for labor made by Al Smith, the candidate of Tammany Hall, Wall Street and the Negro lynchers of the South. They are equally immune to the claims of Herbert Hoover, another favorite son of Wall Street. Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate with his appeal to the liberals, small business and the aristocracy of labor, and his repudiation of the class struggle is making no headway with the masses.

"The workers are learning that their only salvation is in the program of the Workers (Communist) Party which aims at the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of a Workers' and Farmers' government."

Soviet Union Trade With Latin America Triples in 2 Years

MOSCOW, Sept. 20.—Soviet trade with Latin America is more than three times as large as it was two years ago, Boris Aevsky, head of the Soviet trading organizations in Latin America, declared in an interview.

South American exports to the Soviet Union are principally nitrates; sheep and some machinery. The Soviet Union sends to Latin America furs, manganese, lumber seeds and crude drugs.

TO FIGHT PENN SEDITION LAWS

I. L. D. Conducts Drive for Arrested Workers

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 20.—The local section of the International Labor Defense is conducting a campaign on behalf of the members of the Workers (Communist) Party who have been arrested at outdoor meetings during the course of their election campaign.

Among those arrested are Dominick Flaini, Emanuel Epstein, Herman Pinsker, Herbert Benjamin, Benjamin Weiss and Israel Lazaar.

John Lymna, secretary of the Philadelphia I. L. D. local, states that the persecution and arrests of members of the Workers (Communist) Party are only the first of a series against working class organizations. Therefore the Philadelphia local has broadened the base of the defense by initiating a campaign for the repeal of the infamous Flynn sedition act of Pennsylvania, one of the most vicious pieces of legislature used to frame-up workers for their activities on behalf of labor.

This attempt to outlaw the Workers (Communist) Party in Pennsylvania is being fought, even as in the case of the Woodlawn, Pa., steel workers. In this case, the National Office of International Labor Defense has carried the appeal of the Woodlawn steel workers to the state supreme court, where a hearing will be held on the 24th.

covering the retreat of his client. Martel is "doing work for the labor movement outside the state," the lawyer stated. According to the attorney, Martel will be gone for two weeks.

The plan, no doubt, is to provide time to "fix" things so the labor faker may come back in safety.

Martel, who is a member of the Typographical Union, is a delegate to the coming American Federation of Labor convention and part of the Morrison machine in the Federation. Frank Morrison, secretary of the Federation, and a leader of the Typographical International, altho he has been informed of Martel's activities, has continued to shield Martel. Recently Morrison admitted that he knew of Martel's "crookedness," but has refused to take action against his henchman.

Velho's action the police chief then arrogantly declared: "Velho from the beginning has been aggressive in holding down the strikers. I am standing squarely back of him on that. If the Textile Mill Committee is to dictate who is to be in charge of police details, you might as well install Pinto in my place." Workers are inclined to accept this as a suggestion, judging from the remarks about the coming city elections.

McLeod also declared that "I put my stamp of approval on the firing of guns. There are times when an officer feels justified."

Frank August, the aged worker, is now confined in St. Lukes Hospital, where he will no doubt be compelled to spend a long time. His nose is broken and his arms fractured by the beating Velho gave him after he was jailed. His case is being made the basis of a broad mass protest movement against the police terror.

GOVERNMENT TO PROTECT SCABS IN AUSTRALIA

Call for "Volunteer Labor" on Docks

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 20.—A bill providing protection for the scabs to be employed by the shipowners in an attempt to break the dock workers strike will be introduced into the house of representatives by Premier Bruce of Australia.

Following the decision of the board of arbitration, created by the new anti-strike legislation, against the dock workers who had protested its previous decision which provided a "two pick-up" system, that the strike is illegal, the shipowners immediately advertised for "volunteer workers."

At present workers in nearly all the ports have refused to go back to work on the two-pick-up system, under which the employers choose workers from the applicants twice a day instead of once a day as formerly.

Leading business men in all the port cities are urging their employees to enroll as "volunteer workers," and both municipal governments and shipowners are making appeals to the population to scab on the dock workers in the name of "saving the welfare of the country."

Police are being held in readiness at all the ports to protect the scab labor and disperse the strikers. The lack of provisions, due to the strike, is beginning to tell in the interior, Cooktown, Queensland, being reported as short of food.

left wingers. After enumerating more reasons of a similar nature, the resolution announced that the representatives of the workers in conference then were launching a union to replace the old one.

Active Organization.

In addition to conducting the fourteen shop strikes which the new union has called, the workers here are at present engaged in carrying thru many other organization plans. Executive board members of the Sigman union are working as scabs in the open shops declared on strike by the N. O. C. committee, and are entering and leaving the plants under escort of police.

Esther Miller, leading militant here, who was recently arrested for picketing activities was unanimously elected chairman at the conference. Bertha Cantor was chosen as secretary. M. Levine, one of the N. O. C. national organizers and Miller also spoke at the meeting.

After an executive board was elected, the members decided to pledge themselves to popularize the campaign for the $10 voluntary tax. Initiation in the new union is, as in other cities, $3.35.

fited from this piece of outrageous legislation."

Foster also condemned Hoover's stand on the use of injunctions in labor disputes, which he said was the same as Smith's, and which the Communist characterized as an evasion. The Workers (Communist) Party advocates the abolition of the injunction altogether.

Indiana To Go on Ballot.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 20.—The state of Indiana will be on the Communist ballot, according to a report received at the National Election Campaign Committee headquarters of the Workers (Communist) Party, from D. E. Early, who is now working in the Hoosier State, former stronghold of the Ku Klux Klan and once a center of socialist activity.

Early reports that the work on the Communist petitions is well under way and that there is no doubt that the Party ticket will be on the ballot. The prospects for building the Party in Indiana are bright, Early says. The miners are discontented with the reactionary leadership of the United Mine Workers of America and the sentiment is strong for joining the new National Miners' Union, organized recently at Pittsburgh.

The socialist party is practically dead in Indiana and its leaders have gone over to the trade union bureaucracy, with few exceptions, he writes. Those that did not, have dropped out completely. Indiana is a great industrial and farming state and the conditions of the workers are as bad as can be found anywhere in the country.

William Z. Foster, Communist presidential candidate, speaks in Indianapolis on Oct. 3.

Huge Airships Built Secretly for Social Democrats War Fleet

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 20.—While the new dirigible Graf Zeppelin is making test flights in preparation for a cross-Atlantic flight, the Dornier 10, a 12-motored airship, the first of a series of giant dirigibles, is being secretly constructed in Rorschach for the "German Transatlantic Air Navigation Company."

The Dornier 10 will have twelve motors of 500 horsepower each, able to accommodate about 30 people besides other freight, and will be able to remain in the air for a trip of from 1,625 to 2,500 miles at an average speed of 115 miles per hour.

DUTCH POLICE KILL 1, WOUND 7 TIN STRIKERS

All Leaders Jailed in East Indies Walk-out

BATAVIA, Dutch East Indies, Sept. 20.—One striker was killed and seven strikers were wounded when police attacked a group of pickets before the tin works on the island of Billiton, 100 miles north of Batavia.

The strike was called when the company refused to grant better working conditions and higher wages.

Every effort has been made to break the strike. All the strike leaders were arrested the moment the strike was called, but the strikers persisted in their walk-out and effectively picketed the mills.

All picketing, strike meetings, and even small groupings of strikers have been banned by the government.

Police Shoot Negro; Refused Liqtior Pay

Police last night shot and seriously injured William Ward, 23 years old, a Negro, who is said to have refused to pay the proprietor of a speakeasy at 2641 8th Ave., posing as a revenue officer.

Ward and his companion were chased down the street by a policeman whom the speakeasy-owner summoned, and shot after he refused to stop running. He was taken to the Harlem Hospital for treatment.

Worker Correspondent Tells How California Compensation Law Cheats Workers

PAINTER BREAKS BACK AT WORK, NO AID FCR HIM

Law Is Not Enforced Anyway

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., (By Mail).—Every California employer within the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act must carry insurance for the protection of his workers.

The law is hard-boiled about it, too. It reads that any employer who violates it may be punished by a $500 fine, six months in jail or both.

But, fine as it seems to be, the law might just as well not be in the statute books, so far as E. Winfrey, a local painter is concerned. As the result of a fall from a ladder, in which his back was broken three year ago, Winfrey is still dragging around, a very sick man. But the accident insurance that should be coming to him, $800, he will never be able to collect. Why? Because the law "slipped up," the law was not enforced either by the state industrial accident commission or any other agency.

Even one of the liberal papers here was driven to comment on the case as follows:

"If the law had been enforced, Joe Rose, painting contractor, who employed Winfrey, in 1925, would have been in a position to pay the award made by the industrial accident commission. He would have been carrying insurance for Winfrey. As it was Rose paid $53 and quit."

"Winfrey says, Rose has no property at least in his own name and his contract jobs are so obscure that they cannot be traced.

"Rose has told the authorities that he has six children to support, Winfrey said, and they take his word for it, but what about my children? I have three of them that the county is supporting."

Another painter, a friend of mine, became a victim of this same law a couple of years back. He was seriously injured for life, but unable to collect a cent, mainly because his boss did not carry insurance.

NORFOLK LABOR CHEERS NEARING

Appeals for Support of Workers Party

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 19.—Scott Nearing, Communist candidate for governor of New Jersey, was received enthusiastically by the workers of Norfolk, Va., at his meeting here. Nearing pointed out that the campaign funds of the two major parties were enormous, since the big capitalists consider a contribution a good investment.

"There is no difference in either the source of the funds or the platforms of these two old and corrupt political tools of the ruling class," said Nearing. "The business man will vote for one or the other according to his personal prejudices, but it makes absolutely no difference to the worker which one wins and the worker should support the only party of the working class, the Workers (Communist) Party."

Appeals for Support.

Nearing made an effective appeal for financial support to carry the message of the Workers (Communist) Party to workers thruout the country, by means of the speakers who are on tour and the circularization of the Communist platform to thousands of workers whose ideas of Communism are distorted by capitalist propaganda.

Nearing spoke Saturday in Charleston and today in Jacksonville. He will continue his tour to all the principal cities of the south during September and October.

The National Campaign Committee is making a drive for the $100,000 campaign fund. Every class-conscious worker should be able to contribute one day's pay to make this the biggest campaign ever conducted by a revolutionary party in the United States. Contributions should be sent to Alexander Trachtenberg, treasurer, 43 E. 125th St., New York City.

Dr. Liber to Conduct Health Classes; Talks to Be Given Sundays

Commencing Sunday, Sept. 30, Dr. B. Liber will resume his work at the United Workers' Co-operative Apartments, where he will conduct health classes and hold health consultations all day on Sunday of every week. Talks will be given at 11 a. m. every other Sunday for children, who will be addressed in English, and every other Sunday for adults, who will be addressed in English and Yiddish alternately.

Sunday, Sept. 30, at 11 a. m., Dr. Liber will speak to adults in Yiddish on "Current Health Questions from the Workers' Viewpoint."

SOCIALISTS MAY HAND WORKER TO FASCISTS

DR. PETER ISKROFF had fled from Bulgaria to Vienna because he was sentenced to death in Bulgaria for a political offense. Iskroff was a member of the executive committee of the Bulgarian Young Communist League and a popular leader of the working class and peasant youth movement. The authorities in Bulgaria had been on the look-out for him since 1925. He remained eighteen months in the country, but was finally compelled to flee. His trial took place in his absence in 1926. The indictment was based upon the notorious "Law for the Protection of the State" which punishes membership of prohibited organizations with death. Iskroff was accused of meeting together with other sympathizers in a cafe to read the newspaper "Radical," and with having wanted to strengthen the Young Communist League. Iskroff was found guilty of these "horrible" crimes and sentenced to death.

In Vienna Iskroff was arrested by the Austrian police after having conversed with a foreigner known to the police as a Communist. Iskroff had a false pass and in his room the police found, according to capitalist newspapers, "a bag full of Communist literature." Amongst other things he is alleged to have published a newspaper in a secret printing works, the newspaper aiming at bringing about the overthrow of the Bulgarian government.

His "Crimes."

When the "crimes" of which Iskroff is accused are examined, only one thing remains—the pass matter. This the Austrian police are perfectly used to with all political fugitives. As has been said, the usual practice of the police was three days' imprisonment and then permission to stay. As far as the printing of the journal "Communist Banner" is concerned, which is described as a "violation of Austrian Press Law," it cannot be so very serious, for even the "Weiner Journal" which strives to make the most out of the matter, has to admit that the publication was a theoretical journal. All these things provide no reason in Austrian law to detain Iskroff.

The long detainment of Iskroff can only have one meaning, and that is that the Austrian authorities are planning to hand him over to the Bulgarian government, although the Vienna police have officially announced that the Bulgarian authorities have not filed a request for extradition. The official social democratic party newspaper "Arbeiter Zeitung" makes no mention whatever of the danger of the extradition of Iskroff, but contents itself with reporting his "crimes" in Austria.

Extradition Possible.

Had it not been for the Austrian Red Aid the matter would not have been brought before the public. Only three weeks after Iskroff was arrested did the police consider it necessary to make any statement about the affair, and only now after seven weeks is the capitalist press trying to make it a state affair in order to stir up public opinion against him in Austria and pave the way for his extradition.

The case of Burcul must serve as a warning. Burcul was handed over in all secrecy to the Yugoslavian authorities, not even his defending lawyer being informed until after it was an accomplished fact. The Austrian government is preparing to do the same with Iskroff, and unless the workers of the world take action one day we shall be calmly informed that Iskroff has been sent over the border in all secrecy and haste.

The extradition of Iskroff to the Bulgarian authorities would be nothing more than common murder, for Iskroff is sentenced to death in Bulgaria!

The workers and the Red Aid organizations in all countries must stir up the world workers on behalf of Iskroff. Our task is to save his life.

ANOTHER "BOMB PLOT."

LONDON, Sept. 20 (U.P.).—A "bomb" mailed to the king of Sweden proved on examination to be a bundle of anarchist pamphlets, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen said today. Discovery of the mysterious package in the mails caused excitement and an official inquiry.

ORR, SOCIALIST, CALLS POLICE AID

Four Workers Arrested in Melee; Released

(By a Worker Correspondent)

At the intersection of Intervale and Wilkins Aves., recently, the socialists held an election campaign rally. When the meeting started a good-sized crowd had gathered to hear Samuel Orr, the principal speaker, who is that party's choice for assemblyman in that district Mr. Orr, satisfied with his audience, began to discourse on prohibition and labor.

Workers Jeer Speaker.

Among the listeners were a good many furriers and cloakmakers who were permitted to ask questions with the assurance that they would be answered toward the end of the address. The hour grew late. The crowd became restless. The promised answers were not forthcoming. So the workers began to jeer and ridicule the speaker, who, realizing that nobody was listening, decided to conclude his lecture by announcing the New Leader. At this juncture one of the workers stepped from among the crowd and began to speak. Orr, beside himself with rage at the reception given his impotent harangue, turned his back to the workers, muttering an implied imprecation as he did so.

Melee Threatens.

At this point of the evening's meeting the workers' growing impatience gave way to obstreperous excitement. Shouts arose from the indignant crowd. Orr was angrily assailed with a barrage of taunts and interlocutive jibes. "Who broke the cloakmakers' and furriers' union?" "Who put out injunctions against the workers?" were some of the war cries from the workers' ranks Disorder threatened and it seemed as if a melee was imminent.

Police Summoned.

Orr, fearing for his personal safety, ordered somebody to call the police but nobody noticed him. When, finally, he did summon the police to come to his rescue, the workers ran onto the platform and threw him off, tearing the socialist sign on the speakers' dais at the same time. Shortly after his unceremonious removal the police arrived and arrested four workers who were later released.

With the police guarding him, Orr again mounted the platform and began to talk, saying, "This is not Russia where there is no free speech and the right of assemblage. In this country, we have freedom of speech and anybody who disagrees with me can get a soap box and make his own meeting."

The meeting broke up in disorder with booing from the Young Pioneers against the "Yellow Socialists."

Needle Trade Members of Workers Party Meet

Leading needle trades members of the Workers (Communist) Party will meet today at 8 p. m. at the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square, to discuss the activities of the Needle Trades Campaign Committee among the workers in the trade.

The importance of this meeting was stressed by Rebecca Grecht last night, who emphasized the "splendid opportunities for the carrying on of the Red Election campaign among the needle trades workers this year. The complete divorce of needle trades workers from capitalist parties, occasioned by the ruthless injunctions of Tammany and republican judges, is accompanied with the realization of the anti-labor role played by the socialist party in its alliance with the small business man and its use of the strong-arm methods to discourage militancy in the unions."

The meeting tonight will consider ways and means of best carrying on the campaign among the needle trades workers, and should be attended by every needle trades member of the Party.

ANTI-IMPERIALIST MEET IS PLANNED

Will Open Membership Campaign

The combined membership and mass meeting of the New York Branch of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, which will be held at the Labor Temple, 242 14th St., Room 42 and 44, Wednesday, Sept. 26, at 8 p. m., will signal the opening of a membership drive of the New York Branch of the League. All the friends and sympathizers of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League are invited to be present.

The war danger, the signing of the Kellogg Pact while preparations for the next war are being speeded up; the growing conflict between the United States and British imperialism; the necessity for organization among the working class to struggle against wage-cuts, rationalization, and unemployment, intensified by the rapid growth of American imperialism; the necessity for solidarity between the workers of imperialist powers and the oppressed masses of colonial and semi-colonial countries—these are some of the questions which will be taken up at the meeting.

Harriet Silverman, Secretary of the New York Branch of the League will preside. Harry Gannes, acting Secretary of the United States Section of the League, and Robert Dunn, author of "American Foreign Investments, will be the principal speakers. Discussions from the floor will be in order. All the affiliated organizations—labor unions, women's organizations, clubs, fraternal and liberal organizations are urged to circularize their members and insist on their presence at this important meeting.

GENERAL STRIKE ON IN ROSARIO

Police Attacks on the Strikers Reported

ROSARIO, Argentina, Sept. 20.—Police guards at the leading plants have been strengthened and large patrols are distributed throughout the city, as the strikers remain out and all workers are ready to walk out on the general strike today, called by the Federation of Trade Unions.

Police attacks upon groups of strikers are reported in various parts of the city, as the public utilities service is at a standstill and communications severed.

All workers here have decided to maintain their demand for higher wages and better working conditions and the hiring of only union workers. They also demand that fired Communists and anarchist workers be returned to their jobs.

OLD FARMER, 78, WANTS LEAFLETS FOR DISTRIBUTION

Pledges Rest of Life for Working Class

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Leavenworth, Kansas:
(To the National Campaign Committee)

Dear Comrades:

I am the lone man in this home to agitate our cause. I am hated by the would-be-politicians of Hoover and Smith. One thing I am very proud of is the way I put out about 200 leaflets in cars last Sunday when a ball game was in progress. I need particularly at this time a few Packing House Workers' leaflets, together with some of the 1928

I am a farmer 78 year old, and an old socialist soap-boxer. Am anxious to speak in Missouri and Arkansas, parts of which, I know very well. Am well known at 207 East 14th Street, Kansas City, and know Oehler, Cushing and Eastwood, too. I went to see if I could see John Porter.

I have got about fifteen here converted to the Red Flag, though only three wear the button in public. Rush all literature. Having been an auctioneer, I have a "stump" voice.

P.S.—Am awaiting outcome of the meeting to oust Lewis at Pittsburgh. Just heard a candidate for governor. He said nothing but a lot of wind, and did not ask if there were any questions the audience wanted to ask. I was eager to ask his stand on Nicaragua. Neither did the Hoover outfit want any Red talk. They don't mention imperialism or capitalism.

I have put out a lot of literature in Arkansas this summer, also among farmers. My future life is for our cause. I want no salary, but when my necessary expenses are assured, if the cause needs me after careful investigation, I am at your service.

—AN OLD SOLDIER.

Grecht at Speakers' Conference Saturday

Rebecca Grecht, election campaign manager of the Workers (Communist) Party in this district, will lead the discussion at the next speakers' conference to take place this Saturday, Sept. 22nd, at 2 p. m., 26-28 Union Square, on "Trade Union Questions and the Election Campaign." All open-air speakers, agitprop directors, election campaign managers, workers active in trade union work and all interested in the election campaign work of the Party, should attend this conference.

"Luckee Girl" at the Casino Theater Is Quite Amusing

THE Messrs. Shubert, old hands at getting an innocent laugh or two out of dainty and slightly risque spectacles are up to their usual tricks in "Luckee Girl" now at the Casino. The musical comedy known in French as "Un Bon Garcon" in honor of what is by all odds the star performer, the fat and cunning Hercules Richelieu, is done into English by Gertrude Purcell, and played under the cigarette advertisement title above mentioned.

Hercules (sung by Billy House) is a waiter at "Coco's" (you see the regular girl-show plot developing). He insists that he is a direct lineal descendent of the great cardinal, and explains the apparent discrepancy with the vows that accompany holy orders by saying that the "cardinal joined the Yanks one season." Between his harmless and kind hearted intrigue he sings twice, with enthusiastic zest the hit of the show, "Come on, let's make Whoopie." So you see already what kind of a show it is, and there is little more to be said.

The costuming is, if not quite as old as the noble Hercules' monastic ancestor, at least as ancient as the Prince of Pilsen. But the songs and the dances seem new, the tunes are snappy, the composers have forgotten that jazz is supposed to be going out of fashion, and to the present writer at least appear to have added something to that species of music.

"Facts of Life," by Doris Vinton, as Camille, is a quaint little song, with a modernistic twist; some of the verses have to be slurred over a little on account of possible censorship. "Chiffon is an appeal for shorter and better step-ins, or whatever it is that they wear nowadays. Doris Vinton and Irene Dunne (as Arletter, a Midinette) chant this happy tune with considerable spirit.

Like all musical shows, the dancing is the life of it, and in this case the technique followed is to make lovely girls act as much like jumping frogs as possible. The incongruity thus developed lays the foundation for peals of laughter, as any psychologist will tell you. Your critic is informed that no real thrill in the audience is possible without the presence of an element of danger and if this is so, the imminent possibility of dislocated joints provides the show with a good chance to get by. In the last act two heroically modelled Paynims, swarthy of hue, do juggling with a slender whisp of a girl who has more powder on her than you could well imagine would stick there. Some day she will get a fractured skull, but while she lasts it is worth seeing.

Well, it's the usual thing, except for a couple of new tunes, and Hercules and the dancing. But it's pretty—and so far as I can see has no political angle whatever, aside from the reputed geneology of Hercules Richelieu.—V. S.

PLUMBER HELPER DESCRIBES MEET IN LABOR TEMPLE

Helfand Stresses Need for Organization

(By a Worker Correspondent)

A mass meeting of the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers was held on Wednesday, Sept. 12, at the Labor Temple. The president, Brother Helfand, opened the meeting with a speech in which he pointed out the wonderful opportunity for organization now facing the trade. He declared that at least 75 per cent of the union plumbers were working below the scale. Many workers, he said, are rebelling at the ill-treatment they receive from the bosses. He urged full participation in the coming youth conferences.

Brother Singer then spoke on the social and sports activities of the organization.

The general discussion, opened by the recording secretary, "Murphy" dwelt at length on the lessons to be drawn from the recent struggles in the Hebrew Butchers' Union. Many saw the possibility of a similar use of direct action by building trades bosses and officialdom. Many brothers participated in the discussion.

Marie Duke, representing the Working Youth Conference, then spoke on the aims and purposes of that body.

The membership then decided to send five delegates to the conference, naming Francis Doherty, F. M. Chaplar, Murray Singer, Max Helfand and Shapiro.

At the present time the United Association of Plumbers, Steamfitters and Gasfitters are meeting in convention at Atlantic City. The Plumbers Helpers are waiting to learn whether their delegates were seated.

THOUSANDS TO BE AT BIG RED RALLY

Special "Daily" to Be Distributed

didates illustrated by their pictures, and stories of the election work as carried on by the different sections of the Party.

As the day of the Red Rally draws nearer every day reveals fresh proof of the character of both republican and democratic candidates. The eulogistic comment made by John L. Lewis, president of the largely non-existent United Mine Workers, on Hoover's fanciful speech, aimed to befuddle workers, is evidence of the sort of "labor leaders" who support the anti-labor policies of the capitalist candidates. That organized labor outside of New York is not fooled by the annual wooing of labor in election campaigns by capitalist and petty-bourgeois politicians is seen in the letter of protest sent by the Orange Typographical Union of Orange, N. J., protesting the endorsement of Smith by the N. J. Federation of Labor, the protest at the same time stating that Hoover, too, does not represent the working man.

The Red Rally of Sept. 28 will fall on the date originally planned by the state republican committee for its campaign conference in this city. It has very recently been decided by the republicans to shift their conference to Syracuse.

All of the state and most of the local candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party will speak at the Central Opera House Rally.

yan, President of Longshoremen, Signs Agreement for Wage Slash

IGNORES VOTE OF LABOR AGAINST BETRAYAL PACT

Average Yearly Pay Is About $25 a Week

The expected set-back for the longshoremen in their recent demand for a wage increase was confirmed yesterday when Joseph P. Ryan, reactionary president of the International and president of the Central Trades and Labor Council, announced that a new agreement had been accepted at the old low wages. The pay of the longshoreman is said to be not over $25 a week for the year's average.

Last week, Ryan, after a conference with Frederick C. Topin, vice-president of the International Mercantile Marine, leader of the shipping forces, announced publicly that he expected no results from the nominal demand for an increase which he had made, due to the pressure of the longshoremen. The "refusal" of the shipping concerns to grant an increase was referred to the men of the Atlantic seaboard for a vote.

Yesterday, without troubling to announce the result of the vote, believed to have been overwhelmingly against the low wage scale, Ryan announced that the old terms had been accepted.

"Our conferences with the steamship owners were friendly and harmonious," he said. "While we did not get an increase in wages, still the condition of the steamship industry is such that we got the best that could be expected."

some of them are, though there are still many workers who have not yet started activity. With less than two weeks left until the opening of the bazaar, the National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee is bending every effort towards mobilizing every section of the militant American working class behind the bazaar. The committee points out that the bazaar is not a local affair, but one of national importance, as has been emphasized by the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Bazaar activity must be carried on along three lines: Collecting articles, selling tickets and gathering greetings and names for the Red Honor Roll that will be included in the unique souvenir bazaar program.

Workers, only two weeks remain. Get on the job!

Three More Agents to Tour States for Daily Worker Subscriptions out for their activities have heretofore been uncovered either by the Workers (Communist) Party or the Daily Worker. Each one has expressed himself as being enthusiastic over the tour, emphasizing the fact that new contacts with the workers of these states will be made which were impossible up to now. In each city and town covered, all attempts possible to build a strong "Support the Daily Worker" machine will be made.

Thus far, several cities have responded excellently to the Daily Worker drive. Such unknown spots as Vinal Haven, Maine, have secured three subscriptions, while Youngstown, Ohio, has sent six subs as the first batch toward the attainment of the city's quota, which has been set at 25.

Workers Party Activities

Units, branches, nuclei, etc. of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League in New York City are asked to send notices of their activities to this column. There is no charge. All notices must arrive one day in advance to ensure publication.

GIANTS SPLIT WITH CARDS; YANKS LOSE

The New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals divided a double-header here yesterday, the Cardinals winning the first game 8 to 5, and the Giants winning the second, 7 to 4. Thus their standing in the bitter National League pennant race remains unchanged.

A hurricane of homers swept through the Polo Grounds, leaving behind the blasted wreckage of several pitching reputations and two badly frazzled pennant contenders who are still no closer to a decisive verdict in their battle for the National League championship.

Home runs, three from the big black bat of George Harper alone, wrested a victory for the St. Louis Cardinals, 8 to 5, in the first game, and a mighty swat by Shanty Hogan with the bases filled in the eighth inning won the second encounter for the New York Giants, 7 to 4.

Old Jack Quinn pitched a fine game for the Philadelphia Athletics, who beat Detroit, 6-1. Quinn allowed 6 hits, while Whitehill of the Tigers gave 8. The Yankees took a beating 4-3 from Chicago, and dropped to a game ahead of Philadelphia. The game went 12 innings. Pipgras started for the Yanks; Hoyt finished. Faber went the whole route for Chicago.

Senator Curtis' Reply.

The late Elbert Hubbard used to say: "When someone beats you in an argument, do not despair. All is not yet lost. You can still call him names."

Hubbard, pen valet extraordinary for the capitalist exploiters of this country, only formulated in a concise and comprehensive manner that which has long been the chief stock-in-trade of democratic and republican as well as socialist party politicians.

The latest example of such "political argument," was the retort of Senator Curtis of Kansas, vice-presidential candidate on the republican ticket to a farmer in Spencer, Iowa, who asked questions that could not be answered about the Mellon-Hoover-Coolidge policies, with particular reference to farm relief and Teapot Dome. Mr. Curtis, instead of replying to the questions of the farmer, pointed a scornful finger at him and said: "You're too damn dumb to understand it, anyway."

In this rejoinder is revealed something more than mere impudence on the part of Curtis, himself one of the most servile, stupid, incompetent ornaments of that cave of the winds known as the United States senate. Curtis was one of the regulars, voting like a marionette on all the republican swindles and approved every act of every grafter in the entire history of the Harding-Mellon-Hoover-Coolidge Teapot Dome cabinet.

Curtis' reply to the Iowa farmer is classic, in that it symbolizes in one sentence the attitude of the old party politicians toward the exploited masses of this country. The politicians believe themselves superior people, destined to rule over dumb, driven cattle. To question such people about their records at Washington is regarded as impudence. It is a wonder the hoodlums that usually follow in the wake of old party presidential candidates did not throw the questioner out of the hall, especially in view of the fact that his queries were such that Curtis could not even attempt to reply otherwise than by calling the farmer names.

The difference between Communists and all other political parties is no more clearly revealed than in the attitude toward the workers and farmers who comprise the audiences. At all Communist campaign meetings questions and even discussion from the floor is welcome. The arguments and program of the Workers (Communist) Party can be defended anywhere, against anyone, because the Communists alone have a program that will solve the problems facing the exploited masses of workers and farmers.

Political parties are instruments by which classes endeavor to gain control of the government. No party can speak for all the people. However, the old parties—as well as the socialist party in its present decrepit state—try to conceal their class character, hence their programs are deliberately designed to deceive the masses, to conceal their real class character. On the other hand the Communists are the vanguard of the working class and go before the masses with an avowedly class program, hence we are always ready, willing and anxious to explain the most minute details of our program and policies. We have nothing to conceal, while the other parties have to conceal the very reason for their existence—the fact that they represent the exploiting class against the workers and farmers of the country.

Trade Union Agreements—Advantageous or Harmful

Superficial observers of the labor movement, particularly the university professors who try to formulate theories to justify the betrayals of the working class by the reactionary officials of the American Federation of Labor, make a fetish out of trade union agreements. Prof. John R. Commons of the University of Wisconsin is the founder of the modern school of learned apologists for that theory and practice of trade union fakery that has come to be known under the general term of Gomperism. The lesser [illegible] school are the Brookwood "labor college" faculty, Selig Pearlman of Wisconsin University and a considerable number of graduates of these institutions. Commons and his associates hold that a union which does not maintain continuous contracts with employers is doomed to failure. In analyzing the birth and decline of various independent unions they claim that the failure to obtain agreements from employers is "the rock upon which all such unions have broken."

Certainly no intelligent worker will take a stand in opposition to all agreements. Likewise no one except traitors to labor or their theoretical defenders in the university chairs will advocate the signing of any agreements that may be obtained.

Agreements are most advantageous to trade unions when they are forced from the employer in a struggle that results in victory for the workers. Under such conditions agreements serve as a weapon inasmuch as they cover periods of low productivity in a given industry and expire at a date favorable to the workers and unfavorable for the employer. Under certain conditions, in industries formerly unorganized or industries in which the workers have only weak organizations, it is possible to sign agreements without improvements in conditions or increases in wages, provided they expire at a time favorable to the workers. During the life of such agreements intensive organizational work can proceed so that the workers will be in a better position to fight the employers.

But certainly it is never advantageous to the workers to sign agreements accepting wage-cuts and expiring at a time when the workers are least able to put up a fight. Such agreements would result in initiating a whole series of wage-cuts and a policy of steady retreat on the part of labor.

The formerly militant sections of the American Federation of Labor have never made a fetish of agreements. For instance, the International Typographical Union, during the short period since the war that it was dominated by progressive forces (in fact and not in name only), refused for years to sign agreements with certain newspaper publishers in Chicago simply because the employers insisted upon agreements expiring at a date unfavorable to the union. The same policy was followed in Cleveland and other cities in the job printing end of the industry. Far better to work without any agreements at all than to accept them when they are a menace to the future success of the workers.

The 2,000 coal miners of Illinois who have gone on strike against the infamous treachery of the Lewis-Fishwick machine and who refuse to abide by agreements that ratify wage-cuts have followed the right line thus far. Their next step must be a break with Lewis and all his henchmen and affiliation with the National Miners Union under a leadership developed out of the struggle and steeled in the long fight against Lewis and the operators, a leadership that realizes full well that only by organization and a determined fight that will compel the employers to grant living wages and decent conditions in the mining industry can there be any thought of agreements.

Genuine Farm Relief.

News from the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics is to the effect that the Ukraine harvest has fallen short of expectations, leaving 850,000 men, women and children of the agricultural area in that part of the Soviet Union in a position where they cannot maintain their living standards on returns from their crop. The Soviet government, as soon as the condition of the peasants was ascertained, appropriated the sum of 31,000,000 rubles toward the cost of supplies needed and the local government appropriated 10,000,000 rubles for the same purpose.

Here is a case of the one government on earth that represents the people who inhabit its territory meeting a farm crisis with quick and adequate relief. Not with fake promises as is the case of the republican party in this country, or of promises of an investigation committee as is the case of Al. Smith and the democrats—both aspiring to serve as administrators of a government that exists only in order that the capitalist class may continue to exploit the workers and farmers,—but with practical relief policies.

Hundreds of Porto Rican Peasants Killed In Terrific Hurricane Which Swept Island

The fierce hurricane which swept across Porto Rico killed hundreds of peasants and left hundreds of thousands homeless. The storm smashed the tiny match-box hovels in which the peasants live and left a trail of dead and dying, of wrecked hovels and ruined fields in its wake. The Workers Party in the West

Workers Rally to Party Despite Attacks of Mine and Packing House Barons

By ROY STEPHENS

COMMUNISM is growing in the middle-west. The workers in this section of the country have already put the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot in the states of Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Texas. Indications are that the Communist ticket will be on the ballot in every middle-western state. A big fight is also being carried on to organize the workers in the packing houses and other big industries.

As a result of these activities attempts are being made in the states of Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas to keep the Communist ticket off the ballot and send the most militant fighters to jail. There are also indications that attempts will be made in several other states to likewise prevent the workers from putting their ticket on the ballot. The conclusion to be drawn from this is that it is a concerted attack by the employers and open-shop interests to destroy the Communist movement in the middle-west. That is just what is happening.

Some Characteristics.

In order to understand just why the employers fear the Communists so in this section of the country one must understand the conditions existing here and the peculiar characteristics of this section.

The middle-west is admittedly the most American section of the country. By this is meant that here the people are the greatest per cent native-born and the most free from the customs of foreign immigrants who come to our shores. Naturally such American schemes as class-collaboration and company unionism are put into practice most effectively here. The capitalist press has always boasted that Communism cannot grow in this part of the country.

Since the war the labor movement has been almost completely destroyed. The strong unions of the miners and packing house workers are no more. Cities like Omaha, Kansas City, St. Joseph and Denver boast that labor troubles have been solved. At the present time Kansas City and Omaha are spending several million dollars each year to induce manufacturers to locate in these cities. Since the republican convention at Kansas City the chamber of commerce has decided to spend an additional five million at once. Here they boast raw materials and labor are abundant.

A. F. of L. Betrayals.

The American Federation of Labor has completely betrayed the workers. The fakers who are in control spend their time thinking up new schemes to prevent any militancy. This Labor Day in Omaha the reactionary mayor of the city, Mayor Dahlman, who owns a lot of stock in the street railway and other corporations here, was invited to address their meetings.

At one time there were strong I. W. W. and socialist organizations in this section of the country, but they no longer exist. Today what is left of the socialists openly praise such politicians as Norris and Brookhart. The I. W. W. has no members except in a few of the mining regions of Colorado and Wyoming and there they fight the militants and the Communists and through their wrong tactics they lost the Colorado coal strike. Only the Communists are carrying on a militant campaign against the employers and the Wall Street government.

The farmers, too, in this section are suffering greatly because of the exploitation of them by the capitalist class. Thousands are yearly losing their farms and being forced to go into the cities and join the ranks of the unemployed. The agricultural laborers have had their conditions made worse by the introduction of combines and better machinery. The highways have been full all summer with them wandering in vain in search of employment.

Communists Gain.

Lately the Workers (Communist) Party has been making great gains. In Colorado the Communists were active during the coal strike and now in Pittsburg, Kansas, they are leading the fight for a new union. In the packing plants they are publishing shop papers and calling on the workers to organize. Many mass meetings are being held, at which Communist speakers show up Norris and Brookhart and other politicians as supporters of the capitalist system. But in doing so they have enraged the employers and the state officials.

In Kansas, Hugo Oehler, district organizer, and ten other workers were arrested for speaking and having in their possession such radical literature as the Daily Worker, Labor Defender and "Party Platform." As yet their cases have not been heard, but under the vicious criminal syndicalist law of Kansas they may be sentenced to five to ten years' imprisonment. The Armour Company caused their arrest by reporting to the police that the Communists were trying to organize the packing house workers.

Jingoes Bar Negroes.

In Texas the secretary of state refuses to allow the Workers Party to go on the ballot, even though they have complied with the law. Here jingoism flourishes and race discrimination is at its height. Negroes are prevented by law from voting in the primary election.

In Oklahoma the state officials are using every possible trick to prevent the Communist electors from filing on the Farmer-Labor ticket, even though they, too, have complied with the law.

In Nebraska the employers and state officials are using the "red baiters" in the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars to help them throw the Workers Party ticket off the ballot. Governor Adam McMullen recently made a speech in which he stated that the Communists are making great inroads in the state, especially among the youth. Following his speech the American Legion and other jingoists got busy and filed a protest with the secretary of state. At their Grand Island convention the American Legion devoted one afternoon of their sessions to attacking the Communists.

Boast of Stool Pigeons.

R. A. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Americanization committee, boasted that the Legion was carrying on an extensive espionage campaign, saying that Legion stool-pigeons attended several Communist meetings and furnished reports to the department of justice at Washington. Marcus Poteet of the Lincoln Post of the American Legion stated that while he knew of no legal objection to the Workers Party filing he thought that a Communist organization is subversive of American ideals and that the placing of a Communist ticket on the American ballot is so odious that the situation transcends technicalities of the law.

Newspapers in Nebraska carried headlines announcing that a Red Plot had been discovered here. An American Legionnaire delivered a speech over radio station WOW, in which he attacked the Communists at great length.

Want to Continue Exploitation.

The capitalist class hope to destroy the Communist movement in the middle-west. They want to keep this section of the country unorganized so as to exploit the workers to the utmost and keep the middle-west a reservoir from which to recruit the bulk of the cannon fodder for the next imperialist war.

But the Communist Party will not be destroyed. The attacks of our enemies will only cause us to grow. Workers are learning that the Communists are fighters and from the attempts of the capitalist class to keep us off the ballot they will learn that democracy is only a dictatorship of the capitalists and only the Workers (Communist) Party fights for a workers' and farmers' government.

Workers, defeat the attacks of the employers in the middle-west! Your answer must be the placing of the Communist ticket on the ballot in at least thirty-five states. Forward to a workers' and farmers' government!

Imperialist War and Working Class Youth

Capitalist Press, Church and Schools Screech Propaganda for Coming War

By W. J. WHITE.

WHAT part will the youth of this country play when the war drums are sounding? This is today a potent question which we must answer correctly. How must we organize our youth of the working class in order to offset the patriotic hokum which is being instilled into their minds thru their eyes and ears by the teacher, the preacher and the political bunkum and hokum peddlers who are behind the many activities in sports, camp fire girls, the boy scouts, the Y. M. C. A. and the numerous sports clubs which are being organized among the youth in order to keep their minds wedded to the capitalist system? It is doubtful if any other worker aside from the actual building up of the army and navy, is getting as much consideration as this propaganda which is today being carried on among the youth by the capitalists of the country.

Papers and Magazines

In order that the youth may be lashed to the chariot of the War God of capitalism, printers' ink is being spilled by the gallon and the physical advantages which come from the many activities connected with the boy scouts, the Y. M. C. A. huts, the outdoor life, etc., are held out in such an alluring way and in such a manner that the real intention is skillfully hidden behind all this poisonous propaganda. In this propaganda the paid hirelings of the masters "brass check" press are drawn up, and they respond with a will to the commands of their masters. Not only are the daily papers actively engaged in this work of moulding the minds of the young to suit the purposes of the bosses, but the magazines are also drawn upon to warp and twist the minds of the young so that they will willingly go out when called upon in case of under the guise of the physical well-respond to the numerous calls to go into the camps of the Citizens' Military Training Camps.

The Part of the Church.

The religious press, especially of some of the large protestant denominations, and also the press of the catholic church is filled with this camouflaged war propaganda. The feelings of working class fathers and mothers are skillfully played upon by such papers and their patriotism and religious bigotry is appealed to under the guise of the physical welfare of their children and the need of having them fit to take their part in the affairs of life. Baseball leagues confined strictly to the members of the churches are fostered and given publicity by the church papers, the same is true of football and kindred sports. The catholic church takes advantage of the patriotic appeal to the young to build up catholic organizations patterned after the camp fire girls and the boy scouts, but the church sees to it that these organizations are confined to the members of its congregations. These organizations of the youth are fostered in the parochial schools and as much patriotism is instilled into the heads of the young in these institutions as in the purely secular institutions.

Who Furnishes the Money?

In all of this the hand of the big banking and capitalist institutions can be seen at work. It is they who go into their tills to furnish the money for the meets and games where the public can not be induced to pay for the necessary uniforms and paraphernalia. Of course they bring to bear as much as possible the law of emulation in which they pit civic pride and use school religion and every other stimulation they can play upon in accomplishing their ends. The big banks thru their directors are the leaders who put up the money for the Y. M. C. A, the Young Men's Catholic Societies and they are always extremely careful to see that so far as possible none of their money is wasted, but that it bears a very heavy interest in their favor. Prizes are put up for the winners in the contests. Silver loving cups are made the prize for some contest, while in others it may take on any one of a thousand different forms, however, always having in view the advancement of the cause of big business and capitalism, and war.

Very fortunately our party is alive to this question, and in every congress and the plenum of the Workers (Communist) Party this question of the youth is seriously being discussed. This is finding ever and ever more response in the organizations of the young workers and they are especially carrying on more and more propaganda in the training camps of the Citizens' Military Training Camps, and also among those young who are still under the influence of the propaganda of the industrial and imperialistic rulers. This is as it should be for if we neglect our work among the youth in the mills and factories of the country, then we are not fulfilling our revolutionary task. Organize the youth! Build up the Young Workers League and the Pioneers in the United States, for upon them rests the future of our Party. One of the means which will bring real results to our Party in bringing to the front those best fitted to lead in this work, is the numerous schools which the Party is conducting in such centers as Ohio, Wisconsin, New York and Massachusetts. It is from them that we can look for the training and discipline of our young workers. In this we are, considering our small membership and comparatively weak resources doing a very fine work, and we can in the near future, I hope, bring to bear for this work more and better and ever larger schools with an ever growing number of members attending the classes in these and the other schools we will be opening from time to time. This is the key to our tasks among the young. Only by founding such schools and building up our papers can we hope to offset and check-mate the work of the capitalists in their work of making reactionaries of the rising youth of our class.

Told You So

AL SMITH and Herbert Hoover are now playing the role of political confidence men to the workers and farmers. While Herbert was trying to seduce the labor vote in New Jersey, Al was out in the potato and corn belt trying to win the hand and heart of the farmer. Hoover and Al did not talk about love weaving webs of fancy on the horns of the moon; they talked steak and potatoes. They talked about it, that's all. The worker who takes Hoover seriously deserves to carry a lighter-than-air dinner pail and the poor farmer who believes the tale of Tammany Al, doesn't know enough to shake a mouse out of his whiskers.

SMITH can afford to spend half a million dollars on his radio broadcasting and Hoover can afford to spend as much more. They will get their vote-bait in the newspapers and into the sitting rooms of the voters thruout the country. Millions of workers and farmers will undoubtedly fall for their hokum. But an ever-increasing number of the exploited masses are getting hep to the democratic and Republican parties. Fooling the masses and serving the capitalists has been the profession of the plute parties for generations. The workers are waking up and those of them that have gotten the dust out of their eyes are looking towards the Workers (Communist) Party for leadership.

IN all probability there will not be much more fuss made about the Queens sewer scandal. Patten, Connolly's man won out over his opponents in the primaries last Tuesday. Tammany opposed Patten, evidently because the wigwam warriors wanted the sewers all to themselves. Tammany was stopped at the bridge. "Tho shalt not pass" was the slogan of the Queens Democratic bosses. Thieves will insist on falling out.

IT'S mighty hard for a fellow with money to know what to do these days. He is beset with danger from all sides. John M. Philips, the late sewer-pipe king, or as he called himself the "King of Queens" trusted a nurse he met by accident as most nurses are met. As you may know Philips is supposed to be dead, tho it would not surprise his friends to learn that he pulled off a resurrection. But anyhow, this nurse who admired the late pipe sultan, is now telling all in the pages of a New York tabloid. Needless to say she is doing it in the interests of clean government. So far she has succeeded only in whetting our curiosity.

THE gist of her story is that this man who made others bend to his will as if they were so many reeds was as weak as a woman's tears in the hands of John Barleycorn. But he always carried a medallion which he picked up on the street and no matter how muddled he was, when he touched this charm, his brain cleared and he shot out decisions bearing the stamp of wisdom. Samson lost his herculean strength when he got trimmed by a woman. Perhaps some modern damsel went thru Philips' pocket and stole his amulet. Great men sometimes not only have feet of clay but carry their brains in their hip pockets.

THE 80 per cent of the population that have pyorrhea and don't know it are not so badly off. They might have halitosis and see the world turning away from them. Still, Bernarr McFadden, the big vegetable and vitamin man is not satisfied. This public benefactor is never satisfied unless he is helping to make the people healthier and increasing his bank roll. The style in disease is constantly changing. Today it is the fashion to go on the war path against pyorrhea; tomorrow it may be the lowly bunion.

McFADDEN has successfully harnessed every known disease to his chariot. What sin is to the evangelist disease is to McFadden. While fighting the medical profession McFadden runs the biggest clearing house for quackery in the United States. His numerous publications carry fake medicine ads guaranteeing to cure everything that afflicts the human anatomy from corns to consumption. His tabloid is the most vulgarly sensational rag published in the United States. He is the patron saint of the neurotic and the Moses of the half-baked who believe that everybody who comes forward with a panacea for human ills is a saviour.

70,000 Polish Mill Workers Win Strike

GOVERNMENT IS DEFEATED IN A ONE DAY STRIKE

Pilsudski Arbitration Move Goes Down in Failure

Men Win All Demands

Strike Against Speed-Up, Wage Cuts

BULLETIN.

(By United Press)

LODZ, Poland, Sept. 21.—The strike of 75,000 textile workers here ended today when the government announced that regulations to which the workers objected would be withdrawn.

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 21.—More than 70,000 textile workers in Lodz have joined a strike which promises to assume the proportions of a nation-wide walkout.

The Pilsudski regime has appointed an arbitration committee with a view of stopping the strike. This move is interpreted as an attempt on the part of government to intervene in favor of employers.

The workers went on strike to fight against the introduction of speed-up, recent wage cuts and working conditions.

[illegible] forces are being concentrated in Lodz and troops, it is rumored, are being held in readiness for an "emergency."

CANADA FURRIERS FLAY RIGHT WING

McGrady Is Coming to Aid Union-Wrecking

(Special to the Daily Worker)

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—With only one dissenting vote, the membership meeting of the Toronto Furriers' Local 40 last night passed overwhelmingly a resolution condemning in the strongest terms the action of the A. F. of L. officials of the International Fur Workers' Union in suspending their left wing business agent Englander and their chairman and secretary, Dordok and Klieg.

Edward F. McGrady, special emissary of the A. F. of L. to destroy the furriers' working conditions by breaking their unions, is to come here to a secret special meeting which the right wing has called especially for the members of the formerly existing Gentile locals.

The calling of this meeting was kept completely secret from the Jewish workers who compose the great majority in the trade. The honest workers here, however, announce that they are aware of the plans to try to arouse racial antagonism among the workers here and are prepared to fight the clique's union-wrecking tactics thru the Trade Union Educational League.

Business Agent Englander revealed a letter written by the right wing supporter Currie several weeks ago in which Currie advised McGrady and his gang to adopt their present tactics.

DENY PARDON TO CENTRALIA MEN

Reactionary Governor Behind Move

The Parole Board of the state of Washington following its hearing has just denied the power for the release of the eight Centralia I. W. W.s who were framed up in 1919, and sentenced to virtual life imprisonment. This was the news contained in a telegram received yesterday at the National Office of the International Labor Defense.

The hand of Governor Hartley, republican politician, who has just been renominated for office and in whom some of the friends of the defense were deluded enough to see a "friend," is said to be back of the outrageous decision made by the Parole Board.

Class War Victims Nominated on Labor Ticket

Two workers whom the steel trust has been trying to railroad to jail in the Woodlawn "sedition" case have been nominated for office on the labor Party ticket in Beaver County, Pennsylvania. Peter Muselin, (left) a barber, is candidate from the 26th congressional district; Milan Resetar, a clerk, is candidate for the state senate from the 47th congressional district. The Workers (Communist) Party is backing both of these candidates.

FOOD, CLOTHES, GREAT NEED OF MILL STRIKERS

"Food! Clothing!" This is the insistent cry of the heroic textile strikers of New Bedford and Fall River, according to William T. Murdoch, militant Textile Mill Committee strike leader, who dropped into the offices of the Workers' International Relief, 1 Union Square, yesterday.

The young Scottish labor militant has arrived in New York to attend the textile convention which is to be held today and while here conferred with Fred Biedenkapp, national relief secretary, on relief problems.

Warm Clothes Needed.

"The bosses are waiting for their old ally, cold weather," Murdoch said, "but if we can clothe and keep the strikers warm we will win the strike. We have started mass picketing again. This is rainy weather and many of the strikers are actually barefooted. Last Thursday one old striker, 60 years of age had to go from the south to the north end of the city to attend a mill meeting. It was raining and when he arrived at the meeting his shoes were sodden and his soles were flapping."

The youthful strike leader said that the effect of this week's shooting doubled the militancy of the workers. "On the night picket line," Murdoch said, "the pickets were doubled. The workers know where the A. F. of L. and the bosses stand, they know just where we stand and they are with us 100 per cent." Turning to Biedenkapp, he said, "Now it's your job to feed us and keep the strikers and their kids clothed."

Biedenkapp then issued an appeal to all labor in New York and elsewhere to respond to Murdoch's piteous story with money, shoes, clothing.

"The winning of the New Bedford and Fall River strikes is simply a question of relief. The Work-

POGROM RAGES IN BESSARABIA

Government Declares It Is "Powerless"

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—Anti-Semites pillaged the synagogue of Ismail, in Bessarabia, and beat all the Jews they could find, a dispatch from Bucharest says.

The outbreak started yesterday after an inflammatory speech had been made to peasants by a lawyer, Solowenke, who accused the Jews of responsibility for the shortage of grain. It was feared that this incident might start a general anti-Semetic progrom.

The Roumanian government has let it be known that it can no longer "control" the peasants, who are restless due to crop failures four years running.

RED RALLY WILL HIT A. F. L. LIES

Candidates to Present Red Platform

The huge Red rally, to be held next Friday, Sept. 28, at 8 p. m., at the Central Opera House, at which Robert Minor, William F. Dunne and other state and local Communist candidates will present the platform of the class struggle of the Workers (Communist) Party, will provide information to the "investigators" of the open-shop National Civic Federation, of which Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, is the head, and which is organizing to "investigate" the activities of Communists in the labor movement and politically.

This was announced last night by the campaign committee of the district.

Will Stress Demands.

The Communist candidates who will speak at next Friday's meeting will stress that section of the Red platform which deals with "Capitalist Democracy and Government Strikebreakers." The demands of the Communist campaigners include the abrogation of government by in-

T. U. E. L. Picnic at Ulmer Park Today

The annual picnic of the Trade Union Educational League, long awaited by workers in New York and vicinity, and several times postponed on account of unfavorable weather, will be held today at Ulmer Park, Brooklyn, from 2 p. m. on.

Many features, including sports events, food contests, and poetry readings, will be presented.

Thousands of workers are expected at the picnic, according to the local T. U. E. L.

USSR CANDY AT BAZAAR

Bakers Asked to Donate Day's Work

One of the most popular booths at the great Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar in Madison Square Garden Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7 is expected to be the candy, cigar and cigarette booth.

This booth will not only contain a full stock of American candies and chocolates at various prices, but also imported foreign candies. Many of which will be sold in this country for the first time. Included in the foreign candies will be the choice products of the great candy factories of the Soviet Union. Large orders have been placed with the Soviet factories in anticipation of a great demand.

The cigars and cigarettes that will be sold at this booth will also include choice Soviet products, as well as foreign tobaccos. Connoisseurs in such matters (and who is not?) will find much to delight them.

It is also planned to construct a

GREAT CROWD AT FOSTER MEET IN ABERDEEN, WASH.

Says the Daily Worker Is Only Militant Labor Paper

Exposes "Peace" Pact

Urges Fight to Free Frame-Up Victims

ABERDEEN, Washington (By Mail).—The largest crowd present at any meeting in this election campaign gathered last night in Workers Hall to listen to William Z. Foster, presidential candidate on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, explain the program and aims of the Party in this campaign and expose the big parties of capitalism and the reformist socialist party as enemies of the working class.

The audience showed its enthusiasm by frequent applause and the speaker was at his best. In homely phrases and characteristic gestures, he drove home his points with telling effects. Foster declared that the only political party appearing before the masses in this election campaign with a solution for the problems that confront the working class and the exploited farmers is the Workers (Communist) Party. He did not offer any short cut to freedom, but insisted that the workers must free themselves from the misery of their condition under capitalism by an intensified class struggle fighting on the political and industrial fields and perfecting their organization for the final struggle to overthrow capitalism and establish a Workers' and Farmers' Government. The place for every militant worker was in the ranks of the Workers (Communist) Party, he said.

War Danger.

Foster dwelt on the danger of imperialist war that confronts the workers of all countries and showed that the United States was leading in war preparations while talking world peace. The Kellogg Peace Pact, he pointed out, was an American imperialist maneuver, which would not stop war or even postpone it.

The speaker declared that war was the greatest curse that capitalism has saddled the workers of the world with, and that only a revolution which would take governmental power out of the hands of the capitalists and which would initiate the construction of a socialist society was the only solution of the war problem.

Lauds Daily Worker.

Foster dealt with the collapse of the old radical movement in Washington and all thru the northwest. The Seattle Union Record, once a militant labor paper, is now dead and those who were once in the forefront of the class struggle on the side of the workers have given up the fight and gone over to the enemy. He declared that the Communist Daily Worker was the only militant daily labor paper now published in the United States in the American language and deserves the support of all workers.

Speaking about the frame-up system Foster called attention to the crime committed against the Centralia workers now jailed in Walla Walla. Those militant workers have now been over eight years in jail and the labor bureaucracy has done nothing to help free them.

Pyatakov Readmitted to Communist Party; Admits His Mistakes

(Wireless to the Daily Worker.)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 21—The Central Control Commission of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union decided to re-admit Pyatakov into the Communist Party.

Pyatakov fulfills the demands of the fifteenth Party Congress of Soviet Russia respecting the Trotzkyist opposition and openly admits its errors. He demonstrated his sincere wish to compensate for his mistakes by work.

Three of the leaders of the New Bedford textile strike, who will meet today with delegates from many other textile centers at a huge convention in New York City that will launch a new textile workers' union. They are, left to right: Fred E. Beal, William T. Murdoch and Eli Keller. Pictures of other leaders of the new union movement will appear in Monday's issue of the Daily Worker.

PEASANT REVOLT IN RUMANIA SEEN

Many Die in 4th Year of Crop Failure

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—The Rumanian government fears revolutionary outbreaks among the peasants, who have been made desperate by the crop failure, a report received from Bucharest here today says.

Reports told of great suffering in Rumania because of the failure of the crops for the fourth successive year. Bessarabia suffered worst and many are reported on the verge of starvation there.

Supplementary reports from Bucharest said many peasants already had died of starvation and others were subsisting on acorns and similar substitutes.

YOUTH CONGRESS HEARS REPORTS

Chinese and Colonial Theses Approved

(Wireless to the Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Sept. 21.—In the discussion which closed the seventeenth session of the Young Communist International, Sothman, of Germany, said that the German school law aims to place the schools under the control of the church. Lynch, of England, stressed the fact that participation in strikes and elections should be a part of the children's economic struggles.

The eighteenth session of the next day was held under the chairmanship of Limanovsky of Poland.

In his report on the colonial commission, Fokin said, "The Chinese Young Communist League must overcome liquidation and strengthen its trade union work, and also include more young workers. The Young Communist League of India is important and requires ideological enlightenment and help from the English Young Communist League. Little has been achieved in Negro problems. The United States and Latin America must help.

Colonial These Passed.

HISS U. S. WAR ON NICARAGUA

Paris Workers Protest Lon Chaney Film

PARIS, Sept. 21.—An American movie glorifying the American marines provoked a demonstration against intervention in Nicaragua at the Theatre Madeline last night.

As Lon Chaney, starring in "Tell It to the Marines" was shown leading a detachment of American troops against Chinese, shouts of "How about Nicaragua" rose thruout the hall.

It was several moments before the storm of hisses and catcalls subsided.

Woll Off on a New Hunt for Terrible Reds

Matthew Woll is to depart on another expedition into the wilds of America, particularly into the hitherto unexplored regions of New York City and that section of it known as Union Square, in search of the dangerous, labor-faker eating creatures known as the "Reds."

The big Florida tornado having subsided contrary to some predictions without having stirred up any commotion in New York City, the day being particularly dull and listless, Matthew Woll who is acting president of the open shop National Civic Federation in his full time and vice president of the American Federation of Labor in his spare hours, bethoght himself uthat a new Red "investigation" would be just the thing to liven up the dreary day.

Girds Himself For Battle.

So the brave young labor bucaneer, donning his favorite fireman's helmet and strapping himself with his dependable tin sword, yesterday called together his playfellow of the National Civic Federation and having each drawn a drop of blood from their forefingers swore by their sacred trust (they were meeting in the offices of the Bankers Club, 120 Broadway) that they would never rest until the new lairs of the

BRITAIN BLOCKS ARMS PROPOSALS

League Session Breaks Up in Turmoil

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—Yesterday the editorial commission of the league of nations disarmament commission submitted a resolution on the disarmament question. Germany disapproved of the resolution proposed a preparatory disarmament commission to begin labors next year, but only on condition that powers settle all differences between them.

Stage Bitter Quarrel.

Today the third commission for disarmament held a meeting, but no agreement was reached. Instead there was an exciting discussion during which time the German representative, Count Von Bernsdorff stated that the resolution was a renunciation of the ideas of the League of Nations and previous disarmament proposals since it demands preliminary settlement of differences between powers.

Britain Resists Proposals.

The demand that disarmament proposals be instantly taken up regardless of settlement of differences between all powers was sharply resisted by Britain. In fact Britain made it very clear that it was opposed to disarmament proposals of any kind. The debate finally ended amidst turmoil and the resolution was referred back to the editorial commission. It is now doubtful if this year's conference will arrive at any decision regarding convening of a disarmament conference.

JAPAN READY TO SEIZE MANCHURIA

Circulate Reports of Coups and Bandits

SHANGHAI, Sept. 21.—Dispatches from Manchuria state that Japan is holding 1,500 troops in readiness to rush into Manchuria, should a "conspiracy" that is alleged to have been discovered in Harbin, materialize.

Manchurian reports say that documents have been seized in raids that indicate that a coup d'etat was being planned by Chang Tsung-chang, former governor of Shantung, who, it has been repeatedly alleged, is supported and encouraged by the Japanese government.

Further reports, believed to be of a Japanese source, state that banditry and general unrest prevails in Manchuria at present.

SCHIFFRIN CASE AGAIN PUT OFF

District Attorney Is Stalling for Time

For the second time the hearing in the case of William Schiffrin, left wing worker against whom the right wing is trying to prepare a frame-up on a charge of homicide, was postponed. And, for the second time the postponement was demanded by the district attorney. Judge Vitalie, in the Bronx Homicide Court, granted the postponement until Tuesday, Sept. 25.

Time For Frameup.

As had happened at the first and second hearings, the district attorney pleaded "time to prepare his case and to obtain witnesses." Although the attorney for the accused worker protested against the imprisonment of Schiffrin, because the district attorney kept delaying the hearing, his plea for bail was nevertheless denied by the court.

The scores of workers who have donated their time and energy to leading a movement for the defense of Schiffrin see something sinister in the constant postponement of a case that is admittedly clear cut and simple. They therefore announce their determination to extend the

BATTY OFFERS SPEEDUP

Silk Mill Slaves Tell of Frieder Plan

By AMY SCHECHTER

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 21.—Inquiries among workers in the National Spun Silk Company, run here under the Frieder Plan, which W. E. G. Batty, secretary of the New Bedford Textile Council, is peddling to New Bedford mill owners as a basis for strike settlement, shows up the plan as the worst sort of speed-up scheme, and the Batty, Binns, Riviere, McMahon gang as outstanding traitors even among A. F. of L. reactionaries.

For excellent reasons all parties to the attempted sell-out of the strike on a speed-up basis have carefully kept the details of the Frieder Plan shrouded in mystery. Fortunately for their intended victims, the mill strikers, who have fought courageously through 23 weeks of strike the National Spun Silk Company, is right here in New Bedford

NEW UNION WILL BE FORMED AT HISTORIC MEET

Delegates From Many Centers Will Take Part

Union Leaders to Speak

N. Y. Workers Invited to Attend

A new, powerful, national textile workers' union will be officially launched in this city today.

Delegates coming from all the largest textile manufacturing centers of the country have been coming into the city for the past two days to participate in the convention called by the Textile Mill Committees to establish a national trade union of the nation's textile workers. The convention, which is scheduled to contine for two days, opens this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Place.

Large Delegation.

Approximately 250 men and women, chosen and sent here by thousands of exploited mill workers, are to gather for the purpose of forging the weapon of a nation-wide industrial union, with which the workers intend to fight for the improvement of their miserable working conditions.

A large number of volunteers are urgently needed as ushers, clerical workers, etc., during the sessions of the new Textile Workers' Union which will open at Irving Plaza, 15th St. and Irving Place, this afternoon and continue until late tomorrow night. Those eager to help should get in touch with I. Zimmerman, at the hall, today at 12 o'clock.

Accommodations for many of the delegates who will attend the convention are also needed, it is announced.

After listening to the greetings from leaders of the left wing trade union movement here, including the new national miners' and needle trades organizations, the delegates will immediately get down to the job of forming the structure of the new textile workers' union. Announcement was made yesterday that Jay Lovestone, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, will address the convention at its opening. Albert Weisbord, national secretary of the Textile Mill Committees, will then give a report on the situation in the industry.

Although the convention itself is called together by and is under the auspices of the Textile Mill Committees, delegates to the convention also include representatives from bona fide local unions, either split off from the American Federation of Labor, or sent here by independent textile unions. A large majority of the delegates, however, are sent here directly by the individual mill committees the T. M. C. has succeeded in establishing in nearly every sizable textile town or city.

New Bedford's 28,000 striking textile operatives, now in the midst of a brilliant struggle of 23 weeks duration against a wage cut and against the officials of reactionary unions will be represented by a solid block of about 60 delegates. Before the arrival of the New Bedford delegation, it was learned that the influence and power of the Textile Mill Committees has grown to such an extent as to be able to have an officially elected delegate sent here by each of the 56 mills tied up by the strike.

A long list of cities, including all New England and middle Atlantic states, reaching as far down as Maryland, will be the territory covered by the organizational arm of the convention even before the new union is formally established.

Big Dance to Welcome Young Textile Workers

The Young Workers (Communist) League of District 2 has arranged a dance tonight at the Workers Center, to welcome the youth delegates to the National Textile Union which is being formed tonight and Sunday in New York City.

Fifty young textile workers as delegates from New Bedford, Fall River, Passaic and many other cities will be present.

Socialist "New Leader" Refuses to Retract Lying Account of Miners Convention

LABOR REPORTER CONDEMNS PAPER HE ONCE BACKED

Now Doubts He Is in "Right Camp"

The "New Leader," organ of the yellow socialist party will refuse to publish a correction of its deceptive account of the events at the recent Pittsburgh convention for the formation of the New National Miners' Union, it became certain yesterday when the current issue of the paper appeared.

The request that the story be corrected was made by Horace Davis, a reporter for the Federated Press who covered the news of the convention. Davis who speaks of himself as "backing Norman Thomas," although beginning to "wonder whether I am in the right camp," wrote to the editor of the socialist paper on September 15, pointing out the vicious inaccuracies of the "New Leader" account and vouching for the corrections which he thought should "in fairness" be made.

Not An Exception.

The "New Leader" has failed to print the correction, a fact which is not considered surprising to those who have watched the consistent slander by this and other socialist party organs of the various militant struggles which the workers are now carrying on.

The labor reporter declares in substance that the account of the convention by the socialist organ was more deceptive than any to be found even in the "kept press of the capitalists."

The letter follows in full:

To the editors of the New Leader:

Your article on the breaking up of the miners' convention in Pittsburgh last Sunday, Sept. 9th contains a number of misstatements. In fairness to your readers, I think you should publish a correction. I was present at the time and can personally vouch for what I say.

Lie Number One.

(1) You say that the miners who came to the hall asking for admission was "estimated at nearly a thousand." A hundred would probably put the number too high. The important point to remember, however, is that all those who came to break up the convention were armed with blackjacks, knives, etc.

(2) You state that members of both factions—those attempting to meet and those attempting to break up the meeting—were arrested at the hall. This is incorrect. The only ones arrested at that time were members of the Save the Union group.

(3) "None of the officers of the United Mine Workers was in the march." That depends on what you call an officer. Lewis, Murray and Fagan were not there, tho Murray afterwards issued a statement defending the attack on the meeting. About twenty organizers and minor officials were identified in the crowd.

(4) You say that "none of the leaders of the Communists were present." That again depends on what you call a Communist. Most of the leaders of the Save the Union group were at the hall, including Myerscough, Toohey, Voyzey, Kemenovich and others; and many of them were arrested, including Minerich, Freeman Thompson and Charles Close.

Outlies Lewis Gang.

(5) Not even Phillip Murray of the United Mine Workers went so far in his public utterances as to claim that the men who came to break up the meeting had been properly elected to the convention. Yet this is what you make him appear to say. There is some doubt as to whether all the men who came to break up the meeting were elected for that purpose.

(6) Your account leaves the impression that the Save the Union group (inside the hall) were the aggressors. That is a false impression. The aggressors were the men outside the hall who attempted to break in.

I am backing Norman Thomas for president and hope he gets a big vote. I have made a point for some time of recommending the "New Leader" to people I thought might be interested. Your article just quoted makes me wonder whether I am in the right camp. A more complete denial of the elementary principles of fair play was not to be found in any of the other press accounts I saw, even those appearing in the "kept press" of the capitalists. It makes me hot under the collar.

Sincerely yours,

—HORACE DAVIS.

PRAISE EDUCATION OF WORKERS IN THE U.S.S.R.

"Workers' education is a part of the program whereby Soviet Russia is training her union members for active citizenship in a socialized society," writes Robert W. Dunn and Paul H. Douglas in a chapter on the trade union movement in the U. S. S. R. in "Soviet Russia in the Second Decade," published recently.

"No country in Europe has such a comprehensive system of workers' education," say the authors. "In the factory it is the cultural-educational sub-committee of the factory committee with its study classes, circles, Red Corners, lectures, schools, libraries, clubs and the manifold institutions connected with every production unit in the land. . . . One marvels at the progress that has been made."

Factory Life.

The authors observe that the life of the Russian worker centers around his factory. "The factory is not looked upon as simply a dirty work-place from which one escapes at the end of the day's grind. Instead, it has been remarked that one could spend practically a whole life in a Soviet factory and have one's social and general and cultural and artistic demands reasonably well satisfied by the union."

The remarkable gains made by the Russian workers during the past decade will be celebrated throughout the Soviet Union on the Eleventh Anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, November 7. Hundreds of active trade unionists, as well as writers, teachers and students from many countries will be present at the forthcoming celebration, which is expected to exceed in magnitude those that have preceded it.

To Witness Celebration.

From the United States a large number of persons are expected to arrive to witness the anniversary. Most of them, it is believed, will take advantage of the visit being arranged by World Tourists, Inc., 69 Fifth Ave. This party will leave on Wednesday, Oct. 17, on the S. S. "Mauretania," which has just cut its own speed record, making the trip from Cherbourg to New York in five days, two hours and thirty-four minutes.

Welcome Mill Youth at League Dance Tonight

The Young Workers (Communist) League will welcome the youth delegates from New Bedford, Fall River, Providence, Passaic, and the other textile centers who will be present at the convention of the new Textile Workers' Union at a dance to be held at the Workers Center, 26 Union Square, tonight.

ers International Relief, the only working class relief agency in the New Bedford strike area, calls upon every worker in America to give, and give generously, to the 30,000 heroic textile strikers who have been on strike for the past 23 weeks.

"The stories of hardships that we hear every day would melt a heart of stone. But we do not appeal on sentimental basis. The New Bedford strike is the fight of the entire American working class. It can be won if every worker will dig down deep and do everything he can to help feed these fine, loyal fighters until victory is assured.

"We ask all workers to take this appeal to heart. It is not simply another appeal. It is a question of winning a strike. Relief will do it. Send all relief to the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square, or 47 William Street, New Bedford, Mass.

The Schiffrin Defense Committee also announced yesterday that they have removed their offices from the Workers Center, to the headquarters of the Furriers Joint Board, 22 E. 22nd St. Appeals to workers are being sent out thru the mail, thru appeals to workers, organizations and other methods. All contributions to keep this worker from a long prison term are to be sent to the committee headquarters.

Schiffrin was arrested when, after being suddenly attacked by a group of five armed men sent to knife him by the right wing butchers' union, he defended his life with a penknife, while the assailants were weilding knives. The gang leader was mortally wounded in the struggle.

mission on Economic and Trade Union Work. "The work has been faulty. It is imperative that members of the Youth League join trade union work. Trade union work includes work in nuclei. Mass work is necessary in revolutionary trade unions. Definite slogans and the furtherance of youth demands is necessary for trade union work. The theses on the war danger must be enlarged."

The speaker dealt with youth work, trade unions and fascism. Economic and trade union theses and instructions for strike strategy and vocational education resolutions were passed unanimously.

Pinner of China, in his declaration on the Chinese delegation agreed with the criticism of the work of the Chinese Young Communist League, and emphasized his own recognition of the deficiencies.

Grigoryev reported on the peasant section. "Anti-militarist work," he said, "is necessary in the rural districts. We must combat fascism and female labor. The peasant youth of the colonies must be reached. The masses of the peasant youth must join relief organizations with an extensive partial demand program. The peasant resolution was passed unanimously."

The nineteenth session of the Young Communist International Congress opened here under the chairmanship of Benario, Germany. Weisner of the International Children's Bureau reported on the work of the Young Pioneers Commission.

Barbe reported for the anti-military section. "It is imperative to combat the social-democratic leaders, pacifist illusions and war preparations," he said. "Propaganda in the army and the organization of the masses are necessary. Anti-militarist tactics must be combined with political and economic demands."

Leo, of Germany, reported for the Organization Commission. Our work has been successful in forming a factory instruction staff," he said. "We have also been successful in the publication of factory newspapers."

Agitprop Report.

Holmberg of Sweden reported for the Statute Commission. Auer, of the Young Communist International, reporting for the sports commission, stressed the development of the bourgeois organizations. Geminder, of the Young Communist International, reported for the Agitation and Propaganda Commission.

The report included chapters on the program of work among girls work in the rural districts, on illegal youth leagues, on the importance of workers and peasants correspondence.

The congress agreed to exchange international information. The convocation of the International Agitprop Conference was called for. All the above theses were passed unanimously.

junction; prohibition of the use of guards, gunmen, deputy sheriffs, militia, police and special squads in labor struggles; the unrestricted right to organize, to strike and to picket. These demands, and the actual carrying out of these militant policies in the miners' strike which was betrayed by the United Mine Workers' officialdom, throws light on the action of Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers Journal, who joined his boss Woll in denouncing the Communists.

Workers to Crowd Hall.

"Despite the desperate attempts of these enemies of labor to discredit by slander and lies the only working class movement in the country," the statement concluded, "the workers of New York, great numbers of whom have personally felt the force of 'government by injunction' as well as that of police clubs and industrial squads' rubber hose, will crowd Central Opera House next Friday evening at eight o'clock in demonstration of their wholehearted support, not only of the trade union policies of the Workers (Communist) Party, of that Party's leadership in forming new, militant unions, but as well of the political platform upon which the Red candidates are running.

Militant Dock Workers of Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay to Form Union

COMMUNISTS IN ARGENTINA LEAD BIG TRADE UNION

Successful Strikes in Three Countries

The "League of Maritime Workers" of Paraguay has sent its general secretary, Daniel Villalba (a member of the Communist Party) to Argentina and Uruguay to arrange for the establishment of a confederation of all organizations of maritime workers of Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay, according to reports received here.

The Paraguayan "League of Maritime Workers" is the largest and most militant labor organization of Paraguay. The Argentine "Federacion Obrera Maritime" is now under the leadership of Communists and syndicalists and recently led several successful strikes in Rosario and other Argentine ports. Recently there was also a successful general strike of the transport workers of the Paraguayan town Vollarica, where the workers obtained an increase in wages. The Uruguayan maritime labor federation is affiliated to the "Union Sindical Uruguaya" (USU) the largest Uruguayan labor federation, which is also under Communist and syndicalist control.

Although Paraguay is far from the ocean, it nevertheless has a strong organization of maritime workers on the Rio Parana which is navigable for ocean steamships.

deadly Red had been thoroughly explored.

Of Woll regular playfellows in the National Civic Federation, chief of those present yesterday were Brigadier General Samuel McRoberts, president of the Chatham and Phoenix National Bank and Trust Company, and treasurer of the Civic Federation; present also were Ralph B. Goddard of R. G. Dunn and Co. and Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers Journal. Searle's organization once prevented its members from taking part in the activities of the Civic Federation, but a gentleman who receives $25,000 a year may be allowed some excesses.

What's to Be Done?

The Communists are again on the war path, Woll reported to the meeting. They are obtaining a foothold among the mine workers, Searles admitted sadly. "Yes, indeed," Woll retorted, "the labor movement in this country is in grave danger as a result of the 'boring from within' tactics of the Communist Party." All this is directed from Moscow, Woll declared.

To be sure only a few weeks ago the great Red fighter warned the world that from Moscow had come a new edict instructing the Communists to form new unions. Very likely Woll believes both of his statements—and so do is fearful banker playfellows.

The Poor, Power-Trust — Endowed Colleges.

Upon the motion of Goddard, it was decided to include in the investigation of Red activities an inquiry into subversive movements in schools and colleges of the country. A committee will be appointed by Brig. General McRoberts to do the Red hunting. Although no one said that Matthew Woll would head the committee, no authority is required for the report that the earnest young labor bucaneer will lead the great expedition.

Woll is a brave, brave young man and will do most anything—for his masters.

RED YOUTH FESTIVAL

Young Communist Int'l Delegates There

(Wireless to the Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Sept. 21.—Yesterday evening a grand celebration took place here in honor of the Young Communist International. All trade union buildings were gaily decorated and there was a general festival air throughout the city.

Delegates to the fifth congress of the Young Communist International, Moscow functionaries of the Soviet Union Communist Youth and many Komsomols (Young Communists) participated in the celebration.

Kossarev, opening the mass meeting, spoke of the results of the Fifth Congress of the Young Communist International. The meeting unanimously approved the decisions of the congress.

A flag was presented, on behalf of the Moscow Communist Youth, which was received by delegates of the foreign Communist Youth. The meeting demanded a speech by Schueller amidst great applause.

The new executive of the Young Communist International held its first plenum yesterday. The presidium and secretariat were elected.

BIG SPEED-UP IS BATTY'S OFFER

to serve as a constant reminder of what the mill workers may expect if the Batty-manufacturer combination ever succeed in putting over the plan.

Intolerable Speed-up.

Intolerable speed-up, solid shifts without any break for dinner, half the pay for double the work compared to other New Bedford silk mills, rigid open-shop—these are the high-lights of the "specialization plan" saddled on National Spun Silk Company workers some two years ago by Leonard P. Frieder, vice-president and general manager of the plant.

Any man known to be in the union is refused a job; any man joining while working is fired. A case against Frieder is pending till the November court session for firing an employe of the company for union affiliation.

Open Shop.

It is no accident that the plan Batty advocates for adoption by the mill owners calls for an open shop in the mills. Utterly discredited as leaders of the workers, Batty, Binns, Riviere and Co. are offering themselves as runners for the company union they will turn the Textile Council into, if the strike sell-out goes through.

Twelve Looms.

In the other New Bedford silk mills weavers run four looms, at the utmost, six. In Frieder's mill they are forced to run 12. In other silk mills skilled silk weavers, paid far above cotton weavers, get $40 to $45 a week on fancy weaves. In Frieder's plant, with 12 looms, expert weavers, putting, they say, the last ounce of effort into their work, are lucky if they make $23 on the same work. Most make under $20. In the ruler room men work 12 hours for about $26. Pay in other rooms is proportionately low.

Work in the weave room goes on straight through, day or night, without any halt. To squeeze still greater profit out of his workers, Frieder provides the lowest grade yarn, while demanding the highest caulity in the finished cloth. Threads constantly snapping, more ends to be tied, high-pitch nervous tension, added to the strain of running the twelve looms. In other words, the sort of "efficiency" advocated by the bosses and their agents, the A. F. of L. labor fakers, that tear at the workers' nerves and sap their energy.

Full Speed.

"The harder we work the less we get," said a Lancashire weaver, bitterly assailing Frieder's mill as the worst he had worked in during twenty years in New Bedford silk and cotton mills.

"The work's so rotten, and we're trying so hard all the time to catch up, but we can't make anything. . . ."

"You're forced to go at full speed all the time to make up what they've stolen from you—and then you can't."

"They don't have to put up notices about talking in our mill," he said, "we work so darn hard we'd never find time to talk. . . There's a nice fellow next to me. We never say a word to each other all week."

The automatic magazine attached to the loom, which, according to the "efficiency" system, is meant to justify the increase in looms per weaver through the labor it saves, actually, the weavers say, accomplishes hardly any saving. The magazine feeds the filling into the shuttle, instead of the weaver having to feed it by hand, but if the filling breaks, after the transfer of the bobbin, the loom stops, like an ordinary loom, and the weaver must find his pick and connect the thread with the thread that was broken. With the inferior grade of yarn provided, breakages are so frequent that labor-saving is negligible.

In the reeler room men work 12 hours, from 6 at night to 6 in the morning.

Fight Batty Scheme.

New Bedford mill-workers understand the meaning of speed-up and are ready to fight it even more bitterly than the 10 per cent cut. The attempt of the Batty-manufacturer combination to make the Frieder Plan appear a concession on the part of the mill owners to the strikers already has proven to be a miserable failure.

On the picket lines, in the union halls, wherever strikers gather, speed-up is under discussion nowadays, and Batty's skilled worker membership joins the mass of the strikers, lead by the T. M. C., in declaring that they will reject speed-up whether the bosses call it "specialization plan," "efficiency system," "Frieder Plan," or any other fancy name.

Batty's pushing the "plan" spells the final break in the United Textile Council ranks in New Bedford. Even the more conservative British elements say that when the manufacturers quit their shadow-boxing demand for a 10 per cent cut, plus Frieder Plan, which they are carrying on to save Batty's face with his membership, and to get them to accept the speed-up as a lesser evil, and when Batty has to submit the plan to the U. T. W. locals for acceptance, all honest strikers will fling the plan back into Batty's face, and take their stand with the T. M. C. to fight it to a finish.

Gil May Succeed Calles as President

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21 (UP).—Emilio Portes Gil, secretary of the interior, probably will be named provisional president of Mexico on the first ballot at a joint session of congress next Monday or Tuesday.

Uncertainty over choice of a successor to President Calles for the 14 months before the presidential election in November 1929, appeared ended today. At a meeting of the senate, 42 members out of a total of 58, which constituted a quorum agreed unanimously to support Portes Gil. A committee was named to advise President Calles accordingly. The swing toward Portes Gil gained force in the last few days after conferences of congressional leaders with President Calles.

BUFFALO TO HEAR MINOR SUNDAY

Tour of Red Candidate Drawing to Close

BUFFALO, N. Y. Sept. 21.—Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and Communist Candidate for U. S. Senator and H. Gordon of the Young Workers (Communist) League, will speak Sunday at Schwabel's Hall, as part of their tour of New York State to present to up state workers and farmers the class struggle platform of the Workers (Communist) Party. The meeting following will be held in Jamestown on Monday at the Swedish Brotherhood Hall, Main and 3rd Sts. An open-air meeting in Binghampton will close the tour.

Many Cities Covered.

The Communist campaigners have already spoken to large and enthusiastic crowds of workers in Poughkeepsie, Troy, Albany, Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse and Rochester. At each of these meetings, Minor exposed both Hoover and Smith as the candidates of Big Business and showed the domination of state and local government by the power, traction, railroad and manufacturing interests. Gordon is devoting much of his speeches to young workers in industry, and points out the exploitation to which they are subjected, calling attention to the militancy of young workers on strike, as in the recent miners' strike and in the present textile workers' strike of New Bedford.

In every one of the cities where he spoke, Minor made a strong plea for the support of the platform and candidates of the Workers (Communist Party as the only working class party in the country, the only party of the class struggle.

U. S. THREATENS COLOMBIA FOR GULF OIL FIRM

Asks Barco Oil Fields Be Restored

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 21 (UP).—The state department has asked the Colombian government to reconsider its recent cancellation of the 5,000,000 acre Barco oil concession, in which the principal share had been held by the Gulf Oil Company of Pennsylvania, the newspaper El Tiempo declared today.

The concession was cancelled by the Colombian government on the ground that the holders had not developed the property within the time fixed in the contract.

The newspaper added that American Minister Piles, who is en route to New York after resigning his post, had presented the American government's proposal to the Colombian government on the eve of his departure. The proposal for reconsideration was based on the contention that American interests were injured by the cancellation, it was said.

In commenting editorially on the matter, El Tiempo urged that the government "refuse to permit diplomatic intervention on a subject which pertained to the judicial branch of the government."

SIMON VISIT TO INDIA THURSDAY

Expect Demonstrations Against Imperialism

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The commission to "investigate" Indian autonomy will return to India next Thursday, led by Sir John Simon.

When this commission arrived in India last February they were greeted with such a storm of opposition from the populace, who boycotted the commission and British goods as two faces of the same oppression, that the Simon commission was forced to leave India for fear of further and far-reaching disturbances.

British officials state that now there is more hope for the commission being able to fulfill its purpose, since the senate has been induced to pass a resolution favoring cooperation with the British. The legislative assembly, popularly elected, however, rejected cooperation with the Simon commission in any form.

Large demonstrations are expected when the commission arrives in India and another economic boycott may occur.

KIDNAP DETROIT LABOR OFFICIAL

Suspect Attack Made by Bosses

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 21.—Max Ruben, 40, secretary of the Motion Picture Operators' Union, was kidnapped from his office on the eighth floor of an office building by six gunmen last night and possibly "taken for a ride," it was learned today. Bosses' agents are believed to be behind the act.

It is suspected that Ruben was kidnapped for ransom because in a recent controversy with motion picture owners, he was quoted as saying that his union had $200,000 cash for use in case a strike was called. The owners were forced to give a five per cent increase to the operators in the negotiations.

Attacks on labor leaders here have been numerous during the past three years.

Several labor officials have been found dead in mysterious circumstances. The most recent event was a war between dry-cleaning establishments in which it was alleged a gang of gunmen were hired by employers to fight the union and their smaller competitors. The cleaners' war resulted in a recent trial in which eight men were acquitted of charges of extortion. One of the results of the trial was a warrant sworn out for Frank Martel, president of the Detroit Federation of Labor, charging him with extortion. Police are searching for Martel now.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Twenty Chinese were killed, 30 injured, and scores of houses and shops wrecked by the explosion of two carloads of explosives in Nanking on Thursday.

The explosion, caused by the dropping of a box of TNT, shook the entire city. The wrecking of houses left several hundred homeless.

CROATS BOYCOTT JUGOSLAV GOV'T

Leaders Continue Non-Resistance Policy

ZAGREB, Jugoslavia, Sept. 21.—A national boycott against the Belgrade government and all its active members and partisans was decreed today by the executive committee of the Croatian Peasant party.

The decree provides for the continuation of non-cooperation with the Belgrade regime and declares that all its acts and legislation do not apply to the Croatians. The decree terms the Belgrade government a regime of violence and oppression, and declares the intention of the Croatian deputies to continue their absence from the Belgrade parliament.

NEW DOCUMENTS PROVE REACTION IN OBREGON CASE

Enriquez Led Plot, Documents Show

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21.—Evidence directly implicating Raimunde C. Enriquez, a leader of a reactionary group in the Obregonista party, in the assassination of president-elect Obregon, has been presented in the senate.

Documents were presented by two senators that indicate that Enriquez had taken part in the preparations for the murder, and that Toral, the actual assassin, was completely conscious of his role.

Enriquez was campaign manager for General Francisco Serrano before the general was executed for leading a counter-revolutionary attempt. In the same circular in which he informed his followers of the execution of Serrano, Enriquez predicted that "though he be elected will never reach—and note it well—the presidency of the republic."

Another document was a letter sent to Toral informing him of his mission. A handwriting expert declared that the documents were authentic.

MAXIM GORKI REPLIES TO THE ENEMIES OF THE SOVIET UNION

Attacks White Guardist Writers

Maxim Gorki, well-known Russian writer who recently returned to the Soviet Union, bitterly attacked the White Guardist writers who are busy manufacturing poisonous propaganda against the workers and peasants republic. Gorki is a staunch defender of the Soviet Union. When he returned to Moscow several weeks ago, he was greeted by thousands of workers.

Maxim Gorki is a writer whose name is known not only within the frontiers of the U. S. S. R. but almost in every part of the globe. It is but natural that an author with such a reputation be listened to by the whole world not only when he speaks in his usual language of a fiction writer, but also when he raises his voice as a social worker and a politician.

In this respect Maxim Gorki is one of the few writers whose productions were frequently imbued with a distinctly revolutionary spirit. In days gone by Gorki was connected with the Bolshevik Party and had very close relations with Comrade Lenin who highly appreciated the great gift of this writer. This, however, did not prevent Gorki from going astray, and he did not always keep pace with the Bolsheviks, particularly in regard to the attitude to the bourgeois intelligentsia.

A Friend of the Soviets.

Compelled by the state of his health to live in South Europe, Gorki followed very attentively developments in Soviet Russia, watching greedily any shoots of new life. In spite of all his vacillations Gorki was always a revolutionist, a friend of the workers and peasants Soviet country, and what passed before his eyes during the ten years of great constructive work has made him a friend and defender of the Soviet power. Without any vacillation, in words which cannot be twisted and turned he gave expression to this as a social and political writer in an article dedicated to the Tenth Anniversary of the October Revolution—"My Congratulations" published in the Moscow newspaper.

This article caused great excitement among all the White Guards abroad. The article was a stone thrown into the emigre morass. It should be stated that generally speaking Gorki was not greatly honored among the emigres.

The White Guards.

Emigre newspapers which considered themselves "friends of the people" and "revolutionists" were deeply offended when revolution swept them from their path as soon as they went against the revolution, against October, and they could not of course forgive Gorki, the intellectual, his "treachery." No gossip was considered too dirty to be used by the White Guard emigres against Gorki. White Guard writers were so bitter against Gorki that they began even to cast doubt in innumerable article and feuilletons on Gorki's gift as an artist; there is really nothing great in this writer.

Gorki's October article in which he says that he is proud of the new Russians, in which he welcomes the Soviet power and speaks of its achievements, filled the cup of emigre patience to overflowing. The White penny-a-liners replied to this article in their organs 'Rul" and "Dni." The author of the "Reply" says:

"What induces you (i. e., Gorki) to basely flatter these illdoers and to keep silent on their crimes."

Gorki's Reply.

In the "Izvestia" of December 25 Gorki gives a fit answer to the emigre penny-a-liners. At the same time Gorki replied to the well-known Russian Menshevik Dan whose slanderous article appeared on November 7 in the "Manchester Guardian" side by side with Gorki's article dedicated to the Tenth Anniversary of October. This is what Gorki writes:

Two Anonymous and Pseudonym Writers.

"I deem it necessary to inform the author of 'The Reply' and those who are of one mind with him that trashy letters such as this, I have been receiving very often. Formerly, 'black-hundred elements' were writing me in this strain, threatening with all manner of things just as people of whom 15-20 years ago I thought to be true enemies of all black-hundred ideology, are threatening me now. Literature of this kind did not prevent me then from doing my work; it does not prevent me now, neither will it prevent me in the future. As an old bird-catcher, even when I do not see the bird, I know what its song is. I also know that 'reforms,' for instance, reforms of Peter I, were also condemned by people who wanted to lead 'the old life.'

"But today not Peter the Great is working in the Soviet Union, but Ivan the Great—worker and peasant combined, and it is not a question now of 'reforms' but of a radical change of all the foundations of the old life. This explains the condemnation heaped by the lovers of the good old days on the head of the workers' and peasants' government which leads steadily the masses to a new life.

"I know that in Russia there was and still is much that is bad, and I have every reason to assume that I know more about this than the authors of the anonymous letters. But nowhere and never has the good been as good as it is now in Russia, and nowhere and never has the bad been so relentlessly exposed, nowhere is such an energetic fight put up against the bad as in the Soviet Union.

Admits Mistake.

"The authors of the anonymous letters and together with them Mr. Dan (a well-known Menshevik) of the "Sozialistitcheski Vestnik" want to know why I speak now differently than in 1917. My answer is: In 1917 I was mistaken, being sincerely afraid that proletarian dictatorship would lead to the dispersal and downfall of the politically educated working class Bolsheviks, the only truly revolutionary force, and that their downfall would for a long time obscure the very idea of social revolution. Everyone knows that I was not the only one to be mistaken at that, that many Bolsheviks were in the same boat as I. At the same time an enormous number of intellectuals realized that they had also been mistaken when they looked upon themselves as a revolutionary force. Ten years have passed since then and during this period wonderful work has been done in Russia, in all the spheres of labor and creativeness, although this work has been and is being impeded by "cultured" Europe, whose bourgeoisie is encouraged in this by Russian emigres, people who "have been mistaken" and are disgusted with their mistakes and also with the recognition of their own insignificance.

Freedom of Slander.

I am not flattering the workers' and peasants' power, I am truly enthusiastic about its work, its capacity to inspire people with love of labor and creativeness. You do not like my enthusiasm. It would be strange if you liked it. I must say that I do not remember having ever been anxious to "please" anyone and particularly people of your frame of mind. I do not, of course, protest against the petty-insults, threats and against the lies and slanders which you hurl at me simply because you have "nothing better" to do. I know that freedom of slander is your slogan and delight. In fact what would you do if you were not such adepts at lying?

In his article Dan pointed out that prior to publishing my congratulations to the workers' and peasants' power in the English newspaper "I thought it necessary to send it to the authorities for approval." Any "decent" person would not have written such stuff, but Mr. Dan did so.

Moreover, in perfect unanimity with the anonymous writers he raises a hue and cry about the "brutality" of the workers' and peasants' power, forgetting evidently the recent past, the mass shooting of workers, the "Lena incident," the Jewish pogroms in 1903, November 9, and many other incidents of the same kind — the road to the Amur region, the tens of thousands of people condemned to penal servitude, the despicable war in 1914-18, and finally what White generals did in Russia with the benevolent participation of some Russian "revolutionists" and a considerable number of "highly qualified" intellectuals. Dan evidently fails to understand that there is brutality which arises in the people from a feeling of revenge for the innumerable and cynical torments which it experienced, and that there is also a brutality originating in the self-defence of a people surrounded by secret and open traitors, by its irreconcilable enemies. This brutality is not without cause, and this is its justification.

"But there is a brutality of parasites who, being accustomed to live by the labor of the enslaved, are again endeavoring to enslave the people which has won liberty and freedom. Such brutality has no justification.

"I remind Mr. Dan of this, of course not for the sake of polemics but to teach him a lesson.

M. GORKI."

Maxwell Anderson Play on Sacco-Vanzetti Case Coming

A new play by Maxwell Anderson based on the Sacco-Vanzetti case is now on its way for early production here. The play was originally called "Gods of the Night," but it will be known here as "Gods of the Lightning."

Mr. Anderson will have his play produced on Broadway by Hamilton MacFadden, who has two more plays from the same source, "Hell on Wheels" and "The Sea Wife." Mr. MacFadden is a member of the younger generation of theatrical producers, having first tried his luck on Broadway only last season, and this season it looks as if he would have a Maxwell Anderson cycle of plays to offer.

"Gods of the Lightning" goes into production immediately and will be the first of the three to appear. Outside of the leading role, - labor organizer, which will be played by Charles A. Bickford, the casting has not yet been settled. Bickford was seen here last season in "Bless You, Sister."

In writing "Gods of the Lightning" Mr. Anderson has had a collaborator, Harold Hickerson. It may be remembered that Mr. Anderson collaborated with Laurence Stallings in writing that famous war play, "What Price Glory?" From advance accounts of "Gods of the Lightning" it looks as if this play would stir up as much excitement and comment as did "What Price Glory?" Anderson is also responsible for "Saturday's Children," one of the hits of last season.

BARRYMORE THEATRE TO OPEN IN OCTOBER

The new Ethel Barrymore Theatre, now under course of construction on West 47th Street, will be dedicated by Ethel Barrymore in the new G. Martinez Sierra play, "The Kingdom of God," the latter part of October. Rehearsals of the play are now on and the opening will occur in Cleveland. Following this the Sierra play will go to Detroit and Washington previous to the New York premiere.

Soviet Engineers Here to Purchase Machinery

"n the next five years," said Mr. Chramtsoff, chief engineer of the Central Paper Trust of the Soviet Union, "we plan to purchase $130,000,000 worth of plant equipment, of which half will be bought in the United States."

John Chramtsoff and Jacques Goriacheff, both of the Supreme Economic Council of the Soviet Union, arrived here yesterday to purchase machinery for the paper manufacturing plants.

Every new reader of The DAILY WORKER is a potential soldier in the coming battles of the workers.

IN "ELMER THE GREAT."

Walter Huston will play the chief role in Ring Lardner's baseball comedy, "Elmer the Great," which George M. Cohan will present at the Hudson Theatre Monday night.

WRITERS JOIN IN MOONEY PROTEST

Haessler and-Whitaker Score Frame-up

Carl Haessler, managing editor of the Federated Press, a labor press service, in a statement to the National Office of International Labor Defense on the Tom Mooney and Warren Billings frame-up declares:

"Why doesn't candidate Herbert Hoover break his silence on the Tom Mooney frame-up? Why doesn't U. S. Senator Hiram Johnson stop gumshoeing and come out in the open in Mooney's fight for full justice?

"Because both Hoover and Johnson are afraid of the power that wanted to hang Mooney and has succeeded in keeping him in jail 12 years, the California money power."

Robert Whitaker, a writer on the Pacific coast, writing to Martin Abern, assistant national secretary of the I. L. D., states:

"There ought to be, of course, an immediate and unconditional release of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings from their long and unjust imprisonment in the penitentiaries of California. It is known to everyone who is not impervious to the truth, and has made any reasonable effort to get at the facts that these men are wholly innocent of the crime which was used to put them behind the bars, and that they are kept there not because of guilt upon their part, but because of their activities as labor agitators."

The National Office, stated Abern is intensifying its campaign on behalf of Mooney and Billings. It is necessary to develop a greater mass pressure upon the authorities. A rotogravure pamphlet, profusely illustrated, is to be issued in the next couple of weeks by the National Office, and it is hoped to give the widest distribution to the Mooney-Billings case in this manner.

Liberal Wail for Kid Glove Imperialism

OUR CUBAN COLONY, by Leland H. Jenks; Vanguard Press, $1.

THIS is the first of a series of studies of typical examples of American imperialism which the American Fund for Public Service (Garland Fund) has undertaken. The series is appropriately edited by the tin Jesus of the New Historians, Harry Elmer Barnes, and promises, in spite of his passionate plea for a dispassionate study of the facts, to religiously reflect the liberal cry for kid-glove imperialism.

Dr. Jenks, himself, is a little more cold-blooded. He utters no pious exclamations of horror at the exploitation of Cuba. He cuts out the sob stuff, but makes the regulation plea for a prettier and incidentally more efficient imperialist policy.

After an excellent survey of Cuban-American relations, he recommends the revision of the Platt Amendment, which openly sanctions American intervention. Why? Because it has "outlived its usefulness" (to American imperialism, of course) and because a revision will "only bring into clearer light the character of our new concerns."

Jenks by no means recommends the complete rejection of the Amendment. Some of its provisions, he says, "would form suitable material for a treaty of mutual friendship, by which Cuba would agree to allow no foreign bases on the island and to enter into no agreements which would menace American interests."

Developing his program of a more efficient imperialist program, Jenks says:

"The United States is now the most powerful nation in the world, the most impregnable to attack, as menacing as any to other nations, the most conspicuous obect of international jealousy. Able to compel international recognition of our rights and most of our claims to right, we need friends more than legal status in the controversies in which we may be involved. And our abnormal relations with Cuba are becoming more of a liability than an asset in our efforts to defend ourselves by securing the good will of our Hispanic neighbors."

This program is by no means new. It is a reflection of a significant shift in American diplomacy which Morrow is now busy applying in Mexico, and which the United States put over at the Havana conference. Kid gloves may hide, but they don't wash the bloody hands of American imperialism.

It is in these new imperialist methods, put over by Wall Street, that Jenks sees hope for Latin America. "The great business aggregates, which are the most evident symbols of American power in Cuba, have given hostages for their sedate behavior to the New York money market," he says.

With this as a premise, Jenks proceeds to defend the bloody Machado dictatorship, which has butchered and tortured hundreds of Cuban labor leaders.

"Cries of alarm at the rottenness of Cuban politics or at the tyranny of Machado's remote imitation of Mussolini, threats or rumors of intervention, may agitate investors and disturb the conditions that have enabled Cuba to borrow money more cheaply than Florida and Cuban railways to get loans as favorably as American."

In the Machado regime, which has steadily served as a watchdog for the interests of the American Sugar Trust and J. P. Morgan and Co. and as an obedient puppet of imperialist and militarist policies of the United States, Jenks sees a movement towards Cuban "nationalism."

HARRY FREEMAN.

NEW BEDFORD: SLAVE DRIVERS' PARADISE

By A. B. MAGIL.

THE great pulse of the ship stops beating. Slowly the quivering boat cuts its way thru the dark silent water. Bells ring, there is the clanking of chains, the sound of feet running, voices. And New Bedford, city of smooth green lawns and textile mills, of ornamental wealth and starvation, of tight New England faces and warm dark southern European laughter, crawls meekly out of a wet gray dawn.

I was glad to shake the ship from my feet. I hadn't felt much at ease among my elegant traveling companions. Most of them were of the respectable well-to-do, business and professional men, clean - shaven, well-dressed, their shoes shined, their neckties in place, all their thoughts and emotions well-groomed, polished and neat. None of these had ever gone hungry, none of these had ever come home with aching limbs to dark dismal houses and watched the youth of their children swallowed up by the mills, chained to the relentless wheel of exploitation and wage-slavery.

These were the possessors of wealth and power, their manners impeccable, flaunting bright agreeable smiles.

A fine drizzling rain began to fall as I left the dock. A newsboy thrust a New Bedford Mercury in my face. Strike news. Joseph Costa, a young striker, had entered a classroom when the teacher was absent, had denounced the American flag and urged the children to pledge allegiance to the Red Flag of the workers. The teacher and the principal were indignant. Joseph Costa would pay dearly for his blasphemy.

Strike news. The end of the textile strike was near and leaders of the Textile Council were reported considering favorably the new "specialization" plan which the more progressive mill owners were advocating and which was absolutely necessary if the New Bedford industry was to survive. Mr. Batty and Mr. Binns repudiated the stand of the Communists and the Textile Mill Committees, etc.

Former Judge Panken, "the poor man's friend," is coming to sprinkle the poor people of New Bedford with some of his friendship. A pity so few of the poor people will be able to benefit by the Judge's kindness, as only a handful of them ever attend the Textile Council meetings. But at least the socialist party is sending its choicest fossils to drum up trade for Mr. Batty and Mr. Binns, who are compelled to while away the dull hours playing poker at their headquarters in the New Bedford Labor Temple.

II.

ONE million, one hundred thousand human beings earn their bread by slaving in the textile mills of this country. This is a larger number than is employed in any other basic industry and they constitute one of the most ruthlessly exploited sections of the American workingclass. Only about 30,000 of these 1,100,000 are organized in the official A. F. of L. union, the United Textile Workers of America, which has been in existence for some 36 years. (With the defection of several Passaic and New York locals at the recent U. T. W. convention in New York, the membership of the union has been greatly reduced.) Out of the more than a million textile slaves 28,000 have been thrust into the center of the stage in one of the epic struggles of the American class war—the New Bedford textile strike. At the time the strike was called only a few thousand of these workers had been organized in the American Federation of Textile Operatives whose Textile Council in New Bedford has since affiliated with the U. T. W.

William E. G. Batty, secretary of the New Bedford Textile Council, and Abraham Binns, treasurer, had for years been honored and respected members of the New Bedford community. Mr. Binns was elected Justice of the Peace, for which office he was eminently fitted by his years of experience as a servant of the mill owners. And in truth, it has been the sole endeavor of both Mr. Batty and Mr. Binns to promote peace in the New Bedford community even if the mill workers had to accept a dollar or so less a week, or work an hour or so longer, or operate a machine or so more. Mr. Batty and Mr. Binns were much esteemed by their fellow-citizens and more than once evoked the praise of press and pulpit for the spirit of service which animated all their activities.

Even so did Mr. James Tansey, president of the A. F. T. O., comport himself in the neighboring town of Fall River. So that in time his fellow-citizens chose Mr. Tansey as Commissioner of Police, in which office he spared no efforts to quell with neatness and dispatch every attempt of foreign hoodlums and agitators to create violence and overthrow the government and institutions which the founders of this country had established for the good of all.

And it was certainly very embarassing to Mr. Batty and Mr. Binns when the members of their union insisted on taking a strike vote on the ten per cent wage-cut which the mill owners had decided to present to them. But Mr. Batty and Mr. Binns would see to it that things should turn out as they should. Even as Mr. Tansey had seen to it in Fall River where the strike vote had unfortunately been just 11 votes "shy" of the requisite two-thirds. New Bedford strike voting in the past had for some reason suffered from similar "shyness."

But imagine the consternation of Mr. Batty and Mr. Binns when the workers insisted on taking a vote at an inappropriate time and it turned out overwhelmingly in favor of a strike. Imagine how Mr. Batty must have felt when Mr. Fleecem, the Big Mill Owner, stared at him coldly from his Rolls-Royce as it passed him on the street. And imagine the feelings of Mr. Binns, a Justice of the Peace too. . . .

And so the strike was called on April 16.

And it came to pass, after many weeks, that Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, acting president of the openshop National Civic Federation and labor faker extraordinary, arose at the convention of the United Textile Workers of America in New York City, and delivered one of his flaming, patented denunciations of the Communists for the part they were playing in the New Bedford textile strike.

Matthew was right. It was the Communists and the Textile Mill Committees that had forced the calling of the strike. It was they who had rallied the nearly 30,000 workers, given them fighting slogans and demands that were not merely a servile begging for crumbs. We want not only the revoking of the ten per cent wage-cut, but a 20 per cent increase, a 40-hour, five-day week and the abolition of the speed-up! This is what the strikers say, and they are saying it thru their new union, a real fighting union, the New Bedford Textile Workers' Union of the Textile Mill Committees.

The little Scotch weaver, Bill Murdoch, the hulking Yankee, Fred Beal, the Passaic veterans, Eli Keller, Jack Rubinstein and Ellen Dawson, Samieras, the eloquent Portuguese, August Pinto, the picket leader—these are the heroes of the New Bedford struggle in the minds of the workers. And the respectable citizens, Batty and Binns, are the hated renegades.

Yes, the Communists are active in New Bedford, tho there wasn't a single Communist there before the strike. Now there is a Party branch with over a hundred members, nearly all of them mill workers, a Young Workers League with about 90 members, and a branch of the Young Pioneers, embracing several hundred strikers' children.

I attended a meeting of the Young Workers League. Young boys and girls, practically all of them strikers, learning the elements of the class struggle—a term which probably few of them had even heard before the strike.

Some of these Portuguese girls are strikingly beautiful. One of them, who seemed to be quite conscious of her good looks and her brilliant smile, was unusually quick at answering questions. Comrade Therese is so gay and radiant, she doesn't look at all like a person who has spent many hours of her 17 years behind bleak mill walls.

Later I was told: Comrade Therese must go away; she must leave for the west at once. Comrade Therese has—T. B. Comrade Therese is so gay and radiant. . . .

III.

Several of us piled into the battered automobile of a comrade and he took us around the town. As we sped along thru the South End, he pointed out the various mills to me. Here was the Taber Mill, an ugly sullen structure, owned by John Sullivan, president of the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers' Association, and chief spokesman for the bosses. Here was the Nonquit Mill, the Potomska Mill, the Whitman Mill, where only a few weeks before a huge picket demonstration had been held at which 256 strikers were arrested after an attack by members of the National Guard wielding bayonets. Here was the Page Mill, in every day to grovel before the where about 65 scabs were sneaking bosses and do their bidding, traitors to their class.

And here is the Kilburn Mill. I look at it with surprise: a fine, modern building with ivy climbing up the walls. "But you ought to see the inside!" says the comrade at the wheel.

Mill after mill, slave-pen after slave-pen, all of them calling, calling: come in, we give you our dust and dreariness, the endless whirr of our machines, the long brutal hours of toil, the ache, the tiredness, our dark shadow covering all your lives. Come in, come in, we give you walls of ivy—and T. B.

FLOODS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20 (UP).—Flods in the Panuco River region have caused abandonment of homes, ranches and oil wells, a dispatch from Tampico said today. The damage was reported to be the heaviest in years. Rail service between Tampico and Monterey was suspended for three days.

The 100 Percenter

By EDWIN ROLFE.

Knowing (as John did) nothing of the way men act when men are roused from lethargy, and having nothing (as John had) to say to those he saw were starving, just as he starved, John was like a workhorse. Day by day he saw his sweat cement the granite tower, (the edifice his bone had made) to stay listless as ever, older every hour.

John's deathbed is a curious affair:
the posts are made of bone, the spring of nerves,
the mattress bleeding flesh. Infinite air, compressed from dizzy altitudes, now serves his skullface as a pillow. Overhead a vulture leers in solemn mockery (knowing what John had never known: that dead workers are dead before they cease to be).

Many Young Workers Organizations to Send Delegates to Youth Meet

OFFICE WORKERS PRAISE MEET AS SOLIDARITY MOVE

Conference Date Is Set for Sept. 29 and 30

Jerome Romain, chairman of the Organization Committee of the Office Workers Union, in a statement issued yesterday, endorsed the Working Youth Conference to be held at Labor Temple, Second Ave. and 14th St., Sept. 29 and 30, and called for its most energetic support on the part of the exploited office workers.

"The half million of office workers in the city of New York," said Romain, "must be made to realize that their lot will be battered only through organization.

Office Workers Exploited.

"The office workers are as much exploited and as poorly treated as are any other group of young unorganized workers in New York City. For that reason, the Office Workers Union, which was recently organized and which really fights in the interests of the office workers in New York, and tries to organize them, immediately and heartily endorsed the idea of calling a Working Youth Conference. We felt it imperative to bring the office workers into closer contact with other groups of young workers, so that a feeling of real solidarity would be established between the clerical and industrial workers. We want to have a strong office workers' representation at the conference next Saturday.

"The Executive Board of the Office Workers Union has elected delegates to represent the organization at the conference in the name of the union and pledges its utmost support to the Working Youth Conference so that it will be an overwhelming success."

Bakers Union, Local 164, of the Amalgamated Food Workers, have already elected delegates to the Working Youth Conference.

In addition to the unions that have already elected delegates, credentials from several youth clubs have been received. The Bronx Young Workers Culture Club, the Bronx Hungarian Youth Club, the Brownsville Youth Center and a Young Negro Club in Brownsville have discussed the matter and elected delegates.

Many Delegates.

The Hardware Workers Club of the Bronx, having heard a report by a speaker from the Working Youth Conference, has also elected delegates.

Many Girls to Attend.

At a meeting of ten young girl workers from the International Handkerchief Co. of the Lower Bronx three delegates were elected to the conference. The meeting was only a beginning. Another meeting will be held, at which 25 working girls are expected to be present and additional delegates elected.

At a meeting of girls in a batique shop, two delegates were elected to attend the Working Youth Conference.

It is expected that many meetings of young unorganized workers will take place during the week and many dozens of delegates will be chosen for the conference.

RECORD CROWD GREETS FOSTER

Foster called on all the workers to unite behind the International Labor Defense in its drive to force the state authorities to open the jail gates for those victims of the capitalist frame-up system.

Th espeaker pointed out that the Workers (Communist) Party had inherited the traditions of the revolutionary movement of the past, was the only active revolutionary force in the United States today and called on the radical and progressive elements in the state of Washington, the workers and poor farmers, to rally under its banner and help to carry on a more effective struggle against the capitalists and their government.

Large Meeting.

In contrast to the success of the meeting addressed by the Communist presidential candidate were the rallies of the national standard bearers of the S. L. P. who were obliged to hold their meetings at street corners not being able to collect enough people together to warrant the hiring of a hall. Neither the S. L. P. nor any other alleged working class political party was able so far to fill a hall in Aberdeen.

YANKS GAIN A FULL GAME ON ATHLETICS

The Yankees yesterday gained a full game lead on Philadelphia, by beating the Chicago White Sox, while the Athletics took a drubbing from Detroit. The Yanks' score was 5 to 2. Tom Zachary pitched his first complete game for the Yankees. He allowed 8 hits. Adkins pitched for the White Sox, allowing 7 hits to the Yanks. This was enough for the Yanks to win.

Lefty Grove was knocked out of the box by the Detroit Tigers, who scored 9 runs on 15 hits, against the Athletics' 4 runs for 7 hits. Rommel and Orwoll succeeded Grove in the box. Sam Rice, veteran on the Tigers, hit a homer. With 8 games to go for Philadelphia, the pennant seems assured for the Yanks.

To Organize the Textile Workers

The convention of textile mill committees, mill and union delegates now being held in New York City for the purpose of launching a new national textile workers' organization will unquestionably go down in history as a land-mark in the development of the militant labor movement in America.

Its historical timeliness is justification for its existence. Only at this moment, after the experience of the past few years, could such a convention prove successful. It was essential that the workers in many of the biggest centers become steeled in the fight against the employers, the government and the agents of the bosses at the head of the United Textile Workers Union. Without the experience of the struggles in Paterson, Passaic and New Bedford this conference would never have been possible.

It is indeed a tribute to the tremendous sweep of the movement for a new national textile organization that will set as its task the organization of the hundreds of thousands of mill slaves of the United States that this first convention has representation from more than 60 cities, while the last convention of the United Textile Workers, the corrupt American Federation of Labor organization, had delegates representing but 42 cities, some of them having on fictitious organizations.

Even though launched under favorable auspices no one should imagine for a moment that the task before the new organization is an easy one. In an organizational drive every inch of ground will have to be won against tremendous odds—against the combined resistance of the mill owners and their political agents in control of local and state governments, as well as the officials of the reactionary organization.

It is the duty of every militant worker to support to the utmost the new national organizations in various industries that are being created in the United States as a reflex of the increasing determination of the working class to resist the assaults of the employers upon the workers' standards of living.

Hoover Has Proved His Fitness to Borah

William E. Borah, republican chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, enthusiastically endorses the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for president of the United States. This is as it should be. It is eminently fitting that Borah, who started his public career in an attempt to become the executioner of militant leaders of the working class, Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, should support Hoover, one of the vilest murderers of the working class the world has ever seen. Mr. Borah asserts that Mr. Hoover has proved his fitness.

If Mr. Borah means that Hoover has succeeded where he failed he is right. Where Borah only attempted, through acting as prosecutor in a frame-up, to murder three American labor leaders, Herbert Hoover has succeeded in leaving his bloody imprint upon the working class of many nations and many climes. The novice abjectly bows before the master.

Hoover, while pretending to furnish food supplies to the victims of the world war, used his position to aid the bloody monster Horthy overthrow the Bolshevik government of Hungary and begin that systematic extermination of the working class that rages to this very day. Hoover had a hand in helping to establish those other twin hells for the working class—Poland and Roumania—where piles of corpses are monuments to his "fitness" to serve as an imperialist butcher. Truly a mighty example of "fitness" and one calculated to incite the admiration of Borah, who tried to hang three workers and failed.

Thus we see again that so-called liberals line up with the most vicious elements of oppression when a crisis approaches. Hoover symbolizes better than any public person today the malignant character of big capital, while Borah personifies the class corruption and vacillation of the labor-hating small industrialists who hope to get their share of plunder out of the war program of the United States government.

Hoover's conception of government is avowedly imperialist. Government does not exist for the benefit of the people who inhabit a country, but for the purpose of enslaving the workers and farmers to a few who own and control the banks and the industries. Hoover's latest exploit before his nomination for the presidency was to capitalize the calamity that befell the poor southern cotton growers in the Mississippi flood area in behalf of the mortgage bankers of New Orleans, who are part of the Wall Street combine. Under pretext of relieving the suffering of the population this man Hoover, whom Borah proclaims as eminently fit to be president, took advantage of the pitiful plight of the victims and bound them to the bankers, the loan mongers and mortgage brokers.

The selection of such a man as candidate of the political party that will most certainly carry the election is a warning signal to the working class. It means that for the next four years there will head the government of Wall Street one who is an unscrupulous adept at wreaking misery and devastation upon whole populations for the aggrandizement of imperialism. Just such a man is required to carry out the present policies of the United States ruling class. His nomination is part of the war preparations of the Wall Street bandits.

Let no one imagine, however, that the republican party candidates alone are assassins of the working class. The same indictment may be drawn against the democratic party, the party of the imperialist warmonger, Woodrow Wilson, who hurled the workers of this country into the last war in order to protect the investments in Europe of the House of Morgan. Likewise the socialist party is a potential murderer of the working class. The only reason Berger, Hillquit and Thomas have not committed the crimes of their European comrades, Scheidemann, Ebert, Noske, Mueller, Henderson and MacDonald (especially the latter's stand on India) is because they have not had the opportunity. When the Hoovers and Borahs are no longer able to function the socialists hope to get their chance.

Against the assassins of the working class there stands but one party in this campaign, defending always the elementary interests of the working class and the farmers; the Party that realizes that the principal question before the workers of the whole world is the danger of another imperialist war. Only the Workers (Communist) Party has a revolutionary program against imperialism.

Communism alone can defeat the Hoovers, the Borahs and the class they represent.

Defender of "Racial Integrity"

Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia has denied a pardon to Mary Hall, a white woman convicted of violating a law for "racial integrity" when she married a Negro, Mott Wood. The woman was convicted for violating the law which prohibits the intermarriage of races and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. In denying the pardon, Governor Byrd said:

> "The necessity for racial integrity is so important that after mature consideration I find myself unable to act favorably on this application, notwithstanding the fact that it is endorsed by the trial officials and other persons."

Were the case not so tragic an example of white chauvinism, it would be exceedingly comical coming from the south, where the favorite pastime of the male white aristocracy is debauching the young daughters of the Negro workers and farmers. And where many of the elegant ladies, wives of the eminences of old Virginia, have their favorites among the male Negroes of their neighborhoods with whom they have clandestine meetings. The poor, exploited and terrorized Negroes dare not refuse advances from such women, yet they know full well that if by chance they are caught in compromising circumstances they are charged with assaulting the woman and usually lynched by the upholders of racial integrity as a measure for the preservation of the "purity" of bourgeois womanhood among the "best people" of the south.

It is high time that the Negroes of the south as well as those who have been herded into the industrial north abandon the old parties of capitalism—the democratic and republican parties—and rally to the support of the one party that stands for full social equality of races, the Workers (Communist) Party.

A Taste of U. S. 'Democracy'

By FRANK HENDERSON

Police Back Lewis' Thugs; Governor Donahey's "Good Will" Messengers

The public schools have opened in Belmont County—the county in Ohio where constitutional rights have been scrapped and free speech prohibited by "law."

Not only in Belmont County have the schools opened, but the entire educational system of our "free land" has been set in motion. After nine months of patriotic and militarist propaganda most of the students will be thoroughly saturated with the 100 per cent bunkum, the boss-controlled schools will make them obedient, patriotic slaves, willing to do the bidding of the bosses at any sacrifice.

In Belmont County, George V. Waddell, the prosecuting attorney, stated publicly that constitutional rights are things learned in school and should be forgotten later.

What happened in Belmont County during "vacation" which prompted this frank declaration by the prosecutor?

American Democracy.

During the miners' strike the coal diggers, especially in Belmont County, often tasted the bitterness of American democracy. Time and again the miners have felt the sting of capitalist justice.

The struggles of the rank and file miners have been marked by murders and sluggings by the treacherous Lewis machine, coupled with severe sentences and penalties by the coal-capitalists' courts. Many sections of the strike area have witnessed and suffered from Lewis treachery and police brutality. All sections have gotten extreme "justice" from the courts. Belmont County has had more than its share of this capitalist justice, Lewis treachery and police brutality. In other sections men received such "treatment," but in Belmont County women and children were as mercilessly handled as the men. The jailing of the fifty-one women of Lansing is typical of the treatment received by the miners' wives and children.

Hypocritical Good Will.

A few days before the treatment of the Lansing women the capitalist press publicly announced that Governor Donahey was sending his "messengers of good will" to Eastern Ohio to feed the starving babies. Instead, the miners saw national guardsmen, armed with guns, ammunition and gas bombs. The "messengers" were not long in Belmont County before the miners' wives and children got the first taste of the governor's good will. Women and children, peacefully picketing the Mutton Hollow mine, were gased by the bombs of the guardsmen and several were brutally beaten. This was not all. A few days later fifty-one women and children were herded at the point of bayonets into the St. Clairsville jail, with the aid of Sheriff Hardesty—renowned for his strike-breaking activities. Among the fifty-one arrested were women nearing motherhood, others nursing babies and several young girls. They were all packed into dirty, crowded cells and forced to sleep on hard, steel floors.

Democracy, in the form of coal operators' dictatorship, existed in Belmont County. During vacation the miners' children got a lesson in democracy and American freedom.

Break Up Meetings.

Meetings of progressive miners all over the county were broken up by the police, acting on instructions from the sub-district officials—cohorts of John L. Lewis. Militant leaders were waylaid and beaten by Lewis gangsters. Authorities worked hand in hand with the Lewis machine against the rank and file coal diggers. Courts—places of justice—excused Lewis men, but passed severe sentences and penalties on progressive miners. "Freedom" of assemblage and "freedom" of speech was prohibited by threats of violence from patriotic organizations and police orders. This happened to the fathers of miners' children, in spite of the things taught in schools.

Just recently in Martins Ferry, where free speech is prohibited by the "law" of the Steel Trust, six men were arrested for an attempt to hold a Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting. These men are charged with "unlawful" assemblage. This breaking up of the meeting is a result of pressure on the authorities by the U. S. Steel Corporation which has mills in Martins Ferry. The W. C. T. U. and the Junior Mechanics, an organization of the bosses, sent resolutions to the police commending them on their fine work in breaking up the meetings of the "reds." This attack was also against "constitutional rights." Where are rights learned in school?

Workers to Demand Final Freedom.

Truly, Prosecutor Waddell of Belmont County spoke the truth. Constitutional rights are merely things taught in schools. The teachers of the county may have to answer some very awkward questions when the miners' children ask about rights of citizens to assemble and speak. Perhaps the children of the miners will be able to teach the teachers something about this land of freedom and democracy. Tradition's chains cannot hold forever. The young miners will not only learn this and make economic demands, but will demand political change in government. A government to direct the affairs of the workers and farmers of this country, not for the profit of a few, but for the welfare of all.

Negro Workers Should Join Workers Party

By GEORGE PADMORE.

Communists Fight for Full Social, Political and Economic Rights of All Races and Peoples

THE Workers (Communist) Party of America is a section of a great international working class movement, which embraces in its ranks the oppressed and exploited workers of all nations, countries and races—whites, Negroes, Chinese, Indians, etc.

Communism knows no color line. It is the bitter foe of race prejudice, which is fostered by the capitalist class in order to keep the white and Negro workers apart, so as to be able to exploit both groups alike. Communists therefore advocate the doctrine of racial equality, and fight militantly for the full social, political and economic rights of all races and peoples, irrespective of the colors of their skins.

Wherever capitalism exists, race prejudice is the order of the day. In America, the ruling class—the Rockefellers, Morgans, Fords, Mellons, Coolidges, Hoovers, and the Al Smiths—give their sanction to this disgraceful practice and permit it to exist because it enables them to play one group against the other—thereby distracting the minds of the workers from their horrible conditions.

The same method of "divide and rule" is adopted by the British imperialists in India and other colonial possessions. In the east the British overlords play the India workers against the Mohammedans and thereby keep them divided and weak. In the West Indies and Africa the imperialists create a mulatto caste and use this as a buffer class to keep the large masses fighting among themselves, while the masters rob them of their lands and exploit their labor power. There is only one way of abolishing race prejudice and that is by abolishing capitalism, which creates and fosters this social disease. Both the white and colored workers must get wise to these tricks of the master class and unite to defeat their oppressors. The sooner workers realize that their common interest lies in uniting into a powerful labor movement, under the revolutionary leadership of the Communist Party, the sooner will they be able to emancipate themselves from the yoke of wage slavery.

Labor Misleaders.

In this dirty game of "divide and rule," the bosses are ably assisted by such lackeys as William Green, Matt Woll, John Lewis, Frank Morrison, who, by their narrow craft policy and Negro-hating attitude, keep Negro workers out of the unions, thus leaving them to be used as scabs against their white brothers.

The Communists, on the other hand, fight vigilantly against this shameful practice, and demand admission of Negro workers into the ranks of organized labor on an equal basis with the whites.

A Negro miner named William Boyce was elected vice-president of the newly organized mine union at Pittsburgh. This is the first time in the history of the labor movement in America that a Negro has been elected to such an office, which has jurisdiction over hundreds of thousands of both white and Negro miners. This is an indication of a new trend in the left wing labor movement.

Champions of Freedom.

The Communist Party is the only political organization in the United States which champions the cause of the 12 million Negroes, the most exploited section of the American working class. Unlike all other parties, republicans, democrats and socialists, the Communists actually engage in a genuine struggle to emancipate the Negro workers from their present condition of destitution and degradation.

The Party Platform.

The Workers (Communist) Party at its National Nominating Convention, not only had the largest delegation of Negro workers assembled on such an occasion in the history of America, but drew up and adopted a plank on the Negro question which is the most far-reaching and historic document by a political party in this country in the interests of the Negro workers. The Negro delegates were active participants in the convention, and were nominated to office on various state tickets.

Lovett Fort-Whitman was named for comptroller of the state of New York; Richard B. Moore for congress from the 21st congressional district in Harlem; Edward Welsh for assemblyman in the same district. Other Negroes are representing the Party on its working class program in other states.

The true test of the honesty and sincerity of a political party is what it does, not merely what it professes, and in this respect the Workers (Communist) Party openly lives up to its program as being the vanguard of the entire working class, irrespective of race, color, or creed.

The following are some of the demands, embodied in the program of the party:

The abolition of race discrimination, segregation of Negroes, Jim Crow laws, laws which disfranchise Negroes, which forbid intermarriage, which prevent Negro children from attending public schools. They demand a federal law against lynching, equal opportunity for Negroes and equal pay, abolition of all restrictions in trade unions against Negro membership, and abolition of the convict lease system and the chain gang, and of discriminatory practices in courts.

Fight Against Imperialism.

The Communists are the only ones who oppose and struggle against imperialism, which means the enslavement of the colonial peoples in China, India, Africa, Latin America, and other parts of the world. They openly adopt methods to prevent capitalists of their own countries from carrying out their oppressive schemes to rob the so-called "backward" peoples of their freedom. It was the Communists of France, led by Doriot, who conducted a heroic struggle against the French imperialist war on the Riffian tribes in Morocco. Doriot and hundreds of French workers were arrested and imprisoned. The same thing recently happened here in America. On July 3, 1928, a group of Communists demonstrated in an anti-imperialist demonstration in Wall St., the center of the banking interests of America. The demonstrators carried banners carrying such slogans as "Freedom for Black Haiti and Liberia," "Withdraw the Marines From Nicaragua and China," "Liberty for the Phillipines, Porto Rico and Cuba." These banners were torn down by the Tammany Hall police and the workers were arrested and carried before a capitalist judge who did the bidding of his political masters by sentencing them to jail.

"Daily" Leads Fight.

Among the leaders was the editor of the Daily Worker. This paper, unlike the capitalist sheets, is always on the side of the Negroes, for it realizes that the capitalist oppressors are always out to slander the Negro race in order to keep them on a servile and degraded position. This is how the Communists show their real leadership by actively participating in the every-day struggles of the workers and the oppressed colonial masses, while the republicans, democrats and socialists oppose them and do all in their power to rob and exploit the working class.

Negro workers must wake up and realize that their place is with the Communists—the friends and champions of their race, and not with the republicans and democrats, who oppress the workers, black as well as white in America. Every honest Negro who is devoted to the uplift of his race and class, and desires the freedom of his people at home and abroad, should join the Workers (Communist) Party which unites the workers and poor farmers of all races and colors to fight against the capitalists-imperialists.

Told You So

JOHN SPARGO, the ex-parson who was once a dim light in the socialist party is now a "voluntary" publicity man for the power trust. John himself admits that he does not get a nickel for it. John says that everybody with any sense ought to change his mind frequently to keep his head in trim. Before the war John believed that capitalism was a wicked institution and should be substituted by a social order, in which the preacher would receive the full social value of his hocus pocus. But now John believes that the preacher should get paid.

T. J. O'Flaherty

RECENTLY it developed that the power interests were supplying public schools with books in which Insull and other power grabbers were represented as public benefactors. Somebody reminded Spargo that his name was lost in the list of literary men who laid their talents at the feet of the power trust. John denied the polite insinuation, but, as if he sufficiently got insulated as well as insulted he began to write letters to the capitalist press, who stood up for private ownership of water power, praising them for their patriotic services.

NOT CONTENT with doing the right thing by the power magnates, John thot it was time to say a good word for America's docile labor leaders. The New York Times had an editorial praising the British labor fakers for accepting the Mond scheme of class collaboration. Somehow or other it never occurred to the editorial writer to say, "Of course our own labor leaders have set an example in the virtue of class peace and co-operation between employers and employes, which is now being accepted by the labor movement of the rest of the world excepting Soviet Russia where the Bolshevik dictatorship, etc." John pounced on the chance to break into print again. From his home in Old Bennington, Vermont, which he owes to the generosity of a socialist woman, who presented him with the domicile in order that he might be able to serve the cause without having to worry about paying rent, the renegade praised the "constructive character" of the American labor leadership for their policy of transforming the trade unions from instruments of struggle against the employing classes into unofficial company unions. This fellow's record outsmells the Queens sewer scandal.

ANYBODY who knows the situation in Wisconsin will immediately see the joke in this boast. It is unnecessary to comment on the character of an alleged disciple of Marx who would vote for a capitalist party, but the fact is that the LaFollette machine has been the chief competitor of the House of Berger for many years and in order to justify his political existence Berger had to pose as a socialist and make wry faces at the capitalist system, while slamming the revolutionists. Now Berger is losing out. There is no longer any fundamental difference between the program of the socialist party and the LaFollette-Al Smith platitudes on the "rights of the people" so they are deserting the House of Berger for the older and more respectable House of LaFollette. More later on about Wisconsin, LaFollette and the mythical LaFollette vote that the socialist party claimed for itself in 1924 which Frank P. Walsh promises to lead into the Al Smith camp in 1928.

Leading officers of the left wing trade unions in New York and heads of all the left wing oppositions in the right wing union yesterday met in conference at the Workers Center, 26 Union Square, and mapped out plans for carrying through an intense campaign for the Workers (Communist) Party ticket in the fall elections.

A similar meeting was held recently to prepare preliminary plans, and the meeting last night prepared to carry into effect its previous discussions and the ones made yesterday.

Beginning Tuesday, the committee announces through its secretary, A. Stenzer, who is also chairman of the Joint Board of the left wing Cloak Makers Union, open-air metings will begin in all the residential and industrial sections where workers in the city's garment industries can be reached.

Plan Workers' Children Mass Meet Today at 1

GITLOW EXPOSES FARM 'RELIEF' OF HOOVER, SMITH

Tells Bismarck, N. D., Meet Alliance With Workers Only Hope

Stresses War Danger

Knutsen Scores Fake Progressives

BISMARCK, N. D., Sept. 23.—Exposing the hollowness of the capitalist presidential candidates' pretentions towards helping the farmers, Benjamin Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party, spoke here in Bismarck, the heart of the spring wheat belt, on Saturday.

Gitlow showed familiarity with the farmers' problem. After showing that the republican and democratic parties were tools of the capitalists who have kept the American farmers in bondage, Gitlow read and explained the platform of the Workers Party on the farm question, and stated that the solution of the farm problem was for the farmers to ally with the workers in the cities for the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government.

Conditions Worse

Gitlow stated that the condition of the farmers was steadily becoming worse. He produced facts showing that the mortgage tenantry evil was increasing, that the entire farm family was exploited, and that farm population was actually decreasing. North Dakota was cited as a concrete example of this.

"The farmers have not participated in the Wall Street prosperity," Gitlow said. He emphasized the fact that the foreign born had produced great wealth, but had not shared in it.

Explaining the McNary-Haugen bill, Gitlow pointed out that both Hoover and Smith opposed the equalization fee because it was a tax on big business. Since Wall Street would have charge of executing the act, the McNary-Haugen Bill would not solve the farm problem.

Al Wants Fake Probe

Concerning Smith's desire for a board to investigate farm conditions, Gitlow said: "We have had too many of such investigations."

Gitlow showed the benefits of the workers' and farmers' government to the farmers of the Soviet Union. He also stressed the war danger. Alfred Knutsen, candidate for U. S. senator on the Farmer-Labor ticket, and backed by the Workers Party, was chairman. In introducing Gitlow he stated that the so-called progressives and fake farmer-laborites, such as Norris, Nye, and Frazier, who rushed to the support of Hoover and Smith, were not for poor farmers. "We are fortunate to have in the field the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party, who really represent the interests of the workers and farmers," he said.

NEW DANGER IN RISING FLOODS

Starving Refugees Roam Florida

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 23.—While hundreds of refugees roam the country homeless and in a semi-starving state, danger to new disaster appeared imminent as news was received here that the flood waters in Lake Okeechobee and in the region for several miles back of its shore line are continuing to rise.

The Kissimmee River, which drains the Central Florida ridge and lake section, is pouring twice as much water into Lake Okeechobee as the outlet canals can carry away, reports state, and there is great danger that one road to Belleglade and vicinity will be completely washed away.

Chiefs of New National Textile Workers' Union

Amidst tremendous enthusiasm, delegates to the convention which formed the new National Textile Workers' Union of America late last night elected James P. Reid, veteran labor fighter, as president of the new organization and Albert Weisbord, leader of the famous Passaic strike and other textile struggles, as secretary-treasurer.

14 YEAR STRIKER LEADS STRUGGLE

E. Rodriques Fights For New Union

By SOL AUERBACH.

There was a meeting of strikers in fall River recently. The Textile Mills Committee was leading the workers of the American Printing Company. At this meeting a small girl with lively black eyes, long curling hair and a rebel's snub nose asked the chairman if she could speak. "But what will you say to the workers?" asked the chairman.

"Leave it to me, I know what to tell them. I'm a worker myself." And when Emma Roderiques, 14-year-old worker and striker of the American Printing Company spoke, she went straight to the heart and thoughts of the listening workers.

Since then she has been a militant leader in Fall River, striking courage and the unbreakable determination of the working class struggle into the hearts of adult workers as well as their children.

Slave To Machine.

Her father worked in the mill, her seventeen and twenty year old sisters worked in the mill, and when Emma reached her fourteenth year and was in the seventh grade she did as all other workers' children in the New England Textile centers must—she turned her fourteen years over to the machines. Emma became a "doffer" in the American Printing Company and sold 44 hours

Strikers Here To Build New Textile Union

By AMY SCHECHTER.

The New Bedford and Fall River convention delegations, picked fighters, coming out of the struggle and going back into the struggle, were a living symbol of the militant new union launched at the convention. From the moment the strikers marched into the convention hall here, singing strike songs, swinging down the aisles in picket formation, they became the heart of the great millworkers' gathering.

They came straight from the picket lines, from marching up and down the windswept streets before the millgates, from being clubbed and arrested. They will be back there again today ready to carry on the fight. Even their leaving for the convention was a gesture of defiance to the millowners. Both in New Bedford and Fall River they tried to block the delegations, realizing the new strength that will flow into the strike when the delegates return with word of the new fighting national organization back of the strike.

It is interesting that prac-

SEWER GANG ON TRIAL.

The cases of the politicians involved in the Queens sewer scandal, which has been dragging through the courts for more than a year, will be tried at the Queens County Courthouse, Long Island City, today.

Although enough evidence exists to convict many of the sewer grafters, including former borough president, Maurice E. Connolly, of Queens, it is thought that the prosecution will continue to soft-pedal the case, merely making the show of "prosecuting" to gain more votes in the coming elections.

PREDICTS STRONG UNION

Reid Tells of Fall River Textile Strike

By A. B. MAGIL

Textile worker for many years, president of one of the early textile unions in this country, leader of strikes, active on the political field as a member of the socialist labor party and of the socialist party where he was always identified with the left wing—this has been the career of James J. Reid, one of the leaders of the Fall River strike, who headed a delegation of 26 Fall River mill workers at the National Textile Convention.

Reid is one of the real textile veterans in this country and his experience has included all sorts of tight situations. Consequently, he felt a little proud, as he sat at the great convention in Irving Plaza, that the Fall River delegation had outwitted the bosses and police in

YOUNG TEXTILE STRIKER SPEAKS

Figuerido Tells of Mill Struggle

By EDWIN ROLFE

Joe Figuerido, a nineteen-year-old youth who went on strike with 20,000 of his fellow-workers in New Bedford 23 weeks ago, is small and pale. But one can tell the moment he begins to speak that there is strength and fire in his factory-stunted body, and a consuming faith in his fellow-workers, and a mind that sees sharply the struggle of the workers against the capitalist system.

When I began to speak to him Saturday evening, perhaps a minute after he finished his fiery speech to the young workers gathered at the Workers Center, the crowd was still cheering him. Panting a bit from the exertions of his speech, he walked quietly to a corner of the hall with me, genuinely happy at the sight of so many young workers pledging their solidarity toward the cause of his comrades, quiet, totally unconscious of the shouting about him.

Joe Fiquerido came to New Bed-

BOOK BOOTHS TO FEATURE BAZAAR

Upholstery Workers Meet Tomorrow

Workers who attend the great Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar (and what worker will not?) at Madison Square Garden, October 4, 5, 6, and 7 will have no excuse for being ignorant of any subject pertaining to the revolutionary movement. The special booths containing hundreds of books will enable every worker to acquire not the equivalent of a college education, as the fake bourgeois advertisements say, but a thoro grounding in the theoretical side of the various revolutionary trends, as well as a knowledge of the labor movement thruout the world.

New York City is seething with activity—all for the bazaar. But the National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee says it will have to do a lot more seething if the bazaar is to be a success. Tickets must be sold, articles collected and greetings and names for the Red Honor Roll gathered in far greater numbers, it is stated.

Tomorrow all upholstery workers who wish to take part in the work for the bazaar are asked to report immediately after work at a special bazaar meeting at 30 Union Square.

Rank and File Roars Refusal to Pay Machine Dues

Denounce Corruption

Great Ovation Given Freeman Thompson

Over 2,000 miners with large delegations from all the central and northern fields called together by Local 2708 at a meeting in Belleview Park, by unanimous votes decided to pay no dues into the United Mine Workers of America and to start from Collinsville tomorrow with an auto caravan of striking miners to cover the entire northern fields bringing all out on strike and then to move en masse on the south. Committees were elected, arrangements completed and out of this mass of workers came the first great drive to break the strangle hold of the faker-operator combine and clear the deck for the National Miners' Union. It was a wonderful and inspiring meeting.

A small leaflet issued by Local 2708 called this meeting of miners together. But there was more to the organization of the meeting than the call. The hard day by day work carried on by the old Save-the-Union Committee, the mass meetings held during the last six months, all of the energy expended by the left wing in many a hard fight was now bearing fruit. The latest steal of the fakers in the referendum vote the brutal police-gangster tactics of Lewis at Pittsburgh, these were the points which joined to the wage reduction brought the miners up in roaring revolt.

Old Spirit Still Alive!

At 2:15 p. m. about 1,500 miners were already in the park. A buzz of conversation rose over the whole gathering. Remarks like these were heard on every side: "Do you think Fishwick will come?" "Hell, no, he hasn't got the guts." "Well, buddy,

MINOR, DUNNE TO BE AT RED RALLY

Red Candidates Will Score Hoover Lies

William F. Dunne, Communist candidate for governor of New York and Robert Minor, Communist candidate for U. S. Senate and other state and local candidates on the Workers (Communist) Party platform of the class struggle, will addess the first huge political rally to be held in New York this Friday, September 28, 8 p. m., at the Central Opera House, 67th street, near third avenue.

One of the major problems confronting the workers of New York state, that of unemployment, will be thoroughly analyzed by the Communist speakers next Friday, and the lies of the efficiency expert Hoover exposed with regard to that presidential candidate's roseate picture of the lot of American workers. The fake "statistics" of Secretary of Labor Davis who recently issued a statement saying that "in a remarkably brief period of time our country has reached a prosperity higher than ever before" and that "for this remarkable feat the American people are largely indebted to Herbert Hoover," will also be unmasked by the Red candidates as campaign bunk.

Jim Reid Chosen President, Weisbord Sec'y-Treas. of New Mill Workers' Organization.

Workers Party Greets Meet; Hails Militant Program; Pledges Support in Struggles

A new national organization of textile workers was launched in this city yesterday.

One hundred and sixty-nine delegates, coming from 21 cities in seven New England and Middle Atlantic states, sent here by an electorate of 18,320 members who influence and lead 131,623 mill workers, enthusiastically voted a resolution formally establishing the National Textile Workers Union of America.

After a convention now completing its second day, held here at Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Place, the delegates, with remarkable efficiency and dispatch, hammered out the framework of a union that will be industrial in form, highly centralized and yet completely under the domination of the rank and file.

James Reid and Albert Weisbord were chosen as the chief officers of the new national organization. Great enthusiasm and prolonged cheering marked the selection of these two figures in textile struggles as colleagues in the leadership of the destiny of the union. Reid was elected president and Weisbord, secretary-treasurer. A national council of 30 was then elected, who in the near future will meet to elect from among themselves a smaller executive center of 11.

Extending the warmest greetings and congratulations of the Workers (Communist) Party at the consumation of their historic task, John J. Ballam, told the delegates after the tumultuous ovation had subsided, that the Party members always stand at the forefront of the workers struggles and are always willing to sacrifice their time and energies for the workers. He pledged the moral and financial support of the Workers Party to the strikes now going on and to be called in the future. M. Yusim, greeted the convention in the name of the Young Workers (Communist) League.

Presenting a remarkable picture of freshness, optimism, fire and enthusiasm, the delegates, ranging in age from white haired but sturdy men and women to young workers under twenty, reported of the miserable conditions in their locality, of the absence, or degeneracy of a workers' organization in their sections and told how the masses of textile workers were eagerly waiting for a real union to come into the field.

Leaders of the needle trades unions, of the miners union of the Workers International Relief and of the International Labor Defense then addressed the delegates and extended to them the greetings of the masses of workers they represented. Fred Biedenkapp, spoke for the W. I. R., Max Schactman for the I. L. D. After a Fall River strikers, a New Bedford strike and a Passaic workers had addressed to the convention, the resolutions and credential committees were elected and went to work immediately.

The report of Weisbord which has listened to with close attention by the delegates, was interrupted by a recess for dinner, the completion of the report being made after the convention had come together again.

A discussion, illuminating with simple words the terrific exploitation of the textile workers, then took up the rest of the session. Delegate after delegate rose and in the discussion of Weisbord's report stressed the dire need of the mill slaves for an organization that will not act as an agency of the bosses by helping to depress conditions,

NANKING SHUTS HEADQUARTERS OF 31 UNIONS

Resentment Spreads Thru China

PEKING, China, Sept. 23.—Intense resentment has followed the closing and sealing by officials of the Nanking government of 31 union headquarters in this city on charges that they are Communists in character. It is estimated that similar action will be taken in all Chinese cities where it has not yet been put into effect.

Leaders of the unions, which grew from nothing to a membership of at least 39,000 since the Nanking armies entered this city, were hiding yesterday while Kuomintang officers ransacked the working class districts of Peking and the neighboring country in a fierce hunt to unearth them. It is understood that execution faces the leaders should they be caught.

Heavy guards around the former headquarters are attempting to carry out the instructions of the government to watch for and seize any of the leaders who may have eluded the search of the buildings. It is the opinion of the officials that certain of the leaders succeeded in secreting themselves in the headquarters.

News of the closing of the union headquarters in Peking is reported to have reached Shanghai and other cities farther south and to have led to the opinion that it will have strong repercussion among workers in various sections of the country.

Needle Trades To Hold Meeting Tomorrow

The Needle Trade Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party will carry its campaign to the great masses of needle workers by beginning a series of open air meetings, the first of which will be held tomorrow evening at 110th St. and Fifth Ave.

Among those who will speak are L. Rosenthal, chairman; H. Koretz; F. Cooper, of the Cloak and Dressmakers; Skolnick of the Furriers; Liptzen of the Amalgamated; Eva Shafran of the Millinery Workers and Nicholas Napoli, Workers (Communist) Party candidate in the eighteenth senatorial district.

DELAY FLIGHT.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 23.—Flight of the new German dirigible Count Zeppelin will be delayed until next Wednesday, it was announced yesterday, pending thorogoing alterations.

HEAR WEISBORD REPORT AT MEET

Time Ripe for New Union, He Says

It was after the leaders of the other militant unions had greeted the delegates, and after workers representing the textile strike centers of New Bedford and Fall River had spoken, that Albert Weisbord was introduced to deliver the report on the general situation in the textile industry as a whole.

Holding the keenest interest of every delegate and visitor in the convention hall for over two hours, Weisbord launched into an exhaustive report of the status of the industry nationally and internationally, the relation of industrial conditions to the tremendous problem of hammering out a national organization of mill operatives, and the methods of struggle the new union will use in accomplishing this aim.

Despite all the resources and years of familiarity with the textile industry which the leaders of the A. F. of L. union are presumed to have, Weisbord declared their real ignorance and incompetency is exposed every time they try to talk concretely about either the trade or the position of the workers in it. To substantiate this Weisbord pointed to the public statements of McMahon, president of the U. T. W., wherein he spoke of the "1,590,000 textile workers in the country," when in reality there are only 1,100,000, to the "450,000 mill workers in the South," when there are 290,000 and other similar pompous guesses." How can a union leadership hope to plan for nation-wide organization work, when their acquaintance with the industry rests on a foundation of rumors and unchecked misinformation?" Weisbord demanded in stressing the necessity of obtaining an accurate picture of all phases of the industry before challenging its masters.

Struggle Sharpening.

Tracing skillfully the line of development of United States textile manufacture to its present position of undisputed leadership in quantity of production, Weisbord showed the

Murdoch and Keller Tell of New Union

"The textile workers of New Bedford feel that their only salvation is to form a real textile workers union that will fight militantly for the interests of the workers. That union is being formed here today and I will take the message of the National Textile Workers Union back to the eager workers of New Bedford," said Eli Keller, general organizer of the New Bedford Textile Union, in an interview yesterday.

William Murdoch, organizer of the New Bedford Textile Union, his short and stock frame afire with the spirit and enthusiasm of the convention of fighting workers, exclaimed: "The workers have learnt their lesson—the old union has failed, and they have also learned that the foul Batty crew has played

Plan for Education

Greet New Union of the Coal Miners

At the second session of the convention delegates from 21 cities and states unanimously passed nine major resolutions dealing with the policies of the new union. Chief among these are the resolutions on organizational work, injunctions and independent political action and economic demands.

Other resolutions deal with strike relief, in connection with which the affiliation with the Workers International Relief is specifically mentioned; endorsement of the International Labor Defense and condemnation of "the capitalist murderers of Sacco and Vanzetti"; greetings to and endorsement of the new Mine Workers Union recently formed in Pittsburgh, the new Furriers Union and the National Organization Committee of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, formed to organize a new union, and endorsement of labor sports and the Labor Sports Union, an organization formed to promote sports among workers to build up class solidarity.

The resolution of organizational activity calls for the division of the textile industry into territorial divisions and the assignment of organizers to each division.

The most detailed resolution introduced and passed was the one on educational activities. "The A. F. of L. and United Textile Workers policy on education," reads the resolution, "is one of class collaboration," and in the body of the resolution detailed planks are laid "for the systematic and immediate establishment of a comprehensive educational system." The plans provide for speakers, teachers, research workers, the establishment of a weekly national textile newspaper and periodical mill papers, the building up of a system of worker-correspondents, the establishment of a school for union members with courses in economics and trade union history and problems, and for the organization of educational tours of English and foreign-language union organizers.

Beginning with a condemnation of the American Federation of Labor's support of the political parties of "Andrew W. Mellon, who was one of the chief breakers of the recent miners' strike," John J. Raskob and DuPont, the resolution on "Injunctions and Independent Political Action" calls for the militant carrying on of all strikes, mass violation of injunctions, mass picketing and the formation of a Labor Party "to represent the interests of workers and which would not permit the use of government machinery to break strikes."

The resolution on social demands and the unemployment problem in the industry call for the organization of all unemployed textile workers into the new National Textile Workers Union and for the establishment of a fund for the relief of the unemployed, maintained by the employers and controlled by the union. Some of the demands made are for the 40-hour, 5-day week; for the abolition of the speed-up system, overtime work, wage cuts and low wages. The resolution ends with a demand for equal pay for equal work for women and youth workers.

Another resolution dealt with work among children and the role of the union's activity among women who constitute a large percentage of the total number of textile operatives.

The resolution on children points out that the mill owners realize well enough the important role played by children in determining the spirit among the workers, shown by their intense activity in propagandizing the children and to poison their minds against the aspirations of the working class. The resolution then calls for the organization of the children into permanent bodies that are to be involved in all activities of the workers.

The resolution on women calls for the greatest diligence in organizing women who constitute almost half the total number of workers.

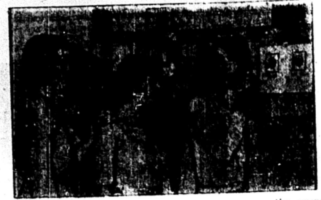
Capitalism Trains Women Gunners



Increasing attention is being given to gunnery practice among women by the American militarists. Women and girls have entered rifle contests in a number of the Citizens Military Training Camps maintained to prepare the workers to fight the bosses' next war for them. ford from Boston when he was four years old. His schooling, like that of the children of all textile workers, was irregular. Whenever times were bad he had to stop school to aid the family by working in the factories. At the age of thirteen, however, his schooling was definitely cut short. He entered the factory, where he was employed until the workers walked out in strike more than five months ago.

In spite of his meager education, he speaks a clear and concise English. "It was only five weeks after we struck," he said, "that I entered the Young Workers League. Before then, I had spoken now and then at textile meetings, but not very regularly."

I asked him how he had first heard of the Young Workers League.

"Well, Gil Green spoke up at New Bedford one day and happened to mention the League. I was interested, even though he said very little about it, and I went over to him and asked him about it after the speech was over. Immediately I saw that it was my organization, and the organization of all working class youth, and I gave in my application for membership.

"At that time John Porter was unit organizer of the League in New Bedford, but after I had been a member for only three weeks he was arrested. Then I became unit organizer."

"The membership of the League in New Bedford," he said in answer to my questions, "is now about 140. Most of the members are also members of the Textile Mills Committee. They are on the picket line day and night and participate in a great deal of union activity.

"During International Youth Day we had two meetings in town. Jack Rubinstein, Kay, Hareint Lanzoni and I spoke. There were almost 300 young workers at each of these meetings. They were so successful that 35 new applications for admission into the League were received that day."

He stopped now and then while we spoke, to greet fellow strikers of his who passed the place where we sat every few minutes. Now it was for a question, now for a hearty handclasp with a young worker he had not seen for several weeks. He was quiet here; only by the flashing eyes could I see the fire that had filled his speech a few minutes before.

"The spirit of the young workers in New Bedford is the best that anyone could expect," he said. He emphasized the "anyone." The Young Workers League still continues to fight, to announce its aims of organizing all the young workers in New Bedford. And we will continue to fight with all our strength until the strike is won!"

Then he rose to leave. "I've got to go now," he said. "Tomorrow we have another session of the Conference, and I've got to get my rest tonight to prepare for it."

ANTI-IMPERIALIST LEAGUE TO MEET

Robert Dunn and Gannes Will Speak

Harriet Silverman, secretary of the New York branch of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, reports that applications for membership to the League from individuals and organizations are coming in in increased numbers as a result of the circularization preparatory to the combined membership and mass meeting which will take place at the Labor Temple, 242 E. 14th Street, Wednesday, Sept. 26, at 8 o'clock. This meeting will signalize the beginning of a membership drive of the League in New York.

Harry Gannes, acting secretary of the United States section of the League, and Robert Dunn will be the principal speakers.

14 YEAR STRIKER LEADS STRUGGLE

E. Rodriques Fights For New Union

a week of her young life and the health of the woman she was about to be for six dollars and seventeen cents.

One afternoon when Emma came home from the mill for lunch she found that her father was on strike; outrage, determination and readiness to fight prevailed in the Portugese household. Emma did not go back to work. The next morning all spindles in the American Printing Company were idle and the mill looked like a huge lifeless mass of steel and concrete.

Emma Roderiques, a fresh burning spirit in the class struggle, came to New York together with her fellow delegate strikers from Fall River and New Bedford to join hands with the other determined textile workers of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York into a new National Textile Union.

She marched into the convention hall, with the red bandanna of the Pioneers around her neck, and the walk and look of a fighter who had come to build. When the fourteen-year-old worker, thinned by the bobbins of the textile mill, spoke to the workers in the hall, she spoke with the weight of 70,000 New England workers, with the spirit and guts of fighters who will gain their victory. In that hall where the spirit of determined struggle mixed with the lightheartedness of people who enjoy the fight because they know that their fight is universal and necessary, she was just as much at home as on the picket line in Fall River. Workers can understand Emma, for workers who fight are as close as people of the same family. And Emma talked the language that is close to the heart of every working class fighter, direct, simple and full of the sincerity of a just struggle. The convention adopted Emma as their child, as their child of genius, for as she stood there she was not only an individual but all the children of the textile strikers.

Wants To Be An Organization.

Later, when Emma could be induced to sit down in a corner and talk more intimately, she proudly confessed that her greatest aim and ambition was to be an organizer for the new Textile Union. Now she was going to organize the children, she was going to instill into the workers' children in the schools the solidarity of all members of the working class.

"The teachers hit the Pioneers. When anybody says he's a Pioneer the teacher slaps him on the face. I tell the children to slap her back.

"Teacher says that the T. M. C. flag's got red in it, it's Bolshevik. I say the American flag's got red in it, then it's Bolshevik too. But the teacher says nothing to that. I tell her that a Bolshevik is a man who works for the working class."

She went to church at one time as did other of her fellow workers. But when the priest said that there were worms in the T. M. C. milk and bread, and everybody ate the T. M. C. food and did not die but wanted more, they all walked out in the midst of a solemn mass, and never returned to church again.

Afraid of Nothing.

"Aren't you afraid to go on the picket line?" I asked.

"I afraid? What's there to be afraid of? I'm not afraid to be arrested, or anything. Well, I'll walk on the sidewalks with the pickets if I want to. I'm afraid of nothing. When I pass Chief Feeney on the street I sing, 'Old Chief Feeney' and revolutionary songs, and I make up songs of my own, too."

"Well, what are you going to do when you get back to Fall River?"

"First I'm going to organize the children, and when they strike in the schools for the right to be Pioneers I'm going to be the first one there to lead them. And I'm a member of the T. M. C.—that old U. T. W. is no good for nothing—the bunch of crooks. And later I'm going to be an organizer in the new Textile Union."

And then after a moment's reflection, and with a toss of her curls she said: "I only wish workers rule, no more capitalists."

HISTORY COURSES WILL FEATURE AT WORKERS SCHOOL

Elementary, Advanced Instruction Offered

The American history department of the Workers School which has become one of the largest and most important departments in the school, will offer 10 courses in American history during the coming fall and spring terms. Some of these courses will be general in nature and others will concentrate no specific phases of American history. The course in United States history to be given by James Cork on Thursdays, 7 to 8.20 p. m., will be the elementary course in that subject and will be a prerequisite for the more advanced history courses. This course will interpret from a working class point of view the important events in the economic and political developments of this country.

A more advanced course, economic and political history of the United States, will be given by D. Benjamin on Wednesday, 8.30 to 9.50 p. m. This course wil lraise important problems facing the American working class today and will seek in the economic and political history of this country, all the forces and factors that throw light upon the important problems under consideration so as to prepare the workers for a better understanding of their problems.

Other courses to be given in the American history department are Marx and Engels on America—A. Landy, instructor, on Friday, 8.30 to 9.50 p. m.; American Imperialism Today—a symposium course to be given on Saturdays from 2 to 3.30 p. m.; Study of American Government with Joseph Brodsky as instructor on Thursday, 7 to 8.20 p. m.; History of the American Family, a 4 session course under Arthur W. Calhoun, Mondays 8.30 to 9.50 p. m.

For more details workers are advised to come to the office of the Workers School, 26-28 Union Squ., 5th floor, or write for free copy of the school catalog. Registration is in progress at present.

Concert and Ball of Jewish Bureau of the Workers Party Tonite

A concert and ball under the auspices of the Jewish Bureau of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Hammer, Jewish Communist monthly magazine, will be held tonight at the New Star Casino, 107th St. and Park Ave.

On the program will be included a string trio composed of N. Blinder, Gisskind and Bay.

Moissaye Olgin, editor of the Hammer, and noted Jewish Communist writer and speaker, will deliver the principal address of the evening.

GREET TEXTILE YOUTH AT DANCE

Roderiques, Figuerido Speak

Hundreds of delegates from the striking textile centers of New Bedford and Fall River, members of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League, crowded the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square, Saturday night at a dance held under the auspices of the Young Workers (Communist) League of New York. The affair had been arranged for the purpose of welcoming the youth delegates attending the Textile Conference in New York.

Alternating with the dancing and eating and other festivities of the colorful affair were speeches given by two young workers, Joe Figuerido, district organizer of the New Bedford Young Workers (Communist) League and militant youth strike leader, and Emma Roderiques, 14-year-old Pioneer leader and striker.

Youth Leaders Speak.

Philip Frankfeld, speaking for the Young Workers (Communist) League of New York, greeted the delegates in the name of the district, after which Emma Roderiques was introduced. The youthful speaker explained the struggle that the children of Fall River are undergoing at the present time, dwelling long on the terrorist tactics of the mill bosses and police and recalling the dastardly murder of little Johnnie Madieros, chased into the river by a cossack. She was given a tremendous ovation by the workers present.

Then Joe Figuerido rose to speak. A small, pale youth of nineteen, but with fire and enthusiasm in his words, he kept the audience listening attentively throughout his powerful appeal for action, solidarity and relief. He, too, was applauded at the conclusion of his speech.

One of the features of the evening, which kept the workers in a festive spirit throughout the dance, was the singing of youth revolutionary songs under the leadership of Eric Burroughs, 16-year-old Negro youth and a member of the Brownsville Section of the Young Workers (Communist) League. Burroughs, who acted as a young leader during the summer at the Workers International Relief Children's Camp at Wingdale, N. Y., led the gathering through such songs as:

"That whole capitalist system,
"That whole capitalist system,
"That whole capitalist system,
"It ain't good enough for me!
"It's good for red hot mammas,
"It's good for Hebrew Shamus,
"It's good for Norman Thomas,
"But it ain't good enough for me!"

Workers International Relief Urges Aid for New Bedford Strikers

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 23.—A statement issued last night by the Workers International Relief to all workers of Massachusetts from its quarters here at 5 Lowell St. read as follows:

"The dire need of the striking textile workers of New Bedford, the hounding by the police, make it necessary to come to the assistance of the strikers at once. If the strike is to be won, if the new textile union is to grow, we must help with relief. The strike in New Bedford is now 23 weeks old and the suffering is great.

"The Workers International Relief is arranging a house to house collection Sunday at 9:30 a. m., October 7, 1928, at the following stations, where you are expected to report: New International Hall, Roxbury; 113 Dudley St., Roxbury; W. I. R., 5 Lowell St., Boston; Chelsea Labor Lyceum, 302 Brayand St., Malden.

Other stations will be announced later. Please see to it that you are free to give your time for this drive and also get your friends to co-operate. This is most urgent."

WORKING CLASS YOUTH RESPOND TO MEET CALLS

Many Factories to Send Delegates

The Working Youth Conference, which will take place this Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 29 and 30, in the Labor Temple, 14th St. and 2nd Ave., has evoked a good response from many hundreds of young workers working in many factories in New York.

Tens of thousands of leaflets have been distributed by the Working Youth Conference in conjunction with many local unions. The latest leaflet to be put out was by the Knitgoods Workers' Union, Local 55, and the Youth Conference addressed to all young knitgoods workers. Speakers from the Youth Conference Executive Committee have addressed many meetings of local unions and youth clubs. Singer, a plumbers' helper, was present last Tuesday night and spoke at a meeting of dental mechanics. Helfand, chairman of the Executive Committee, spoke at a meeting of unorganized young millinery workers. Letters have been sent in from many young workers in Klein's department store, from Nabisco, from the American Sugar Refining Co., and other factories.

The conference will undoubtedly represent many young unorganized workers in New York City. Many large factories of unorganized youth will be there, and organized shops which include young workers will be represented at this conference.

The conference will be an important step in the direction of organizing the unorganized young workers in New York City. It will be the beginning of a campaign to bring the message of militant unionism to the hundreds of thousands of youth workers in the city, and from all indications it has already aroused much discussion and interest on the part of the young workers.

United States Note to Colombian Government Opens New Offensive in Oil War

OPEN THREATS TO BOGOTA MADE BY STATE DEPT.

Charge British Back Colombian Move

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Another shot in the international petroleum war yesterday tore open the terms of the aggressive note of the American state department to the government of Colombia dispatched three days ago, but not made public. The note is in reply to another from Bogota and declares that the 'attitude of the Colombia government surprises the American state department and states the American government's determination to follow up all questions involving the interests of American oil investors in Colombia. This is taken to mean that the American state department is willing to take extreme measures to ensure its supremacy in the Colombian fields and the ousting of the competitive British interests.

The present diplomatic exchange involves the cancellation by the Colombian government in March, 1926, of the concession of the Colombian Petroleum Company to the Barco oil fields. The original cancellation which was made for a number of stated irregularities in operation, was recently endorsed by the present Colombian government. American interests assert that British influence played an important consideration in this decision.

To an inquiry of the American legation in Bogota made at the instigation of American companies as to whether or not the American government would be permitted to file a reply to the Colombian endorsement, the Bogota government answered that it could not permit the American state department to interfere between it and a private corporation.

The Amurican state department in its note asserts that its action in requesting the right to reply is within the scope of international rights and intimates that it will press these rights, adding that it cannot permit the action of the Bogota government to cause it to desist from "protecting American interests" wherever the government deems necessary.

Conjecture is rife here as to whether the United States government is prepared to back its note with a demonstration of power in Carribean waters the action of this nature is regarded as inevitable if the Colombian government persists in its attitude or if the belief that the British petroleum interests are behind the present move receives further confirmation.

REID PREDICTS STRONG UNION

Labor Veteran Tells of Textile Strike their efforts to prevent them from arriving on time.

Try to "Fix" Accident

"We knew those fellows would do everything possible to keep us from getting out," he said with his characteristic drawl. "They had a neat little accident all fixed to make our bus break down. But we anticipated this and sent our bus outside the city limits where it waited while our delegates slipped out a few at a time in automobiles."

"Jim" Reid is now 56 years old. He has been an old-timer so long that rumors have placed his age at 70 or more, but he assurred me that he is not more than 56 or 57 at the most.

Reid joined his first union, the Weavers' Progressive Union, in 1889. A few years later he became active in the National Union of Textile Workers in America, the predecessor of the United Textile Workers, and was elected national president at the Lawrence convention in 1897. As president of the N. U. T. W. Reid sent the first textile organizer into the South and the first southern union was organized in Columbus, Ga., in 1898. He has since taken a leading part in many textile strikes, including the famous Lawrence strike of 1912.

Member of Legislature

Reid also was active on the political field as a member first of the socialist labor party and later of the socialist party, where he was always identified with the left wing. In 1912 he was elected to the Rhode Island legislature on the socialist ticket.

Reid talked of the situation in Fall River.

"Outside of China and India," he said, "the conditions in Fall River are the worst in the world. I say that categorically, taking into consideration the conditions in the mill towns of the south. Our obstacles in Fall River have been many. The combination against the workers has been unique. The American Federation of Textile Operatives has few members, it wields considerable power—on the side of the bosses of course. For 30 years that yellow outfit has been lined up on the side of the mill interests and has manage dto squander a treasury of $30,000, not a cent of which was donated for the relief of the New Bedford strikers.

Betrayers Hold Office

"Tansey, the president of the A. F. T. O., was for eight years a police commissioner, while his son is assistant treasurer of one of the mills. Parkes, former president of the Weavers Union, is now a member of the Massachusetts Industrial Accident Board and was the first to endorse the terror instituted by Chief of Police Feeney against the strikers.

"Then there have been McMahon and Campos who have helped Tansey in his dirty work. But the workers are no longer being led by the nose by these fakers. More and more of them are joining the Textile Mill Committees and following its leadership. Despite the police terror, our obstacles are gradually being overcome and the revolt of the Fall River mill workers is growing."

Enthusiastic Over New Union

Asked what he thought of the prospects of the new national textile union, Reid expressed himself with great enthusiasm. "The prospects for one big national union in the textile industry have never been so good," he said. "Of course there will be difficulties, problems, but gradually we will be able to build this union into a power in the American labor movement. The story that the textile workers in the South can't be organized is a fairy tale invented by the fakers. They will come along with a fighting union just as quickly as the northern workers.

"As for the U. T. W., the 'brains' of that organization died with Sarah Conboy, the secretary-treasurer. McMahon and his gang aren't even clever fakers. The United Textile Workers will not have to be killed; it will simply die a natural death by the gradual loss of all its members."

will but act as the emancipating instrument for the workers from their present position of virtual slavery.

Greeting the textile delegates in behalf of thousands of coal miners organized in the new National Miners Union, Ella Reeve (Mother) Bloor, veteran working class leader, then contrasted the great textile convention with the great convention which formed the new union in Pittsburgh two weeks ago.

Organized in Blood.

"The miners organized in blood and sacrifice," the speaker declared. She told how the convention in Pittsburgh had in reality been split by the police into two conventions, one of which held its sessions in prison. The other met in secret, menaced by the Pittsburgh police and the gang terror of the Lewis machine.

"And when the two conventions compared the results of their elections it was found that they had chosen the same men to lead their union," Mother Bloor said.

The delegates stood up and cheered spontaneously when Mother Bloor finished her speech.

Representatives of workers who until recently belonged to the A. F. of L. United Textile Workers, delegates sent here directly by the mill committees existing in isolated mill towns, and men, women and young workers sent here by the mill committees of striking masses, reiterated again and again, in English and in an English accented by Portugal, Syria, Poland, Great Britain, French-Canada, Scotland, that a union with an honest and militant leadership is vitally needed.

Almost the entire Sunday morning was occupied by the meetings of committees, on the constitution, resolutions, women's work, youth work, children's work and press committee. The democratic procedure which makes this union different in structure from all other old ones was demonstrated here. The delegates from the various states divided themselves into three or four parts, and every delegate attending was assigned service on one or another of the committees.

The convention was opened for reports and discussion on the resolutions which after being worked out in discussion at the committees' meeting were adopted with enthusiastic unanimity by the delegates. Cheer after cheer resounded thru the hall when the resolution formally launching the new nion was taken to vote. The official name of the organiation being, the National Textile Workers Union of America.

STRIKE LEADERS TELL OF PLANS

Murdoch, Keller Ready For New Union

tnem dirty. We have smashed the U. T. W. in New Bedford and we will smash it in the United States."

Get Big Ovation.

Both Murdoch and Keller were enthusiastically received at the historic convention of textile workers, who are well acquainted with them through previous struggles. When Keller was asked about the militancy of the workers in New Bedford and their fighting spirit, he said: "Through the struggle that the Textile Mills Committee of New Bedford have carried on since the wage cut during the last 24 weeks the textile workers of New Bedford feel only a new militant union can save them from wage-cuts such as the last. These now amount to 45 per cent of wages received seven years ago.

Traitors to Workers.

"The experience of the textile workers with the A. F. T. O. and the U. T. W. before and during this strike have proven beyond doubt that the officials of the old unions are neither capable nor willing to fight and to carry out the workers' wishes.

"The old form of the old organizations is also incapable of fighting for all the workers and an industrial union is now necessary. For that reason we gladly welcome the formation of a National Textile Workers Union of America as the only organization that the textile workers can look forward to in order to help them in their struggles and in their daily contacts with the bosses."

Both textile workers' leaders look forward to their return to the expectant workers of New Bedford and the launching of a wide-sweeping organization campaign for the new union. "The convention shows," said Murdoch, "that we have taken a tremendous step forward in the organization of a real textile workers union. That locals of the U. T. W. have come with us shows that the U. T. W. feels the weight of our new union.

Plan Big Drive.

"When we return to New Bedford we will have a large mass meeting and carry on an extensive organization drive. We will release at least one Portuguese organizer into Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

"We will continue our picket lines in spite of the police, and we will smash them if necessary. We do not intend to blow out August Vehlo, but we will kick him out of town.

Praises I. L. D. and W. I. R.

"The most serious situation at present lies in the use of the New Bedford courts to railroad our leaders and most militant workers to jail. The International Labor Defense, who has bailed every one of our arrested workers, will continue its work. Thirty thousand dollars will be needed to cope with the situation. We feel sure that workers all over the country will help.

"I feel sure that workers will also support the Workers International Relief, which is the only relief organization in New Bedford which is actually helping the workers in their struggle," he concluded.

FRENCH MIGRATORIES.

The total number of migrant laborers entering France during June, 1928, amounted to 12,963, which includes 1,499 workers returning to jobs previously held in France after leaves of absence in their own countries. Departures amounted to 4,107, thus leaving a net addition during the month of 8,356 to the country's labor supply.

HEAR WEISBORD REPORT AT MEET

Time Ripe For New Union He Says

inevitable intensification of struggle for mere bearable living conditions, which the workers will be compelled to go thru. This is so, said Weisbord, because of a "progressive disemployment brought on by the increasing mechanization of the industry."

In explanation he presented the amazing picture of American textile manufacture, which while having constantly increased its factory consumption of horsepower by 24 per cent, the total number of workers employed in the industry has decreased 5 per cent. This process, he then showed, was still continuing, creating a permanent army of wholly unemployed and part-time workers which the bosses used to club down the working standards of the other workers. "In fine cotton goods alone," Weisbord stated, "the American worker forces 73 pounds of cotton goods production out of an individual spindle in the same time the British spindle is made to produce 39 pounds." Thus it was shown thru these and other figures that the textile barons were not only extracting greater profits out of the industry, in spite of an international crisis, but that these increasing profits were being wrung from the workers more and more.

Time for New Union Ripe.

Stacking up side by side the drawbacks and hindrances to organization of the textile workers with the favorable factors, Weisbord showed that the unmistakable conclusion reached by the comparison is that the time is ripe for the launching of the new union. In presenting these facts the following drawbacks were enumerated: The growing trustification of textile manufacture; the mechanization of the production process; the growing acquisition of control of the industry by banking interests; the creation of a permanent army of disemployed; the corruption of the higher, more skilled stratum of textile craftsmen; the welfare schemes and company unions. Organization in the south is hindered by the fact that to the southern backwoodsman and farmer who obtains employment in a company village at a miserable wage, the wage and his village life are decided progressive steps, which has led to his being docile. The growing proletarianization of these farming elements are, however, fast leading to his awakening demand for better conditions, which will even nullify the power the employers are wielding thru complete control of the mill villages.

Factors Weighed.

The factors Weisbord detailed that outweight the other conditions unfavorable to organization work include: Standards of the workers are being brutally depressed in New England; hours are increased, wages cut; bosses receive increasing grants of huge tax rebates from the townships; the tariff wall is very high, being 85 percent for woolens and worsted and 65 per cent for silks. Even where wage cuts are apparently not being enforced, the pay is being reduced thru clever "specialization" schemes, reductions by crafts, and reductions by mills. Chief among these favorable factors, Weisbord declared, were the fact that unions, both reactionary, militant, and allegedly militant unions have lost control, withered or have been totally annihilated. Examples include the I. W. W., the One Big Union movement; the Associated Silk Workers; the Amalgamated Textile Workers Association, and the decay and company unionization of the A. F. of L. United Textile Workers Union. Other unions in the industry have also disappeared.

Rank and File to Control New Union.

After analyzing all the unions he had mentioned, their mistakes, wrong tactics and policies, Weisbord declared that the new union will be organized on a broad but firm basis with rank and file control thru the mill committees who will be the real masters of their organization and yet the organization will be a highly centralized body, democratically controlled. The mass character of the mill committee will not prevent it from caring and working for the interests of the individual crafts, Weisbord said.

The conclusion of his report, reached after the delegates had returned from a recess for dinner, Weisbord devoted to a detailed discussion of strike strategy. He showed that thoro knowledge of the industry must be acquired in order to conduct mass struggles or even local struggles. "We must be intimately informed as to the trustification process, who the controlling firms are, the extent to which they control, etc., so that when a strike is called, our work will be concentrated on paralyzing the industry thru stoppage of the plants of vital mill owners, and not to dissipate our force thru unplanned and accidental struggles that are handicapped from the start," Weisbord said, adding, "We must know when it becomes imperative and opportune to call for widespread struggle and when to fight locally. We must choose our time for action and not have ourselves forced into it," he declared. After, Weisbord, in an eloquent climax ended by announcing to the delegates to proceed to immediate work, he received an enthusiastic and prolonged ovation.

ANTI-COMMUNIST CAMPAIGN RAGES IN YUGOSLAVIA

500 Workers Already Arrested

ZAGREB, Jugoslavia (By Mail).—The Yugoslavian government has commenced a furious campaign against the Communists and mass arrests are taking place all over the country. The idea of course is to detract attention from the serious differences which have arisen between the Serbs and the Croats.

Wild stories of "Communists' agents sent to Yugoslavia to perpetrate acts of terrorism at the instructions of the Comintern (sic)" are current in the bourgeois press.

According to the latest reports over 500 arrests have been made and the campaign is still going on. The names of the arrested are being kept secret "in the interests of the police investigation." In point of fact most of the arrests are not Communists at all, but trade union officials and radical workers.

"Sensational Finds."

"Sensational finds!" have been made during the searches everywhere. The "finds" consist exclusively of perfectly legal Communist and revolutionary books and other literature. One of the arrested is, or was, according to the police, "A captain in the Hungarian Red Army."

The new wave of terror does not only hit workers; journalists are also amongst the casualties. The editor of the Spliter "Radnitchkag Odycka" has been arrested. The police refuse to give the reason. The editor of the "Catholic Weekly," Dragutin Kamber, has been arrested in Serayevo on account of an article written concerning the murder of Stephan Raditch. The publishers of the Croat federalist newspaper, "Hrvatski List," has also been arrested and will be charged with high treason.

2 of Many Seen as Possible Successor to Calles

At left, Emilo Portes Gil, who has been appointed as secretary of state in Mexico by provisional president Calles. At right Manuel Tellez, Mexican ambassador to the United States. Both have been mentioned as possibilities in succeeding Calles as president of Mexico.

TELLS OF ROSARIO COMMUNIST LEADER

In the midst of the great strike the workers in Rosario have waged against their bosses for several months, in which the Communist Party of Argentina was active, a young fighter, Mario Cascallares, died. He passed away in the middle of August, just before the historical Party convention, where the scattered revolutionary forces were united under the banner of the Communist International. With Comrade Cascallares' death our brother Party lost one great and militant leader who knew when and how to strike a blow against the bourgeoisie.

Comrade Mario Cascallares was 34 years old when he died. From his very youth he was active in his trade, the Painters Union, and during its struggles he always was an energetic fighter. He joined the socialist party and stood in its ranks until 1921, fighting against the leadership of the social-traitors. While no hope was left for converting the socialist party into a class struggle organization, with a group of other workers, Mario joined the Communist Party and stood in its ranks until his death.

It was his qualities as organizer, his eloquency as orator and his loyalty to Communism that made Comrade Cascallares the leader amongst the Rosario workers' movement. During the last general strike and other great and long struggles he always had been active, standing in the front of the movement.

Was Elected Alderman.

In the last municipal elections Comrade Cascallares was elected as alderman on the Communist Party ticket. That happened the first time in the history of this city. Although he did not feel well for two months before his death, Mario energetically defended Communist principles and fought for the immediate demands of the working class.

Thousands of workers throughout the country mourned his death and the Communist Party of Argentina issued a statement urging the proletarians to join the Party and to carry on the relentless revolutionary fight in which Comrade Mario Cascallares met his death.

STRIKERS HERE TO BUILD NEW MILITANT UNION

Many Picket Leaders at Convention

tically every member of the delegation is under sentence for strike activities, with terms running from two months to three years and with the millowners, backed by Massachusetts justice doing everything in their power to see that the sentences are served.

The delegations were cross-sections of the whole strike—the majority, unskilled Portuguese workers, unorganized before the strike, French and British skilled workers, came over to the T. M. C. disgusted with the yellowness of the U.T.W., and French and British workers elected by U.T.W. members to attend the convention as fraternal delegates and report to their fellow members on their return.

Picket Captains Here.

All the outstanding picket captains were there, except those left to hold the fort while the delegation was away. Casimeiro Lameiras, twelve times arrested; Marion Botelho, eleven times; Germaine Mederos, Joe Pacheco and Jesse Troia, under $1,000 bonds to keep the peace in Fall River; then Anton Sameiras, a Portuguese Ben Gold among orators, Joseph Figureido, League organizer.

The strikers' delegations, massed together in the front seats of the convention hall, not more militant than the delegates from other centers, but, at the moment most tensely alive with the struggle they are living through, impressed the whole convention with the eager sincerity with which they took the whole proceedings, listening eagerly to the words of the speakers, spontaneously rising en masse, arms raised in salute, to cheer those who especially gripped their imaginations.

Illinois Miners' Caravan to Build New Union in Coal Fields North and South

THOUSANDS JAM HILLS, VALLEY AT GREAT MEET

Denounce Corruption; Hail New Union

we're away at last. Wide awake once more." Then an old timer spoke, "It is like the old days, the old spirit is still alive."

The crowd filled the large dance pavillion and spilled out on all sides Charley Shultz, of Edgemont stood on a table and proposed that the whole crowd should move out to a valley nearby, "Where the crowd can sit on the hillsides and the speakers speak below."

"Atta boy Charley!"

And with laughter and cheers the crowd gathered up chairs and tables and walked to the new site.

At 2.30 the valley and hills were covered with about 2,000 men and women and still they came.

Russell Smith of Edgemont opened the meeting with these words:

"This meeting is called to protest against the alleged-to-be accepted agreement."

Then he called on Charley Shultz as the first speaker. Shultz, a very forceful speaker, brought the crowd up cheering as he told the story of falsehood and betrayal by the fakers in their latest move. "First of all," Shultz charged, "Fishwick claimed all that he wanted was a free hand from Lewis so that Illinois could draw up a scale on a tonnage basis for the loading machine. And when Lewis gave him this free hand they brought forth an agreement that had no scale for machine but a huge wage cut for all lines of work." "Fishwick," Shultz continued "promised to stand by the Jacksonville agreement 'until hell froze over'" "Well," said Shultz, "hell must have frozen over and on a damn hot day too."

"Union" of Stool Pigeons.

C. C. Williams, of Collinsville, a charter member of the U. M. W. A. since 1894 said, "There are now 300 stool pigeons on the payroll of the United Mine Workers. The union is completely corrupt. I am an old timer but I am ready to do my bit. Against arbitration! Against crooks! For a new fighting union! It will take a rebellion I am ready!"

Bradshaw of Oak Hill Mine spoke next: "The new policy of Lewis is the operators must make money tho the miners starve!" All the officials want is the check-off. Arbitration means slavery."

Frank Sebeert, of Belleville: "Thirty years in the U. M. W. but now I am ready to smash it and rid ourselves of its fake leaders."

Ike Walker, president of a Du Quoin local, another one of the old fighters, not yet recovered from a severe beating given him by three officials of his sub-district, read a letter he received this morning stating, "Get the men back to work at once or you will not be able to walk when we get thru with you." Well Walker appealed for united action to clean out all fakers!

All for New Union.

One after another miners, young and old, rose and added their words against the fakers and for a new union. Their names read like an honor roll of the fighters in the movement. James Rielly, of Springfield, Alex Vaughn of E. St. Louis Pete Mareno of Collinsville, Baumgartner of French Village, Wilson of Springfield and many others.

Then came the motions and resolutions. A resolution condemning Nesbit for investing $150,000 of miners' money in scab mines in West Virginia, was passed unanimously. A resolution against payment of dues to the Fishwick administration was opposed only by six hands. The resolution calling for spreading of the strike was passed unanimously with a great roar of approval. Then the business of electing committees organizing for the auto caravan, etc., was quickly disposed of.

All this time Freeman Thompson, Dan Slinger, George Voyzey, Luke Coffey and other leaders of the National Miners' Union, were silent. The local boys wanted to show that they could organise the fight against the machine and they did it and did it well. All thru the meeting calls for Thompson and Slinger were heard but now the crowd would no longer be denied.

Old Fighter Against Fakers.

And to a mighty swell of approval Thompson mounted the table that served as the platform. Thompson is an old campaigner. He has fought crooks and corruption in Illinois Miners Union for years. At times he fought a lone hand, at other times he had mass support but seldom did he get such a welcome as he received from that great crowd gathered on the hillsides at Bellevue Park today. The miners knew what they wanted. They wanted a militant fighting union of the rank and file. And where can be found a man better fitted to typify such a union than Freeman Thompson!

Sodden and be-fuddled minds and overfed bodies have come to represent in the minds of the miners that corruption and class collaboration that is identified with the Lewis-Fishwick type of misleader. Here, before them, was its very opposite, the keen flashing mind, the tall wiry figure, the fighting face—there he stood, the fightinng representative of the fighting National Miners Union.

And the miners cheered to the echo!

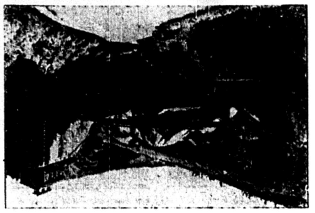
Speaks of Unorganized.

He spoke of the miners in Kentucky and West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania. Those who Lewis said were unorganizable. They are now being organized and can be organized solidly but never in the United Mine Workers of America. Thompson told of the Pittsburg convention. He told of past struggles against the Farringtons and the Fishwicks in Illinois. He spoke of their palatial homes, their $68 and $35 a day income. And he told of the new constitution of the new union, the constitution which places all power in the hands of the local unions and their own grievance committees. It was the new union speaking to the miners and they received it with open arms.

With a final appeal for support from Illinois for the building of a real militant union, with an appeal which will surely bear fruit, Thompson finished, and the meeting adjourned.

Illinois is lining up for the National Miners Union.

Golden Roads Paved By Mine Slaves



Gravel in the above road at Cripple Creek, Colo., assays from $500 to $1,000 to the mile. The road is built out of the waste which the toil of the miners has drawn from the mines.

JAPANESE SPEED PLOTS TO ENSLAVE MONGOLIA

By A. ANDREWS

SHANGHAI (By Mail).—News from Manchuria indicates the intention of the Japanese government to proceed with all possible haste in their schemes for the economic penetration of Mongolia.

A Harbin dispatch reports that for this purpose a special company is to be established by the Japanese government with an initial capital of 3,000,000 yen ($1,500,000 gold). Its object in particular will be the exploitation of the mineral and forestry resources of that vast territory. The company will be a subsidiary of the South-Manchuria Railway Administration, which is itself the official organ of Japanese imperialism in the gradual absorption of Manchuria. This Mongolian scheme will thus be a direct agency for the further extension of Japanese political influence in northern Asia. Such aggressive activities on the part of Japan are doubly significant in that they are bound to create further causes for conflict with the Soviet Union and inasmuch as Siberia lies just to the north and the U. S. S. R. has a vital interest in the independence of the Soviet Republic of Inner Mongolia..

Attack on U. S. S. R.

That the Japanese imperialists are aware of these possibilities is evident from reports appearing in the local Japanese press. Thus the "Nanshu Nippo" reported in July that the Inner Mongolian government "at the instigation of Soviet Russia," had ordered all Japanese residents to leave, threatening otherwise to evict them by force after three days. Moreover the "Toho," a Japanese press agency, sent out a dispatch from Mukden reporting that the feudal chiefs ("Princes") of Inner Mongolia had held a conference after the death of Marshal Chang Tso-lin and concluded to ask for the incorporation of that territory within the Chinese Republic.

The Maneuver.

The conditions which were to be presented to the Nanking government were special consideration for the new position to be assigned these chiefs and the non-interference by the Chinese with the schemes these princes have drawn up for the overthrow of the present Inner Mongolian Soviet government. In addition, they were to be allowed to exclude all Chinese from the country. Refusal of this order, the chiefs threatened, would result in a declaration of independence by the Mongolians.

The clever hand of Japan in this maneuver is seen in the fact that these feudal chiefs were under Chang Tso-lin's "protection." As he in turn was an acknowledged tool of Japan and under the latter's "protection," the refusal by Nanking of this offer would open the way to a declaration of independence, and this, in turn, to an appeal by these chiefs for Japan's "benevolent" intervention.

British Press Supports Lies.

Nor are these merely occasional reports. Such items repeatedly occur in the Japanese press and are even sent out by official Japanese news agencies. On August 19, for example, the Nippon Dempo wired from Harbin: "Soviet Russia is giving financial support to the Outer Mongolians who are invading Inner Mongolia. It has been brought to light that Moscow has remitted 2,000,000 roubles to the Outer Mongolian government." Then follows the allegation that "Moscow is manufacturing and spreading rumors to the effect that Japanese nationals are organizing a plot against the local (Chinese) authorities in Harbin." In this sort of propaganda they are abetted by such British imperialist papers as the Shanghai "North China News."

This daily makes a practice of printing scores of articles in each issue covering conditions in various parts of the country, the articles being headed: "From a correspondent." Another device is that of declaring that a "traveler" states so-and-so. The names of such contributors are not given so there is no way of determining how much of such news is actually sent in to them and how much is fabricated in the editorial office. In any case these articles reveal the policy of the interests which the newspaper represents and are therefore significant.

In this connection it is interesting to note that this organ of British imperialism stands unreservedly back of Japanese imperialism in the latter's hostile attitude towards the revolutionary government of the Soviet Union. When a party of insurgent Mongolian troops cut the Chinese Eastern Railway in August this paper hastened to assure its readers that the annexation by the U. S. S. R. of that section of Manchuria where the attack occurred was already an accomplished fact, secondly, that Outer Mongolia was "of course, merely camouflage for Moscow," and, thirdly, that this situation "appears to be viewed seriously by the Japanese government, which fears some complications may arise between Russia and China." It then quotes the Tokyo "Asahi" as declaring that "in such a contingency Japan feels it must take some proper and effectual steps for the maintenance of peace in the Three Eastern Provinces (Manchuria).

Self-Contradictory

However, the press agents of the imperialists are often careless in the publicity they turn out, especially in overlooking the printing of contradictory accounts. Thus in the same issue of the "Daily News" —in fact, in the same column—it tells how four tribes in that section declared their independence "in league with the (Chinese) Nationalist Government." The daily, moreover, specifically states that this fact has been "ascertained." In other words the "Shanghai Daily News" has investigated and found out that its own story, featured with headlines, of the "Red" Hand in Inner Mongolia is absolutely false. The "Shanghai Times," the other British imperialist organ, publishes a story by its Harbin correspondent that puts quite a different aspect to this Chinese-Mongolian trouble. He declares that "the question is whether the Mongol uprising is purely a local incident or whether the invaders have been instigated and financed by some other nation which wants to cause trouble in Manchuria." He then absolves the Soviet Union from complicity. "Considering that the Soviet Union has a half share in the railway, it is hardly likely that they would do harm to a line which is giving them a handsome profit and therefore to find an instigator it is necessary to look elsewhere." Where else to look the article as printed did not state, but there can be only one other source—and that is Japan.

The outside world may deem such a conclusion far fetched. To anyone who has kept in touch with this year's developments of the conflict between Japan and China, on the one hand, and between the imperialist powers in their rivalry for the hegemony of the Orient, the vicious, under-handed scheming and plotting of the ultra-reactionary Tanaka Government is quite plain. It is evident that Japanese imperialism will hesitate at nothing, even to plunging the peoples into a new world war—to accomplish its ends. Nor must the close connection be overlooked between this growing hostile attitude of Japan towards the Soviet Union and the British plans for the latter's encirclement by unfriendly powers. The disasters which may be involved in just such a policy as that illustrated in the case of Mongolia is the price which the Japanese must pay for British support in the Far East.

BRITISH MINERS VICTIMS IN BIG HARVEST FRAUDS

Sent to Canada, To Remain Stranded

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 23.—Money has been voted by the city council of this city to send an official on a tour of the prairie provinces, to arange for the display of signs and posters warning unemployed workers not to come to Vancouver in search of work as "Vancouver has enough unemployed and will not grant relief to unemployed people coming from other places."

Vancouver's city council is patently afflicted with the same deliberate myopia which is a chronic ailment of similar capitalistic bodies. The money wantonly thrown away in giving a pompous official a holiday touring Canada's prairie provinces could be employed to far, far better advantage by improving, rather than deploring, the unemployment situation and by ameliorating the distress of the idle workers.

Miners Victims of Huge Frauds.

The reaction of Vancouver's city council to the Baldwin government scheme to send 10,000 idle British miners to Canada's harvest is clearly indicated. A gigantic swindle is being perpetrated by British mine owners, calculated to deliver the miners from the serfdom of English labor conditions to the unorganized wage slavery of the Canadian harvest. And the provincial governments have positively declined any responsibility for the British immigrants, after the harvest, so that many of the miners who enter the agricultural fields and brave the terrors of Western Canada, where men eat in the summer and starve in the winter, will be left stranded, although the British government is understood to have guaranteed the return to Britain of any miners remaining unemployed after the harvest.

Unintended Warning.

The Vancouver reaction to the British government's scheme is to some extent a prognostication of what will befall the unwary miners after harvest time. As for the understanding between the two governments the British guarantee is of dubious worth, for when the post-harvest unemployment panic arrives there doubtless will be a great deal of buck-passing between the British and Dominion governments, with the result that the stranded miner-farmers will remain stranded, warned not to come here or there in search of employment and left to work out their own salvation.

GITLOW SPEAKS IN ROCK ISLAND

ROCK ISLAND, Illinois, Sept. 23.—Despite the fact that the Gitlow meeting was held in a hall on the outskirts of the town, and that the rally was not sufficiently advertised, over sixty workers gathered here on Sept. 17 in Workmens Circle Hall to hear the message of the class struggle and the program of the Workers (Communist) Party in the election campaign explained by the Communist vice-presidential candidate.

Rock Island is one of three cities grouped on the banks of the Mississippi. The other two are Davenport and Moline. Rock Island is a great railroad center and Moline employs thousands of workers in the manufacture of furniture.

A collection of thirty-three dollars and fifty cents was taken.

PANAMA DRIVERS PROTEST

A petition signed by 600 chauffeurs of the Panama Chauffeurs Union was presented to the Mayor of Panama City on July 2. The petition requested the reconsideration by the Mayor of a law requiring each applicant for a chauffeur's license to deposit $100 in cash or a mortgage bond in that amount.

Discover Relics of Prehistoric Man in Soviet Union

MOSCOW (By Mail).—Soviet archaeologist Vinogradov discovered a burying place of a prehistorical man on the river Ruza in the Moscow province.

There he found a man's skeleton; near its head was lying a stone hammer; in the right hand a knife made of flint and at the left heel two flint arrows. At the right side of a skeleton there was a small sword made of bone and also a pot embellished with ornaments. The burying place was found in sandpits at the depth of two meters from the surface very high up at the hills.

In opinion of specialists the skeleton belongs to the end of a stone age.

The second discovery was made in the Ivanovo-Voznessensk province where a stone hammer was found belonging to the bronze age.

Ring Lardner's Comedy Heads Eight Openings of the Week

GEORGE M. COHAN starts his season tonight at the Lyceum with "Elmer the Great," Ring Lardner's baseball play. Walter Huston is starred. Others in the cast are Nan Sunderland, Katharine Francis, Edith Luckett, Harold Healy and Thomas V. Gillen.

Another opening for this evening is George Jessel in his newest vehicle, "The War Song," a play by the Spewacks and Mr. Jessel, at the National Theatre. The cast includes Lola Lane, Shirley, Booth, Edward Leiter, William Gargan and Clara Langsner.

Richard Bennett will make his first appearance here in three years, at the Longacre Theatre tonight, in a dramatic version of Jim Tully's famous novel, "Jarnegan," written by Charles Beahan and Garrett Fort.

"Adventure," a new play by John Willard, author of "The Cat and the Canary," comes to the Republic Theatre tonight. The cast is headed by Roberta Arnold, and includes John Litel, Leo Kennedy, Henry D. Southard, and Peggy Conway.

A. H. Woods will inaugurate his season by bringing "Jealousy," a new play by Eugene Walter, starring Fay Bainter, and featuring Guthrie McClintic, to the Eltinge Theatre, Tuesday evening. The play was adapted from the French of Louis Verneuil.

"Chee-Chee," the new Fields-Rodgers-Hart musical show, is announced to open at Lew Fields's Mansfield Theatre on Wednesday. The book is an adaptation of Charles Pettit's novel, "The Son of the Grand Eunuch." Helen Ford will appear in the star role.

"Fast Life" is another Woods play opening at the Ambassador Theatre on Thursday. Claudette Colbert and Chester Morris, are featured and the cast includes William Morris and Crane Wilbur. This is the latest melodramatic work of Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer.

"By Request," by the Nugents with Elliott featured, steps into the Hudson on Thursday. J. C. Nugent, Norma Lee, Verree Teasdale, Eleanor Winslow Williams, and Harry McNaughton are the others in the cast.

"2 SHIPS" HELD OVER AT THE CAMEO.

The British Admiral, Viscount Jellicoe, makes a personal appearance in "Q Ships," the English film on submarine warfare. The film was supervised by a former U-boat commander, Herr Max Rohen. On the same program is "The Killer Killed," a short Ufa subject depicting a fight to the death between an Indian Cobra and a Mongoose.

RED ELECTION DRIVE SPEEDED IN SIOUX CITY

Workers Addressed by Stanley Clark

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Sept. 23.—The Sioux City branch of the Workers' (Communist) Party held another election campaign meeting recently in its new headquarters hall at 508½ 5th Street, which was well attended.

The principal speaker was Stanley Clark, who explained the doctrine of Communism so vividly that even the youngest Pioneer understood it thoroughly. He depicted the hopelessness of the poor farmers and workers expecting any relief from the capitalist system and the two old parties headed by Hoover and Smith.

One of the members of the Young Workers League spoke on the work and aim of the League, urging the parents in the audience to introduce their children into the Young Workers' League or the Young Pioneers, before they can be gathered into the folds of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A., or similar capitalist organizations by whom they would be trained to fight for the capitalists against themselves—the working class.

Textile Workers, Fresh from Class Struggle, Determined to Oust Enemies

"TIME RIPE FOR US TO OUST ALL CORRUPT ONES"

"Arrested As Picket, I'll Keep On"

The most inspiring spectacle at the convention of textile workers for the formation of a new National Textile Workers Union was the discussion from the floor of all issues by workers from all textile centers, who in their direct way—in a way that only those engaged in a serious conflict can do—gave short and snappy pictures of their struggle and the conditions under which they work.

This was a spectacle that is not met with in the conventions of the old unions, which, as one of the speakers said, "are filled with the same delegates for the last thirty years." But here there were actual workers in the mills, strikers who have been on the firing line for the last 24 weeks, and they could say all they wished without being cut short, pulled down in their seats or clubbed. Following are some extracts taken at random from the speeches delivered from the floor:

"I only wish workers rule, not capitalists." (Delegate from Fall River.)

"If you only supply food the workers will fight. Feed our children, and we will walk on the picket line. We don't care for clubs." (Woman delegate from New Bedford.)

"I worked every day and the most pay I got a week was $10.95 and the lowest $2.95. Then one day it snowed and I couldn't get to the mill. And when I came the next day the foreman told me that he didn't want me any more. I was out of work for three months and then I had to send my children back to Portugal, or they might starve. But now we got a new union and we're going to fight." (Woman delegate from Fall River.)

"I was arrested on the picket line four times. I was one day in jail. I liked it for we got food and we got clothing. I don't care, I'll go to jail again." (Woman delegate from New Bedford.)

"The union don't want you to be in jail and the union and the I. L. D. won't let you." (Murdoch.)

"They made it so that there's not a man breathing who can go back under the conditions in which we left. We won't go back to be nervous wrecks." (Striker delegate from New Bedford.)

"The time is ripe today to go deep into the mills and to form a union that will fight against the old corrupt unions, against wage-cuts, against the miserable working conditions. Under the leadership of our new textile union we will fight for better conditions." (Delegate from Passaic.)

"One of my fellow-workers worked 14 hours a day and he got sick and died. We're not going to let that happen again." (Delegate from Paterson.)

Scouts In Imperialist Publicity Stunt

BUFFALO GETS 18 NEW 'DAILY' SUBS IN HUGE DRIVE

Mine Districts Respond to Big Campaign

Latest reports to the management committee of the Daily Worker Election Campaign Drive for 10,000 new readers tell of 18 new subscriptions from Buffalo, N. Y. This, the first batch of subs that has been received from Buffalo, augurs well for the realization of the city's quota, which has been set as 75.

In a letter received from Philip Stanton, Daily Worker agent in Buffalo, enthusiastic over the response of the workers toward the new drive, he says that "the quota of 75 will be at least doubled when the drive comes to an end. I am confident that the Buffalo workers will do everything in their power to help the militant workers daily in its fight."

Philadelphia has increased its total to 25 subs to date, and is confident of getting the 175 others needed to fulfill its quota. Avella, Pa., in the center of the mining struggle, has raised eight subscriptions. "The workers of Avella," says a letter from the Daily Worker agent there, "realize what the Daily Worker has done for them in their struggle against the bosses and betrayers."

Connolly, Chief of Sewer Ring, Called in D'Olier Murder

Maurice E. Connolly, ousted borough president of Queens, whose too open sewer grafting activities forced the Tammany machine to eliminate him, was yesterday called before the Queens County grand jury to testify in the death of William D'Olier, wealthy Queens contractor. D'Olier is believed to have been murdered because the sewer graft ring feared he might reveal information about its activities.

GIANTS STILL 1 GAME BEHIND; WIN THRILLER

(By United Press)

The New York Giants held their position one game behind the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals by taking a 14-inning game from the Cincinnati Reds before 40,000 fans. The score was 2 to 1.

Travis Jackson broke up a pitching duel between Adolfo Luque and Joe Genewich in the fourteenth inning when he singled over Horace Ford's head and send Freddy Lindstrom home with the winning run.

The Cardinals kept their one-game lead intact by beating Brooklyn at Ebbets field.

Joe Genewich allowed the Reds but five hits and yielded only one scratch hit until the seventh inning when Joe Stripp, Rookie outfielder, hit a home run into the left field stands trying the score.

A sensational throw by Jimmy Welsh prevented the Reds from scoring in the ninth. Pipp, first up, tripled to left center and attempted to score on Allens fly to Welsh, but was nipped at the plate on Welsh's throw to O'Farrell.

Jess Haines kept the St. Louis Cardinals in undisputed possession of first place in the National League by pitching the league leaders to a 7 to 1 victory over the Brooklyn Robins before 30,000 fans.

Haines held the Robins to three hits, the Cards winning, 7 to 1. Jim Bottomley hit his thirtieth home run of the season in the third inning with two mates on base, placing him in a tie with Hack Wilson of the Cubs for home run leadership of the league.

The Yankees maintained their two-game lead over the Philadelphia Athletics, each winning yesterday. Waite Hoyt held Cleveland to 4 hits, and the Yanks won, 5 to 0. Shaute gave the Yanks 11 hits.

The Athletics beat St. Louis, 11-7. Walberg and Rommell pitched for Philadelphia, against Blacholder, Wiltse and Stwart.

Geneva Works Gummed by U. S. Failure to Reply on Naval Pact

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The state department here admitted today that it had received notes from the French and British governments requesting that a reply be made concerning the Franco-British naval pact. The known opposition of Washington to this treaty had delayed the negotiations at Geneva for some time.

It is doubtful that the United States government will make its position clear until the conference between Coolidge, the naval department and Kellogg have come to an end.

In the meantime no definite date has been set for the "disarmament" conference at Geneva, due to the uncertainty arising from the United States position.

☭ ☒ WORKERS (COMMUNIST) PARTY

For the Workers! For the Party of the Class Struggle! Against the Capitalists!

Tammany Al's Martyrdom

Unable to discuss fundamental political differences with the republican party for the simple reason that the two parties are practically identical as agencies of Wall Street, the democratic presidential candidate, Al Smith, has trotted out the religious issue in the hope of gaining sympathy as one who is persecuted because of his religion. Thus we are treated to the edifying spectacle of an avowed desciple of Romanism assailing religious intolerance. This is an old jesuit trick—accuse your enemies of the crimes of which you are guilty.

Unfortunately for Smith there is a very long and very black record of the period that his church and the governing power were synonomous; a period during which the church was supreme. It is not accidental that the thousand years during which the popes ruled the world of old Europe will be forever known as the dark ages. In those days ignorance was a virtue and intelligence a crime. For pompous bigots, the most extravagant luxury; for those who dared to think, the dungeon, the rack and the stake.

But no longer does the church weild the power that it once held. Instead of being the chief instrument of oppression and terror in the hands of feudal barons, it is now but one of the many instruments in the hands of the imperialist master class of the United States.

No one with any degree of intelligence thinks for a moment that the pope will rule America if Smith is elected, because the church itself is the servant of imperialism. Wall Street would rule Smith, just as it rules the present Coolidge-Mellon-Hoover administration. It is not church rule but class rule that enslaves the workers today, as of yore.

Only a class party of labor can lead the working class on the road toward its emancipation. That party in the United States is the Workers (Communist) Party.

Mussolini's Successor

Since the fascist coup that placed the braggert despot, Mussolini and his black shirt hordes in control of the government of Italy, the real power has been the general council of the fascist party, the direct agents of the big industrialists and bankers of Italy. Evidently weary of acting as the invisible power a decree is now published to the effect that the general council is a part of the government; that it will sit in the meetings of the cabinet and "give advice."

It is announced that this move is made so that the council can decide who shall be the successor to Mussolini if and when he is no longer able to function. That presupposes, of course, the continuity of the fascist regime. Like all despotic governments the fascist regime likes to delude itself with the idea that it will last forever.

But even the fascists ought to realize that systems do not last simply because they cloak their tyrannies in terms of legality. All governments rest primarily upon force. Fascism, like any other form of capitalist despotism will exist only so long as it has sufficient power to impose its will by terror upon the majority of the population. Through crises the masses eventually generate that accumulation of energy and concentration of force that will enable them under the leadership of the revolutionary proletarian party, to overthrow the dictatorship of Mussolini and his bandit hordes.

The general council may be able to choose the successor of Mussolini, provided he dies soon enough, but it is the oppressed and bleeding working class of Italy that soon or late will choose the successor of fascism. The class that must inevitably rise on the ruins of fascism will be able to perpetuate its rule, not by tyrannical measures but through democratic centralism as exercised by the dictatorship of the proletariat, in which the masses of workers and farmers directly participate in the conduct of their own government.

The Lie Factories Still Busy.

London is a strong competitor with Riga as the center of lying propaganda against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. The latest invention from the camp of the imperialists and their servants, the white guard and menshevik exiles and the anarchists of the Alexander Berkman, Emma Goldman calibre, comes from London, where the Daily Mail reports that attempts have been made on the life of Leon Trotsky since his "exile." The story is absurdly fantastic and relates that Trotsky's cottage was besieged by sharpshooters who attacked from behind trees, while Trotsky and his son stood them off.

Everyone who has the slightest information regarding Soviet policy will instantly perceive the absurdity of such a fantastic tale. The agents of the imperialists interpret Soviet policy in the light of their own policies, which include cowardly, furtive assassination of political opponents. Trotsky has been decisively defeated politically; he no longer has any following in the Soviet Union; in no sense is he a menace to the workers' and peasants' government.

The London lie factory was particularly unfortunate in concocting this latest piece of fiction, in view of the fact that Trotsky is living in a city (Alma Ata) with a population of 65,000 instead of a wilderness where sharpshooters can conceal themselves in trees.

It is not at all astonishing that the same villifiers of the revolution who now shed tears over the imaginary hardships of Trotsky were among his most vicious traducers when Trotsky was following the leadership of the Bolshevik party. Such "friends" should cause Trotsky to ponder over his course and impel him to repudiate his errors as some of his former associates have done.

Training for the Class Struggle

Gratifying indeed is the response this season to the opening of the Workers School. Within a few short years the Communist school of New York has outgrown every other school that even made a pretense of teaching labor topics. The registration this year exceeds all previous years.

Those workers of New York who consider the labor movement as the hope of the working class and who want to perfect themselves to be able to fight effectively for their class have come to realize that the Workers School is unique in America; that it offers advantages that cannot be obtained in any other place on the Western Hemisphere. In the best sense of the word they receive training for the class struggle.

Registration for many of the courses is still going on. Let every worker take advantage of this school this winter and thereby be better fitted to challenge the despotism of the employers and their government.

Negroes Respond to Red Drive

By H. C. WILLIAMS.

The Workers (Communist) Party, realizing its historical role in the class struggle against predatory imperialism, cannot overlook an important section of our population, the Negro race, and particularly the proletarian elements which constitute over 98 per cent of that race.

The position of our Party, as the vanguard of the proletariat is to engage in battle against the twin parties of capitalism, the republican and democratic. The Negro workers, as the most oppressed and exploited section of the American working class must be made to realise that the Workers (Communist) Party is the only party representative of his interests, the only force that can liberate him from degradation.

With the open betrayal of the Negro by the republican and democratic parties at their last nomination conventions, has come great eruptions and revolts among the Negro masses. Negro workers approached for signatures for the Workers Party candidates have been only too glad to give them in most cases. Many of them have expressed their intention of voting for the working class candidacies of Foster and Gitlow, Moore, Fort-Whiteman, Minor and other nominees of the Workers Party. In particular, those Negro workers who have attended our street meetings and read the Party platform and program are enthusiastic supporters of the Party and promise to support it at the polls.

I came into contact with many Negro workers who always voted republican or democratic in the past who told me that they were in hearty sympathy with our movement. And to show that they meant it they gave me their signatures to help us put our candidates on the ballot. They were particularly interested in the fact that there are many Negro workers on the Party ticket in New York State and were anxious to know if this was the case in other states and when told that it was so, exclaimed, "Well, that's the party for me and I will sure vote for you all on election day."

Old Parties Not for Farmers

Agricultural Workers Must Ally With Workers In City to Overthrow Capitalism

To judge by the statements of republican and democratic politicians, the farmers are pretty well off, and the farming question is only based on the wish of the politicians that the farmers enjoy a little more of life than at the present time.

The question is: has the farmer got a kick coming?

He decidedly has. There is the general fact that regardless of election campaigns, the farmers owe fifteen billion dollars in mortgages and debts. This, at the rate of 6 per cent interest, makes an outlay of $900,000,000 in interest alone per annum, or an average of $150 per farmer.

Wartime Overproduction.

There is the other fact that during the world war and immediately after, the government stimulated the production of grain of all categories. Overproduction, not only in the United States, but in other important grain-producing countries, brought about a slump on the market. It is true that in certain countries there has been a periodical shortage due to bad crops, but as a whole there has been overproduction, with the result that when the grain is marketed, many farmers do not obtain a price even covering the cost of raising it.

There is another vital factor: the growth in the number of automobiles has eliminated millions of horses. This means that areas used for the production of animal feed now lie fallow. It is estimated that 20,000,000 acres have thus been taken out of production.

Other Aspects.

There are other aspects of the case. For instance, taxes and interest. No one can escape taxes, even though during the period of 1923-26, the tax collector was not inclined to use any and all methods to collect taxes. During that period, the practice was to allow the taxes to continue, in the hope that better years would enable the farmer to meet his obligations. The same applied to interest: mortgages were not foreclosed, for this would have meant that the banks would have tens of millions of acres of agricultural land on their hands, which they would not be able to dispose of. As it is, many banks came into possession of farms and they were white elephants.

A few of the factors may be shown in the following: In Michigan in 1919, which was a year of high prices, 29.9 per cent of the net rent was paid in taxes, while in 1921, a year of low prices, taxes represented 70.5 per cent of the net income. Covering a period of seven years, an average of 52 per cent of the net rent on 415 Michigan farms was paid in taxes. According to investigations made, the same applies to Indiana, Arkansas and other states.

In other words, a fifth to more than a half of the net income must be spent by the farmer for taxes.

The situation in the northwest is just as bad. In Wisconsin in 1927, 2,593,000 acres were offered for sale on account of delinquent taxes.

Drop in Farm Values.

Let us look at another phase of the matter. During the war years, when prices were inflated, farmers bought large areas of land. In 1920, land values stood 69 per cent above the pre-war level. In 1927, this had declined to 19 per cent above the pre-war level, but measured in purchasing power in comparison with pre-war values, farm values declined to 20 per cent below pre-war values.

It is estimated that in 1927 the farmer's dollar was worth 65 cents, the farm laborer's 70 cents, the urban worker's only 58 cents. From this fact it might be deduced that the farmer is not so badly off.

In 1913, the value of farm products in the country was $7,900,000,000. In 1926, the value rose to $13,000,000,000. But when one considers that in 1926 the value of the farmer's dollar was only 62 cents, then one recognizes that the farmer has a real kick coming. In 1926, the real farm income was only 2 per cent higher than before the war.

At Mercy of Trusts.

The farmer has to buy manufactured products produced by trusts at monopoly prices, prices determined in part by high protective tariffs, prices on which the trusts make their hundreds of millions of dollars of profits. The farmer has to sell his crops at a time when he has no capital to handle them with, with manipulators of the exchange maneuvering so that prices decline when the farmer is in greatest need of money.

What solution have the republican and democratic parties for this situation? What do they offer as a remedy and what help do they "promise" the farmer? They promise him a "study of the problem!" These "studies" have been going on for 8 years. The democrats who have been in the U. S. congress have had ample time to "study" the question. The democrats knew that it would be a national issue, for the farmers have been complaining and in 1924 this was greatly responsible for the La Follette movement. Though this movement disintegrated, the situation of the farmer has not improved, and continual complaints, the introduction of the McNary-Haugen bill in congress and its veto by Coolidge indicated clearly that this would be a big issue.

Neither of the capitalist parties can tackle the problem, for if they dared to do so the farmers would perceive that they have no solution whatever. Economists today declare that rationalization—introduction of high power machinery and speed-up methods—will eliminate large numbers of farm laborers, put agriculture on an industrial basis and lead to the cultivation of large areas—which means, as in industry and trade, the driving out of the small farmer, the farmers of small means.

This may be progress—and undoubtedly it is—but it creates a situation, as in industry, which the capitalists and their parties cannot cope with. It means the proletarianization of the farmers, the creation of a surplus wage class (these farmers will have to leave the land, as in the past 6 or 7 years, and go to the city in search of work.)

This is the capitalist solution to the kicks of the farmers. The farmer will again trust one or the other of the capitalist parties, as will be evidenced in the votes cast in the coming elections—but the farming problem will remain and with America's rapid rationalization of all industry, including the farming industry, the conflicts will become more acute—until a war intervenes and food production will be required on a larger scale than before. Whether under such circumstances the small farm will be revived is questionable, for with government aid large areas will be put under cultivation under pressure of high-power machinery, which will release larger numbers of men for war purposes.

These are some of the contradictions which capitalism cannot solve—contradictions which will demand a solution ever more sharply as the years go on.

Meanwhile, the farmer has a kick coming. He will have to learn how to kick properly—and line up with the militant workers in the city and fight. The task of aligning him with the city worker devolves upon the Communists.

CAMPAIGN CORNER

William Z. Foster received one red vote in Tokio, Japan, beating Norman Thomas by a neck and a halo. It is a custom among American residents in the Nipponese capital to take a straw vote every four years, so that the exiled sons and daughters of America may experience the thrill of voting for or against a presidential candidate. Judging by the returns, the vote was taken in embassies, consulates, speakeasies and the public library. Hoover got the ambassadorial and the consulate vote, the boys who shine the mahogany undoubtedly whooped it up for Al and the Americano who was caught in the book place is the guy who voted Communist.

Well, strange tho it may read to the old fashioned voter, a Communist vote in Japan is just as welcome as a Communist vote in Milwaukee. Ours is an international Party and the task of the Workers (Communist) Party is chiefly devoted to mobilizing the American masses for the struggle against capitalism here, it is part of the international army of labor, that is fighting in all lands to transform this world into a federation of Workers Republics.

The campaign to put the Workers (Communist) Party on the ticket is traveling so fast and so successfully that even the hard-boiled National Election Campaign Committee is chuckling. Of course this is not an invitation to the members on the firing line to retire to their dugouts and take it easy. From now on the real fun is going to be had. With twenty-one states on the ballot and half as many more ready to go over the top, it looks as if the Campaign Committee estimate of thirty states will have to be raised.

Street Nucleus No. 2 of Pittsburgh is taking the election campaign seriously. The unit also knows that the Campaign means money. So at its last meeting it passed a motion to raise five hundred dollars for the Election Campaign. Sixty-one dollars was raised immediately and a committee of six was elected to put the decision into effect. The committee consists of Jenkins, Solnitzky, Gordon, Zubkoff, Patrinos and Careathers. The committee reports that it has raised nearly one hundred and fifty dollars and hopes to complete its quota within a short time. Comrade Solnitzky is the treasurer of this committee. The Nucleus also ordered two thousand leaflets for distribution, and has elected a committee to assist in the arrangements for the open-air meetings.

This is good work. The $100,000 Communist Campaign Fund is swelling, but it will take a lot more gas before it can lift the election campaign out of financial difficulties. The National Office is preparing a dozen pamphlets on various issues of the campaign. Hundreds of thousands of those leaflets will be issued for mass distribution. All this will cost money. The example set by Nucleus No. 2 in Pittsburgh, should be followed by every other nucleus thruout the country.

The latest word from Utah is encouraging. When the National Election Campaign Committee instructed the comrades in the Mormon State to get the Party on the ballot or forever after hold their peace, it sounded like a dumb sentence for them. But they went to work in the true Communist fashion and now—Well as we say in the movies, "Now, comes the dawn." You will hear the last of the story in a few days.

From now on until polling day in November, registration will be carried on in the various states. Every state has its own registration laws. Some have registration open from the first of the year. Others charge a poll tax. Still others like New York set a definite week for registration. Our comrades should acquaint themselves with the registration law in their particular state and to take the necessary steps to qualify for voting on election day.

The old syndicalist attitude towards voting has no place in the Workers (Communist) Party. Every vote cast is a notice served on the capitalist class that the workers are mobilizing their forces for the struggle against the robber system of exploitation. A Communist vote is not merely a vote against Hoover, Smith and Thomas, but a vote against Wall Street, American imperialism, the capitalist government and for a socialist society and a Workers and Farmers Government. Do not neglect to register. Vote Communist!

Checks for twenty and fifty thousand dollars are pouring into the coffers of the democratic and republican parties, but the ten and one dollar bills are coming our way. Not enough of them, tho. We would not object to a few fat checks, but there is not a capitalist in the United States foolish enough to send in one. He knows better. He is class conscious. He supports the parties that stand for the system that he thrives on at the expense of the workers. It is up to the workers and poor farmers to support the Communist Election Campaign. Send all contributions to Alexander Trachtenberg, Treasurer, National Election Campaign Committee, 43 E. 125th Street, New York City.

Pennsylvania is the heart of the struggle and for the first time in history the miners are fighting the enemies of labor simultaneously on the political and industrial fronts. The raid on the Miners Convention in Pittsburgh by the police, coal company detectives and paid "pickets" of the Lewis machine, gives a graphic picture of the panic that has taken hold of the labor fakers. Lewis, Murray and Fagan could afford to hire hundreds of paid thugs to "picket" and attack the Miners Convention, but they could not afford to provide the militant strikers and their dependents with relief during the long strike struggle.

Told You So

AL SMITH is busily engaged trying to convince the voters that he is wet but not soaked, that he is a Catholic but not a popist, that while he admires and reveres the "holy father" from a distance he would no more let him run the white house than he would permit the wizard of the Ku Klux Klan to do it. Hoover is denying that he santioned the bringing of the religious issue into the election campaign in order to start the bile rising in the anti-Catholic voter. A pox on both of them. They manage to get the masses excited and take a sort of gambling interest in the election campaign. This, however, has one advantage for the Communists.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER and Ben Gitlow, the national standard-bearers of the Workers (Communist) Party, are having splendid meetings because of the interest aroused in the election campaign by the hokum put out in the press, from the platform and over the radio by the capitalist parties. The workers want to hear all sides of the question. This is our gravy. Thousands of Communist platforms and millions of leaflets will be read by the workers and those who are having the gudgeon grease removed from their thinking machinery will have no difficulty in making the right choice. They will vote Communist and join the Workers (Communist) Party to help carry on the struggle against capitalism.

THERE is a terrible row in the ranks of Christian Science. Our readers are aware that "scientists" do not take death seriously until it comes to the question of claiming the deceased one's estate. The present row is due to the allegation made by Christian Science Parent Church in London, that Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of the cult, "used drugs and consulted medical doctors on many occasions during a long period of years when she failed to get help through Christian scientists." To the denial of those allegations it is further alleged that "Mother" Eddy, was served by six doctors and at least four dentists.

A Christian Scientist looks as normal to the naked eye as a Holy Roller or a Methodist deacon. Since I attended a trial in Boston where Christian Science property was being fought over by rival claimants I have not attached much importance to the alleged mental weakness of Mrs. Eddy's followers. "Mother" Eddy's alibi for taking drugs was the uniting of "the mental energy of the world's hope of recovery thru faith in materia medica and the spiritual power resident in the Christian Scientist's understanding of man's eternal spiritual nature and origin." Now, chew on that.

EDNA FERBER, the novelist is a ticklish sort of person. She was an ardent Hooverite until some customs officers went over her person for hip and ankle flasks. Now she is for Al. Miss Ferber arrived from Europe recently and before the photographers had a chance to "shoot" her the snooper searched her. It would be bad enough for Hoover to lose a vote if his misery men had found something besides talcum powder in Edna's silks, but to draw a minus and automatically hand a plus to Al without a single drop of consolation—Well, Herber as you say, "prohibition is a noble experiment," but you ought to stick to kissing babies and keep your hands off the women.

NOW, that the Queens sewer brigands have fought and won a political victory in the primaries thus making the borough safe fo graft, there is no reason why othe patriots should not take advantag of the opportunity afforded by th election campaign to collect som dough while the cash is runnin around looking for a warm spot t nestle. A man by the name o John Mooney figured he would g $100,000 out of John J. Raskob, b threatening to blow him up unles he came across. But alas, Moone has not awaked to the fact tha this is not the way business is don nowadays. The darned fool is luck if he escapes the chair.

Gold, Zimmerman and Liptzin on Ticket

In a ringing statement denouncing the united front of the socialist party, Smith's Tammany Hall, republican officials, American Federation of Labor bureaucracy and the needle trades manufacturers against the militant needle workers, the Needle Trades Campaign Committee for support of the Workers (Communist) Party, organized at a mass meeting in August, has issued a call to all needle workers in the city of New York to elect representatives to a shop delegates' conference to endorse the Communist ticket in the elections, to be held on Tuesday, October 9, at 6 p. m., at Bryant Hall, Sixth Ave. and 42nd St. It is expected that hundreds of shops will send delegates and establish shop campaign committees.

Workers Enthusiastic.

Great enthusiasm among the workers in the needle industry followed the announcement that a needle trades campaign committee had been formed. The militant needle workers have learned through bitter struggle what Al Smith's "democracy" and republican "prosperity" means. They have witnessed the complete degeneration of the socialist party and its open collaboration with Tammany and the manufacturers to bring back sweatshop conditions and destroy union organization. They have learned

BARES POLAND'S ANTI-USSR PLOT

MOSCOW, Sept. 24.—The plotting of Petlura officers in Poland for the overthrow of the Soviet government in the Ukraine, with the help of Polish government funds and the cooperation of certain powerful capitalist countries, was uncovered by Clemeny Voroshiloff, People's Commissar of War in the Soviet Union, in a speech delivered at Kiev, one of the most important cities in Ukrainia, and the most hard hit by the Polish counter-revolutionary invasion of 1920.

Voroshiloff pointed especially to a speech of the governor of the Polish province of Volhynia, showing that government officials themselves were involved in this international movement against the Soviet Union. The commissar pointed out that it was due entirely to the peaceful policy of the Soviet Gov-

REPLY TO NAVAL PACT DRAWN UP

U. S. to Lay Down Law to Europe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (U.P.)—Final touches were made on the reply the United States will make to England and France on the so-called secret naval accord, at a protracted conference at the State Department today.

Participating in the conference were Secretary of State Kellogg, Secretary of Navy Wilbur, and Admirals Charles F. Hughes, Hilary P. Jones and Andrew T. Long.

It is believed the note will go to London and Paris within 48 hours.

Kellogg will first submit it to President Coolidge—probably late today—for his approval.

Admiral Hughes is chief of naval operations, while Jones and Long represented the United States at Geneva Naval Conference last year. These three are considered the government's foremost technical advisors on naval disarmament questions.

Secretary of State Kellogg, it is believed, will strongly protest against the Anglo-French pact. The conclusion of the pact has sharply brought out the growing differences between American and British imperialism and exposes the hypocritical nature of the "peace" talk, with which the imperialist powers have been attempting to cloak military preparations.

Hoover is believed to have conferred with Coolidge on the Anglo-French alliance when he was in Washington.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The Anglo-French naval pact and the expected protest from the United States was the chief subject before the British Cabinet Council which met today.

The Kellogg note is expected to be a sharp one.

Premier Baldwin who presided at the Cabinet meeting for the first time in seven weeks conferred with Premier Poincare in Paris and travelled to London with Lord Cushendon, who is one of the principal authors of the agreement.

Endorse Workers Party Program

The United Council of Working Women has unanimously endorsed the Workers (Communist) Party program and ticket. Each city council has formed a campaign committee and has arranged discussions on the Communist program and the women workers.

Open-air meetings under the auspices of the councils have been held in various sections. They have pledged a minimum of $500 for the campaign, and are now making full preparations for an intensive drive among working women.

According to Kate Gitlow, secretary of the body, the wives of progressive needle, food, metal and building trades workers are throwing themselves wholeheartedly into the campaign.

Other Organizations Also.

Other women's organizations are also taking action to support the Communist campaign. Lithuanian and Finnish women's councils are raising funds. Among the groups affiliated with the New York Working Women's Federation many are pledged to back the Workers (Communist) Party in the elections. One of the most active workers in the

POOR FARMERS RALLY TO RED ELECTION DRIVE

Big Communist Vote Is Expected in Many Sections

Is Sixth Farm State

Non-Partisan League Now Dead

The Foster and Gitlow nominating petitions for the state of North Dakota have been filed in Bismarck, the state capital, by Arthur Starr, Workers (Communist) Party representative, and the campaign to put the national ticket of the Party on the ballot is completed, according to a telegram received at the headquarters of the National Election Campaign Committee, 43 E. 125th St., New York City.

North Dakota is the sixth of the great agricultural states in the north and middle west where the Communist ticket has been placed on the ballot and the twenty-second in the entire country to be placed in the red column.

Expect Big Red Vote.

The number of states already filed for the Workers (Communist) Party exceeds by eight the total number on the ballot in 1924, the first time the Workers (Communist) Party took the field in a national election campaign.

The states now on the ballot are: North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Iowa, Nebraska, Arizona, Kansas, Arkansas, New Mexico, Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Starr reports that the signers of the Communist petitions not only were willing to help put the Party ticket on the ballot by signing their names, but that they are showing the greatest enthusiasm for the campaign to roll up a heavy Communist vote in the elections, bring the message of the class struggle to the exploited farmers of the state and help to swell the ranks of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Non-Partisan League Dead.

For several years the non-partisan league was a powerful factor in North Dakota as well as in the surrounding states. Under the leadership of Townley huge sums of money were contributed by the farmers, only to see the organization drifting into the control of the big capitalist parties, their money squandered on wild cat schemes and their leaders engaging in all kinds of get-rich-quick propositions.

The non-partisan league is today

NEGRO WORKERS HAIL RED TICKET

Workers Party Calls for Full Equality

That Negro workers are becoming disillusioned with the republican party, which poses as the friend of the Negroes, as well as with the democratic party, whose disenfranchisement of Negro workers in the South is notorious, is evident by the ready response of Negro workers of New York to the platform of the Workers (Communist) Party at open air meetings held by the party of the class struggle in such Negro centers as Harlem, Williamsburg and Brownsville.

Policy for Years.

The barring of Negro workers from participating in the primaries in Texas by the democrats, as well as the open statement of Senator Carter Glass, democratic imperialist of Virginia, that "white supremacy is too precious a thing to permit Negroes to vote" is in line with the open policies and practices of the democrats since the Civil War. Negro workers have also been given cause to question republican pledges by the ousting of Mrs. Booze, a Negro delegate, from an official republican conference meeting in Washington, D. C., and the segregation of all Negro delegates at the republican convention.

Negro Workers Awakening.

These actions and a long list of similar ones have begun to dispel the illusions in the minds of Negro workers as to the role of the republican and democratic parties with respect to Negroes. The Negro workers of New York and elsewhere

DISTRIBUTE 15,000 "DAILIES" TODAY

Fifteen thousand copies of this special edition of the Daily Worker will be given out today in a mass distribution which will take in sections of New York City where the Daily Worker has heretofore been unknown. The entire city will be canvassed by members of the various sections of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League in an effort to give momentum to the Daily Worker Election Campaign Drive for 10,000 new readers.

The special edition will aid the Workers (Communist) Party in its election campaign and its fight to reach the masses of workers, in addition to bringing the Daily Worker before New York labor in its huge drive for increased circulation.

Harlem Circulation Doubled.

Indications all point to the success of the distribution today. Last night, a similar distribution in Harlem, of only 1,000 copies, proved that the work of the Daily Worker in Harlem has been well worth the effort expended there. The circulation in the district has doubled, especially among the Negro workers, since the drive was initiated.

Meeting into the small hours of the early morning, 33 members of the National Council of the National Textile Workers' Union of America, launched yesterday in this city after a two-day convention, made decisions on questions that demanded their immediate attention and concluded by electing an executive committee of 11, which will act with full authority between plenum sessions of the larger body.

Leaders of the militant labor movement now in New York declare that the closing moments of the textile union convention were the "most inspiring and hopeful that they had ever seen." In this they referred particularly to the last hour or so when the election of officers took place.

When the young chairman, Figuerido asked Weisbord whether he accepted the nomination for the presidency, Weisbord responded with a speech of declination favoring Reid for the chief office. After a great ovation Reid was elected. Weisbord accepted and was elected by enthusiastic acclamation to the

RED NOMINEES TO PRESENT CLASS STRUGGLE PLATFORM AT HUGE DEMONSTRATION

Central Opera House Will Be Scene of Meet; Speakers to Expose Boss Parties, Socialists

Will Stress State and Local Issues Affecting Interests of Workers, Poor Farmers

The first huge state election rally of the Workers (Communist) Party campaign will be held on Friday night, September 28, at 8 p. m., at the Central Opera House, 67th Street, between 2nd and 3rd Avenues.

New York militants and progressive workers in every industry are eagerly preparing to crowd the hall to overflowing to hear the leading state and local candidates present the platforms of the only anti-capitalist party in America, the Workers (Communist) Party, expose the degeneration and betrayals of the socialist party as well as to prove that the state and city governments are controlled by the banking, traction, power and railroad interests.

Many Other Speakers.

Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and candidate for U. S. Senate on the Communist ticket, who has just returned from a tour of up-state New York, will be one of the principal speakers. Other speakers at the Central Opera House meeting include Wm. F. Dunne, candidate for governor; Juliet Stuart Poyntz, candidate for attorney general; Bertram D. Wolfe, candidate for congress from the Tenth Congressional District; Lovett Fort-Whiteman, a Negro worker and candidate for comptroller; Rebecca Grecht, election campaign manager of the New York district and candidate for assembly in the Fifth District of the Bronx; Richard B. Moore, candidate for congress in 21st Congressional District; Philip Frankfeld, district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League and candidate for assembly in the Third Bronx District. William W. Weinstone, district organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party, will preside.

Parties of Big Business.

"In this election campaign the role played by the political parties of the country as open instruments of the classes they represent is more clearly seen than ever before," reads a statement issued on the Red Rally of Friday by the District Campaign Committee. "Both the republican and democratic parties are loudly assuring Big Buziness that they will obediently obey its will if elected, that Wall Street fears nothing from the candidates of either party is proved by the heavy campaign contributions made to both parties by those who will profit by the election of either capitalist party—automobile magnates, coal kings, public utility and power magnates and other representatives of big business. FOOD WORKERS ENDORSE ENTIRE RED PLATFORM

Campaign Committee Is Formed

Formation of a food workers' election campaign committee representing twenty union, co-operative and other progressive organizations featured the first food workers' election rally Friday evening, with Manhattan Lyceum crowded by workers from New York bakeries, hotels, restaurants, cafeterias and food stores. This committee will devote special efforts toward the mobilization of all food workers to vote Communist and at the same time will help the defense fight of William Schiffrin, member of the new Butchers' and Chicken Workers' Union, who is being held by the police without bail facing a charge of homicide.

John J. Ballam, representing the Workers (Communist) Party, was given a big ovation, winning the unanimous endorsement of the party's 1928 election program and its candidates. Organization of the food workers into industrial unions able to cope effectively with trustified industry was urged by Ballam. "If food workers were organized throughout the industry, instead of just 5 per cent as today, they would hold in their hands the power to stop the next world war," he stated.

Foster was also given a great ovation lasting five minutes at a banquet and reception in his honor at the Cooperative Center. He spoke for 30 minutes and urged the intensification of the fight to free the class war prisoners. An appeal for support of the Election Campaign Fund of the Workers Party was made and $250 in cash and pledges collected. A number of applications for Party membership

WHY THERE IS NO OTHER PAPER THAT IS LIKE THE DAILY WORKER

Because our paper is the one publication in the English language that speaks for the working class. Only in the Daily Worker can you obtain facts regarding the great mine struggles, the textile strike, the new unions that are being organized to furnish fighting weapons against the bosses.

Because the Daily Worker is a revolutionary political organ of the working class.

No where else can you learn the facts regarding the strike-breaking role of Al Smith, the Morgan-Tammany tool that is running for president. Every day we publish facts regarding Smith that no other paper can publish.

Do you know that Herbert Hoover is known to millions in Europe as a monster whose hands drip with the blood of the working class? Only the Daily Worker publishes such facts.

These and many other facts of interest to you and to every other man and woman and child that works for a living can be obtained only in our columns.

Bronx Parents Association Will Protest Against Bad School Conditions on Friday

CONFERENCE TO SCORE TAMMANY HALL AND G. O. P.

Squabble for Contracts Causes Delay

A conference of the Parents' Association of children attending Public School 89, the Bronx, will be held Friday evening, for the purpose of protesting against the bad conditions under which the children are forced to go to school.

The protest was caused by the fact that P. S. 89, which opened last year and which was originally built to accommodate only 1,000 children, is now overcrowded to the extent that 3,000 children are enrolled. Many of these children, who live in sections where access to other schools is easier, are forced to walk about ten blocks to P. S. 89 every morning, crossing on their way such dangerous highways as White Plains Road, and the Boston Post Road, which are always filled with heavy traffic.

No Results from Mayor.

The Parents' Association has already tried to negotiate with Mayor Walker and the Board of Education. But they received only evasive answers, and no definite action or promises to relieve the situation. All the answers of both the mayor's secretary, who was interviewed by the association recently, and the Board of Education of New York have been vague, and have always carried indefinite statements with impossible reservations.

The reason for the delay in improving the school conditions of the children of the Bronx is believed to be the result of political squabbles among the Tammany and republican factions in the Bronx. Because of this petty squabbling, which according to the Parents' Association, involves the control of fat contracts in the Bronx, nothing has been done to relieve the bad schooling situation.

Tammany, G. O. P. Squabble.

At one time the creation of an annex was contemplated. But the political squabbles destroyed the plan, and nothing was done.

Parents have been offered the "opportunity" of transferring their children to P. S. 41. It was here that the persecution of Young Pioneers took place last year, and parents, remembering this, preferred to keep their children out of the school.

At the conference Friday evening, extensive plans to carry the fight on to a successful end will be discussed and formulated.

now known as "father" of the new union.

The strike-breaking role of the United Hebrew Trades was described by I. Himmelfarb of Delicatessan Clerks' Local 302. Further analysis of the socialist mis-leadership in the food trades unions was given by Sam Kramberg of the Amalgamated Food Workers, who stressed the need for industrial and political solidarity.

"We are with the Communist Party and know that it is the only party fighting against capitalism's suppression of the colored and Oriental nationalities," declared Ho Riu Chi of the Japanese Workers' Club. What the Progressive Bakers' Club of Local 500 will do to intensify the Workers Party campaign was outlined by Philip Kleinberg.

Many Contribute Funds.

Pledges and a cash collection amounting almost to $300 were taken up after an appeal by Edward Schwartz, organizer of the Grocery Clerks' Union. Further campaign activities will now be carried on by the special committee chosen, composed of representatives from the following organizations:

Bakers' Local 164, Amalgamated Food Workers; Butchers and Chicken Workers' Union; Grocery, Fruit and Dairy Clerks' Union; United Workers' Cooperative Stores; Japanese Workers' Club; American Negro Labor Congress; Progressive Delicatessen Clerks; Hotel and Restaurant Workers' Branch, Amalgamated Food Workers; T. U. E. L.; Bakers' Local 500; Progressive Bakers' Club; Rank and File Committee. Waiters' and Waitresses' Local 1; Proletcos Cooperative; Bakers' Council of Workingclass Women; Unity Cooperative Association; as well as various minority groups in food unions.

that only the Workers (Communist) Party supports them in their struggles, and is the only political organization that stands with them in their great task of building a new fighting union of all needle workers.

Outstanding Fighters.

Outstanding fighters in needle trades struggles, workers who have led the cloak and dressmakers and the furriers in their strikes and battles against Tammany injunctions, socialist and A. F. of L. betrayals, and are now leading them in building their new union, are candidates on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, standard-bearers of the only anti-capitalist party in America. These are:

Ben Gold, manager of the New York Joint Board of the Furriers Union, Communist candidate in the Twenty-third Congressional District, Bronx.

Samuel Liebowitz, assistant manager of the Furriers Joint Board, candidate in the Twenty-fourth Congressional District, Bronx.

Charles Zimmerman, manager of the dress department of the Cloak and Dressmakers Union, now part of the needle trades National Organization Committee, and also chairman of the organization committee of the N. O. C., Workers (Communist) Party candidate for assembly in the Fourth Assembly District, Bronx.

Joseph Borochovitz, manager of Local 2, Cloak Operators, of the N. O. C., and also vice-chairman of the National Organization Committee, Communist candidate for state senate in the Twenty-second Senatorial District, Bronx.

Samuel Liptzin, a leader of the tailors in New York, expelled by the union bureaucracy from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union for his activity in behalf of the tailors and his uncompromising struggle against the Hillman-Beckerman machine, candidate for assembly in the Twenty-second Assembly District, Brooklyn.

These candidates and other leading needle trades fighters will be the principal speakers at the open-air rallies which the Needle Trades Campaign Committee has decided to hold in every section of the city where cloak and dressmakers, furriers, cap and millinery workers, and tailors live. Two such rallies have already been held in the Bronx and in Harlem. Three others are planned for Saturday night, Sept. 29, in Williamsburg, Brownsville and East New York. In addition to these street meetings, which will be held regularly, needle workers' Red Nights are planned. A committee of 75 speakers has been formed to carry the program of the Workers (Communist) Party to the needle workers throughout the city, and mobilize them for support of the Communist candidates.

Indoor Mass Meetings.

Besides the street campaign rallies, indoor mass meetings will be arranged in various sections of the city during the month of October. The Needle Trades Communist Campaign Committee will conduct an intensive drive from now until election day to mobilize the masses of needle workers for the Communist campaign. Vote Communist! is the slogan around which thousands of cloak and dressmakers, furriers, milliners and tailors will be rallied in the elections, to strike a blow against the Tammany and republican machine and the socialist betrayers, who have combined to fight the needle trades progressives, and to protest against the entire capitalist system under which needle trades as well as all other workers suffer.

"paradise" in which the American worker lives.

"The shell of the Socialist Party organization is revealed as the instrument of the middle class, the small business man. All pretence at representing the workers was dropped at its last convention when it repudiated the class struggle. The Socialist Party is in open alliance with the trade union bureaucrats to crush all attempts at militant unionism. The fact that Louis Waldman, the Socialist candidate for governor of New York, finds himself in agreement with the republican presidential candidate's views on government and business furnishes fresh proof of the complete degeneration of the Socialist Party, and exposes it fully as an agent of capitalism.

Only Party of Labor.

"The Workers (Communist) Party," the statement concludes, "has faithfully supported the militant struggles of workers against wage-cuts, speed-up, lay-offs, as well as against the company-union, class collaboration policies of the A. F. of L. The Workers (Communist) Party is leading the new union movement which has taken firm root among the most exploited workers, as the coal industry, the textile industry and the needle trades industry. The political platform of the Workers (Communist) Party contains specific workingclass demands on questions which affect the everyday lives of the workers, both in the shops and factories and at home. The Workers (Communist) Party is the only party which represents the workers.

Working Class Platform.

The Red candidates speaking at Friday's huge Red Rally will not only expose the other political parties, but will present the specific demands made by the Workers (Communist) Party for the workers of New York. The questions of unemployment, social legislation, traction, housing, schools, youth and child labor, woman labor, Negroes foreign-born workers, taxation and farmers will be dealt with comprehensively.

The rally will be more than a formal election meeting. It will be a huge demonstration of workers of New York against the capitalist parties, against the petty bourgeois socialist party, against the A. F. of L. class-collaborationists who endorse the candidates of the enemies of the workers, against the use of injunctions, thugs and gangsters in strikes, and against the whole system of capitalist government under which those who produce the wealth of the country receive only the crumbs dropped from the tables of their exploiters.

The workers gathered at the Central Opera House on September 28th will rally to the support of the platform and candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party, the political instrument of the working class, will voice their support of the militant trade union policies advocated by the Workers (Communist) Party for the abolition of the injunction evil, for increased struggle against imperialist wars, for the recognition of the Soviet Union, the first workers' and farmers' republic, and for a workers' and farmers' government in the United States.

The doors of the Central Opera House will be open at 7 p. m. Admission is 25 cents.

ly conservative" by reactionary labor leaders, the workers are showing their dissatisfaction with the policies of their misleaders and a progressive movement is well under way.

Support Foster, Gitlow.

The progressive building trades workers, aware of the endorsement of the capitalist candidates by their bosses and their union misleaders, will support William Z. Foster for president and Benjamin Gitlow for vice president, as well as the other working class candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party.

It is expected that many carpenters' and painters' locals will endorse the candidates and platform of the Workers (Communist) Party in the election campaign.

Lynn Mayor, Frantic at Rumor of Union Drive, Threatens Martial Law

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 24.—Martial law will be established in Lynn if working class leaders attempt to organize the shoe workers or other workers of this city according to an announcement made today by Mayor Ralph S. Baure.

federation, Ray Ragozin, is herself a candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party in the 23rd assembly district, Brooklyn.

"The Workers (Communist) Party," according to a statement issued by State Campaign Manager Rebecca Grecht, "will carry on an intensive campaign to place its program before the working women of New York, and enlist their support for the Communist candidates.

"The capitalist parties are making every effort, through postcard campaigns, apron clubs, housewives circles, radio and press propaganda, to win over the women workers, who constitute at least 50 per cent of all the voters of this city.

Rap Boss Parties.

"The government of Al Smith and the republican party of New York state has abolished the 48-hour working week for women, and established by law a 51 to 54 hour week. Thousands of women and young girls employed in the food industry in New York City—National Biscuit Company, Wards' Baking Company, etc.—in the candy, piano, and shoe factories in Long Island City, in the numerous department stores, slaves for the miserable wages of $10 to $12 weekly. Neither the democratic nor the republican parties, nor the socialist party, which omits all mention of the women workers in its national platform, offers them a program for bettering their conditions.

"The Workers (Communist) Party is the only party fighting for all women workers, including among its immediate demands, equal pay for equal work for male and female workers, the organization of women factory and mill workers into fighting unions, the establishment of the 40-hour, 5-day week, vacation with pay six weeks before and six weekr after childbirth.

"Women workers, proletarian mothers and housewives, should support the party of the class struggle and vote Communist in the coming elections."

SLAYER OF MINE LEADERS TRIED

Lewis Held Guilty of Campbell Murder

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 24 (UP).—The trial of Ralph Mellarissi, of Port Chester, N. Y., on murder charges in connection with the killing of Alex Campbell, of Pittstown, and Peter Reilly, of Inkerman, as they were driving along a Pittstown street last February was to begin today in Luzerne County Court.

Gunmen in an automobile crowded the car in which Campbell and Reilly were riding to the curb and poured a hail of bullets into them. Mellarissi was the only person arrested.

Guilt Laid to Lewis.

WILKES-BARRE, Sept. 24.—The Lewis machine is held to be the real murderer of Alexander Campbell and Peter Reilly, militant mine leaders of Pittston, for which Ralph Mellarissi, an alleged gangster charged with the actual slaying is to go on trial today.

The corrupt Lewis-Cappellini machine is believed by all informed of conditions to have engineered the murder and to have paid the gunmen who last February riddled the car in which Campbell and Reilly rode with bullets fired from a machine gun. Campbell and Reilly led the fight of the coal diggers against the vicious individual contractor system.

NEGRO WORKERS RESPOND TO RED ELECTION DRIVE

where have heard the campaigners of the Workers (Communist) Party, and listened to a presentation of the Communist program with its demands for Negro workers. For the first time, the Negro workers have met a political party that took a firm, four-square stand on full social, political and industrial equality of the Negroes.

As a result, many Negro workers who have attended Communist open-air meetings and bought Communist literature, have joined the Workers (Communist) Party, ready to fight side by side with their white comrades against the exploitation of the bosses. The fact that Negro workers are among the most exploited in the country makes the militant, class struggle platform of the Workers (Communist) Party of vital importance to them.

Harlem Active.

In Negro Harlem the number of Negroes who have joined the ranks of the Communist army of workers have been enough to warrant the opening of a Negro headquarters, at 200 W. 135th Street. In Brownsville, many Negro workers visit the headquarters of the Party at 154 Watkins Street regularly and take a deep interest in the work of the Party. Many have joined. The same is true in Williamsburg, in the heart of which a Negro section is rapidly being build.

Recently special distributions of issues of the Daily Worker, containing articles on subjects vital to Negro workers in New York, have taken place in Negro Harlem, where they have suffered from police brutality and been viciously discriminated against.

The Workers (Communist) Party has chosen three Negro workers as its standard bearers in the elections: Lovett Fort-Whiteman, candidate for State Comptroller; Richard B. Moore, candidate for Congress in the 21st Congressional District and Edward Welch, candidate for Assembly in the 21st Assembly District.

REACTION RULES PLUMBERS' MEET

(Special to the Daily Worker)

ATLANTIC CITY, (By Mail).—Running rough-shod over every constructive proposal and progressive resolution, the Convention of the United Association of Plumbers and Steam Fitters which closed its sessions here Friday, made a record for reaction and betrayal of the workers in the trades.

Resolutions on unemployment relief, against injunctions, for the organization of the unorganized and other progressive measures went down before the steam roller of the official machine. Instead the labor officialdom voted itself an increase in salary averaging about $1,800 per officeholder. President Coefield, who previously was forced to make ends meet on $7,500 a year had himself raised to $10,000; Secretary-treasurer, Thomas E. Burke, was raised from $5,000 to $7,500 and other officers proportionally.

WORKERS PARTY SIGNATURE DRIVE SETS NEW RECORD

Many Obtain Totals of 100

One of the outstanding features of the election campaign waged in New York City by the Workers (Communist) Party is the drive made by Party members for signatures to put the national, state and local Communist candidates on the ballot. In two ways have the results of the signature campaign been productive: the response of the Party membership generally which has by far exceeded the response in previous campaigns, and the propaganda work carried on by the Red signature gatherers.

Due to the work of the Communist Party members, a sufficient number of signatures will have been obtained by the end of the drive October 1, to put the Communist candidates of fifteen assembly districts, eight congressional and four senatorial districts on the ballot and also a Communist candidate for Boro president of Queens, notorious for its sewer scandals.

Many Aid in Drive.

The signature drive has been vigorously pushed by the various sections of the Workers (Communist) Party in New York. Competition between the sections has run high, both as to the total number of signatures collected by each section and as to the individual comrade who collects the greatest number. With regards to the latter, the honors seem to be safely in the capable hands of Joe Kiss, member of the Harlem section of the Party, who himself collected 450 signatures.

In the Bronx, where workers, including boys and girls from 16 to 19 years of age—are being exploited under terrible conditions and for low wages in handkerchief and shirt factories, laundries, piano factories, large bakeries and others, the Red platform of the class struggle has this year gained the support of increasingly large numbers of workers. At nightly street corner meetings, workers show by their questions, purchases of literature and contributions, an ever increasing class consciousness.

Distribute Literature.

Communist campaigners engaged in signature work have distributed literature setting forth the demands made by the Communist Party, and have sold platforms of the class struggle to signers. In section 1, downtown Manhattan, fully half the workers who signed the petitions bought copies of the Communist national platform.

In Brownsville, not only has a Communist candidate been put across in the Twenty-second Assembly District, as planned, but due to the good work of the members of Section 8, the Twenty-third Assembly District will also have a Red candidate on the ballot.

The backbone in the signature drive in New York has been sections 2 and 3. These sections have organized themselves into Red Squads which have carried on the signature drive in different sections of the city. On Sept. 30, the last day of the drive, the Red Squads will be subdivided and assigned thruout the city in a final wind-up mobilization.

Anti-Japanese Riots Incited in Hawaii on Kidnapping Case

HONOLULU, Sept. 24 (U.P.).—Myles Yutaka Fukanaga, 19-year-old Japanese student who confessed Saturday night to the kidnaping and slaying of young Gill Jamieson, was held under heavy guard today while authorities sought to prevent demonstrations against Japanese merchants and colonists.

The first instance of anti-Japanese feeling was seen in the invasion of a Japanese restaurant by a mob which destroyed furniture and fixtures of the establishment.

Saturday night, following the youth's confession, 20,000 persons stormed the front of the city jail and were dispersed only when the fire department turned streams of water upon them. Kufanaga later was removed to the penitentiary, to await appearance before the grand jury tonight.

Red Night Saturday in Williamsburg

A Red Night will be held in Williamsburg this Saturday, when a dozen Communist campaigners will present the platform of the class struggle to workers at prominent corners in the section.

The speakers scheduled are William W. Weinstone, Organizer of District 2; David Benjamin, Agit-prop Director of the district; Rebecca Grecht, State Communist Campaign Manager; A. Bimba, Section 6 Organizer and Red candidate in the 13th Brooklyn Assembly District; Fred Biedenkapp, head of the Workers International Relief; Sam Nesen, Red candidate in the 6th Bronx Assembly District; George Preinoff, Leroy, Wright, Vera Bush, and Phil Frankfeld, running in the 3rd Bronx Assembly District.

All the speakers will report at the Williamsburg headquarters, 46 Ten Eyck St., at 7:30 p. m.

Moroccan Tribesmen Start New Offensive Against French Armies Along Algier Border

PLANES BOMBARD NATIVES' CAMPS; REINFORCE ARMY

Tribes, Fully Armed Advance

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The Moroccan tribes are preparing for a united offensive against the French forces and are advancing along the Algiers-Moroccan border, a report received here from Algiers states.

Large armed bands of tribesmen advancing in a coordinated march are reported to the French army headquarters by army fliers who are observing the region. The advance has become so threatening that French headquarters are reported to have sent a squadron of army planes to bombard the tribesmen encamped in the region of Tizi-Msepdount.

Skirmishes between the French troops and the advancing tribes have already occurred at Arbala, where four tribesmen were reported to have been killed. The number of French casualties were not made known.

French military headquarters state that all settlements along the line of march have been fortified, that reinforcements are being held ready and that tanks and airplanes are ready for service.

DEFENSE MEET HELD IN BOSTON

Plan Relief for New Bedford Strikers

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Extensive plans for defense and relief for the New Bedford strikers were formulated here today at a conference of the New England District of the International Labor Defense, which was attended by 104 delegates from 66 organizations and representing 18,000 members.

Resolutions demanding the release of Mooney and Billings and plans for a membership drive and extending the circulation of the Labor Defender were also adopted.

The new district executive committee of forty members was elected by the conference. Robert Zelms was reelected district organizer, Jessica Henderson, elected district chairman and Rudquist, vice-chairman.

ernment that war had not broken out between the two countries, because of the open and secretive provocative actions of the Polish government.

Whatever efforts the Soviet Government made to conclude a commercial treaty with Poland was immediately defeated by the intervention of those capitalist powers.

The signing of the Kellogg pact, remarked Voroshiloff, should show the masses that the Soviet Union was eager for peace, and it was for this reason that the Kellogg pact was joined, although, due to the reservations of the powers, the pact remained nothing but a piece of paper.

Senate Will Select Successor of Calles for President Today

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 24 (U.P.)—The electoral commission of the senate and chamber of deputies held a private session today. Adjournment was taken until late in the afternoon, when the commission will certify formally the death of President-elect Alvaro Obregon.

A joint session of congress then will be called, probably for tomorrow, to select a provisional president. Emilio Portes Gil, secretary of the interior, probably will be chosen.

AUSTRIAN "SOCIALISTS" EXTRADITE WORKERS

IN the last few months the situation of the political refugees has become very grave. Formerly political fugitives served a term of three days' imprisonment for having violated the Austrian laws by entering the country without proper papers, and were sure of receiving permission to stay. Now, however, the Austrian authorities use this punishment as an excuse for detaining them and of finally getting rid of them altogether. If the political fugitive appeals then he is held under arrest until the settlement of the matter, which sometimes lasts for months, although an appeal has effect of postponing a sentence. Everyone who has lodged an appeal has the right to stay in Vienna.

But it is not only the general attitude of the authorities to the emigrants which needs attention. The Austrian government is deliberately aiming at abolishing the right of asylum for political refugees altogether by extraditing them to their governments. After the extradition of Bela Kun had been prevented by a storm of protest from all over the world, it was the Austrian representatives at the conference for international law in Warsaw who demanded with reference to this case that such political refugees should be repatriated who were sought for by their own governments for actions threatening human life. This motion was, as is known, adopted by the commission and will determine the new extradition practice unless the working class resist this new move with all possible energy.

The latest happenings in Austria demand close attention from workers in all countries.

The Case of Burcul.

In January 1928, Bartol Burcul, a shoemaker who had fled from Yugoslavia was arrested on the way from Hainborg to Vienna. As Burcul had no identity papers with him the Austrian authorities made enquiries of the Yugoslavian authorities with a view to establishing his identity.

The Yugoslavian government then lodged a request for the extradition of Burcul on the ground that he had participated in a murder. Although the Austrian authorities demanded proofs of this, the government was not able to produce them.

In the meantime the trial of Burcul's fellow accused took place in Yugoslavia. Burcul was tried in his absence, and all the accused who were charged with the same crime as Burcul were sentenced for participating in a strike and for doing bodily harm to strikebreakers. The accused received sentences ranging from three to eight months' imprisonment and some of them were acquitted.

Courts Severe.

The general severity of the Yugoslavian courts against workers is well-known. If these men were sentenced to a few months' imprisonment only, then it is clear that there can be no question whatever of murder. Dr. Valentine Rosenfield the lawyer of Burcul pointed this out to the Austrian authorities and declared that Burcul was sought for by the Yugoslavian authorities for the reason that he was an active trade unionist, and as such had taken a leading part in the workers' strikes.

The Austrian authorities kept Burcul in prison for six months although he had committed nothing for which he could be punished in Austria with more than three days' imprisonment. His lawyer and the Red Aid organization worked unceasingly to secure his release. For a time the Burcul case was developing favorably, for a parcel of underclothing sent to him by the Red Aid was accepted with objection by the prison authorities.

But when on the 28th of July the lawyer of Burcul enquired for him he was informed by the authorities that Burcul had been sent off on that same day to Yugoslavia in the custody of detectives. Burcul was therefore extradited without the authorities even taking the trouble to inform his lawyer of the pending extradition.

The extradition took place although the result of his trial in Yugoslavia showed absolutely clearly that he was not wanted by the Yugoslavian authorities for murder, but for participating in strikes Burcul was therefore obviously a political fugitive, and as such had the right to asylum in Austria.

FARMERS RALLY TO RED TICKET

Fake Progressives are Scored

as dead as the proverbial dodo and Mr. Townley, who was once hailed as the saviour of the masses, is going around with his nose to the earth smelling for hidden oil veins in the wide-open spaces of the Dakotas. The farmers had a costly lesson in non-partisan politics.

Fake Progressives.

After the collapse of the non-partisan bubble the poor farmers turned to the farmer-labor party, but owing to the backsliding of the fake labor progressives who originally supported the movement, and the return of the alleged progressive farm leaders to the republican and democratic parties, there is now little left of that movement.

The farmers of North Dakota as well as of the surrounding states are now turning to the Workers (Communist) Party for political leadership. The republican party has persistently refused to give them any relief, Coolidge vetoing even the watery McNary-Haugen bill and Hoover pledging himself to carry out the Coolidge policies. Al Smith, the democratic candidate, the other Wall Street candidate, is trying to win the farmers' vote with vague promises that he will do something for them after election.

The socialist party is only a little to the left of the democratic party on the farming problem. It favors the McNary-Haugen bill which Al Smith also supports in principle. It favors the cooperation of the federal government with farm organizations to eliminate the uncertain income of the farmer and reducing the number of middlemen who levy tribute on the farmers' products. It favors federal insurance against drouth, hail, storm and flood.

There is no more hope for the farmers in the socialist party program than in the programs of the republican and democratic parties.

The National Platform of the Workers (Communist) Party after analyzing the plight of the farmer, placing the blame of his condition on the shoulders of trust monopoly, calls on the farmers to break off their alliance with the bankers and other factors of big business and must form an alliance with the working class. The fate of the anaemic McNary-Haugen "relief bill" is given as proof that they can expect nothing except kicks from the political parties of Wall Street. The Workers (Communist) Party only correctly diagnoses the farmers' ills and prescribes the right remedy. The Workers Party program on the farm question follows:

1. A five-year moratorium on farm mortgage debts, including debts on chattels.
2. Protection of the working farmer against monopoly prices. Essential lowering of the prices of all trust products which the farmer uses.
3. Protection of the farmer against special exploitation by distributing agencies of production, by railroads, meat packers, milk trusts, and grain elevator combines.
4. Federal law for the creation of a special farm relief fund of $1,000,000,000 to relieve the conditions of the tenant and mortgaged farmers, the fund to be administered by organization of working farmers.
5. Federal law against forced farm foreclosures.
6. Abolition of all federal and local taxes on working and tenant farmers.
7. The land to belong to its users.
8. Complete freedom to organize and strike for the agricultural workers. Federal law to guarantee a seven-hour maximum working day and a 48-hour weekly rest for all agricultural workers. Yearly vacation with pay for all farm laborers. Extension to agricultural workers of all benefits of social insurance and labor protection legislation demanded for industrial workers.

REACTION RULES PLUMBERS' MEET

Officialdom Crushes All Militancy

gations from Honolulu and Hawaii attended the convention which began on September 17 and closed on the 21st.

Leading the opposition to the machine was Delegate Moser of Local 123 of Philadelphia on whom the attack of the officialdom was centered. Throughout the convention it was evident that there was present a large opposition which, however, was not organized and none of whose members would fight consistently for its policies.

Slap at Matt Woll.

The strength of the opposition was indicated when a plea made before the convention by Matthew Woll for an insurance scheme to be fostered by his Labor Life Insurance Company, was overwhelmingly defeated. Woll pleaded and according to his own words "had prayed again and again" that the delegates accept the proposition. In his plea he was joined by the reactionary Burke and Coefield, but the delegates voted as a body to reject the insurance scheme.

Delegate Moser brought in a resolution against injunctions urging mass violation as the only effective means of combatting the evil. This was attacked as a "Communistic proposal" and Moser was accused of being a Communist, the evidence offered being the fact that he was a member of the rank and file trade union delegation which a number of unions several months ago sent across to make an investigation of conditions in the Soviet Union.

Consistent Reaction.

A resolution for the relief of unemployed fared equally. Forced to make some gesture towards the 5-day week, the machine made a nominal acceptance of another resolution by delegate Moser, advocating this measure.

A long report to the convention by Secretary-Treasurer Thomas F. Burke for the Executive Board was labeled by progressive delegates, who expressed their views outside the convention, as "a masterpiece of class collaboration sell-out."

HUGE TRUST TO FIGHT BRITISH WORKERS LOOMS

Melchett Suggests Combine Scheme

LONDON, Sept. 24.—As the world conference of leading mining and electrical power industrialists is about to meet here Lord Melchett and his committee has suggested that all fuel producing companies "co-operate" in the installation of the most modern methods. The plan suggests a nationwide trust that will put still more of the British workers out of work.

According to Lord Melchett, the only way for England to solve her economic problem and the general demoralization of the mining industry is to combine all the powers of the leading industrialists, combine mines and plants and draw up a strong entrenchment of trusts. His idea is to combine coal mines, coke-ovens, blast furnaces, steel furnaces, rolling mills and power stations into a thorough-going rationalization of all these industries.

This plan is only a part of the scheme suggested by the gas and electric companies, chemical manufacturers and oil men. If it goes into effect it would mean, according to the opinion of workers' leaders here that one of the largest bosses' organizations ever created would result with the concommitant co-operation of the ever-willing British government and its courts.

The Melchett plan makes no provisions for the mass of workers who would be left idle if this plan ever went into effect.' The army of unemployed has already assumed threatening proportions and some conservatives have expressed the opinion that if this army is added to, as a trustification would assure, the British government would be in immediate danger.

LONDON, Sept. 24 (UP).—Representatives of 47 countries gathered today for a discussion of international fuel problems. The meeting is under the auspices of the world power conference. Lord Reading presided at the opening meeting at the Imperial Institute. O. C. Merrill represented the United States.

were also made out.

At a workers' press picnic yesterday Foster exposed the fakers of the republican, democratic and socialist parties in a speech lasting an hour and a half. He outlined the Workers Party program and declared that this was the only program that a class-conscious worker could support.

The picnic was preceded by an automobile parade to the picnic grounds, the Communist candidate being frequently applauded on the way.

A worker who said he had been a member of the socialist party for 28 years pledged his support to the Communist campaign. A collection of $150 was made at the picnic.

"SOCIALISTS" FIGHT WOMEN WORKERS

For the past three years attendance at the annual conference of British Labor Women has steadily declined. This year, at the gathering at Portsmouth there were only 656 delegates instead of 861 as in 1925.

It convened in a body called the Standing Joint Committee of Industrial Women's Organizations and other groups, such as, women's sections of the Labor Party, socialist and cooperative societies, and trade unions entitled to representation. But they do not get it if they are Left Wingers. No members of the Communist Party or sympathizers of the Party are allowed as delegates. The conference this year was kept well under the control of the official reactionary Labor Party group.

Results Expected.

The result so far as action is concerned can be readily imagined. And since the right wing control has been growing stronger during the part few years, it explains the falling off in attendance. The average working woman is disgusted with a conference such as the one at Portsmouth this year which used the plea of unity in view of the approaching general election to put over all the reformist policies of the Labor Party, at the same time breaking the real unity of the working women by expelling the Left Wingers.

The conference supported the Labor Party's "belief" in the ultimate nationalization and scientific reorganization of the coal industry, but did nothing about immediate relief for the miners thereby showing greater interest in the welfare of the mine owners than in the miners.

Fight U. S. S. R.

The Standing Joint Committee proposed a committee for the popularization of the Kellogg peace proposals, but refused to listen to one delegate's call for support of the Soviet Government's proposals for world peace, disarmament. By this action the conference became an instrument of the imperialist nations to fool the workers into believing that the imperialists are anxious to bring peace, and can bring it to the world. The conference lost a splendid opportunity of showing up the imperialists who, in rejecting the Soviet peace proposals, really reject peace.

But in spite of the effort made to keep out any delegates who would oppose the reactionary officials, there wa sa very evident dissatisfaction with conference policies. There was criticism of Margaret Bondfield who signed the new act on unemployment which is forcing young girl workers to lives of prostitution.

TWO DICTATORS SIGN PACT FOR BALKAN POLICY

Mussolini Wins Greek Ruler, Venizelos

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Sept. 24.—According to dispatches received here from Rome, Venizelos, dictator of Greece, has signed his first agreement on his tour of European countries, having signed a pact of "non-aggression" and "friendship" with dictator Mussolini of Italy.

Following the recognition of the fascists' crowned kingdom of Albania, by the Greek dictatorship, it was evident that Venizelos had been brought into line and would sooner or later sign a pact that would, if not co-operate with, at least permit the Italian dictatorship full freedom in its exploitation of the countries bordering on the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas. Such a move would be considered by the French government as an encroachment on the French interests in the Balkans and its colonies in Africa.

The treaty just signed shows full evidence of being a pact that not only allows Mussolini freedom of action in the Balkans, and perhaps certain concessions in Greece, but even promises to pave the way for a united front of the Italian and Greek governments in the Balkans and Mediterranean, and is being interpreted by many observers as a definite move against the French interests, now combined with the British, and against the ambitions of the Belgrade regime of Yugoslavia.

Beatings and Slavery Form "Benevolence" in City Hospital, Correspondent Write

PATIENTS LIVE IN CONSTANT FEAR ON RANDALL ISLE

$45 a Month Is Wage of Employes

By a Woman Worker Correspondent

The New York City Children's Hospital, better known as Randall's Island is typical of the hypocrisy of capitalist "benevolence." Many of the patients have to do the hardest and dirtiest kind of work, altho they receive not a cent of wages and are given the very poorest grade of food and clothing.

A number of the patients are classified as feeble-minded, i.e., many of them were feeble-minded enough to be caught playing some kid's trick and were then committed to this hell from which there seems to be no redemption by some learned and respectable Tammany judge. Yet their so-called feeble-mindedness does not save them from torturous long hours of labor nor prevent the bosses, male and female, from inflicting severe punishment on them for the slightest error in the hard and strenuous work.

Stops Beating.

A few months ago a plumbers helper had to violate the rules and regulations of the place and take his chance of getting fired by rushing into the building to prevent what probably have been the murder of one of the patients by his boss. For this act the helper is said to have received a severe reprimand. But the semi-savage boss who inflicted the punishment is still on the job.

Physical abuse seems to be the favorite brand of medicine. Patients live in a state of perpetual anxiety, ever in anticipation of the next beating or humiliation to which they may be subjected. The ribs and other parts of the body become targets for the punches and kicks of the bosses. One patient asked, "What could our boss do with his kicks and punches if we had no ribs?"

$45 Per Month.

In this dumping-ground of capitalist wreckage the non-civil service employes are paid only $45 per month, with the exception of a few old cronies who have succeeded in "working their way up" in the bosses' estimation. Yet these poorly paid employes do most of the mechanical work, especially the manual part of it, while the bosses are discussing the coming election prospects for Tammany Hall.

Boss Hope of the laundry department is reputed to be one of the most cruel on the island. In his department are many patients who are compelled to do the filthiest and hardest work. In addition Hope's chosen form of amusement is to beat them around with a broom.

Boss Sargent of the mechanical department, due to his arrogance and egoism, is alleged to be one of the most notorious slave-drivers on the island. He is an individual of the cringing type, who will crawl to those above him and crush, if possible, those below him. His face and foghorn voice are used to spread fear amongst his slaves. Some of them call him "Ivan the Terrible."

Boss Turner of the agricultural gang watched his men as closely as a bird of prey would watch its next intended victim. He stands over his men all day long as erect as a pirate.

Meat Is "Profane."

The dietician runs her department in accordance with strict jesuitical rules. The unholy odor of meat is not allowed to profane the kitchen or dining-room Fridays or Roman fast days. Yet those who work for her do not hesitate to say that her attitude does not comply with the so-called christian principles.

This Island is not lacking in the modern means of capitalist propaganda. It is well equipped with the movies, radio and churches, all intended to befog the minds of the workers and keep them from doing any serious thinking.

This capitalist propaganda is not, however, having its full effect. Many of the workers are class-conscious and those who are not are conscious of their degradation. They know just what to expect. They regard the bosses and the management of the place as the meek and obedient cubs of the Tammany tiger.

The Daily Worker, though it has to be taken there and read in secret, is nevertheless the most influential newspaper among the workers. This we cannot fail to consider a bright indication. It indicates that the fast looming on the horizon are the rays of proletarian emancipation.

DIARY OF YOUNG MILL MILITANT

Pioneer Delegate at Convention

By EMILY AMARAL

(Age 13—Pioneer representative at Textile Convention).

There is a big crowd in the hall. Weisbord was the first speaker. He spoke about the New Bedford strike, the U. T. W. and the A. F. T. O. He showed very plainly that they were fakers. He spoke about the increase of horse-power and the speed-up system which occurred after the war. He also spoke about the old unions who died. As it was near seven o'clock we closed the first session to eat our supper. The second session opened at eight o'clock. Fred Beale was elected chairman. Weisbord concluded his speech. Weibord said that seventeen per cent of the mills in New England are cotton mills. There are 190,000 workers in Massachusetts. He talks about the ten per cent wage cut. He said the cops are trying to hurt all the picket lines. We are to hold a national textile union throughout the country.

Pioneer Speaks

Anna Rodgurdos, a pioneer from Fall River gave a report on Fall River. She told about the action of the teacher against the children. A teacher hit a boy because he was a member of the T. M. C.

Mac Shawmutt (Shachtman) from the International Labor Defense praises Textile Mills Committee and will help them to organize the textile workers who have been fighting militantly for their rights. The I. L. D. is fighting to get Tom Mooney out frob behind the prison bars. It will also free all the working people who have been arrested fighting for a good living. The I. L. D. was trying to free Sacco and Vanzetti from the electric chair; but you know the result.

"Lewis Rotten"

Beale: Lewis is as rotten as Batty. He is the official of the old miners' union.

Mrs. Bluett: (Bloor) the miners are all looking at us textile strikers. Mr. Lewis hasn't any rank and file. The miners of new union wouldn't let Lewis and gang with clubs, black-jacks get in the hall. Lewis shot George Meraine (Moran) and he died. Miners had a big funeral and decided to make a great big union. The new unions stand for the working class and the old unions are for the capitalist class.

Walter Burke, secretary of the Labor Sports Union. Three years old. Aim against the bosses sport organizations because the bosses prevent them from organizing themselves into a good labor union.

Gustiat former president of U. T. W:. The Passaic workers understand our troubles and are one hundred per cent behind us strikers. McMahon and his officials thought they could break the spirit of the strikers. Many members fought with the officials of the United Textile Workers. When the officials wouldn't do what was the right the members quit. McMahon proposes to organize the south. How? McMahon will talk to the bosses, churches and business men and when a strike comes to that city. McMahon will sell out.

Murdoch Speaks.

Murdoch given fifteen minutes to speak. The New Bedford strike was the first step to put the bosses in their place. The vote for strike taken in Fall River stolen by Tansy. Batty wanted to postpone counting the New Bedford votes for strike. We had only three hundred members at the beginning of the strike. Our first meeting was picketed by Batty because Batty wanted no strike. When Batty told the workers to stay in bed in the morning, T. M. C. said, "Out in the picket line. Keep the mill gates shut." 23 weeks since strike began and we are still sticking with the T. M. C. Over seven hundred fifty arrested for picket line activity. Police beat up. Pinto, 62 years old, in jail. Our relief has been very small because Batty and McMahon. Our aim in this strike is to build one national union.

Reed, Fall River: Last strike in Fall River was 24 years ago. Mr. Tansey, president of T. Council. He was a police commissioner. Fall River had ten per cent cut after Lowell.

Sam Bramhall was leader in 1919 Lawrence strike. When Reed was talking in the Common the cops did not like it. They wanted to arrest him but had no warrant. He didn't go. Two deaths in Lawrence strike. One woman shot by police and one man by trial. Hopes that this meeting will bring forth an organization that will put fear in the hearts of the bosses. Bosses planted dynamite in the Lawrence strike.

ITALIAN WORKERS ALWAYS FACE ARREST

ROME, (By Mail).—The Italian workers are living in constant fear of arrest at any moment. The country is filled with spies, and any remark unfavorable to Mussolini may be a cause for years of imprisonment.

Sentences of twelve years were given to workers for taking part in a conference of the Communist Party, altho the Party was legal at that time.

A few of the sentences recently handed out, follow:

April 23, 1928. Accused: the workers Marcello Gorniero and Gino Quintavalle. The former was charged with having had in his room four leaflets and a number of the "Battaglie Sindicali" (TU organ). The second accused was charged with having often met Gorniero in a public house. Sentences: Gorniero 4 years hard labor, Quintavalle 1 year hard labor.

("Corriere della Sera, 4-24-28.)

April 23, 1928. Accused: the social democratic workers Mario Molteni, Angelo Rainoldi and Pietro Zanoni. The accused were charged with having received Communist leaflets. Sentences: Molteni 7 years and 6 months hard labor, Rainoldi and Zanoni 2 years hard labor each.

("Corriere della Sera, 4-24-28.)

6 Years for Leaflets.

April 25, 1928. Accused: the workers Angelo Scucchia and Libero Stagnetti. Stagnetti without having denounced the latter to the police. Scucchia 6 years and 3 months hard labor, Stagnetti 1 year and 3 months hard labor.

("Corriere della Sera" 4-26-28).

April 25, 1928. Accused: the transport worker Antonio Dell'Aglio of having "with persons unknown considered the advisability of actions calculated to let loose civil war and insurrection against the state power." Sentence: 7 years and 6 months hard labor.

("Corriere della Sera" 4-26-28).

April 25, 1928. Accused: 16 Communist workers from Apulia. According to the evidence of the police inspector Vincenzo Grano, the police had learned that for some time preparatory sessions had been held for the organization of a conference on June 20, 1926 at which conference a revolutionary action on a large scale was to be discussed. Grano then caused the conference hall to be surrounded and arrested everyone in it.

The conference in question was a normal district conference of the Italian Communist Party which at the time was perfectly legal, it being prohibited only on November 9 1926.

MILITANT GIVES BOSSES EARFUL

Tells Them Real Facts of Situation

(By a Worker Correspondent)

At a convention of welfare people, employers and employment directors and agencies, Sadie Van Veen, an uninvited guest, delivered an address on unemployment at the Hollenden Hotel, which threw the convention into an uproar.

After listening in for some time Comrade Van Veen asked for the floor and before the chairman could be instructed by Cleveland officials who had good reason to remember the activities of the Cleveland Council of the Unemployed, Comrade Van Veen spoke as follows:

Can't Eat Statistics.

Statistics are important, very important, she said, "and it is well to know figures and know how many are at work and how many are idle. But statistics alone will not solve the problem. We have to face facts and not hide our heads, like the ostrich, pretending nothing is wrong."

"What are the facts?"

"The Cleveland Press some months ago pointed out that the present unemployment is not that which periodically attacks the country, but that the present situation is a permanent condition and will only be obviated by deep-going changes and the reorganization of industry, and the Press was right."

Comrade Van Veen then proceeded briefly and clearly to analyse industrial conditions and to give the prime cases for unemployment together with possible relief measures such as unemployment insurance, reduction of hours, increase in wages and no overtime. She ended by remarking:

"I do not know what you intend to do. I do not know how deep you intend to go. But unless you understand these facts and analyse the situation as it is and face it, you will not be able to relieve the unemployment of this country nor bring work to the millions now idle, nor help to the suffering families of the unemployed."

Comrade Van Veen then referred to the heads of organized charities who were present as well as the head of the Cleveland city employment bureau, saying:

"We cannot hold these gentlemen responsible. If there is no work, jobs cannot be made by the heads of these departments. The city manager told us last year that the city had no method and no means of caring for the unemployed and he was right. The city has not."

"In the meantime, there are three million people without work and this problem will have to be faced."

The speaker had hardly ended when three pompous and prosperous gentlemen were on their feet vociferously denying that unemployment was very severe or that there was any reason for alarm. They declared that hereafter only invited delegates would be allowed the floor.

The convention will continue to babble for another day about statistics, bureaus and charities. In the mean time unemployment continues and there is no cause, say the well fed gentlemen, to worry much.

WILL FIGHT FAKE PROGRESSIVES IN MIDDLE WEST

Watkins and Olander Lead Struggle

(By a Worker Correspondent)

WINONA, Minn. (By Mail).—Hundreds of copies of the Daily Worker were given out free by members of the Young Workers League to the delegates of the forty-sixth convention of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, and to workers of this city who attended the meeting at which Henrick Shipstead, the betrayer of the workers and farmers of Minnesota, spoke.

Shipstead has the full support of the executive council of the A. F. of L., according to a statement made by Paul Smith, a flunkey of William Green's.

This is clear evidence that the A. F. of L. reactionaries are determined to destroy their independent political movement of the workers and farmers of Minnesota and make it the tail-end of the republican party.

W. Watkins, of the Switchmen's Union, whose credentials were rejected by the convention, spoke in an open-air meeting to delegates who had the courage to listen. Watkin's voice, being unusually strong, attracted the delegates in the hotel, who sat on the window ledges.

Watkins denounced President Hall as a misleader of labor. Paul Smith, personal representative of President Green, was also scored for concealing and misrepresenting the struggle of the miners. Victor Olander was taken to task for advising the delegates to go slow in their attacks on equity courts and for saying that these courts "protect property rights." "These are the emissaries of big business," Watkins said, "because the workers have no property and hence no rights."

Watkins was accused of having his name on the letter-head of the Workers (Communist) Party appealing for funds to support Foster and Gitlow. He said that he did not know that his name was on this letter-head, but, if it was, it was all right with him. If the misleaders of labor can support Al Smith or Herbert Hoover, then he was proud to be found supporting real workers, class candidates, and not those who aid in crushing the workers when they are on strike. Foster and Gitlow each have a history of service to the working class and represent the only program that offers hope for the emancipation of the workers and working farmers of the United States.

Watkins also extolled the achievements of the Soviet Union. He urged its recognition and said that he would not lose any opportunity to defend the workers of the Soviet Union. The meeting will surely have a beneficial effect.

"This Thing Called Love"

Edwin Burke's Comedy Brings Few Blushes But Many Giggles

A subject that has made fortunes for clever novelists, playwrights and go-getting philosophers is the current magnet at the Maxine Elliott Theatre with Violet Heming and Minor Watson doing the heavy work on the stage and getting the twelve point caps on the bill of fare.

What Burke did is to try to demonstrate that two people who love one another are in need of police protection more than seclusion after the first half a dozen thrills loosen up their eyeballs making it possible for the optics to look appraisingly on animated specimens of humanity other than whatever unit of the species happened to have produced that fixed stare and the heart with the regular beat.

In order to accomplish his worthy aim Burke introduces his audience to a couple that enjoy silk pajamas, lounge suits and cocktails—in fact everything but connubial felicity. What they don't say to each other by way of invective is due to ignorance and not to lack of intent. Divorce is the only way out but it looks at times as if the undertaker would arrive before the divorce judge.

Thanks to the arrival of Tice Collins an American who made a fortune in Peru, the shooting did not take place and the first couple were allowed to take a rest behind the back drop while Violet Heming as Ann Marvin and Minor Watson as Tice Collins did their bit. And it must be said that they did it well. Miss Marvin, good to look at, well-spoken and cool, smote Mr Collins a heavy blow on his emotional gizzard by a mere wiggling of her eyebrows. He went down like an elevator shaft. Mr. Collins is the big Peruvian with more money than he knows what to do with. Being a matter-of-fact sort of a fellow as would be expected from one not acquainted with the niceities of polite society he does not waste any time making love but pops the question. Miss Marvin finally accepts on a sort of companionate marriage basis, with the difference that Mr. Collins pays her $25,000 a year and expenses. A labor faker's pay for a wife is not so bad.

In return for the $25,000 Miss Marvin was to play the role of wife with the privilege of receiving whatever boy friend she happened to be interested in. Ditto for Mr. Collins. An amusing incident occurred when Mr. Collins emerging from the bath room found his wife in the arms of her boy friend. Mr. Collins apologized and retreated. Later on when the boy friend found Mr. Collins embracing Mrs. Collins the boy friend expressed indignation and returned with a gun to shoot the impudent husband who had the nerve to kiss his own wife.

The fun almost stopped when Collins and his wife fell in love with each other and used up a lot of good time talking the usual nonsense. But hardly had they decided to kill everybody who dared step between them than jealousy with the persistence of an insurance agent inserted his cloven hoof into the slightly open door and from then on it was a regular marriage.

The play is excellently acted. Deserving special mention are: J. B. Brewer as the butler, Ruth Garland as the gossiping nitwit wife of a henpacked husband, Juliette Day, the attractive and agreeably pajamad stage wife of Malcoln Duncan, Henry Whittemore as the boy friend and Enid Romany as Miss Alvarez, who tossed the apple of jealousy wherever she went, and whose lot was to be beloved by men and hated by women.

Lots of fun in "This Thing Called Love" but not much food for the serious thinker.—T. J. O'F.

Republicans and Monarchists Riot In Berlin Streets

BERLIN, Sept. 23 (UP).—German political opponents—members of the Steel Helmet and members of the Reichsbanner—engaged in a street battle which lasted several hours late today.

Thirty persons were injured and several buildings demolished in the rioting.

The clash occurred in Spandau, a suburb of Berlin, and grew from a minor disturbance over political issues to an uncontrolled riot.

post of secretary-treasurer after the three vice-presidents were chosen.

Gustav Deak, leader of the former Passaic U. T. W. locals, Ellen Dawson, heading women's work, and William T. Murdoch, were chosen by a unanimous vote as first, second and third vice-presidents respectively.

Cheer Council Members.

Just before adjournment, the convention elected the National Council of 32, 30 of whom later came up to the platform to be cheered by the assemblage. Two were missing because of a place reserved for the Paterson silk workers who are organized into the Associated Silk Workers. That union had sent "observers" to the convention to report back, so that the question of affiliation can be discussed.

The National Council membership consists of Samieras, Beal, Heimat, Hegelias, John Porter (who was elected amid great applause despite his absence because he is serving a jail term of two years), Karas, Conroy, Boya, Troya, Keller, Zarni, Rusco, Chernov, Coireia, Weissman, Builak, Girard, Zolar, Skoloniskas, Feirera, Canni, Lamieras, Zifk, Rubenstein, Zoika, Rappaport, Figuerido, Mendes, Carter, Gonzales, Markham, Lipschitz and Giaca.

After the convention had adjourned, the delegates from the strike centers of Fall River and New Bedford crowded into several trucks and autos to begin a wearying all-night ride back to the picket lines. The delegates piled in, making Union Square ring with the songs of the strike. Crowds of New York workers gave them a rousing sendoff from in front of the Daily Worker building.

(By United Press)

They will start paying off on the New York Yankees as American League winners almost any day now.

The Philadelphia Athletics have tossed away another chance, after one of the greatest uphill fights in the history of baseball by losing three of their last four games in the west. The Mackmen bowed to the St. Louis Browns yesterday making but four hits off Alvin Crowder, thus sacrificing what was just about their last chance to overtake the world's champions.

While the Yankees were faltering on the road, the Athletics, who were only a game behind last Friday, could have taken the lead by making a clean sweep over the week end. Instead, the Mackmen failed dismally and their defeat today all but puts them out of the running for the American League flag.

The Cleveland Indians beat the Yanks, 4 to 3, while the St. Louis Browns were defeating the Athletics, 6 to 2.

Accordingly, with but five more games to play, Philadelphia must win them all while the world's champions are breaking even if the pennant is to fly from the Shibe Park flag-pole next spring.

The St. Louis Cardinals continued their dash to the National League pennant by defeating the Brooklyn Robins before 10,000 fans and maintaining their one game lead over the New York Giants. The score was 9 to 2.

"Old Pete" Alexander set the Robins down with eight hits and won his sixteenth victory of the season. Two safe bunts in the first inning and Bissonette's single, a force out, and Bancroft's triple in the fourth accounted for the two Brooklyn runs.

The Cardinals hammered three pitchers, Elliott, Ehrhardt and Moss, for 14 hits, Taylor Douthit getting three of them.

Sunny Jim Bottomley hit his thirty-first home run of the season off Moss in the fifth, giving the Cardinal first sacker undisputed possession of the home run leadership of the National League.

HUGE OIL PROFITS

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 24 (UP).—The Independent Oil and Gas Company, at its regular meeting of directors, declared a cash dividend of 37½ cents, payable October 31 to stockholders. This is an increase of 12½ cents per share over the usual quarterly dividend. Net earnings of the company for the current quarter included earnings of the recently acquired Manhattan Oil Company, estimated to exceed $2,000,000.

Guards Kill Ten Lepers When They Protest Treatment

BATAVIA, Java, Sept. 24.—Ten lepers were killed and four wounded when a military guard fired into a group at the leper colony at Kota Radja, Northern Sumatra, a telegram from that place reports.

The report states that a group of 29, both men and women, had refused to submit to the inhuman treatment accorded them at the colony, and when the district commissioner and his military escort approached them they resisted. The soldiers fired into their ranks and four of those killed were women.

FOE OF MILITANTS WILL DRAW $10,000 YEAR FROM UNION

Jam Anti-Communist Resolution Thru

The reactionary officials in charge of the Bricklayers' Masons' and Plasterers' Union yesterday announced on their return from the Boston convention held by the union that William J. Bowen, the union's president, had been chosen by his fellow misleaders as president emeritus for life, at $10,000 a year. Bowen will retire on January 1, when George T. Thornton, now vice president, will succeed him. Thornton is equally notorious with Bowen as an extreme reactionary, and an opponent of any slightest militant tendency among the bricklayers. In Bowen's 27 years as an international officer, he has opposed all strikes or any progressiveness among the bricklayers.

In denying a charge that the reactionary "leaders" of the bricklayers were restricting the union membership, the officials stated that "it is our policy to welcome and promote efficiency for the builder."

The Bowen-Thornton machine did not fail to jam thru the usual resolution denouncing the Communists.

The Hand of American Imperialism at Geneva

Count von Bernsdorff, who, in 1917 as ambassador from the government of the kaiser to the United States, was stigmatized as the personification of enmity to the imperialist policy of the Wall Street government of Woodrow Wilson, has now become one of the chief agents of that identical imperialism under the Mellon-Coolidge regime. The fact that one man, in the course of a trifle more than a decade can play such apparently divergent roles, is indicative of the rapid changes, the realignments, that have taken place and are taking place in the arena of world conflicts.

While speaking as the representative of the government of Germany at the Geneva meeting of the League of Nation's assembly's third commission on the subject of calling the next meeting of the preparatory disarmament commission, Von Bernsdorff also spoke unofficially in behalf of the imperialist policy of the United States when he defiantly rejected the text of the committee's resolution on the Franco-British naval accord, thereby blocking the proposed armaments conference.

The action of Count von Bernsdorff is the latest of a series of maneuvers in the "peace" offensive of the United States against Britain. There is a certain very definite and obvious continuity in the pacifist game that is being played by the war-mongers.

The Kellogg "peace" pact was directed against Great Britain's political domination of Europe which it exercizes through the machinery of the League of Nations. The ever-increasing export of American capital makes it imperative that the imperialist government of the United States challenge any power that presumes to utilize the machinery of the League against it. Neither the tory government of Britain, nor the renegade socialist premier of France, Aristide Briand, were under any illusions regarding the nature of the Kellogg move. The form of the document was such, however, that a nation refusing to accept it would have been placed in the position of approving war as a national policy.

But in order to show their contempt for the authors of the pact they concluded a naval accord, some of the details of which they permitted to leak out on the very eve of the signing of the pact. This so enraged the imperialist bandits of Wall Street that they instructed their messenger boy, "Nervous Nelly" Kellogg, to avoid a visit to England by way of registering indignation.

Britain and France followed up the counter-blast against the Kellogg "peace" offensive by utilizing the League assembly machinery in an effort to lay the foundation for another naval arms conference under the auspices of the League, thereby ignoring the United States pact. Since the United States is not a member of the League of Nations it had to rely upon representatives of other nations to fight for its policies. The individual who carried out the policy of Wall Street was Bernsdorff.

The fact, however, that Bernsdorff's actions were advantageous to the imperialist plans of the United States does not preclude the possibility of his also serving the interests of the German imperialists. German industry has revived, thanks to the aid of American banking capital, and Germany is once more taking its place among the predatory powers of the world. Since German industry and finance is dependent upon the United States the German statesmen now play the game of Uncle Shylock in international politics. This revival affects directly the interests of France and Britain and impels them toward an alliance—at least temporarily—although there are powerful groups in French political life who favor an alliance with the United States rather than with Britain. Another turn of the political wheel in France may bring these to the fore, in which case Britain would be at a distinct disadvantage, to say the least.

At the present moment the duplicity of the Wall Street government at Washington has placed the League apostles in an unfavorable position. Probably England and France will now concoct some new treaty proposals, draw up other and more elaborate documents purporting to "outlaw" war, in order to counteract this latest phase of the American offensive and try to keep some semblance of life in the League, which has served them thus far as an instrument of aggression.

Beginning with Versailles the world has been surfeited with treaties, all of them proclaimed by their sponsors as the final word in the diplomacy of peace. Such treaties themselves only emphasize the rapidity with which new alliances are being created and the momentum with which the great powers are plunging toward another world war.

In this political campaign in the United States every party, with the exception of the Workers (Communist) Party, deliberately ignores the fact that the pivotal question of our times is the danger of another imperialist war. All the capitalist powers conspire against the Soviet Union, the fatherland of the world proletariat. At the same time the conflicts between themselves become ever sharper. In a dozen places of the earth are veritable powder magazines that may explode at the slightest spark.

Only the Communists have a genuine solution of the question of war—that is the abolition of imperialism. That end cannot be achieved by pacifist measures or by preaching sermons to the jackal pack of war-mongers, but by organizing a revolutionary fighting machine that will utilize the political and economic crisis growing out of the war for the overthrow of the imperialist powers of the whole world.

Needle Trades and Red Drive

By ROSE WORTIS.

THE needle trade workers have lived thru a very critical period during the past few years, during which they have been persecuted and their unions destroyed by the united front of the union bureaucracy, the bosses and the capitalist state. Wages have been pitilessly cut, working hours lengthened without limit, piece work re-established in most of the branches of the industry where week-work formerly prevailed. The speed-up system has reached the highest pitch. A regime of terror, which has no precedent in the history of the trade union movement, has been instituted with the aid of hirelings from the underworld against the rank and file of the unions. The injunctions and strike-breaking encouraged and fostered by the bureaucracy surpasses in many ways all the strike breaking activities employed by the bosses during previous struggles. The full responsibility for this situation rests with the union bureaucracy (pillars of the Socialist Party) who have received the fullest cooperation from the capitalist state in their efforts to crush the militant spirit of the needle trade workers.

The role of the democratic administration in the present struggle of the needle trades is well illustrated by the action of the democratic judges, police and detective squads, who used the full power of the state against the workers.

The role of the republican party is fittingly characterized by the action of Judge Rosalsky who sentenced honest and loyal union members to long terms of imprisonment for strike activities.

The problem then arises, which of the two other parties which appear on the field as parties of the working class shall the needle trade workers support, the Socialist Party or the Workers (Communist) Party?

Years ago the Socialist Party was a party of the workers, founded on the principle of the class struggle. It supported the workers in all their struggles against the capitalist class. Today, it has cast aside the idea of the class struggle and is fighting side by side with the union bureaucracy and the other political parties for the bosses against the workers. The record of the Socialist Party during the past few years has openly stamped it as an anti-working class party. In 1925 the Socialist Party, with its leader Hillquit, planned and gave the signal for the expulsion policy in the ladies' garment industry. Hillquit, ex-assemblyman Beckerman and the Socialist Party, were the initiators and leaders of the program on the furriers, the dress and cloakmakers, and all other unions. Mr. Hillquit, the spokesman of the Socialist Party, resorted to the weapon of the open-shoppers, the injunction, as a method of fighting the militant workers. The Socialist Party in its press is supporting and maintaining the company unions in the cloak and dressmakers' and furriers' trades, and is trying to extend these company unions to the other branches of the industry. At the instructions of the Socialist Party "The Forward" and the United Hebrew Trades are organizing "vigilance committees" to terrorize the workers. The Socialist Party has betrayed the workers. It stands in the way of unity in the ranks of the workers. It stands in the way of rank and file control of the unions.

Vote Communist! Why?

What is the record of the Workers Party in the struggles of the needle trade workers? An analysis of the activities and role of the Workers (Communist) Party in the recent struggle of the needle trades will show that the Communist Party and its press have been the first to give their support to the workers in the struggle to prevent the corrupt bureaucracy from carrying on its unchallenged domination in the needle trade unions. The Workers Party and its press have from the very first day of its existence championed the interests of the rank and file in all their struggles against graft, corruption and union bureaucratism. It has led the fight against imprisonment of workers, against company unionism, and for rank and file control of the unions. The Workers Party does not only limit itself to the immediate issues of the workers but is leading them in the struggle for their final emancipation from capitalism. It was the first to give its support in the movement for building new militant unions where the workers alone will be the rulers.

A Working Class Duty.

It is therefore the duty of every class-conscious worker, to give his support to the candidates of the Workers Party which is the only party to-day that has the right to speak in the name of the working class!

Needle Trade Workers! Vote against union bureaucratism, against corruption, against injunctions, against expulsions. Vote for the party which stands for real militant unions that will rest on the support of the workers. Vote for the party of the working class that is leading the workers of this country in the struggles against capitalism. Vote Communist!

The Enemies of Working Class

The campaign in New York state cannot be regarded as something in itself; something separate from the general national campaign. There are, of course, certain problems peculiar to New York, because the industries of New York do not exactly duplicate those of any other one state. But in New York as elsewhere in the United States the problems facing the working class are practically identical. Whether a strike involves needle trades workers, harvest hands or steel workers the alignment of forces are the same. On the side of the strikers are the awakened sections of the working class. On the side of the employers are the special organs of state power—the bureaucratic machinery of the government, the courts, the police, the other armed forces including private armies of gunmen—usually administered by republicans and democrats. In addition to the official machinery of suppression there are also semi-official agents of the bosses—the yellow socialists and the reactionary officialdom who place themselves at the head of the labor movement only in order to betray it.

The campaign has special significance for New York this year because one of the presidential candidates, Governor Al Smith, has also served his apprenticeship as a strikebreaker. His first experience as a union-wrecker and scab-herder was when he sent the state troops into Lackawanna during the steel strike of 1919—while he was serving his first term as governor. The last strikebreaking service was his attempt to smash the needle trades unions of New York City. In view of this record Mr. Raskob of the Morgan owned open-shop concern of General Motors can enthusiastically endorse Smith. Likewise Owen D. Young, head of the labor-hating General Electric Company can fully approve the candidacy of Tammany Al.

In connection with the strike-breaking activities of Smith, it is essential to mention the thoroughly corrupt bureaucracy at the head of the New York State Federation of Labor and the New York Central Trades and Labor Council, who work hand in hand with Tammany. Also involved in this combine are the yellow socialist fakers and union-wreckers who form close alliances with the thugs and gunmen protected by Tammany in order to fight the leftward movement of the rank and file of the needle trades.

No intelligent worker who lives in New York City can be fooled by the cheap, lying propaganda of the democratic party to the effect that the Tammany of today is less vile, less the grafter, swindler and protector of organized crime than in its very worst days. The only difference between the Tammany of Al Smith and Judge Olvany and the Tammany of "Boss" Tweed is that the modern political crooks have devised a smoother working machine. Every sort of privilege is for sale by the Tammany gang—from a license to operate an auto, to protection in campaigns of organized murder. Tammany is the prototype of planned corruption in city politics. Its methods have been adopted by many republican city administrations—Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia. Essentially Tammanyism is an alliance of the big capitalists at the very top of the social scale with the lowest strata of a rotten society, the very scum of the earth, the offscourings of all classes generally characterized as the lumpen proletariat; the criminals of all varieties who exist as parasites upon parasites and in periods of class conflicts are, for the most part, the most frightful assassins of the working class.

But in spite of the fact that the workers in local, isolated struggles have to fight directly against the state politicians, the working class, particularly at this time and in this campaign, must come to understand that state politics cannot be separated from national politics. The basic problems facing the working class today have to do with national policy. The pivotal question of today extends far beyond the bounds of state or nation and embraces the whole world. Both old parties deliberately avoid the one burning issue of the day—the question of the danger of another world war. The republicans, the democrats and the socialists all serve the interests of the imperialist war-mongers by talking loud and long about issues that compared to the war danger are comparatively trivial. None of these parties dares discuss the central problem. None of them mentions the fact that American capitalism is relentlessly driving forward to another world war—only the Workers (Communist) Party unfurls a warning to the whole working class and brands the imperialist conspiracies to hurl millions of the manhood and youth of the land into the slaughter house of another world war in an attempt to make the mightiest imperialist power on earth mightier yet.

In this imperialist conspiracy there is not one bit of difference between the republican and democratic parties. Herbert Hoover and A. Smith alike are servants of Wall Street's imperialist policies. It is not at all inconsistent that Hoover, in 1918, was a staunch supporter of Woodrow Wilson, the war-monger, and declared at that time:

> "I am for President Wilson's leadership not only in the conduct of the war, but also in the negotiations of peace, and afterward, in America's burden in the rehabilitation of the world."

In 1918 Mr. Hoover was a democrat because the ruling party, the most conscious party of imperialism, was the democratic party. In 1921 Hoover entered the cabinet of Harding and worked closely with that other imperialist, Andrew W. Mellon, to swing the republican party, the party of the industrialists, who opposed the program of Wilson—existing trusts being merged into the same fold as the democratic party. The tremendous merger movement that followed, already existing trust being merged into still greater trusts under the aegis of banking capital furnished the economic base for the transformation of the republican party into an advocate of the policies of the exporters of capital—Morgan and associates. On every issue of international significance there has persisted since the famous vote on the world court in 1926 a democrat-republican Wall Street coalition in the house and senate of the United States. The two parties stand together for the world court; they both approve the ravaging of Nicaragua. Both approve the big army and navy programs.

Their candidate for congress and the senate will uphold the imperialist policies of the government; will follow a policy of crushing the working class at home and terrorizing the colonial and semi-colonials of the weaker countries. The old party candidates for governor, no matter whom they may be, will still carry out the strike-breaking policies of Al Smith. They will alike approve the savage injunction drive against labor on the part of the bi-partisan judges selected by joint agreement of the republican and democratic politicians. Republican, democrat, or socialist, the workers will be victims of the gangster and gunman. Neither of the old parties advocates the repeal of the "criminal anarchy" law which is used exclusively against militant labor. The Workers (Communist) Party alone represents the elementary interests of the working class in this campaign. Against the conspiracies of the war-mongers we strive to organize revolutionary forces that will challenge their power. We demand the repeal of anti-labor laws. We defy the kept judges and their injunctions against labor. We utilize the election campaign in order to expose the capitalist parties and cause them and their candidates to be despised by all workers. In every conceivable way we strive to organize the working class for an implacable fight against all our class enemies, whether they call themselves republicans, democrats or socialists.

There is but one way in this campaign to register your approval of the revolutionary struggle against imperialism and its agents and that is to Vote Communist!

1. Immediate relief for the unemployed.
2. Right of the workers to organize, to strike, to picket.
3. Abolition of government by injunction.
4. Prohibition of the use of police, the industrial squad, and other special squads against the workers in labor struggles.
5. A militant struggle against wage cuts, speed-up, company unions and treacherous labor misleaders.
6. Full social, economic and political equality, without discrimination, for Negroes, foreign-born workers, women and young workers.
7. The establishment of the 40 hour, five day week for working women, and vacation with pay six weeks before and after child birth for working mothers.
8. Struggle against increased rates and fares on traction lines, railroads and public utilities.
9. Protection of the working farmer against monopoly prices, and against exploitation by milk trusts, distributing agencies and railroads.
10. Full support of the struggles of the textile workers the miners, and the needle trade workers in their efforts to build new unions.
11. Struggle against the treacherous socialist party, agent of the capitalist class.
12. Immediate withdrawal of marines from Nicaragua and China.
13. Struggle against imperialist wars.
14. For a Labor Party.

Told You S

NEW YORK is not called the "E pire State" for nothing. It i the wealthiest state in the union the seat of financial and governmental power. Where the dollar reigns there sits the government. Wall Street and not Washington is the capital of the United States. The House of Morgan is the real White House. Because of the concentration of wealth in this state the New York election campaign has tremendous significance.

THE democratic and republican parties are starting out from scratch, so to speak, in the state campaign. Both are saddled with handicaps. The democrats have to wear gas masks going into battle on account of the Queens sewer scandal and the republicans have Mrs. Knapp, the embezzler of state funds, wrapped around their necks as the Old Man of the Sea was wrapped around Sinbad the Sailor. "You are bigger crooks than we are, Gungha Dhin," will be the war cry of both parties.

THE capitalists are divided over the republican and democratic candidates. They can afford this luxury because whoever is elected will serve them loyally and well. The workers are also divided, though, no matter which party wins, the workers will lose. The party of Al Smith will order the police and state militia to break strikes, arrest strikers and put their leaders in jail. The party of Herbert Hoover will do the same thing.

THE republican politicians tell the workers that a victory for the G. O. P. candidate will mean a full dinner pail, prosperity and home brew. The democratic politicians tell the workers that the election of the jackass candidate will mean the first two blessings and open beer stubes openly arrived at. The Catholic worker will be told that he should vote for "one of his own," though the democratic ticket is infested with Methodists and Presbyterians. The Protestant worker will be told to vote against the democratic party and the pope, though there are more Catholics running on the G. O. P. ticket than there are fleas on a California pup.

MANY workers whose faith in both parties has been shaken say that they will vote for one or the other parties as a choice of evils. They would vote the Communist ticket, but they don't like the idea of "throwing their vote away." To those workers, we say that it is bad enough to vote for the losing candidate, but that it is a darned sight worse to have the sin of voting for the winning capitalist candidate on their souls. What would a worker think of the chattel slave who helped his master fasten the shackels of slavery on his limbs? He would think that he deserved several kicks on the posterior in addition to his chains. But, compared to the wage slave who votes for a capitalist candidate, the chattel slave was a paragon of wisdom. The chattel slave was at least guaranteed food, clothing and shelter, whether he worked or not. The modern slave is certain of nothing but death.

THE colored workers in New York state are asked to vote either for the republican party, which sees their people lynched in certain states without a protest, or for the democratic party, that lynches them. Some Negro leaders, whose palms have felt the soothing touch of John J. Raskob's coin, hail Al Smith as a savior. Al Smith, the leader of the democratic party, the traditional party of slavery. Some Negro leaders urge the colored voters to cast their ballots for the G. O. P. candidates on the ground that Lincoln freed them from chattel slavery. Well, Lincoln is dead a helluva long time and it appears to me that the Negroes are free to come north and take a chance of starving, or staying in the south and taking a chance on getting lynched.

THE majority of the leaders of the A. F. of L. are for Smith. They have good reason to be. They are part of the Tammany machine in New York state. They stand to gain more from a democratic victory than a republican victory. But the republicans know their peanuts and will also take care of their labor leaders. The reactionary bureaucrats of the trade union movement have as much in common with the rank and file as the flea has with the dog. Both are parasites. The rank and file of the workers must break with the capitalist parties and their labor lieutenants and line up with the Workers (Communist) Party that fights all the way from the strike for higher wages and better working conditions to the struggle for the abolition of the capitalist system and the establishment of a Workers' and Farmers' government.

PLAN BIG TRUST MOVES IN U. S.-ANGLO OIL WAR

Standard Oil in Bloc With German Dye Trust

Increases War Danger

Imperialist Struggle Is Sharper

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Mergers that are certain not only to revolutionize the oil industry but to sharpen the war between the Standard Oil Company and the Royal Dutch Shell are underway, according to rumors widely circulated in industrial quarters. Both of these huge oil corporations are planning to absorb chemical and dye trusts in their world-wide struggle.

Forming Bloc.

Observers here point to the recent conferences between Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and officials of the German dye trust as evidence of a bloc of the American oil and German chemical trusts. While this merger is being contemplated, it is stated, Sir Henri Deterding, head of the Royal Dutch, has been conferring with Lord Melchett, head of the huge British chemical trust.

The bloc assumes especial significance in view of the recent efforts on the part of the German dye trust to produce fuel oil through the liquefaction of lignite or brown coal.

Oil War to Spread.

WORKERS DEFY POLICE AT MEET

Communists Speak at Eagle Pencil Co.

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Yesterday noon Tammany Hall police together with officials of the Eagle Pencil Company, fearful of exposure of rotten conditions existing in the Eagle Pencil Company and the effect of the message of the Workers (Communist) Party on the workers in the factory, attempted to prevent the Workers (Communist) Party from holding an open air meeting in front of the factory gates. When informed by William W. Weinstone, secretary of the New York district of the Workers (Communist) Party, that the speakers would go ahead with the meeting and talk to the workers on their problems, the police, in order to protect the Eagle Pencil Company and to prevent workers from listening to the Communist exposition of the role of the two bosses' parties, the democratic and republican parties, drove the workers into the factory as D. Benjamin, candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party in Brooklyn for state senator, mounted the platform.

Tammany Police Aid Company.

It was obvious to the workers present that the police were cooperating directly with the company. When the speakers of the Workers (Communist) Party arrived on the scene, they were met by an auto full of police including a precinct captain, a sergeant and five police officers as well as the company policeman and many company officials and foremen. The speakers were told to move on, that they could not hold a meeting in front of the factory or near it, that they would have to hold their meeting a block away. When the committee of the Workers Party protested, defending their right to hold a meeting, the police shoved them on. The committee then took the platform 20 yards down from the corner but within sight of the Eagle Pencil Company. The police car then drove straight toward the committee and would have demolished the platform had it not been for the quick action of Ben Intrator of the

SOVIET COMMISSAR SCORES WAR DANGER

(Wireless to the Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., Sept. 25.—Full accounts in the press here describe the Red Army maneuvers at Kiev and give a full account of the speech of Voroschilov, Commissar of War for the Soviet Union.

Voroschilov spoke before the municipal Soviet of Kiev. He thanked the proletariat of Kiev in behalf of the Revolutionary War Council for its enthusiastic welcome.

International Situation.

In his speech he discussed the international situation and especially in relation to the Soviet Union. He pointed out that the relations of the Soviet Union with its neighbors were strained. The Rumanian relations, for instance, were not improved. The Polish government, he said, is determinedly unfriendly and it is only due to the peaceful policy

FARMER-LABOR IN DEAL WITH SMITH

Shipstead Carries Out Final Betrayal

(Special to the Daily Worker)

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25.—Democratic politicians are claiming the Farmer-Labor vote of this state following a deal entered into between the ruling cliques of both organizations which the so-called "progressives" agree to vote for Tammany Al Smith in return for which the other political machine is given the right of way in the case of state officials.

The chief provision of the deal is the voluntary elimination of George Cashman, democratic candidate for United States Senator, who today announced his resignation in favor of Henrik Shipstead, nominee of the Farmer-Labor Party, recently betrayed by this unprincipled office seeker. The misleaders of the so-

JURY TO TRY OEHLER CASES

Class Victims' Hearing Ends; Ban Arma Meets

(Special to the Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 25.—The cases of Hugo Oehler, district organizer, Workers (Communist) Party; E. B. Eastwood, secretary of the Kansas City International Labor Defense; Sam Kassis and Mathew Cushing, all charged with violation of the state criminal syndicalism law, were bound over yesterday to the criminal court for jury trial with the conclusion of the preliminary hearing. Oehler was released on a $1,000 bond and the others on $500 bonds.

The cases against the three packing house workers who were arrested with them were dismissed.

The four workers are victims of the campaign launched by the Armour and other meat-packing interests in this part of the country against all workers and organizations who engage in militant activity. They were arrested at two

Upholsterers to Hold Bazaar Meet Tonight

The Upholsterers Committee for the Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar is calling a meeting of all upholsterers for tonight, immediately after work, at the Freiheit office, 30 Union Square.

"The bazaar is only a week away and we upholsterers have done very little for the bazaar," says a statement of the committee. "The upholstery workers must join with the rest of the workers in making this bazaar a success."

URGE BAZAAR SUPPORT

I. L. D. Asks All Workers to Aid Event

An appeal was issued last night by the New York section of the International Labor Defense, 799 Broadway, to all its members and all other class-conscious workers to support to the utmost the National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar to be held in Madison Square Garden Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7. The I. L. D. will have a booth of its own at this bazaar at which copies of the Labor Defender will be sold and new members enrolled.

The appeal, signed by Rose Baron, secretary, follows:

"The National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar is an event that should be of direct concern to every class-conscious worker. In the day to day struggles of the workers the fighting proletarian press plays an all-important role. And the press is the first to feel the hatred of

CONNOLLY, HEAD OF GRAFT RING, GOES ON TRIAL

Tammany Forced to Act in $30,000,000 Sewer Steal

Move Is Only a Gesture

Rapid Choice of Jury Confirms Charge

The jury in the Queens $30,000,000 graft trial was picked yesterday in record time, a fact which confirmed in the minds of many close observers the suspicion that the Tammany Hall machine has no real intention of pressing the case against the chief of the graft ring. Connolly is connected with many of the most prominent and powerful Tammany contractors. The rapid procedure is believed to be due to an "understanding" between both sides.

(By United Press)

The $30,000,000 Queens sewer graft case, the most sensational administrative scandal in the history of Queens Borough, on Long Island, went to trial yesterday, with former Borough President Maurice E. Connolly and Frederick Seeley, his sewer engineer, charged with defrauding thousands of taxpayers.

$30,000,000 Graft.

New York's most gigantic graft scandal of recent years—the $30,000,000 Queens sewer case—went to trial yesterday after a year of sensational developments which rocked the city's political circles.

In the antiquated Queens County courtroom at Long Island City, where Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray heard the death sentence, former Borough President Maurice E. Connolly and Frederick B. Seeley, his engineer in charge of sewer design, faced a special "blue ribbon" jury. They are charged with conspiracy to defraud thousands of taxpayers in a huge sewer construction program involving more than $29,500,000.

During the year which has elapsed since the scandal first exploded, the case has gathered dramatic elements which set it apart from the administrative scandals which arise every year in dozens of large American cities. Mystery, death and a legal skirmish have woven themselves into the plot.

Connolly, stout, red-faced little politician, who is the central figure in the scandal, was president of the Borough of Queens—the Long Island residential district which, since the beginning of the century, has been a golconda for administrative plunderers.

Like other borough presidents who succeeded "Battle Axe" Gleason, mayor of Long Island City 30 years ago, Connolly has gone out of office accused of defrauding taxpayers. "Curley Joe" Cassidy, first

TAXI HEADS PLAN UNIFORM SCHEME

Luncheon at Noon for Police "Czar"

More than three hundred so-called "representatives" of the cab industry will feast today at a luncheon tendered "Czar" Nelson Ruttenberg, fourth deputy police commissioner, in charge of the Hack License Bureau. The luncheon will be held at the Hotel Astor at 12:30 p. m.

Uniforms for taxi drivers, which the police department is seeking to put over, is reported to be the chief topic of the luncheon. Ruttenberg started to work on his program of regimentizing the drivers more than a year ago. It is also expected that other problems of benefit to the fleet owners generally will be discussed as well.

Open-Shop Friends.

Among the "friends" of the cabmen who are expected to be present will be many open-shoppers, financiers, "labor" fakers, taxi-editors, loan sharks, uniform manufacturers, high-pressure cab salesmen, insurance agents and other so-called leaders who have the interests of the fleet owners at heart.

Alex. Fried, former president of the Luxor Cab Manufacturing Company, now defunct, and one of the biggest boosters of police control, is among them. Fried is now president of the Paramount Cab Manufacturing Company, whose company

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25 (UP).—Emilio Portes Gil, governor of Tamaulipas and secretary of the interior, was unanimously elected provisional president of Mexico tonight at a joint session of the senate and chamber of deputies.

There were 277 votes cast in the election.

Portes Gil will take office on the retirement of President Calles, December 1.

It is authoritatively understood that he will follow the policy of President Calles in virtually all questions of foreign and internal affairs.

Portes Gil will remain in office for approximately 14 months, at which time a constitutional president will be elected.

DELAY SCHIFFRIN HEARING AGAIN

Prosecution Stalls for Time; Trial Today

For the third time in three weeks, the prosecution against William Schiffrin, left wing worker being held on a charge of homicide, again asked for and secured a postponement of the hearing from yesterday morning until noon today. The complete lack of evidence on the guilt of Schiffrin was again thought to be the reason for the postponement. Schiffrin's hearing is scheduled to take place in the Bronx Homicide Court, at 163rd St.

The district attorney's office, thru Samuel Markewitch, lawyer for the right wing asked for the postponement on the same grounds given in the other three postponements, namely "time to prepare the case." Schiffrin is on trial because he heroically defended his life against the attack of five men armed with knives, who attacked him because he prevented the reactionary union officials from removing a left winger from his job. Imperialists Vote to Call New Disarmament Conference Some Time

GENEVA, Sept. 25.—The League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament Commission will meet again some time early next year, but no definite date was set for the meeting.

The commission is supposed to be preparing a general disarmament program and to be arranging another conference of the Imperialist nations at which "disarmament" will again be discussed. England was opposed openly to a further meeting; Germany pretended to be disappointed that no date had been set. At the final vote every nation's representative voted for a new conference, hoping at some future date to block action.

At the last conference, the Soviet Union presented a plan for complete disarmament, which nearly routed the militaristic powers none of which has any intention of disarming.

IMPERIALIST WAR DANGER IS SHARPENED BY ANGLO-FRENCH PACT, SOVIET PRESS DECLARES

Sees United States, Great Britain, France in Race for Huge Armaments

Secret Agreement Provides for Espionage in Soviet Union, Is Charge

MOSCOW, Sept. 25.—That the Anglo-French naval agreement is accelerating the "imperialist race for armaments" and is bringing the world closer to imperialist war, is the opinion of Pravda, official Communist Party organ.

According to the Pravda, the American proposals to build new 10,000 ton cruisers is a direct reply to the Anglo-French agreement. The French, the Pravda believes, will be entirely unsuccessful in their attempt to convince Secretary of State Kellogg that their agreement with Great Britain is innocent.

Plan Attack on USSR.

Commenting on the revelations of the agreement, the official newspaper, Izvestia, expressed surprise today at the "amazing patience with which the world's public opinion is standing for a revival of pre-war diplomatic traditions."

The Soviet press has also charged that the Anglo-French pact provides for joint espionage in the Soviet Union as well as plans for aerial as well as naval cooperation in case of an attack against the Soviet Union.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The Anglo-French naval pact is accompanied by an agreement which will permit France to maintain her huge army reserves, it has been learned from authoritative sources.

The British had formerly joined with the United States and Germany in opposing conscription which is building up a huge French reserve army. Great Britain, in return for French support in the building of cruisers, is now supporting French conscription, it has been learned. The new British attitude is believed to be embodied in a secret agreement concluded at the same time as the naval pact.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—That the United States will strongly oppose the Anglo-French naval agreement and stand by the proposals made by the United States at the Geneva conference was clearly intimated by President Coolidge today.

Coolidge's position is probably embodied in the note on the Anglo-French agreement which will soon be cabled to Paris and London. The position of the United States conflicts squarely with that of Great Britain on the building of 10,000 ton cruisers.

The probable reply of the United States to the naval pact will be the construction of new large cruisers.

GENEVA, Sept. 25.—Representatives of the German and Austrian governments today declared that they would refrain from voting on the resolution providing for a preliminary "disarmament" conference to show their "disillusion and bitterness."

M. Tanczos, of Hungary, declared that any country surrounded by bigger powers would have no chance to come to a satisfactory agreement if individual treaties were entered into. Count von Bernstorff, of Germany, held essentially the same position.

Paul Boncour, of France, made a speech in which he declared that "disarmament was impossible, until the security of each country was first assured."

TEXTILE STRIKE RALLY APPLAUDS NEW UNION HEADS

Fakers Still Trying to Sell Out

BULLETIN.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 25.—Three thousand textile strikers attended a mass meeting in Elm Rink arranged as a reception to the homecoming national officers of the new National Textile Workers' Union of America, which was launched in New York Saturday and Sunday. The union leaders were greeted by the meeting with an enthusiastic and prolonged ovation.

Spacious Elm Rink has been hired by the union for an entire week with a special event scheduled for each night. Tonight a mass dance will be held where motion pictures of the strike will be shown.

The results of the trial of the 22 pickets arrested last week, which has been going on all day today, are not as yet obtainable.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 25.—While the mill bosses' association and their "mediation" agents are continuing to set up "tin soldiers" for the A. F. of L. officialdom to knock down in order to assist them in their attempt to regain the confidence of the masses on strike, the workers themselves are demonstrating their determination to accept no sell-out settlements by resuming their mass picketing despite the police terror.

The officialdom of the Textile Council, who represent nobody, and the mill owners' representatives, were called by the State Board of Arbitration to a new conference for "settlement' of the strike. They are to meet at noon today to consider secret proposals before the State Board, according to its officials, makes public its investigation as to "who is guilty of beginning and continuing the strike."

Railroad Dishes Out Decayed Food

Sixty workers employed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad came down with ptomaine poisoning early yesterday morning after eating food dished out at the labor camp at Wheeler Point Road and Bay Avenue at which place they were employed.

The men were rushed to the Newark City Hospital for treatment. It is believed that canned frankfurters unfit to eat which have been on the shelves for a long period and said to have been purchased by the railroad at a reduced price, were the cause of the poisoning. One worker, Vincent Bamiro of Newark, is seriously ill and may not recover. A patrol wagon from the Newark Third Precinct Station took the workers to the hospital.

VIENNA, Sept. 25.—Hungarian troops are gathered at the Burgenland-Hungarian frontier connection in preparation for the fascist demonstration and the counter-demonstration scheduled for October 7.

Amidst great alarm in the Burgenland capital, the bourgeois parties have consulted with the socialists, with the result that all the parties undertake to maintain peace.

The consultation probably occurred on the initiative of the socialists, who hope that the danger to Burgenland would induce the federal government to prohibit all parades for October 7.

Reformists Pleas Fail.

AN OLD LEADER SPEAKS

Bramhall Tells of Textile Militancy

"Lawrence, Mass., was the starting point for the present movement," Samuel Bramhall, 61-year-old weaver and principal leader in the great strike of 1919, said at the convention of the new Textile Workers' Union of America here.

"The new union, organized in the blood of the textile workers, will continue the militant tradition of the New England mill workers despite the continued treachery of the reactionary officials," he said.

Bramhall told of the courageous battle which was waged by the mill workers in Lawrence nine years ago in their victorious fight to cut down the hours of work at the looms from 54 to 48 hours a week. As permanent chairman of the general strike committee during the entire 16 weeks of the struggle, Bramhall proved his skillful generalship on a

Worker Killed, Others Badly Injured as Tammany-Built Subway Wall Collapses

GUILT LAID TO TAMMANY OPEN SHOP BUILDERS

Labor Officials Wink at Violations

One worker was killed and at least two were very seriously injured yesterday when a wall of the new, Tammany-built subway at 53rd St. and Broadway collapsed 75 feet below the surface. Angelo Samarell, 39, of 2[illegible] Grand St. Hoboken was instantly crushed to death in the fall of brick and mortar. Tony Hascarelli, 39, of 409 West 28th St. received a fracture of the leg and internal injuries, and Cornelius Curtin, 30, of 841 Washington St. suffered a possible fracture of the skull and received other injuries. The two workers were taken to the hospital for the ruptured and crippled.

Speeded-Up.

The men were engaged in the building of a brick wall which is to separate the east bound from the west bound tracks and are said to have been working at an excessively rapid rate and were given little time to provide for the security of their work. Another theory for the cave-in states that the mortar used by the Tammany contractors who build the walls, is of a very inferior quality.

Violate Regulations.

Workers on the city-built subways are supposed to receive the prevailing rate of wages, but practically all of them work below the scale under non-union conditions with the knowledge and approval of the Tammany-controlled labor officials. Workers report that inspectors of the Transit Commission seldom go into the tunnels, but merely appear on the surface and walk on.

manager of the New York district and candidate for assembly in the fifth district of the Bronx; George Powers, organizer of the Architectural Iron, Bronze and Structural Workers' Union, and Philip Frankfeld, district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League and candidate for assembly in the third Bronx district.

The call to the meeting sent out over the signatures of committee chairman A. Gross and Secretary I. Steinzor, says:

"We have decided to call on the workers to come to this meeting as whole shops, or send delegations. The office has made arrangements to print signs for all such shops. It is your duty as a progressive worker to see to it that your shop is represented at this meeting. All signs for the particular shops can be ordered at the Workers' Center.

"We also want to call your attention to the next important activity of our Campaign Committee, which will be a big Conference of Shop Delegates of the Needle Trade Workers. Such a conference, if successfully carried thru can do a great deal to line up the support of the Needle Trade Workers for the only party which, today, really represents the interests of the working class. The Conference will take place on October 9 at Bryant Hall, 6th Ave. and 42nd St. Take this matter up with the workers of your shop. See to it that your shop is represented.

"Every worker, regardless of whether he is a Communist or even a left winger, must be given to understand that the only way he can vote as a class conscious worker is to vote for the candidates of the Workers' Party.

"If there is any matter relating to the campaign that you want to take up with us, please call at the office to see Steinzor, the secretary."

Call Open Air Meets.

The committee's activities include the holding of open-air meetings in the home sections of workers in the clothing industry. Two open-air meetings were held in the Bronx last night. The other meetings for this week will be held as follows:

Tomorrow, Bronx, Intervale and Wilkins: Hirtz, chairman; speakers: Zukofsky, Silkovitz, Zimmerman, Wise, Winogradsky, B. Gold and S. Liptzin.

Saturday, East New York, Williams and Sutter Aves.: Ostrinsky, chairman; speakers: L. Cohen, Lipzin, Taft, Jones, Lena Charnenko and Nat Wilks.

Saturday, Brownsville, Bristol St. and Pitkin Ave.: Sazar, chairman; speakers: L. Cohen, Ph. Goodman, Zeibel, Sylvia Bleeker, J. Goretzky and Lipzin.

TELLS OF CHANGES IN THE SOVIET UNION

Some interesting touches on the changes which the October Revolution has wrought in the every-day lives of the great masses of the Russian workers are found in "A Belated Rebuttal on Russia," just published.

The author, Gerald Dykstra, a graduate student in a middle-western university, spent several months in the U. S. S. R. as a foot-loose visitor.

Amusements.

"'American student' is in itself a password that will get you anywhere in the Soviet Union," the author reports. "If you can say to a Russian 'Amerikanski student' before he guesses it anyway, you are sure of being in his good favor."

The writer tells of the amusements and athletic playgrounds for workers and their children in the U.S.S.R. "There are the outdoor concerts and lectures. . . . Many fine movie houses and Russian-made pictures. Their pictures are different from ours. They show the old days of oppression and hardship. 'Potemkin,' for example, makes a good picture and good propaganda. For it keeps before everyone's eyes the glorious victory of the Revolution."

Visitors Welcomed.

Not only are visitors welcomed in the Soviet Union, but everything is done to facilitate their travels about the country. Especially is this true when tourists arrive under the auspices of an officially accredited travel bureau.

The World Tourists, Inc., 69 Fifth Ave. is such an authorized agency, and is now accepting reservations for a party which will leave New York October 17 on the "Mauretania" and arrive in the U. S. S. R. in time to visit the Eleventh Anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. A large number of important cities will be visited, and the party will be accompanied by guides and interpreters.

Young Workers (Communist) League who pulled the platform over to the sidewalk.

Soon after, William W. Weinstone, secretary of the New York district of the Workers (Communist) Party arrived on the scene. Weinstone notified the police that the Workers (Communist) Party as a political party would hold the meeting; that at present there was an election period and parties were supposed to have the right to speak to the workers. The precinct captain argued that the meeting scheduled was not a political meeting and in order to prove this he displayed a leaflet issued by the Workers Party earlier in the day, which exposed the low wages, long hours, unsanitary conditions and tyranny over the workers in the Eagle Pencil plant, as well as the role of the democratic and republican parties in aiding the bosses.

Police Intimidate Workers.

The police then decided on different tactics—to permit the meeting because of the determined stand of the Workers Party, but to drive the workers off the street. But many workers remained and heard the message of the class struggle, of the necessity of the workers organizing against the bosses and of fighting against the parties of big business, of the importance of the workers supporting the Workers (Communist) Party and of voting for its candidates, William Z. Foster for president and Benjamin Gitlow for vice president. As one worker present put it: "I intended voting for Smith, but the police aren't going to tell me when I have to go into the factory; I'll go when I please and take the Daily Worker with me."

The Workers (Communist) Party is going to hold its next open air meeting in front of the factory this Friday at noon.

Issue Appeal.

The William Schiffrin Defense Committee yesterday issued an appeal to the workers of New York, which was distributed widely in the gathering places and markets here. The appeal called on all workers to see that their organizations send delegates to the conference of labor organizations called by the committee for Sunday afternoon, 1 o'clock, in Irving Plaza Hall, 15th St. and Irving Pl.

The purpose of the conference is to raise a sufficient fund to defray the legal expenses for the trial and appeals should they become necessary. This seems to be the case, because the right wing trade union officialdom in this city are mobilizing all their forces to frame up Schiffrin for long years in prison.

Appealing directly to the workers reading the leaflets, the committee calls upon them not to wait for action from their fraternal and union organizations, but to contribute immediately themselves, by sending their donations to the office of the defense committee at 26-28 Union Square, room 603.

SHOP MEETING RAPS OFFICIALS

Tailors Condemn Right Wing Terror

Workers in the large ladies' garment manufacturing shops of Hattie Carnegie Inc., held a joint meeting in Bryant Hall, 42nd St. and Sixth Ave., in order to hear the detailed story of how one of the oldest members of their union, Local 38 of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, was assaulted by a right wing functionary, who works in the Hattie Carnegie shops.

After listening to the members who participated in the local meeting where the assault took place, the workers, after a discussion participated in by the adherents of Louis G. Rea, the assailant, overwhelmingly voted to pass a resolution of condemnation upon right-winger, Rea.

The resolution, which demands the removal of Rea, follows:

"We, the workers of Hattie Carnegie, Inc., at a joint meeting of both shops, have adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, Louis G. Rea, who is the chairman of the executive board of Local 38 has made a murderous attack upon one of our oldest union members, Brother Chazanoff, and succeeded in slashing his face, and

"Whereas, Louis G. Rea is our co-worker in Carnegie shop,

"Therefore be it resolved, that Louis G. Rea cannot be elected in our shop to the office of shop chairman nor as a committee man; and be it

"Further resolved, that we demand of the executive board of Local 38 Louis G. Rea's immediate removal from the executive board, as unworthy of being an officer of a labor union.

Venizelos in Italy to Sign Fascist Treaty

ROME, Italy, Sept. 24.—The arrival of Premier Venizelos of Greece, reported in a dispatch from Naples, is causing the greatest enthusiasm in this city, where it is hailed as a further proof of Italian domination in the Balkans.

Following the virtual establishment of an Italian protectorate in neighboring Albania, the visit of Venizelos, who will sign a treaty of conciliation and arbitration while in Rome, is held extremely significant. It is also being linked with the situation on the Macedonian frontier.

is known to be responsible for the seizure of cabs because drivers were not wearing uniforms.

Another so-called "friend" of the persecuted cab drivers who will attend is H. A. Innes-Brown, former editor of the Checkerboard, official anti-union publication of the Checker Cab Manufacturing Company, and now editor of the "Taxi-Weekly." Brown is now busily engaged organizing his fake hackmen's political party. He will be recalled as having boasted in a letter to Mayor Walker that he was responsible for taxi vote which helped put Tammany Jimmy in office. Brown's paper is crammed full of whole-page advertisements of the Mogul Checker Cab Manufacturing Co., Yellow Cab Manufacturing Co. (General Motors and other General Motors products), and the Paramount Cab Manufacturing Co., notable "friends" of the workers. Brown also carries considerable advertising of uniform manufacturers, which explains his endorsement of the proposal to force the drivers to display the insignia of the capitalist fleet owners.

MANY CLASSES IN COMMUNISM AT WORKERS SCHOOL

Heavy Enrollment in Fundamentals Course

Over six classes in Fundamentals of Communism will be offered in the Workers School this coming fall term, to be given on the different evenings of the week. In view of the fact that the course in Fundamentals of Communism had over 200 registrations last fall term, the largest registration for any course in the school, except that in English, the Workers School is prepared to open up even more classes in that subject if registration warrants it.

The following is a schedule of classes in the Fundamentals of Communism.

Section 1, Monday, 8:30 to 9:50 p. m. Eve Dorf, instructor.

Section 2, Tuesday, 8:30 to 9:50 p. m. A. G. Bosse, instructor.

Section 3, Wednesday, 7 to 8:20 p. m. Harry Fox, instructor.

Section 4, Thursday, 7 to 8:20 p. m. Ella G. Wolfe, instructor.

Section 5, Friday, 7 to 8:20 p. m. Rebecca Grecht, instructor.

Section 6, in daytime for night workers. Day and hour to be arranged with the class.

The Fundamentals of Communism course, which is the basic course of the school and which is a prerequisite for the intermediate and advanced political courses, will analyze the nature of present day society, the problems confronting the working class under capitalism, the nature of the working class movement, the way out for the exploited and oppressed masses, what the dictatorship of the proletariat is, and the characteristics of Communist society.

Due to the expected heavy enrollment and due to the fact that the size of the Fundamentals of Communism class will be restricted to 30 so as to make it possible for all the students to participate in the work and discussion of the class, all workers are urged to register immediately. For more detailed information come to the office of the Workers School, 26-28 Union Square, fifth floor, or write to the Workers School for a free copy of catalog.

Registration is going on now.

Radio Monopoly Plans 125-Stations Circuit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (UP.)—Plans for a short-wave radio message service covering the entire nation as a supplement to present land lines will be laid before the Federal Radio Commission Tuesday by representatives of the Universal Wireless Communication Company.

Point-to-point message service between 125 "key" stations throughout the United States is planned by the company, which has applied for wave lengths to be used between all large cities in the country.

CARPENTERS TO FIGHT OFFICIALS

Convention Opens This Saturday

Carpenters' delegates to the convention of the International Brotherhood, which is to be held at Lakeland, Florida, will leave today in order to arrive in time for the first session which opens Saturday, it was learned here today.

Among those who will attend from New York City is Morris Rosen, well known militant who ran against the reactionary William L. Hutcheson for president four years ago. Rosen will attempt to present to the convention the appeal of former Local 376, which the Hutcheson machine expelled from the organization because of its militant activities.

Before departing yesterday afternoon, Rosen predicted that there would be a strong opposition machine at the convention owing to the many issues which the officials have sidetracked and the many grievances which have never been taken up.

own membership because he endorsed it, they decided to make statements in the press that would give the impression that the Frieder speed-up plan is a concession to the workers. They therefore asked that the 10 per cent wage cut stand if the "workers wanted the Frieder plan." This was done in order to give the Batty gang an opportunity to refuse to settle "unless the wage cut is rescinded."

The ranks of the mill owners are not holding out, however, since they see that the workers would have nothing of either "plan." Now rumors are circulating that a five per cent cut and the speed-up would be satisfactory to the employers, again giving the agents of the bosses in the council an opportunity to "assail the five per cent cut."

Workers Defy Betrayers.

The tens of thousands in the struggle, however, are not only demonstrating their defiance to whatever "pact" Batty may arrive at, by increasing their picketing, but the demands raised by the Textile Workers' Union leadership are gaining in power since the organization of the new National Textile Workers' Union in New York.

As to the imminent publication of the so-called report of the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, leaders of the left wing union expect it to be a mud-slinging attack on the Textile Mill Committees leadership.

Srtikebreaking Weapon.

The militants in the strike have, however, always warned the strikers that the investigation is a fake, and that it is instead a scheme planned by the bosses to be used by them as a strikebreaking weapon at a moment when things look bad for the success of their strikebreaking efforts.

Three picket lines operated at the Page Mill this morning, more workers being in the lines than in recent weeks. Nearly every other mill had a smaller patrol of pickets guarding the gates, but even the capitalist papers admit that the turnout of pickets shows a marked increase this morning. Police were there in great numbers, but did not interfere. Published police reports confess that the same amount of people are entering the mills now as have been going in to date. These are admittedly petty foremen and straw bosses.

The Textile Workers' Union also announced from its headquarters that it has secured a lease on a vacant lot in the vicinity of the Page Mill. The reason given is that the lot was obtained to provide a haven for pickets driven away from the Page Mill by the police.

CHINA RED ARMY GAINS IN SOUTH

Communists Hold North Kuantung Province

HONGKONG, Sept. 25.—Reports from Canton state that the Communist forces, which possess no mean influence in Hunan and Kiangsi, have lately become very active again. Those under the command of Chu Teh and Mao Tse-tung, 4,000 strong, have occupied Kueitung and Juchen.

It is reported that at the back of these Communist forces, there are now six group armies comprising 15,000 strong, a portion of whom are at present pressing on to Hoyuan in the region of the East River. Hsia Ho-yun, who commands a large number of disbanded soldiers in the district of Lienping, has proclaimed doctrines declarin ghimself chief of the Soviet people's committees and flying red flags.

In this district of Swatow, over 2,000 Communist troops commanded by Wu Chang-hua are now reported to have commenced an advance in the direction of Tapu near the Fukien border. Almost all the region along the northern borders of Kuangtung has thus fallen under the influence of the Communist forces.

Deal Long Rumored.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25 (U.P.)—The Minnesota "Progressive" vote which nearly carried the state for LaFollette in the 1924 presidential campaign, was claimed for Governor Smith today following what was described as the most significant political move in this doubtful territory since the present campaign began.

George Cashman, democratic candidate for United States Senator, withdrew from the race late yesterday "in the interest of the democratic party and Governor Smith." Although Cashman did not designate the senatorial candidate to whom his support should go, it was assumed he would back Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor incumbent.

For weeks it had been rumored that Cashman would withdraw in favor of Shipstead, thus attracting the Farmer-Labor support over to Governor Smith..

In the last presidential election campaign, LaFollette received 339,192 independent Minnesota votes, while President Coolidge was given 420,759 republican votes. Davis, democratic nominee was far behind with 55,913 votes.

meetings in front of the Armour Co. plant, one on Aug. 21 and the other a Sacco-Vanzetti meeting on Aug. 22. The attack of the packing-house interests, in which the vicious state criminal syndicalism law is being used as a weapon, is particularly directed against the Workers (Communist) Party and the International Labor Defense.

One of those who appeared in court yesterday against the four workers was R. R. Maiden, former assistant chief of the Colorado state police, who is notorious for his anti-labor activities.

The defendants must appear again Oct. 1 for the setting of the trial.

the capitalists and the betrayers as it is the first to expose them to all the workers.

"We all know the difficulties under which our two great dailies, the Daily Worker and the Freiheit, exist. We all know the untold hardships, financial and otherwise, that make every day of their lives a day of danger. This great national bazaar has been arranged in order to enable the two papers to live. And the life or death of the Daily Worker is a matter of concern to the entire working class.

"The New York section of the International Labor Defense has found in the Daily Worker and Freiheit a constant support without which it would have been impossible for us to conduct our work properly. Both the capitalist and the so-called "socialist" press completely boycott the work of the I. L. D. We must express the solidarity that animates all the activities of the working class by giving our two militant dailies our whole-hearted support at all times. We therefore call upon all our members and all other class-conscious workers to do everything possible to make this bazaar an overwhelming success. Get behind the Daily Worker-Freiheit bazaar 100 per cent."

OLD TEXTILE LEADER SPEAKS

number of occasions.

"This new union will grow in membership and influence as no textile organization has done in the past," he said. "For it is being built on a broad mass basis, with a leadership which has won the confidence and affection of hundreds of thousands of exploited workers."

Came to U. S. in 1889.

Bramhall, a short, stocky, and belligerent individual came to this country from England in 1889, just as he had turned 21. Beginning work as a "mule spinner," he has toiled in the lint-choking mills of New England ever since.

The city of Lawrence paid out over $100,000 for hired cossacks and terroristic equipment, Bramhall related, but hardly a cent for the relief of the striking workers. These funds, to feed the workers and their families, came from thousands of militants thruout the United States.

Police Terror.

"The present terror in New Bedford and Fall River is nothing new in New England. The blood of workers has flown for many years in this kingdom of the New England 'aristocracy.' Cossacks, after the fashion of the gunmen of the coal and steel regions, regularly whipped their horses into crowds of strikers and sympathizers during the Lawrence strike. Two strikers, one a man and the other a woman, were murdered in cold blood by these hired thugs, and many were maimed for life as a result of the reign of terror which swept the strike area.

Technically called by the decaying United Textile Workers of America, the 1919 Lawrence strike was swiftly deserted by President McMahon and his satellites, Bramhall said. Many years ago McMahon and his gang displayed their treacherous colors and they have become discredited with thousands of New England textile workers.

Strikes Must Be Militant.

"Without militancy there can be no successful strike," Bramhall asserted. "We must meet the masters with their own weapons, whatever they may be."

The new textile workers union will shake the foundations of the American labor movement, he said. Especially for the thousands of unorganized mill slaves the new organization will serve as a rallying point for a powerful offensive against the textile bosses, Bramhall declared.

U. S. OIL NOTES SHARPLY SCORED BY ARGENTINA

Press. Hits Growing Imperialism

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 25.—Criticism against United States imperialism has been doubled here by the general Argentine press following the intervention of Kellogg in regards to the repeal of the Colombian government of the Barco oil concession, in which the Gulf Oil Company of Pennsylvania held chief interest.

Whether the motives for this criticism are altogether pure, in view of the British competitive oil interests and their influence in South American countries, is not known, but the fact remains that the press here is sharply antagonistic to the United States imperialist policy, recalling the criticism that was prevalent when United States marines first invaded Nicaragua.

The popular press objects to the Kellogg notes on the ground that the matter of the Barco oil concessions is a domestic one that ought to be settled between the company and a Colombian court, and that the United States government has no right to interfere.

The press pointing to intervention in Nicaragua, the recent Costa Rican note to the League of Nations, points out feeling in all the Latin American countries is high against the United States. It points to examples of intervention in Panama, Honduras, Chile and Peru and says that under cover of shipping dollars into South America "for the improvement of the people" United States imperialism actually gets a stranglehold on the people.

STUDENTS RAID FASCIST PAPER

Italian Paper Insults South Americans

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Sept. 25.—Students, armed with sticks and clubs, raided the Italian fascist newspaper here, Ipicolo, smashed the machinery and set fire to the equipment last night. The attack was occasioned by the refusal of the paper to retract a statement insulting to the native Brazilians, which was one in a series of editorials criticising the Brazilian paper, Combate, for remarking that the Italian flyers should have sought for the Noble survivors instead of trying to gain more publicity by long distant flights.

The "Combate" had made specific reference to the flights of Major Arturo Ferrarin and the late Major Carlo Del Prete, whom, it said, "would have done better to search for the Norwegian explorer Amundsen than to have made their flight from Rome to Brazil." The Italian fascist newspaper, Ipicolo, then published a highly insulting article and one also highly praising the fascist dictatorship.

Students gathered in front of the newspaper office in the afternoon, in a demonstration of protest. But when the Ipocolo in a later edition repeated its insults and referred ironically to the visit of the students, the students raided the paper.

INDICT KIDNAPER

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (UP).—Indictments charging extortion and kidnaping were reported by the county grand jury today against Angelo Petitti and Pasquale Capotosto in the kidnaping of Billy Ranieri, 10, who was held captive 13 days while demands for $60,000 ransom were made.

Unlaid Pipes Meant Big Graft for Ring of the line, was sentenced to a term in Sing Sing. The next fled to Europe under fire. Lawrence Gresser, Connolly's predecessor, was removed from office in 1913 by Governor Dix.

Connolly, who ruled from that time until last April 3, resigned as an investigation of the graft charges reached its height.

A Tammany "Reformer."

A touch of irony lies in the fact that the man who now figures in the most sensational scandal of the borough's history began his career in Queens as a reformer, a widely-respected city magistrate.

It was last October that a handful of Queens taxpayers fired the opening shot in the latest administrative battle. They protested bitterly against a $16,000,000 assessment which had been levied on 75,000 home owners in the borough to construct a 40-mile drainage system.

Civic leaders charged that more than a fourth of this sum was a direct "steal."

First, all prospective witnesses appeared to have fled en masse from the city. Notable among them was John M. Phillips, so-called "sewer pipe czar" and a political power in Queens Borough.

May Have Been Murdered.

A special legislative measure, fixing $100,000 fines for those who persistently refused to be subpoenaed, brought back most of the missing witnesses. But not "Gentleman Jack" Phillips, the key witness. He died unexpectedly in a cottage at Atlantic City. The cause was given officially as alcoholism, but a grand jury hinted at death from poison or a drug, and Phillips' own physician remarked that, after all, it might not have been Phillips who was buried.

Had he lived, Phillips would have been a co-defendant in the trial which started yesterday. He acquired a great fortune from Queens sewer contracts.

Connolly engaged Max Steuer, nationally known trial lawyer, to defend him. Steuer successfully combatted nearly every move to investigate the charges.

But finally former United States District Attorney Emory Buckner, who had been specially appointed to direct the proceedings, won indictments against Connolly and Seeley on conspiracy charges. These were returned before Phillips' death, and he, too, was named.

Chief Witness Murdered.

Three weeks ago, the body of William L. D'Olier, scheduled to be one of the most important state witnesses in the trial, was found on a lonely road between two Queens cemeteries. He had been shot. Police called it suicide. But at the insistence of the dead man's widow a murder investigation was started. It still is in progress.

Besides Buckner and Steuer, several other celebrated lawyers are arrayed against each other in the trial. Dana Wallace, former district attorney of Queens, who figured in the Snyder-Gray case, will defend Seeley.

More than a hundred witnesses have been called.

crats referred especially to the socialist defense organization and the newly organized Workers Defense, which called upon all workers in Vienna and Weinerneustad to organize a counter-demonstration against the provocative one of the fascists.

In temporarily rejecting the proposal, Chancellor Seipel, saw the servility of the socialists, and hopes for even more success in the form of more socialist capitulations before he intervenes in the October demonstration.

The socialist press announced that the peace offers had been rejected and that therefore the socialist demonstration will be held. Sixty thousand social-democratic party members are reported to be coming to Vienna and Neustadt.

LABOR FAKERS ASK WORKERS TO STAY IN MILLS

Two More Centers Join General Walk-Out

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Textile workers in Armentieres and Huoplines have joined the strike today, which is spreading throughout the French textile centers.

The districts now out on strike are Halluin, which has been out for some time, Roncq, Wervicq, Linselles, Comines and those districts mentioned above.

On the appeal of the textile mill owners the French government has sent strong detachments of the national guard, reinforced by gendarmes, to patrol all the factory districts and prevent mass picketing.

Officials of the reactionary union organization, the National Textile Workers Federation, have ordered their men to remain at work, in an attempt to break the strike and prevent their members from joining the revolutionary union.

Movie Union Misleaders Raise Own Salaries, Men Jobless, Writes Correspondent

FAKERS DROP THE FIGHT AGAINST THE OPEN SHOP

$20,000 Per Year for Two Officials

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (By Mail).—According to information published in certain eastern papers and reprinted in the local American Federation of Labor organ, the Los Angeles Citizen, members of the International Union of Stage Employes and Motion Picture Projectionists raised the salaries of their president and secretary at their convention held some time ago in Detroit. The salary of president Canavan was raised to from $12,000 to $20,000 per year, and that of secretary Green (not the A. F. of L. president) from $7,500 to $20,000.

Another A. F. of L. Betrayal.

A couple of years ago the Citizen and the A. F. of L. officialdom here and elsewhere made a lot of noise "demanding" a closed shop, etc., in the motion picture industry.

A strike was planned and the date set to "force" the issue. But, after a number of conferences with the bosses in the motion picture game, such as Will Hays, chairman of the (Teapot Dome) republican central committee in 1920 and now playing of papa and tsar in moviedom, the matter was dropped, like a hot potato, by the high-salaried officials of the above-mentioned brand.

The postponement of the strike turned into a betrayal. And, while thousands are idle in all lines of movie work, mechanics, workers and artists alike, some of those "who work so hard to better the conditions of the rank and file" are getting their salaries raised from 66 to 166 per cent.

Increases Steam-rollered.

Numbers of workers here are wondering when the rank and file will take matters into their own hands. They claim that the salary increases are steam-rollered thru the conventions without the consent of the majority of the membership.

L. P. RINDAL.

WILL HOLD RED NIGHTS IN N. Y.

Tammany Attacks Fail to Halt Drive

The last five weeks of the Communist election campaign will be blazed in red thruout the working-class districts of New York City. Beginning with Friday, October 5 and up to and including Saturday, November 3, every Friday and Saturday night will be a Red Night in some section of the city where workers live.

The Red Nights will take the form of many Communist campaign meetings all concentrated in the one section of the city for that one night. Automobiles and small trucks with Red campaign banners and streamers floating will be used to transfer speakers who are through at one corner to another Red platform. At a specific time all the meetings but one, at the most prominent corner of the section, will conclude, and all the Red campaigners will gather at that one corner for a huge wind-up rally.

The attempts of Tammany fascists hiding under the name and spread-eagle emblem of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to stop by strong-arm methods the holding of Communist open-air meetings, linked up with the action of the mayor of Yonkers in refusing the Communist campaigners permission to hold an open-air meeting, and the desperate attempts made by officials in Ohio and elsewhere to keep the Workers (Communist) Party off the ballot by hook or crook furnishes conclusive evidence of the dread with which the capitalists parties regard the spreading of the Communist workingclass platform among workers. The two most flagrant examples of the use of Tammany-controlled professional patrioteers are the assault of the Communist speakers by the so-called Veterans of Foreign Wars in Astoria, L. I. and the attempted assault of Red Campaigners by the same disciples of the Tammany tiger at the corner of 50th Street and 5th Avenue, in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn.

As a result of the assault in Astoria, the Workers (Communist) Party now holds large and enthusiastic weekly meetings at the scene of the attack, and the same in Bay Ridge. Despite such attempts to stop the spread of the Communist creed among workers of New York the Red Nights meetings will be larger, more numerous and more enthusiastic this year than ever before, judging by the response of workers at the open-air meetings being held thruout the city by the Red Campaigners.

Among the sections in which workers in large masses will listen to the Red Campaigners on Red Nights, are Bronx, Harlem, downtown Manhattan, Astoria, Boro Park (which takes in Bay Ridge), Williamsburg, Brownsville and East New York. In the larger sections, such as the Bronx and Harlem, more than one Red Night will be arranged.

Alleged Sewer Grafters Who Knew Too Much

The trial of Maurice Connolly, ex-borough president of Queens, is bringing the sewer graft scandal prominently into view again altho there is believed to be no danger that the big politician will be convicted in the $17,000,000 fraud. Above, William D'Olier, sanitary engineer, John Phillips, contractor, and William Redmond, bookkeeper, all of whom knew too much and are now dead.

Worker Correspondents Are Active in the Soviet Union

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R. (By Mail)—The workers and peasants who contribute more or less regularly to the newspaper in the Soviet Union are known as Worker and Peasant Correspondents (in Russian: Rabkors and Selkors, respectively). The Rabselkor Movement in the U. S. S. R. is quite voluntary, there being no elections or appointments of Correspondents, no restrictions, and no particular encouragement to Communists to engage in this work; on the contrary, an effort to attract the greatest possible numbers of non-party workers and peasants to contribute to the daily and periodical press. This is essential in order to get the fullest and widest view of the aspirations and living and working conditions of the toilers and thus be able to attract ever new elements and wider masses to participate in our constructive work.

400,000 Correspondents.

The Rabselkor movement is growing at a very rapid rate. Thus, in the course of two years it has increased from 217,000 to nearly 400,000 (115,607 Rabkors; 192,788 Selkors, and 73,344 Red Army Correspondents—Voyenkors).

A prominent part in this wide semi-literary movement is played by women. The number of women contributing to the general newspaper press is about 14 per cent, which is an increase of 4 per cent since the beginning of 1927. The percentage, however, is much higher in the special women's press, which has reached a fairly large development. At the present time there are 18 women's journals with a circulation of about 400,000, to which more than 7,000 Rabselkor women contribute.

Furthermore, there are the Yunkors (Youth Correspondents) and Dyetkors (Child Correspondents) with the respective newspapers for the Youth and Pioneers.

Wall-Newspapers

The training of these Worker and Peasants Correspondents is carried on by the various circles organised both in connection with the general press as well as the wall-newspapers, which constitute the first school, as it were, for Rabselkors. It may safely be stated that at the present time there is not a single factory or office, not a single village without its wall-newspaper. In Moscow city alone there are well over 1,500 such wall-newspapers, each of which reflects the social, economic and cultural life of the workers or employees of that particular factory or office. Further, the wall-newspapers also voice the general sentiments of the worker or employe on this or that policy of the government or of the Party. At these Correspondent training circles are delivered lectures on all current topics which are accompanied by discussion, so that the outlook of the Rabselkor is broadened and he begins to handle the facts described by him in a more conscious manner, bringing them into conjunction with the general policies of the country.

The chief importance of the Rabselkor movement lies in its social aspect, as a growing and powerful movement which helps in ascertaining the aspirations and requirements of the masses of the people, and at the same time in enlisting new public workers in all branches of the constructive work. The movement is guided by its own journal "The Worker and Peasant Correspondent." There are also Rabselkor journals in the provinces. From time to time Rabselkor conferences are convened, both national and local. The number of Rabselkor clubs are also increasing and there is quite an extensive literature.

The Rabselkor movement plays a particularly important role in the conduct of the various campaigns that are organized from time to time, as for example—the campaign for economy, the campaign for the lowering of commodity prices, the combat against bureaucracy for the rationalisation of industry, etc.

Aid Proletarian Industry.

Considerable economy in industrial management is frequently effected as the result of practical proposals submitted by the workers through the press.

Particularly effective proved the industrial surveys carried through 1927. Thus, in Tver, there were carried out industrial surveys in a number of factories. The staff members of the local newspaper went to the factory and addressed the workers on the importance of submitting proposals revealing defects in the factory and suggestions for the betterment of management, increasing of production, etc. Such a survey was carried through at the "Proletarian Cloth Mills" employing over 20,000 people. The survey was confined to the dying department, 1,940 workers (out of 5,000 in the department) took part in the survey and 2,217 proposals and suggestions were submitted, hundreds of which have already been carried out. Again, at the "Proletarian Works" in Briansk province, 10,738 (out of 12,000) workers participated in the survey at their factory and made several thousand proposals which are now being carefully examined and investigated by the administration.

The results of these activities speak for themselves. In White Russia a proposal made by a Rabkor has led to an economy of 40,000 roubles; in Serpukhov, upon the suggestion made by Rabkors, the automatic spindle has been introduced, the resulting economy of which can well be realised by textile workers in Manchester, Bradford and other British textile centres.

COLLEGE PROF IS POWER TOOL

Alabama Univ. Teacher Headed Bunk Bureau

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (UP).—Publicity activities of Alabama power interests have been directed by Professor J. S. Thomas of Alabama University, who, at the same time, retained his position in the university, it was charged before the Federal Trade Commission today.

While director of the utility bureau, Thomas said, he made numerous speeches in the state urging industrial development. He was billed as a representative of the university and his connection was not disclosed, Thomas admitted. He also had done considerable research for the power industry, he explained.

Approximately $1,000 a month was spent by the utilities in maintaining the publicity committee during the time he was its head, Thomas said.

A report submitted by the southeastern division of the N. E. L. A. said 50,000 pamphlets, letters and other literature have been mailed out during the year to a selected list.

"We have not overlooked the Public Service Commission and have maintained friendly relations with all of them as well as their staffs," the report said.

MINER ARRESTED IN RELIEF WORK

Released After Protest by Defense Body

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Mike Stepka, a coal miner of Republic, Pa., was arrested here for soliciting money for the defense and relief of the miners in the Pittsburgh district. While out collecting he was accosted by a coal and iron policeman by the name of John Elliott, who, without any authority, took the collection lists out of Stepka's pocket and arrested him.

The coal and iron policeman took him before Squire Davidson of Republic and after hearing the policeman Stepka was fined $10 and costs. The act was challenged by Sub-district Organizer Rodrequez of the Pittsburg district, International Labor Defense, who stated to the squire that this was the kind of a case the International Labor Defense and the Civil Liberties had been looking for; the squire then told Stepka to go home and collect the money to pay the fine and costs.

Stepka was told not to go back to the squire's office and not to pay any fine, and to report to the I. L. D. and the Civil Liberties Union if he was further molested by the police or the squire.

WORKERS CHEER TALES OF STRIKE

Applaud Speeches at Textile Meet

Utterances that were received by the assembled delegates and visitors by spontaneous cheers and enthusiastic applause were plentiful at the two days' convention sessions that resulted in the formation of the new National Textile Workers' Union of America. Some of them follow:

"A. J. Muste, former minister of the gospel, but now head of the Brookwood Labor College," said Jim Reid, the union president, "was in at the burial ceremonies of the MaMahon's U. T. W., when that took place at their last convention."

Takes Care of Family.

In enumerating the decaying hulks left of some of the so-called textile unions still extant, Reid further remarked, "Tansey, president of the American Federation of Textile Operatives, has done well with his family. His son is now assistant treasurer of a Fall River mill. Not only that," continued Reid, "but investigation will reveal that all the caretakers of the public water closets are former officials of the A. F. T. O."

Samuel Bramhall, veteran leader of the Lawrence textile strike of 1919, declared his experience showed that "all notions that a union can be built or a strike won without a real scrap, where the workers allow no one to tell them where they get off at, not even the cops, is nonsense." This was received with applause.

Strike Against Betrayers.

"Workers know they are striking against the scab officials of the U. T. W. and the A. F. T. O., as well as against the bosses," declared William T. Murdoch, New Bedford strike leader, and third vice-president, who was received with great enthusiasm. He made the reporter for the "socialist" weekly, "New Leader," squirm by saying, "Socialists, A. F. of L. fakers and bosses all unite in supporting the scab 'relief' agency of the politicians and in fighting ours."

Eli Keller, the Passaic union leader who now acts as organizer for the New Bedford strike committee, declared that "Batty's own men will align themselves with us when he tries to sell out the strike."

More Dirty Work.

"McMahon had such great fear of the fighting character of the Passaic locals that he conspired in agreements with the bosses to dismiss mill workers who show themselves to be staunch unionists." This expose was made by Gus Deak, later to become first vice president of the new union, in his discussion of the corruption of the U. T. W.

Philip Lifschitz, representing the Knit Goods Union, formerly affiliated with the U. T. W., aroused the interest of the delegates by enumerating the differences between the personnel of the delegation at this convention and the fat-bellied, cigar-puffing, bureaucrats attending the convention of the U. T. W.

Fakers Lose Membership.

Jesse Troy, of the Fall River delegation, stated that "the A. F. T. O. to which he had belonged for six years had 1,100 members before the advent of the T. M. C. and that now the fakers can show only 150 members."

Elizabeth Donnelley, the youthful New Bedford organizer, who has organized hundreds of children into strike clubs, declared: "We must counteract the labor-hating poison instilled into the minds of the children by organizing them to participate in the struggles of their worker parents."

Walter Burke, addressing the convention for the Labor Sports' Union, drew excited, enthusiastic approval from the young delegates by calling on them to organize labor sports organizations to compete with the bosses' sport clubs and welfare schemes.

Fred E. Beal, New Bedford Textile Union organizer, told of the success of the organizers in rallying the strikers and getting them to ignore the advice of Batty that the workers "sleep instead of picket."

Ellen Dawson, elected as second vice president, after reporting on work among women, declared, "All that is necessary is to see the role played by the women strikers in Passaic and New Bedford to realize that strike action is doomed unless the active support and participation of women is secured."

APARTMENT WORKERS NEED STRONG UNION

Unemployment Serious Among Them

(By a Worker Correspondent)

An ad: "Superintendent Wanted" caused at least a dozen men and three women to form a line in front of the McMahon real estate office recently. While waiting for the men in charge, the men and women, composed of whites and Negroes and representatives of at least half a dozen different nationalities talked of their experiences in job hunting.

Some of them were members of a union. One man said that the only men enjoying union wages and conditions were the officials. The man who made this statement had a union card from the Plumbers' Union.

After the arrival of the boss on the job, each applicant was admitted and gave his name, address and qualifications and was told that, if he was selected, they would notify him tomorrow. I was near the tail end of the line and as one man came out he said, "Only one will get the job."

I smiled. Then he started telling me that the superintendants were organizing themselves into a union and said, "That will be a damn good thing for it will give us a chance."

I asked him about this "prosperity." He waved his hand and said: "It's all bull. The Smiths, the Hoovers and that b—— in the office are all against the working men."

He hurried off to the subway station. I am waiting for tomorrow but no word has come.

Philharmonic Season Opens Next Thursday at Carnegie

THE Philharmonic Orchestra opens its eighty-seventh season on Thursday evening, October 4, at Carnegie Hall. Willem Mengelberg, beginning his ninth consecutive year, will present a program consisting of the Beethoven Coriolanus Overture, the Mozart Divertimento, a first performance of a march by Henry Hadley, and the Schubert C-major Symphony.

Other novelties which the Dutch conductor will offer later in the fall are the First Symphony of Bernard Wagenaar, fragments from Handel's Alcina, Emerson Whithorne's Fata Morgana, a Toccata of Respighi, Three Tone Poems of Bucharoff, Die Tageszeiten of Richard Strauss, a Hebrew Suite of Berezowsky, and a Suite of Alexander Tansman. Mr. Mengelberg directs the Philharmonic from October 4 to the 14th inclusive, again from October 29 to December 9, and finally from December 24 to January 13.

Walter Damrosch will appear as guest conductor from October 15 to the 28th and from December 10 to the 23rd. Two new works are definitely scheduled for his programs: An American in Paris, the latest opus of George Gershwin; and the symphony of Ernest Bloch which won the Musical America prize this year. Sir Thomas Beecham returns to this country as guest conductor for the four concerts of January 17, 18, 19, and 20. Arturo Toscanini inaugurates his second year here as regular conductor of the orchestra on January 21 and remains through the end of the season, April 14.

The first soloist to appear with the orchestra this winter will be Anna Case. Other soloists to appear are: Sophie Braslau, Yehudi Menuhin, Vladimir Horowitz, Gerald Warburg, Ruth Pierce Posselt and the Marmein Dancers.

The Friday afternoon subscription series opens on October 5; the Thursday afternoons on October 11; and the Friday evenings on October 12. Series A of the Sunday afternoons at Carnegie starts on October 7 and Series B one week later.

PRINCE KILLS FRIEND.

FILIPSTAD, Sweden, Sept. 25. (U.P.)—Prince Bertel, third son of the Crown Prince, was fined 500 kroner today for driving an automobile without a license. The fine was assessed as a result of an accident on September 9th in which the automobile which the prince was driving turned over and killed one of the passengers. The victim of the wreck was a young schoolmate of the prince and the incident caused a sensation in Sweden.

THEATRE GUILD TAKE OVER MARTIN BECK THEATRE

The Theatre Guild will use the Martin Beck Theatre for the presentation of Guild productions for a period of years beginning December 1. From the standpoint of the Guild, it seems that the John Golden Theatre, which it has under lease, is to be occupied by "Strange Interlude" for a long period and that the organization, having plans for at least seven productions for subscribers this year, will be in need of another theatre.

The Theatre Guild has acquired a play by Paul Green, author of "In Abraham's Bosom" and "The Field God." The new play is called "The House of Connolly" and is the story of a southern family.

NEW JINGOIST PARTY STARTED IN CALIFORNIA

All 'Reds and Radicals' Excluded

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., (By Mail).—Formation of the American Party from which all "Reds and radicals" are excluded was announced recently by Linn William Price, national organization chairman. The party, which has its inception in Los Angeles, is devoted to the promotion of true Americanism, according to Price's statement.

In a letter, copies of which have been sent to thousands of voters here, Price states that the party has been formed to further and safeguard the basic principles of government.

The annoucement was given prominent space in the local capitalist papers and the talk is going round that it really is a fascist party formed by the big bourgeoisie and the reactionary theocrats here to crush and exterminate the militant workers.

Representatives of Oppressed To Be at Anti-Imperialist Meeting Tonight

PLAN TO COMBAT IMPERIALISM OF WALL ST. RULE

Dunn, Gannes and Shu Will Speak

Latin Americans, West Indians, Filipinos and Chinese workers, together with hundreds of American workers, will participate in the mass membership meeting of the New York Branch of the All America Anti-Imperialist League tonight at the Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Avenue.

The representatives of the oppressed countries will take part in the discussion on "Ways and Means of Combating American Imperialism," which will follow the opening speeches by Robert Dunn, author of Foreign Investment, and Harry Gannes, acting national Secretary of the U. S. section of the League. Y. Y. Shu, secretary of the Alliance to support the Worker-Peasant Revolution; Ruiz Martinez, secretary of the Spanish Speaking Workers Club, and Mary Adams of the American Negro Labor Congress, are among those who lead the discussion.

The meeting tonight which is open to the public will mark the beginning of a city-wide membership drive, according to a statement by Harriet Silverman, secretary of the New York branch. Individuals and representatives of organizations are invited to attend the meeting and join the League.

The United States section of the All America Anti-Imperialist League, which is carrying on a campaign to aid the Nicaraguans and other oppressed peoples in their fight against Wall Street domination is the rallying center for the exploited workers of this country in the struggle against U. S. imperialism.

swer the official communications of the union which contained the workers' demands. The demands were sent to the employers, who held a meeting but made no answer to the union's message.

Demands of the workers include the institution in the industry of a uniform price list for weavers, other craftsmen and women in the industry, the strict maintenance of the eight-hour day and recognition of the union. Other demands are night work to be paid for at the rate of 10 per cent over the day work scale, no overtime to be permitted, operatives to work eight hours per day, time work to be paid for at the rate of 80 cents an hour.

Organize Shops.

Due to the long existant sentiment among the broad silk workers for a strike to improve conditions, they have been extremely active in organizing the shops and recruiting membership.

The utmost confidence is expressed by the workers that the entire broad silk industry in Paterson will be tied up tight when a strike call is issued.

Soviet War Commissar Scores "Neighbor" of the Soviet Union that armed conflicts were avoided.

The facts show, he pointed out, that the capitalist countries contemplate intervention against the Soviet Union. He pointed to the attempts to transform Soviet Ukrainia into Ukrainia under a Polish protectorate. The relations with Germany, however, have improved, he said.

Kellogg Pact.

The Soviet Union signed the Kellogg pact, he declared, for if it had not done so the bourgeois governments and the capitalist press would have a pretext for agitation against "red imperialism." The Soviet Union knows that the Kellogg pact does not preserve peace, but it has a certain value in that it prevents open war preparations, he said. Moreover, the clauses introduced into the pact by the imperialist powers weaken its effect.

War Danger.

The war danger for the Soviet Union is visible, Voroschilov said. Nobody can guarantee that there will be an attack on the Soviet Union, and this fact, therefore, forces the Soviet Union to maintain an army, although it prefers to expend its money on peaceful economic development.

The Red Army, he said, is technically equal to or even better than the armies of the neighboring countries, and the Kiev maneuvers show its capabilities.

FOOD WORKERS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO RED CAMPAIGN

Plan Big Mass Meet in October

As a climax of a series of union and progressive group meetings of food workers, a Food Workers Election Campaign Committee representing twenty different organizations has been elected to support the Workers (Communist) Party in its 1928 election campaign.

This committee, which will mobolize the food workers of New York in their shops, unions, factories and fraternal organizations to vote for Foster and Gitlow and the other candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party, is composed of representative members of Bakers' Local 164, Amalgamated Food Workers; Chicken Workers Union; Fruit and Dairy Clerks Union; United Workers Co-operative Stores; Japanese Workers Club; American Negro Labor Congress; T. U. E. L.; Bakers Local 500; Bakers Progressive Club; Hotel and Restaurant Workers Branch, Amalgamated Food Workers; Rank and File Committee, Local 1 Waiters and Waitresses; Progressive Delicatessen Clerks; Proletcos Co-operative; Bakers Council of Working Women; Progressive Culinary Club; Unity Co-operative Association, and various progressive groups in food unions.

A Food Workers' mass meeting in Bryant Hall in October, union banquets, discussions in progressive clubs, are among the features planned as a means of broadcasting the Communist election program to masses of workers in New York bakeries and biscuit companies, hotels, cafeterias and restaurants, and to the thousands of clerks in food stores.

At the same time that the Communist election campaign is being carried on, special effort will be devoted by the workers to mobilizing for the defense of William Schiffrin, member of the new Progressive Butchers and Chicken Workers Union, who is being held by the police without bail facing a charge of homicide after being attacked by right wing gangsters. The Workers (Communist) Party is the only party which is wholeheartedly supporting the defense of this progressive worker.

GIANTS HANG ON TO CARDS; YANKEES WIN

(By United Press)

It took the St. Louis Cardinals 15 innings to beat the Brooklyn Robins and retain their one game lead in the National League today, a single by Taylor Douthit through the rain and semi-darkness winning for the Red Birds, 4 to 3.

Wee Willie Sherdel, summoned to pitching duty for the third time within a week, went the route for the league leaders and pitched good ball, good enough to have won in nine innings.

With the score tied, Sherdel and Clark engaged in a pitching duel until the fifteenth, when the latter was unlucky enough to lose through an error by Del Bissonette and Douthit's blow to center.

The Cardinals got to Buzz McWeeny for three runs early in the game, scoring in the third on three passes, a double and a single, the runs coming in after two were out.

A gallant uphill fight which gave the New York Giants a 4 to 3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the cold drizzling rain today still left John McGraw's courageous ball club one game behind the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League race.

Held scoreless for six innings by Eppa Rixey, veteran southpaw, the Giants scored two runs in the seventh and then overcame the Reds' one run lead in the ninth to snatch victory from defeat.

Leslie Mann's single in the ninth scored Reese with the winning run. One run behind going into the ninth, O'Farrell, batting for Scott, walked, but O'Doul, running for O'Farrell, was forced at second by Welsh. Reese's triple scored Welsh with the tying run and Mann's hit won the game.

Jimmy Welsh's double in the seventh drove in Terry and Cohen, who had singled, with the first runs off Rixey.

The Reds scored a run in the first on Dressen's single, a force out, Allen's single and Stripp's single.

Kelly's triple in the sixth scored Pipp who had doubled and Stripp who had walked.

Fred Fitzsimmons started the game for the Giants and the Reds made all their runs off him. Jack Scott replaced Fitzsimmons in the eighth, and received credit for winning the game.

The Giants rest Wednesday, but play the Cubs in a double-header Thursday.

Tom Zachary, veteran southpaw, rescued from the scrap heap by the New York Yankees when their pitching staff faltered, helped the Hugmen to almost clinch the American League pennant today by beating the Cleveland Indians, 10 to 1.

Zachary, discarded by the Washington Senators, allowed the Indians but eight hits and held them scoreless until the eighth inning.

The Yankees staked Zachary to a six run lead in the first inning and the veteran worked easily behind the long lead. Five hits, two walks and an error gave New York the six runs and chased Grant to the showers.

He was replaced by Bayne who held the Yanks scoreless until the sixth, when Combs' single, a stolen base and Koenig's single accounted for a run. The Yanks added three more in the eighth on a hit batsman, Koenig's double and Gehrig's twenty-fifth home run of the season.

The Athletics beat St. Louis 9-5. Earnshaw and Walberg pitched against Ogden, Coffmen and Blaeholder.

Democracy in Nebraska

Nebraska, the stamping ground of middle class liberalism as expounded by the survivals of Bryanism in the democratic party and exemplified by United States Senator Norris of the republican party, is the scene of the latest attempt to prevent the workers and farmers voting for candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party.

In Nebraska the Workers (Communist) Party is officially on the ballot, having complied with all the legal technicalities required in that state. The campaign was being aggressively conducted in a number of places and preparations were on foot to cover the entire state, when that aggregation of strikebreakers, scab-herders and emulators of fascism, the American Legion, began a counter-campaign. Since the Party was already on the ballot it was necessary to devise some new procedure in order to prevent the names of the Communist candidates appearing on the official ballot in the November election. So the secretary of state came to the rescue of the assailants of the Communists. At this moment he is conducting hearings at which Legion lawyers, politicians and professional red-baiters are trying to lay the basis for the exclusion of the Party in the elections. Thus we see to what extent the defenders of the fraud that is known as American democracy respect their own laws. Election laws are primarily devised to prevent parties opposed to the powers-that-be going on the ballot. All sorts of provisions are made so that it requires a great deal of labor to get on the ballot. Then, after all these provisions are complied with we see the upholders of "law and order" hypocritically throwing off their mask of democracy and coming forth openly as tools of the capitalist class dictatorship.

Nebraska is only the latest of a series of such assaults. Under different forms and through different agencies the same sort of despotism exists in a number of places—particularly Wheeling, West Virginia, and Martins Ferry, Ohio, two towns in the domain of coal and steel.

Thus far not a single public official of Nebraska has taken a stand against the Legion and the action of the secretary of state. George W. Norris, one of the leaders of the so-called liberals in the United States senate, has time to indulge in lavish praise of the Wall Street-Tammany clown, Governor Al Smith, but he has uttered no word of condemnation against his own political pals who are endeavoring to deprive the thoughtful voters of Nebraska of an opportunity to vote for the Workers (Communist) Party.

Norris, by his attitude toward this case, only emphasizes the fact that the so-called liberals are among the very worst tools of reaction.

The Nebraska case is of national significance. In the most decisive manner the workers and farmers of the state should register their protest against such high-handed methods. In no uncertain terms they should show the miserable political shyster who functions as secretary of state that he and the legion cannot get away with their conspiracy.

Such actions are justification for the Communist position that the ruling class will never surrender power by peaceful, legal means. The capitalist laws are observed only so long as they serve as weapons against the working class and the oppressed and exploited farmers. If Nebraska takes such action in this campaign, what can be expected from the ruling class and its fraudulent democracy when hundreds of thousands and millions enlist under the banner of Communism? Their acts today are only an indication of their policy tomorrow.

But we know how to meet such opposition. We are under no illusions regarding capitalist government and capitalist democracy. As Leninists we use any weapons at hand against our class enemies. Today when we have ballots in our hands we use them in the interest of our class. Tomorrow when the imperialist war-mongers have hurled us into another war and placed other weapons in our hands we will use them also—in the interest of our class in order to scourge from the earth every vestige of capitalist despotism.

Why Soviet Workers Win Contests

For once in their lives the lie factories of Riga have at least told a partial truth—but only a partial one, for they even use facts to try to cast discredit upon the Soviet system. In a syndicated story we are told that at the recent Spartakiad (working class international athletic contests) the Soviet representatives won most of the events. That part of the story is true. But it doesn't end there.

The Riga "correspondents" darkly hint that the games must have been "fixed." Some of the hack writers who are bought and paid for by the imperialist and royalist intriguers against the Soviets graduated from American newspapers. All American newspaper men know that every alleged athletic event that is staged in the United States is "fixed" before hand, whether it be a ball game or a heavyweight champion prize-fight. Some of them are incapable of conceiving of an honest contest even though the participants are workers instead of professionals.

There is a vast difference, however, between the professional athletic contests in America, where the outcome is determined by the amount of gambling money involved in the betting, and the working class contests that took place in Moscow this summer.

Nor can anyone who cares to investigate the facts feign surprise that the Soviet workers won many of the major events. That was to be expected and, although the Riga traducers of the Soviets may not be able to understand it, the workers of other countries understand it very well.

The reason the Soviet workers won is because they are healthier and happier and more secure than the workers of any other country.

That is the answer.

An Evangelist Sees Paris

Aimee Semple McPherson, California evangelist, heroine of the kidnapping hoax and lately involved in a real estate swindle, is on a European tour for publicity purposes calculated to boost her declining stock in America. She stopped at Paris and visited the Montmartre, where she is reported to have been shocked at what she saw. Describing what she imagines is Paris, she said:

> "I stood on the brink of hell tonight and looked down inside. Gay Paris is polished on the outside but it is the rottenest city in the world at the core."

This observation is typical of the exaggeration of the evangelistic mind, if one can indulge in such flattery over the vaporings of Aimee. Obviously Aimee is no judge of the comparative wickedness of the cities of the world because she has never seen them all. Nor has she seen Paris in spite of the fact that she spent a night on the Montmartre.

What the American evangelist saw was one small section of a Paris boulevard that is supported almost exclusively by the money of yankee tourists, the big and little business men, the "best people" of the United States who at home are the principal contributors to the evangelistic three-ring circuses. And the Montmartre denizens are not one whit different than those of their profession who inhabit the cities and towns of the United States. The difference is that Paris is less hypocritical than Los Angeles. Debauchery is called by its right name there—not described as "kidnapping."

The real Paris, the revolutionary Paris, the Paris of the working class, is a closed book to such as Aimee and the other tourists who spend their nights on the Montmartre. But then, what can be expected of such a fraud as the California evangelist whose putrid mind befouls everything it comes in contact with?

Depraved as some of the denizens of the Montmartre are, they are preferable to male and female evangelists of the Aimee and Billy Sunday calibre. At least it is possible for them to abandon their methods of obtaining a livelihood when economic conditions are such that they can be assured an existence otherwise, but one who falls for maniacal ravings of the evangelistic crowd finds the road to sanity difficult indeed. The Montmartre and the Angelus Temple at Los Angeles are products of the same decadent system and will disappear when the mighty sweep of the working class revolution destroys the ground upon which they thrive.

THIS CANNOT LAST FOREVER

The flood disaster increases the burden of the oppressed masses, but eventually the victims, conscious of their power, will turn upon their torturers.

'Socialists' in Reformist Swamp

The "Successors of LaFollette"; a Complete Break With the Class Struggle

The socialist party has sunk deep into the swamps of middle class reformism.

The break with socialism and the class struggle is complete.

The election campaign of Thomas and Maurer nationally and the socialist candidates locally is carried on completely in the spirit of a capitalist opposition party. The socialist leaders make no secret of the course they have adopted. The spokesman for the American socialist party, Mr. Hillquit, on the contrary, heralds the fact that the socialist party is following in the footsteps of the late Senator LaFollette and have accepted the ideology of "progressiveism." Writing in the New Leader of September 22, Hillquit states that "The socialist party is the most logical heir to the progressive vote and support" because "it comes nearer than any other party to the ideals, principles, aspirations and concrete proposals which animated the LaFollette campaign."

This is the banner under which the socialist party is conducting its campaign—"LaFollettism," "progressivism"—the progressivism of LaFollette that represented a wing of the republican party.

Take the Waldman campaign in New York state. Mr. Waldman calls for an investigation of Walker's administration by Governor Smith and recounts eleven points against Mayor Walker and Tammany Hall. Among them there is not a single word against Walker's use of the police to break strikes, of the campaign of terrorism, of the industrial squad in the needle trades, of the assaulting of traction workers and thousands of other strikers by the New York police. On the other hand, Waldman shows the greatest alarm about the "crime wave" and the inadequate police administration in New York City at the same time that he gives praise to former Police Commissioner McLaughlin, who, he declares, was removed because he sought to end gambling and Tammany clubhouses.

This "progressive," this reactionary opportunist, outdoes even the traditional "progressives" of America in weeping over "the degradation of the practices and policies of our (sic) courts of justice through the appointment of judges to the bench by Mr. Walker on the basis of political connections."

It is understandable why Waldman and the New York socialists do not refer to the police terror, to the breaking of strikes, to the protection of thugs by the industrial squad because the socialist party has been part of the whole campaign of terrorism and have worked in collusion with these terrorist squads against the militant rank and file workers of the city. The socialists have been the initiators of the system of frame-up against militant strikers and the attempt to railroad William Schiffrin for defending himself against the gangsters of the labor bureaucrats and the socialist labor officials is the climax in this campaign of terrorism and of this unholy alliance of the socialist labor bureaucrats with the thugs and police force of New York.

In this so-called indictment there is no mention of the miserable housing situation, of a hundred other vital class needs of the workers of New York, but there is plenty of dribble about the "five-cent fare as a symbol of popular government" and of the violation of the so-called democratic practices of popular government.

The eyes of the socialist party in the election campaign, as in their daily work, are turned away from the struggle of the masses. Of course, seeking votes, they shed a tear now and then about the fate of the workers (the workers, too, have votes), but they look to the small businessmen, the professionals, the ministers and other "respectable" elements who are apologists of the capitalist system for their main support in the campaign.

The socialist party campaign reeks with bourgeois liberalism. It is the campaign of an organization whose role is to maintain the capitalist system and to prevent the workers from going along the road of militant class struggle.

The Workers (Communist) Party, on the contrary, conducts its election campaign in the spirit of a Party of the class struggle; its campaign is a challenge to the whole capitalist system and to all its defenders. Exposing the rotten framework of the capitalist system and its state machine of suppression to turn its eyes to the task of mobilizing the workers for struggle and a fight against the impending imperialist war, to infuse the masses with the idea of class unity and class solidarity, with the conception that freedom can come only through the overthrow of the capitalist system, only through revolution.

The election campaign is a part of the work of the Communists, day in and day out, to organize the unorganized, to defend the Soviet Union against the attacks of the imperialists, to struggle for racial equality for the oppressed millions of Negro masses; to turn the working class into a powerful revolutionary army capable of defending its daily interests against the open shoppers, against the attempt to reduce the living standards and to make them into a force that will end the capitalist system and establish the rule of the poor, of the oppressed, of the workers and farmers in the United States. The workers have a duty to themselves and to their class to vote Communist!

Lewis Brings His Treachery Into Open

Sent His Thugs to New Union Convention; Hand in Hand With the Police

By FRANK HENDERSON

THE capitalist controlled government supported by labor betrayers such as Lewis, Woll and Green and existing upon democratic lies ably preached in our "efficient" educational institutions, unveiled itself at the miners' convention as a dictator with an iron fist smashing the miners—backbone of organized labor in America. Not only was the true position of the state against the workers brought to light but the much doubted strategy of Lewis against the miners was visibly unearthed.

The Lewis officialdom, corrupt to the nth degree, has abandoned its former policy of secret periodic sell-outs and betrayals engineered and planned behind locked doors in special conferences and now comes out openly against the miners by a brazen attack upon the rank and file miners' convention at Pittsburgh. Instead of secret betrayal by communicating with his district cohorts instructing them to sell-out to the coal operators, Lewis openly sends his "ten dollar assassins" to Pittsburgh, launching a bloody open attack upon the militant progressive delegates at the convention. The outstanding thing, however, about this attack is not the fact that it was engineered by Lewis but the thing to be remembered by the miners and all other workers is the fact that Lewis received the aid and support of the police. Not only this—the entire machinery of the capitalist state was brought into play to persecute the militant miners who defended the convention hall from the attack of the Lewis gangsters. So in Pennsylvania, State of Brotherly Love, "law" now prohibits the organization of labor.

Murder Under "Old Glory."

The flexibility of the flag was also well illustrated. The red, white and blue, one day symbolic of world democracy, the next day stands for open-shop conditions, dictatorship and scabbery. The colors only recently defended by the militant miners during the war for "democracy" now faced them in plain reality as a blind to the workers so that the ruling robber class may lead the workers whither they wish. To death and misery, to starvation and submission. The gangsters of Lewis made good use of "patriotism." They took their protection with them (badges of red, white and blue) and under this emblem and in the name of patriotism, slugged and beat the rank and file miners and attempted to destroy the beginning of a real fighting organization of American labor.

Although the guns in the hands of Lewis bark out death to all who dare to oppose him, yet unmindful of danger, the much abused coal diggers rally to the support of the new union. It takes more than a shower of bullets to quench the fighting spirit of the miners. Especially the young miners who so gallantly defended the women delegates and the convention hall against the attack of the Lewis gangsters—their "all hell can't stop us" spirit will make the new union a successful fighting organization with a rank and file control.

Lewis Is Impotent.

The coal barons may say that the days of organized miners are past. Lewis may smile contentedly about his "successful" attack upon the new union. Patriots may breath easier and shout that the "red menace" has been checked. Yet the grim faces of the coal diggers and their "all hell can't stop us" spirit says to all workers that a new union has been born. The old experienced fighters will nurse and guide the new union to a walking stage and the young miners will bravely shoulder the burden and with the determination of youth establish the first real miners' union in America. A union controlled and operated by and for the rank and file. For every progressive miner framed-up and shot down Lewis will find hundreds from his own ranks to take their place. Lewis is losing his parasitic position and losing control. The very fact that he has taken the offensive—meaning he is defending his usurped position and clutching like a man drowning to anything that promises help shows that Lewis will go. The miners of Pennsylvania and Ohio have answered by putting the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot in both states. Not only have they put the Party on the ballot but they are determined to put an end to the two existing parties of the ruling robber class and their "colt" party—the socialist party and establish a Workers' and Farmers' government in the United States.

CAMPAIGN CORNER

F. G. Manus, acting D. O. in District 13, with headquarters in San Francisco writes that the Publicity Committee is going to keep us posted on what is doing in the Golden State. Yes, we should get an attack of irritability waiting for Publicity Committee to do its stuff. Comrade Manus decides to say the following for publication:

"California is in full swing collecting signatures to put our candidates on the ballot. We need 12,000 signatures. The petition committees in San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles want help from sympathizers and all class conscious workers who are willing to participate in a Communist Election Campaign to give the Jackass, the Elephant and the socialist preacher a run for their money. Those willing to participate in the campaign should report at 1212 Market Street, San Francisco; 2123 Telegraph Avenue, Oakland, campaign director; and at 2708 Brooklyn Avenue, Los Angeles, Frank Spector, campaign manager.

"In San Francisco, the Party is holding open air meetings every Friday night at Filmore and O'Farrell Streets—20th and Mission Streets and during the months of September and October, every Sunday night, political rallies will be held at our headquarters, 1212 Market Street, with our state candidates as speakers. In Oakland, open-air meetings at 19th and Broadway and political rallies at the Party headquarters, 7th and Feralta Streets, Fraternity Hall. Meetings will be held every Sunday afternoon at St. James Park, at 2 p. m. with our candidates as speakers. Foster speaks in San Francisco and Workers Delegations from shops and factories and the farming districts are organizing to come with their banners to hear the presidential candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party of America.

Another comrade sends a $2 contribution to the $100,000 Communist Campaign Fund from St. Paul, Minnesota. He has been unemployed for six months. "I send this as a duty," he writes, "as a class-conscious worker in the food industry. Millions of workers should be found under this speed-up system and efficiency schemes to contribute to the Communist Campaign Fund, and the Party that is fighting the capitalist system and the trade union bureaucracy, the ally of capitalism.

U. S. OFFICE BOY LEAVES.

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 25 (U.P.)—American Ambassador Alexander P. Moore has engaged passage for New York Friday, it was learned tonight.

THE standard of living of th American labor fakers is rising. Mr. Morin, of St. Louis, re-electe president of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, had his salary increased from $7,500 to $15,000 a year. This makes a bum out of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, whose salary is only $12,00 a year. It is true that Mr. Lewis's union is now somewhat of a wreck and its solvency is open to question, but the gentleman maintains two establishments, one in Springfield and one in Indianapolis, and you will readily agree that it takes money to keep two good homes in the style to which they have been accustomed.

MR. BOWEN, president of the Bricklayers Union for decades, has finally succeeded in having his resignation accepted. Mr. Bowen has grown old and weary in the service of the bricklayers; he has also waxed wealthy. Mr. Bowen is a supporter of capitalism and a bitter opponent of Communism. It's no wonder. A healthy, solvent labor faker has nothing much to kick about. Mr. Bowen was treated well by the capitalists and by the bricklayers. He now retires on a pension of $10,000 a year and with the title of president-emeritus.

WHILE fortune has been smiling on the American labor lieutenants of capitalism, things have not been going so well with some of the Chinese war lords. Take the sad case of General Chang Tsung-chang, Dictator of Shantung province, for instance. Ten days ago Chang started for the battlefield after blowing twenty-eight kisses to his connubial army. But fortune did not smile on Chang. He was defeated and his military forces were scattered. Returning for consolation to his twenty-eight wives, he found they had fled in all directions. He finally succeeded in locating five of them, but the poor fellow feels as womanless as a bachelor in a monastery.

PRIMO DE RIVERA, the Spanish dictator, made a big jail delivery the other day in honor of the fifth anniversary of the dictatorship. Primo did not open the jail gates out of pure goodness of heart. After all there is a limit to the capacity even of Spanish penitentiaries, and even the best-regulated country cannot celebrate successfully unless some of the people are at large. Needless to say, Senor De Rivera did not release any class war prisoners.

IT is a dull week that does not thrill to a new decree by Benito Mussolini. Having solved the birthrate by decreeing that married couples should bring up larger families, and the style in dress by decreeing that women should wear dresses two inches below the knee, the fascist dictator decided that it was time to fix things so that the style in shirts would remain static.

TO accomplish this aim Mussolini dug into the papal archives and learned that the papacy has a system that worked out beautifully, ever since the days when rival popes used to fight over which had the right to represent the Christian God. The pope elects the cardinals and the College of Cardinals elects the pope's successor. This helps God considerably to keep the right man on the throne of St. Peter. Mussolini does not claim to be God's right-hand man, but he represents the big industrialists of Italy, so, as a good servant, he wants to take the necessary precautions so that there will be no slip up after he croaks. He appoints the members of the grand council of the fascist party, which, in turn, will appoint Mussolini's successor after that happy event becomes necessary. But Mount Vesuvius is not the only volcano in Italy. There is also a social volcano in Italy which is liable to erupt at any moment.

THE solid south is being broken up, also a lot of perfectly good eggs. It is becoming the fashion nowadays below the Mason-Dixon line at meetings of the democratic fractions to hurl yokes at yokels who attempt to explain either the virtues or vices of Al Smith. This indicates a progressive development of political consciousness in the south. Anybody who ever heard a southerner attempting a political explanation knows that any old hen would do it much better.

MRS. MABEL WILLEBRANDT may not be doing Herbert Hoover an awful lot of good, but she is getting a lot of publicity. Mabel is one of those girls who can stay happy without resorting to strange liquids. A bit of a sadist, she finds joy in the sorrows of others. She is as dry as a bartender between drinks. So is Hoover for that matter, but the difference is that while Herbert would not turn down a good wet vote, Mabel would rather be dry than be president.

WORKERS PARTY GOES ON BALLOT IN CONNECTICUT, BIG OPEN SHOP CENTER

Expect Big Red Vote as Metal, Textile, Rubber and Tobacco Workers Rally to Party

2,000 Negro Workers Have Signed Communist Petitions for Ballot

By CHARLES MITCHELL.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 26.—The Communist ticket has been placed on the ballot in the great industrial state of Connecticut, with the filing of 6,000 certified signatures with the secretary of state at the state capitol in Hartford. The filing of the Communist ticket is a direct challenge to the open-shoppers of a state in which the trade union movement has been so weakened by the attacks of the bosses and the treachery of the labor bureaucrats that the American Federation of Labor in Connecticut is now merely a shadow of what it was in former days.

Connecticut is the twenty-second state in which the Communist ticket is on the ballot. The other states are:

File Complete Ticket.

New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, New Mexico, Arkansas, New Jersey and Arizona.

In addition to Foster and Gitlow, the national standard-bearers, a complete state ticket has been filed. The following are the candidates for state office:

William McKenzie, a carpenter, for governor; R. S. Kling, machinist, for lieutenant governor; Conrad Laske, painter, for United States senator; Gertrude Puel, stenographer, for secretary of state; Edward Mrasko, painter, for state treasurer; John Gombos, for state comptroller.

Expect Big Red Vote.

The willingness of the workers to sign the Communist petitions is indicated by the success in collecting 6,000 names, or approximately more than twice the number required. This is the first time that the Workers (Communist) Party has been placed on the ballot in Connecticut. The splendid response of the workers to the signature drive indicates a heavy Communist vote in November. The metal, textile and rubber

49 COMMUNISTS IN FINLAND GET LONG JAIL TERMS

Gov't Fears Growing Influence of Party

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker)

HELSINGFORS, Sept. 26.—Forty-nine Communists have been sentenced to long jail terms for revolutionary activities, it was learned today. Taimi, Communist leader, has been sentenced to 15 years; Tuominen to five years, Vuori to four, and Halfe, Enne and Latva to two and a half years each. Only three of the Communists tried enmasse were freed.

The government has been alarmed by growing militancy of the workers and peasants. The recent agreements between Finnish and Soviet [illegible] unions is believed to be partly responsible for the vicious government campaign against the Communist Party.

FASCIST ATTACK ON U. S. NEGROES

Mussolini in Speech Calls Them "Peril"

ROME, Sept. 26 (UP).—The dwindling birth rate in large cities was deplored by Premier Benito Mussolini today in an article written for the press in defense of increased populations.

Mussolini spoke of the growing number of Negroes in the United States, and warned the occidental white races that they are menaced by the black and yellow tide because of their failure to increase their populations. Mussolini criticized the modern tendency to drift towards the cities.

"That which happened once can happen again, not only as between the city and country but in greater measure—namely, the occidental white races can be submerged by the colored races, which multiply at a rate unknown to us. The black and yellow races are now at our gates, not alone because of their fecundity, but also because of their race consciousness and their dreams of the future.

"While the whites of the United States have a miserable percentage of births—which would be even worse without the injection of Irish, Jews and Italians—the Negroes of the United States are extremely fecund, reaching a total of 14,000,000, or one-sixth of the population of the republic."

50 Greet Rev. Thomas; Socialists Predicted 'Great Demonstration'

(By a Worker Correspondent)

The triumphal return of Rev. Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for president, was signalized last night at Grand Central Station. Despite the friendly publicity of its house-organ, the New York Times, only 50 weak-lunged "comrades" greeted him.

Thomas, who has just toured several western states seemed happy to get back home, and did not show his disappointment with the small showing. Youngsters gathered round the hurrahing group, probably believing a movie actor instead of a salvation peddler was being greeted.

Capitalist press photographers were on hand to take pictures of the returning preacher. After several rounds of pictures, Thomas left in a taxi with Morris Berman, a wealthy supported of the socialist party and the Rand School, whose part in the class struggle consists in the ownership of several "dollar-[illegible]" department stores. —N. LONDON, Sept. 26.—No denial has been made here of charges that Great Britain had negotiated a secret air pact with France in addition to formulating a naval agreement.

According to reports widely circulated in semi-official circles the agreement permits France to build any number of aircraft, while France has agreed not to proceed with the construction of a series of aerial bases along the British channel coast. Great Britain, it is said, will also be permitted to use the French air bases near the German frontier.

The arrival of the American note, which is expected to protest against the Anglo-French agreements, is being awaited here with a great deal of concern.

PROFS AID POWER TRUST

"Public Pays Expense", Magnate Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—That the power trust has brought up three more professors in its propaganda campaign in the schools and colleges was revealed today at the Federal Trade Commission hearings.

Another feature of the hearing was the introduction of a speech in which M. H. Aylesworth, former head of the National Electric Light Association and now president of the National Broadcasting Company told power company executives at a conference:

"All the money being spent is worth while. And may I leave this thought with you executives: Don't quit now. At the next convention have your young ladies here so as to do the job right and let off more men from the departments so they may come here. Don't be afraid of the expense. The public pays the expense. Let us continue with big meetings."

BIG COMMUNIST RALLY HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

The Communist standard bearers in the 1928 elections in New York State and city, speaking at the huge Central Opera House Red Election Rally tomorrow night on the workingclass platform of the Workers (Communist) Party, will stress the important issues of the use of injunctions, police terrorism, and the roles of Tammany Hall and the socialist party, according to a statement issued by the District Campaign Committee last night.

Masses of workers from every part of New York and vicinity will travel to the Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave. to hear the unmasking of the fake capitalist "democracy" by Communist candidates. The rally, with William W. Weinstone, District Organizer of District 2, presiding, will open at 8 o'clock promptly, and the doors of the hall will be thrown open at 7 to accommodate the crowds of workers.

"One of the chief issues affecting workers in the 1928 election campaign, in New York City as elsewhere," the District Campaign Committee statement reads, "is the injunction evil. Government by injunction has been felt by New York workers in the needle trades, traction, paper box, boot and shoe and other industries." Robert Minor, William F. Dunne, and the other state and local candidates who will speak at Central Opera House, will be heard by large masses of workers from these industries who have felt the heavy hand of capitalist democracy at their throats.

Expose Tammany, "Socialists."

The thousands of workers who crowd Central Opera House will hear the roles of the socialist party and Tammany Hall exposed. The use of Tammany police and special industrial squads to break strikes by campaigns of terrorism will be emphasized. The part in workers' lives played by the so-called "socialist" party, degenerated to a party of small business men, lawyers and doctors, will also be emphasized by the Communist candidates. The reactionary control exercised by the "socialists" over the United Hebrew Trades will be touched upon, and the case of William Shiffrin, left wing butcher who was set upon by a gang of right wing thugs will be cited.

FARMER LABOR DEAL IS SCORED

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 26.—The withdrawal of George Cashman, democratic candidate for U. S. Senator in the interest of Henrik Shipstead, nominee of the so-called Farmer Labor Party in return for which the local machine is to support Al Smith for the presidency, is characterized here as one of the most flagrantly treacherous political trades in the history of the state.

That such a trade was being consumated has been known for some time by close students of the local situation. Shipstead, the candidate of the so-called Farmer-Labor progressives is a careerist who would do anything to obtain office. Ernest

BARE FRAME-UP UPON SCHIFFRIN

Right Wing Witnesses Tell Conflicting Tales

Testimony rendered by witnesses during the first day of the hearing in the homicide case against William Schiffrin, left wing worker, established beyond all doubt the bankruptcy of the right wing frame-up machine.

All the witnesses testifying at the hearing, which came up before Magistrate Dodge in the Bronx Homicide Court and which lasted until 4:30 in the afternoon, were subpoenaed by the district attorney, and, on their evidence alone, either sharply contradicted the contentions of the right wing or proved frank witnesses for the defendant.

So glaring were the contradictions of those who tried to testify against Schiffrin, and so convincingly simple was the evidence of the disinterested eyewitnesses that the magistrate was compelled to say toward the close of the hearing "If I were to have a motion to dismiss I would reserve my decision." This motion was promptly forthcoming from the defense attorney, Henry O. Kahn, and the case will go on today in the same court. After hearing the few witnesses for the defense the judge is to rule on the motion to dismiss the charge of homicide.

The district attorney was assisted in the preparation of his case by the official lawyer for the right wing in the Jewish labor movement, the notorious Samuel Markewitch, who has participated in cases that have sent many left wing workers to long jail terms. In making up the list of witnesses the prosecutor decided to call four eyewitnesses and the arresting detective besides the five men, who with Harry Silver, made up the squad sent to attack Schiffrin with knives. Silver was the one fatally wounded by Schiffrin, while the latter was defending himself.

Tell Conflicting Tales.

Of the four eyewitnesses and the detective, three swore that they did not see the fight at all, while the detective and the other eyewitness gave a description of the scene that caused the judge to make his statement. The five "squadmen" in their testimony told blatantly conflicting stories.

"A closed car, containing six men, stopped on Beck St., five men jumped out and rushed at the defendant, who was standing across the street." With this simple statement, Andrew Jensen, a repair man for the Central Union Gas Co., who testified that he was directly across the street, while the fight was going on, completely shattered the framed up story offered by the right wingers. They previously on the witness stand had sworn that Schiffrin had rushed at their car, stabbing two as they were getting out to "picket" the butcher store from which the dispute developed. The right wing tried to remove a left winger from his job there, after expelling him from the union for urging that union finances be investigated.

Straightforward Story.

Jensen then told the court that he saw Silver and Burns, whose arm was cut in the fray, rush at Schiffrin, brandishing knives. "Schiffrin

$50,000 PAID TO SEWER PIPE KING BY CONTRACTOR

Phillips Split Graft With Connolly Gang, Jury Hears

Work Under Cover

"Blue Ribbon" Jury Is Called "Safe"

Fifty thousand dollars paid to "See Jack" Phillips, late Queens sewer pipe king, enabled a contractor who previously had been turned down by the Queens political ring to secure the work, it was revealed yesterday at the trial of Maurice E. Connolly, former borough president, and Frederick B. Seeley, former borough engineer, indicted in the $30,000,000 Tammany graft case.

John M. Phillips, the sewer pipe contractor, the cause of whose recent death has never been fully revealed, was the real power behind the Tammany Hall politicians in control of Queens Borough, the evidence showed. As far back as 1917, it was disclosed by Thomas M. Purcell, a bonding agent and the first important witness for the prosecution, Phillips was able to have bids by contractors accepted or "tossed out" at will. The contractors invariably had to "See Jack" Phillips. The graft was shared with the Queens Tammany politicians. In the contract awarded them was always a specification naming a particular kind of pipe manufactured only by Phillips. The pipe king sold this pipe to the contractors at two, three, four and five times its actual value.

Only a Gesture.

No one who is at all aware of what is taking place behind the scenes believes, however, that there will be any real prosecution of the Tammany grafters now on trial or that they will serve prison terms. Yesterday a so-called "blue ribbon" jury composed exclusively of busi-

SWISS ATTACK ANTI-FASCISTS

Mussolini Seen Behind Government Threat

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 26.—The Swiss government today officially ordered all anti-fascist elements on its territory to desist from participating in activities aiming at the overthrow of fascist authority in Italy.

The government's action is believed to be the result of pressure from Rome as result of fear of open revolt in northern Italy. Widespread unrest kept in check by fascist militia and secret service is reported from many sections of the Po valley and Piedmont.

Groups of Italians here have expressed their intention of carrying their grievances against the fascist government to the League of Nations though no action is anticipated or them from that quarter.

The grievances include the exile and sufferings of political prisoners confined to the Lipari Islands and other detention centers and the torture practiced against prisoners in the Italian jails.

LOS ANGELES IN 'DAILY' SUB DRIVE

Pittsburgh, Anthracite Get 26 Subscriptions

LOS ANGELES, Cal., is at present engaged in making extensive preparations for the success of the Daily Worker election campaign drive for 10,000 new readers, according to a letter received yesterday from Frank Forrest, Daily Worker representative in the city. Accompanying the letter is a request for campaign material to be used in the campaign.

Forrest is organizing all units of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Young Workers (Communist) League and many other workers of Los Angeles for the drive. Los Angeles has been among the leaders in previous drives of the Daily Worker, and, according to Forrest, it will continue to maintain its position on the top in this drive.

Anna Herbst, Daily Worker agent now touring the anthracite region for subscriptions, yesterday sent in 16 subscriptions. This is the first batch to be received from her on her present tour. Many others are expected before she returns to New York.

TAXI "CZAR" IS FETED

Employers Meet for Welfare Efficiency

It was a swell luncheon. And swell people were present. Big chiefs in the taxi industry, men of brains and vision, devoted to the ideal of "service," gathered ostensibly to honor Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner Nelson Ruttenberg, "czar" of the Hack License Bureau.

There they were, some 250 self-styled leaders of the taxi industry, with well-fed florid faces and portly bodies, at the Hotel Astor yesterday, pouring sweet words into each other's ears and planning how to "improve" the industry.

Chief of ceremonies was none other than H. A. Innes Brown, taxi editor, strike-breaker, under cover man for the open-shop Yellow Taxicab Corporation, above all "impartial" and interested only in the welfore of the industry which in his paper, "The Taxi Weekly," he tries to make out is the welfare of the exploited drivers.

The real purpose of the meeting was best revealed in the words of

TEXTILE BOSSES FRANTIC, MAKE NEW FAKE OFFER TO BATTY SELL-OUT BROKERS

Huge Mass Meeting of Militant Union Votes Unanimously to Reject "5%" Scheme

Murdoch Arrested on Picket Line; Workers Give Mother Bloor Ovation

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 26.—Entering a new stage in the plans of the mill owners and the Textile Council officialdom to sell out the textile workers' strike, but nevertheless betraying their intense anxiety to end the shutdown that has kept 56 mills closed for 24 weeks, the mill owners association yesterday announced their willingness to "cut wages only five per cent," and requested of their A. F. of L. allies that the question be put up to their membership at meetings.

Again displaying this hypocrisy which the workers charge to be preparations for an elaborate strike-breaking attempt, the mill owners, and their "mediator" tools continue in their attempt to ignore the real leaders of the strike, the left wing Textile Workers Union. A true picture of the sentiment with which this latest proposal was received, however, can be seen by the decision of a huge mass meeting of the left wing union held yesterday afternoon in Public Park.

Workers Reject Plan.

To the query of a speaker at this mass meeting, which was also attended by large numbers of British workers, whether the workers would even consider the acceptance of a 5 per cent reduction, a forest of hands shot into the air when "noes" were called for.

The proposal to cut wages only 5 per cent was made this time by the State Board of Arbitration and by the Citizens' Mediation Committee, both creatures of the employers, and was allegedly "accepted" by the advisory board of the bosses organization. After the ceremony of "acceptance" was made, Batty and his crew of officials were asked to accept. The union fakers, however, knowing that the thousands of strikers are practically unanimously against any concessions, declared that they will bring it before their membership which consists of small group of skilled workers, who, it is believed, will reject the compromise.

Next will begin, according to the opinions of the workers, the final stage of the sell-out performance. This means that the employers may announce that they are willing to rescind the 10 per cent wage cut provided they get the Freider speed-up system. The Textile Workers Union is preparing the workers for this

STEEL WORKER FACES SENTENCE

Old Frame-Up Revived by Court

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., Sept. 26.—Hailing the establishment of the new National Textile Workers' Union, formed last week at the national convention of the Textile Mill Committees, the International Textile Committee of Action and Progress today issued the following greetings to the American textile workers.

"The International Committee of Action and Progress in the textile industry greets the conference of revolutionary textile workers and wishes them success. The Committee expresses the firm hope that the establishment of a revolutionary class union will raise the militancy of the textile workers and bring them nearer to victory over their exploiters.

SPURN MORGAN'S SHYLOCK LOAN

Interest Is Too High, Says Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 26 (UP).—President Alvear signed a decree today instructing the Argentine embassy at Washington to cancel the 12,000,000 peso loan which falls due Thursday and which J. P. Morgan and Co., and the National City Bank had offered to renew for six months at seven and one-half per cent.

The decree stated that such a high rate of interest was not justified by Argentina's present credit standing and that the renewal of the loan therefore was impossible. The statement added that President Alvear considered the present a convenient time in the interests of the country to liquidate the whole debt and consolidate it with another fund or substitute short term notes for it.

'Paddy' Connolly, Head of IRT Company Union Is Named New Director

Old "Paddy" Connolly, head of the Interborough Company Union, strike breaker, caller of the famous 1919 fake company strike for a fare increase, a scab whose record dates back to the 1905 strike during which time he was imported as a "fink" from Chicago—Patrick J. Connolly is now a director of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and will sit beside Frederick H. Ecker, multi-millionaire vice-president of the scab Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, an organization close to the heart of J. P. Morgan himself.

Connolly was named to the directorship of the company at a meeting held last night at which time Frank Hedley, president of the company announced that the move is "to promote full cooperation between the company and its employees." Connolly's last act was to help break the recent union of the Amalgamated.

The election of a company union official to the directorship of a open-shop firm marks a new wrinkle in the technique of union prevention. In this case, the move is not expected to be very effectual due to the fact that Connolly and the company union have been completely discredited.

T. U. E. L. Calls Upon All Labor Organizations to Support the Youth Conference

NEW YORK UNIONS SEND DELEGATES TO ATTEND MEET

Shop Committees to Be Represented

By JOHN J. BALLAM.

The Working Youth Conference which will be held Sept. 29 and 30 at the Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Ave., will mark a tremendous step forward in the general work of organizing the unorganized which is now the central task of the Trade Union Educational League.

In New York particularly, the young workers make up a large percentage of the working class. There are over 200,000 office workers, of which 65 per cent are between the ages of 16 and 25 years. Departments stores and shops employ large numbers of youth. Candy factories, radio assembly plants, telephone, telegraph, food, textile and needle trades, etc., employ large numbers of young workers. New York is a city of diversified and light industry in which young men and women are mercilessly speeded up and exploited, working under unsanitary conditions at starvation wages.

This Conference of the Working Youth will be the first big step forward toward organizing the thousands of young workers in this city. The general attitude of the average trade union official is to ignore this tremendous problem. The young workers should constitute a source of strength to the organized labor movement. Their enthusiasm, courage and vitality would infuse new life into the American labor movement.

The rationalization of industry makes it possible to supplant adult labor with youth and woman labor due to the increasing division of labor, the simplification of the processes of production the increasing use of machinery replacing hand production, the introduction of efficiency schemes and the speed up, all this throws the adult skilled worker upon the scrap heap.

The Working Youth Conference will discuss the problems of the working youth. Many trade unions are sending delegates. Young workers delegates will attend from organized and unorganized shops from many industries.

The T. U. E. L. greets these youth delegates as the advance guard of the left wing and progressive labor movement.

All forward looking labor organizations should help these young workers morally and financially in their determination to organize themselves to resist exploitation and for the emancipation of the working class.

These young workers will soon become the back-bone of the labor movement in America—they will be the shock troops of the proletariat in its struggle to overthrow the capitalist system.

The T. U. E. L. pledges its hearty support to the Youth Conference and urges all left wingers to give substantial aid to these young workers.

The Working Youth Conference which will be held Saturday and Sunday promises to be a tremendous success. Already a number of Unions and Shop Committees have endorsed and elected delegates to the conference, among whom are the Joint Board of the Cloak and Dressmakers' Union; Furriers' Joint Board; Window Cleaners Union; Sports Club of Local 43, Millinery Workers' Union; Local 41 Tuckers and Memstitchers' Union; Wasserman Shop Committee; Philip Jones Shop Committee; International Handkerchief Shop Committee and others.

This conference will be a demonstration of the readyness for organization on the part of the large mass of young workers in New York. This can be judged by the response to the various leaflets and bulletins put out by the Conference and the number of delegates already elected by the shops, trade unions and Youth Clubs.

A number of prominent Labor Leaders will speak at this conference.

Arrangements have been made to have a fraternal delegate from the strike fields of New Bedford where the Young Workers are playing a leading role under the leadership of the New Textile Workers' Union.

Blind French War Officer Used As Militarist Propaganda

Major Georges Scapini, (above with Tammany Mayor Walker), now member of the French Chamber of Deputies, was one of the not over many officers maimed in the imperialist world war. For every one officer injured, many thousand rank and file soldiers were sacrificed to imperialism. Scapini is a jingoist, and is being used by the French government as an instrument of militarist propaganda. He has come to the United States to attend the coming American Legion convention in San Antonio, where these fascist tools of the open shop bosses will use him for American militarist purposes. Meanwhile thousands of maimed rank and file war veterans, unemployed, starve.

BARE FRAME-UP UPON SCHIFFRIN

drew his pocket-knife and backed against the wall, at the same time trying to ward off his assailants with his foot. I saw Silver and Burus close in, one from the front and one from the side. I saw Silver raise his arm with the knife in it. Schiffrin also raised his arm. Both struck downward at the same time." This was the graphic description of Schiffrin's struggle for life, as Jensen saw it. The courtroom was tensely silent. The reporter from the right wing Jewish Daily Forward and its lawyer, Samuel Markewitch, grew pale. The district attorney's face showed frank hopelessness. The judge looked uneasy.

Markewitch Butts In.

The right wing lawyer, Markewitch, tried to interfere with the proceedings of the trial by asking permission for a speech in a last desperate effort to hurt the impression made by the witness. He made his speech and yet did not dispel the completely changed atmosphere.

The next witness then clinched Jensen's testimony. He was William Wabbenhorst, Detective 75, of the Twentieth Precinct. He stated that after Schiffrin was arrested, Schiffrin volunteered to sign a statement that he had wounded Silver. He emphasized that the statement was made by Schiffrin of his own free will, and when the statement which the detective brought with him in court was read it was found to match in every slightest detail with the testimony rendered by the gas repairman.

Tammany Graft Ring Trial Under Way

ness men chosen specifically for the purpose in mind, was sworn in practically without objection on the part of the defense and within record time.

Among those on the jury is an employe of J. P. Morgan & Co., a large corporation secretary, and a wire chief.

Numerous indications have been apparent of the cooperation between Max Steuer, head counsel for Connolly, and Emory R. Buckner, assistant attorney general and prosecutor of the indicted grafters. At the trial yesterday, Steuer waved the usual opening address for his client, and other signs are indicative of the intention to rush the case through as quickly as possible.

Gang Worked Under Cover.

In his opening remarks, Buckner disclosed that Connolly and Phillips studiously avoided being seen together but "they worked" together quite effectively just the same. "We will show," Buckner declared, "that in 1917 John M. Phillips received 50 per cent of the profits of a certain contract awarded to Joseph L. Sigretto, although Phillips did no work.

"W will show that when Phillips didn't want a man to get a sewer job he would simply name a ridiculous price for his pipe.

"Ninety per cent of all the sewers built in Queens were built of precast pipe and 100 per cent of all the precast pipe used was Phillips' lock-joint pipe.

Got Huge Rake-off.

"We will show that Phillips sold his pipe for two times, three times, five times its value.

"How could he get away with this? Through the power that Connolly had in awarding the contracts."

Buckner added that the specifications on precast pipe were copied word for word from the catalog of the lock-joint pipe company.

"Other pipe companies could not meet these specifications. That's another way Phillips, Connolly and Seeley got and kept their power."

Workers at Farm Give $7 for Mill Strikers

A group of friends and sympathizers at a farm near Camp Nitgedaiget turned in $7 for the New Bedford strikers through J. Mittenberg, 1468 Seabury Place, Bronx. Due credit is herewith acknowledged for this contribution in behalf of the textile strikers, by the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square.

OPEN SHOPPERS FETE TAXI CZAR RUTTENBERG

Strikebreaker Brown Is Chairman

the little taxi "czar." Ruttenberg himself, who in the year he has held office has carried on a reign of persecution against the workers that has driven thousands of cab drivers from the industry. This is in keeping with the boss program of "rationalizing" the industry and eliminating as many drivers as possible.

Kill Keep It Up.

Ruttenberg, who, besides his police activities, is also a high muckamuck in Zionist circles, referred with pride to this regime which he described as "public service," and declared that he would continue this policy with even greater vigor in the future.

Ruttenberg further declared himself in favor of higher taxi rates and of the concentration of the industry in the hands of the large corporations. Both these proposals were loudly applauded. No profit could be made, he said, on the present 15-5 minimum but no one pretended that any increase would be passed on to the drivers.

"We in the Hack License Bureau," he said, "have tried consistently to eliminate the difficulties of the cab operators. We want to help, not to hurt the industry."

Ruttenberg referred only casually to the current agitation to compel all drivers to wear uniforms, part of the general program of regimentizing the taxi drivers to keep them more completely in subjection.

Ruttenberg's speech was preceded by addresses by a number of taxi chiefs, consisting largely of paeans of praise to the great man. One of them referred to the commissioner's heart as being "lined with platinum gold."

More Speed-Up.

"There was also talk of "improving the efficiency" of taxi drivers who already slave from 12 to 16 hours a day in all sorts of weather in order to earn from $28 to $35 a week. One of the speakers objected to the fact that taxi drivers are often "not as clean and as courteous as they should be," and suggested that taxi companies employ a teacher to more effectively discipline the drivers. The companies would be repaid for this expense by securing increased rates, he said.

Chairman Brown refrained from making any extended remarks, due, it is believed, to the fact that he is currying favor on all sides to secure a job as "dictator" over the industry, his present chief ambition in life.

Big Open Shoppers.

Among the companies represented at the luncheon were the Standard Oil Company, the Auto Cab Mutual Insurance Co., the Cahco Agency Corporation, the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, the Pittsburgh Taximeter Company, the General Tire and Rubber Co., the Paramount Cab Manufacturing Company and other open shop concerns. The Yellow Taxi Corporation was "unofficially" present and is understood to have been one of the chief movers in the luncheon to Czar Ruttenberg.

The recently formed Taxi Chauffeurs' Union is conducting a vigorous campaign for organization of the drivers to fight all the evils in the industry.

Taste of "Freedom"

Poverty forced Yee Sing, a Chinese laundry worker, to work seven days a week to make a meager living. He received a taste of the famous brand of freedom allowed the workers in America under capitalism, when police arrested him for violating an obsolete and little known law against ironing shirts on Sunday. Charges that police have been demanding "shake-downs" from these Chinese workers for Sunday work have been often made.

Gold, Grecht to Speak at Banquet in Brighton

Ben Gold and Rebecca Grecht will speak at the Red Banquet to be given by the Workers' Club Oct. 13, 9 p. m. at 227 Brighton Beach Ave. for the benefit of the Workers (Communist) Party election campaign fund.

Besides the banquet, interesting concert has been prepared. All workers are urged to attend the Red Banquet and thus aid the Workers (Communist) Party in its election drive.

SECTIONS 2, 3 IN LAST ELECTION DRIVEREDSUNDAY

Red Squads Mobilize in 2 Boros

The final mobilization of the Red Squads of Sections 2 and 3, known as the backbone of the signature drive in this city, will be held on Sunday, Sept. 30. The squads will be divided into three batches and will work in Williamsburg, Brownsville and in the upper Bronx, in the co-operative houses section.

Throughout the week units of Sections 2 and 3 are being visited by the campaign directors of the sections and the members urged to report at 46 Ten Eyck St., the Williamsburg headquarters; 154 Watkins St., in Brownsville, and 2700 Bronx Park East. The fine record made by the Red Squads both in the Bronx and Harlem will be surpassed, according to B. Gussakoff and J. Cohen, campaign directors.

Must Continue Work.

In a statement issued to members of Sections 2 and 3, Rebecca Grecht, campaign manager of the district, stressed the fact that next Sunday is the final mobilization drive of the signature campaign, and urged all workers to participate. "The good work of our Party members in the drive thus far," the statement reads in part, "must not be made to suffer by a slowing up on the last day. The final mobilization is in many respects more important than previous ones, as it is the decisive one."

The squads will be divided numerically, according to the requirements of the sections where they are assigned, and all Red campaigners of sections 2 and 3 are urged to report at the headquarters to which they are assigned.

Williamsburg Important.

"Williamsburg is the most important center for mobilization next Sunday," the statement concludes. "The bulk of the Red Squads must concentrate at 46 Ten Eyck St. It is up to sections 2 and 3 whether or not the Thirteenth Williamsburg Assembly District will have a Communist candidate on the ballot."

Urge Workers Children to Attend Red Rally

In a statement issued yesterday by the Young Workers (Communist) League and the Young Pioneers, all New York workers' children are urged to attend the Red Rally to be held Friday evening at the Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave.

NEW BEDFORD MILITANT TRADITION

Fugitive Slave Laws in 1851 and Textile Struggle of 1928

By FRED BIEDENKAPP

(National Secretary Workers' International Relief)

At the corner, of William and Purchase streets in the city of New Bedford stands the imposing building of the Merchant's National Bank. It is an imposing affair built of huge blocks of New England granite and fronted with enormous alabaster-white marble pillars. It is a monument to those in New Bedford who were not compelled to slave in the mills of the north and south ends of the city. For those who are living by the exploitation of the miserably underpaid mill workers it is a solid and cooling sanctuary, whose well-fed officials look askance at the passing march of strikers and pickets.

New Bedford's history, however was not always one wherein the victims of economic or political injustice were fired upon by the defenders of "law and order."

In 1851, and even for years before, this New England town was the haven for fugitive slaves from the South. It was one of the centers of the abolitionist movment for the liberation of southern slaves.

A bronze tablet affixed to the bank building now carried this legend:

"News of the passage of the Fugitive Slave Laws was brought from Boston (to New Bedford) in 1851 by an express messenger who rode all night and the bell on the old hall was rung to give warning to fugitive slaves that U. S. marshals were coming.

"The bell was melted in the fire of 1854 and a fragment is inserted in this tablet."

There was "lawlessness" with a vengeance. Aiding and abetting "lawbreakers." ". . .to give warning to fugitive slaves that U. S. marshals were coming." Of course, the ruling class in 1851 was feeling the competition of southern slave labor, but there is no doubt that there were thousands of liberty-loving New Englanders who loathed and abhorred the cruelties of chattel-slavery.

Where are there "humanitarians" today? The middle and upper classes in New Bedford, descendants, no doubt, of those who enthusiastically tolled the warning bell on the old hall, now look complacently on the thousands of hungry strikers, who have withstood the mill owners for the past 24 weeks.

One stands on the broad steps of the Merchants' National Bank and watches depositors going in. Lardy business men, prim stockholders in the textile industry, many and sundry of the middle and upper classes. Do they toll bells to warn that some of Samuel D. McLeod's gunmen in police uniform are about to assault and fire upon a 60-year-old textile striker? They do not. When the National Guard whip their saw-edged bayonets out of their scabbords and march on the massed pickets in the south end do they run frantically down the street to warn the victims of the ruthlessness of capitalist "justice"? If so one has not heard of it.

For 24 weeks the Workers' International Relief has been struggling to keep the 30,000 heroic strikers going while they fight against a 10 per cent wage cut. Everybody in New Bedford knows what the Workers' International Relief is. The thousands of workers that eat at our soup kitchens know of our work. The merchants and bankers know of our work. Do these wealthy parasites offer aid to the striking slaves of the New Bedford mills. No, it is easy to be sympathetic towards a victim of a competitor as was the case in 1851. Now these smooth-jowelled business look with a calm and cool eye on the indescribable suffering of the striking textile slaves.

Yes, for 24 weeks the W. I. R., has been giving relief. Where does this relief money come from? It comes from militant and class-conscious workers from all parts of the country. It comes from textile workers, from miners, from shoe workers, from clothing workers, but always from workers. It comes from workers because only workers can realize the suffering of workers in revolt. It comes from those who know that the master class waits patiently for Hunger and Winter to break all revolts against its power.

The depositors of the Merchants' National Bank are sleek and warm but the strikers on the picket line are many of them without shoes. The executive offices in the granite bank are snug and warm, but now that the autumn nights are windy the workers' homes are cold. The eyes of the depositors in the bank are self-satisfied and complacent but the strikers look with harried eyes to approaching fall and winter.

No one knows of the courage of the New Bedford and Fall River strikers better than the workers of the Workers' International Relief. They have braved the bayonets of the National Guard, they have stood against the revolvers of Chief of Police McLeod's thugs; for 24 weeks they have lived on short rations, for nearly six months they have tightened their belts and "carried on" valiantly.

But winter is coming. They cannot fight against hunger and cold. They will fight on if the workers of American can feed and clothe them. So far food was all that was needed. Now comes insistent cries for shoes and clothing. At six in the morning all hands are needed on the picket line; but at six in the morning when the chill winds blow in from the New Bedford harbor coats and stout shoes are sorely needed.

Words seem so inadequate to describe the many needs of the New Bedford strikers. One feels like rushing out into the streets and shouting and pointing to heart-rending letters and pictures of hungry kids and cold print seems a futile medium with which to convey a burning call for help.

Workers of America! You must not allow cold and hunger to break the New Bedford and Fall River strikes. Victory is near. The strikers are heroic beyond description. One more week, another and maybe one after that and our comrades will compel the mill gates to swing open.

If you are working and have just enough to eat you must give these loyal fighters succor. Give what you can; but give. Give money; give shoes, give clothing, but give something. Do not wait for collectors to come around and wheedle a dime or a dollar out of you. Give now. I appeal to every worker who has the cause of striking workers at heart to send his contribution directly to the Workers' International Relief Union Square, New York City or 43 William St., New Bedford, Mass

Special Conference of Agitprop Directors to Be Held This Saturday

A special conference of all unit agitprop directors of the Young Workers (Communist) League and of the district agitprop committee has been called for Saturday at 1:30 p. m. at 26-28 Union Square, fifth floor, to take up the question of the Workers School and the task before the agitprop directors of the League during the next period.

D. Benjamin, New York district agitprop director of the Workers (Communist) Party, and Hyman Gordon, New York district agitprop director of the Young Workers (Communist) League, will address the conference, after which there will be a period for questions and general discussion.

It is important that all agitprop directors attend.

Restaurant to Donate to Mill Relief Fund

The scientific vegetarian restaurant, 1606 Madison Avenue, between 107th and 108th Streets, is cooperating with Local New York, Workers' International Relief, and a group of comrades, to contribute 10 per cent of its income for three days, tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday, for the benefit of the textile strikers of New Bedford and Fall River.

Workers are urged to check up in their units and sections the matter of raising relief for the strikers. The need is urgent, many clothes and shoes must be collected. These must be turned in promptly to Local New York, Workers' International Relief, 1 Union Square, New York City.

Spanish Censor Fails in Suppression of News of Mass Arrests as Outbreak Looms

REPORT POLICE MAKE SWEEPING MASS SEIZURES

Cabinet Shake-Up Is Predicted

BORDEAUX, France, Sept. 26.—Spanish military and police authorities are reported to be taking strenuous actions in preparation for what they allege to be an incipient outbreak all over the country, a dispatch from Hendaye on the frontier announces. They charge that the situation is the result of a conspiracy, national in scope, to overthrow the existing government.

The censorship has been made effective on all news leaving the country and it is with extreme difficulty that reports of mass arrests have leaked across the frontier by way of Hendaye.

No attempt is made by the reports to fix the number of those arrested but it is intimated that police action is on a larger scale than in any previous seizures.

Orders are said to have been sent to the governors of all provinces instructing them to be on the alert because of an unconfirmed report that a coup would be attempted this week.

Changes in the Spanish cabinet were reported imminent in other advices from Madrid. It was said the Duke of Tetuan, minister of war, was seriously ill and likely to die. The names of General Losada and Count Andes were mentioned as possible minister of war and foreign affairs, respectively.

MILL BOSSES IN NEW FAKE OFFER

event, in which Batty is expected to betray by accepting the latter proposal. After such a sell out is [illegible] up, the real strike-breaking attempt will begin. Bosses are expected to mobilize forces for a more brutal police terror against the Textile Workers Union picket lines, with the active assistance of the strike-breaking forces of the A. F. of L.

Contrary to the effect the mill owners hoped to create among the strikers solid ranks, namely one of a belief that the strike's end was imminent, the sentiment that has gained tremendous leeway is rather a growing demand that they hold out for a wage increase, other improvements of working standards and recognition for their real leaders, the T. W. U. This was clearly shown at the large mass meetings being held daily by the militant union.

Will Greet Delegates.

That organization has hired one of the biggest halls in town for the reception of the delegates returning from the convention of textile workers which launched a new national union. The meeting in big Public Park this afternoon was one of the series. Speakers at the meeting were enthusiastically cheered on every mention of the new union. Mother Bloor, veteran labor leader, was particularly well received.

William T. Murdoch, T. W. U. organizer, who also spoke at the mass meeting was earlier in the day arrested as he was leading this morning's picket line. After attorneys for the International Labor Defense had appealed his fine of $20, he was given his freedom.

The program for the celebration tonight in the big arena the union hired for a week is a presentation of moving pictures of the Passaic and New Bedford strike scenes.

Yugoslavia Launches Counter-Boycott in Fight on Croatians

BUDAPEST, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Yugoslavia has initiated a counter-boycott against the Croats, according to despatches received here.

Withdrawal of railroad freight facilities has greatly embarrassed Croatian merchants and work is now underway to remove telegraph and [illegible] facilities from Croatian territory to the opposite side of the Danube River. The Croats ordered a social boycott against the Serbs and Solvenes because of political differences.

WORKERS PARTY ON CONN. BALLOT

2,000 Negroes Sign Petition

workers are unorganized and at the mercy of the bosses, who do not hesitate to hammer down their living standards to a minimum. The message of the class struggle, of militant unionism, is rousing a new spirit among the slave-driven workers of this state, and since the Workers (Communist) Party is the only political party in this election campaign that has raised the banner of a struggle against the employers and for a Workers' and Farmers' Government, all the militant workers are giving ear to the Communist program.

Negro Workers Aid.

Connecticut is one of the most industrialized states in the union. It abounds in cities where the population is almost one hundred per cent proletarian. There are large Negro settlements in the state, and the Communist propaganda among those double exploited workers is showing excellent results. The Negro workers showed the greatest willingness to sign the Communist petitions, and hundreds of them pledged to vote Communist on election day.

Here in Connecticut we have one of the most powerful open shop political machines in the United States. It is the Roerback utility corporation that directly employs the mayor of Hartford and controls directly or indirectly every mayor and chief of police in the state. The filing of the Communist ticket in Connecticut is a direct challenge to the Roerback utility trust as well as to the ruling classes of the state and nation.

Stress Vital Issues.

Four years ago the Party missed getting on the ballot by a few hundred signatures. With the lesson of the previous election campaign in mind our Party set itself determinedly to the task of putting the Party on the ballot and mobilized the entire membership for the job. The collection of 6,000 signatures by a membership of only a few hundred is an accomplishment that our members are properly proud of.

The organization of the unorganized is a burning issue in this state, and this issue will be raised and driven home during the campaign by the Workers (Communist) Party in speeches and thru literature. There are 227,000 unorganized metal workers in this state and they are among the most exploited category of workers in the country.

Child Labor.

Child labor is another vital issue in this state. Tens of thousands of children are working in the tobacco fields without any protection whatever and completely at the mercy of the employers. Children between the ages of eight and te are literally driven and lashed like slaves, and work for a miserable pittance of from $1.00 to $1.50 for a day of 12 and 14 hours.

Three weeks ago an agent of the tobacco barons sitting as a judge in the court at Stamford declared that there is no law in this state to prevent the employment of children in the tobacco fields.

The fact that one-third of the signatures on the Communist Petitions were Negro workers is significant of the growth of class consciousness among the Negro working class population. This responce on the part of the Negro workers to the Communist program will prove a tremendous factor in the coming struggles, when the Party will become the real leader of this most exploited section of the working class.

"Socialist" Betrayers.

In every industrial locality the workers are not only beginning to understand that the two parties of capitalism are their enemies but also the socialist party, as being the ally of the blackest reaction in the labor movement. "The Judases will get their rewards" is the murmur that is to be heard everywhere.

In the face of the most acute class struggle going on in this country in general and in Connecticut in particular, the treacherous socialist party has the nerve to declare that there is "no class struggle in this country." This the workers will understand. They will understand well enough, and say to the Thomases, Hillquits, the Plunkets, the MacLeavys and the Muffets, "you traitors, you say there is no class struggle? Come to the textile mills, to the rubber plants, to the munition factories, to the steel and brass foundries, and to the huge machine shops. Come to these places, where hundreds of thousands of us are being exploited daily, for 10, 11 and even 12 hours a day, for a miserable pittance. Come to our houses and see our children, see how they are dressed, and then say there is no class struggle in this country."

California Workers Aid Mill Strikers With $70

ONTARIO, Cal., Sept. 26. — A banquet for the purpose of collecting funds for the striking textile workers in New Bedford was held September 16, at the house of Seigel, a member of the Workers (Communist) Party here. The workers present donated $70 to aid the cause of the strikers.

CONTINUE MARCH IN PROTEST AT FASCIST PAPER

Mussolini's Sheet in Brazil Boycotted

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Sept. 26 (UP).—Groups of students today visited newspapers and announced they would continue their demonstrations against Editor Luiggi Freddi, whose newspaper in Piccolo was raided by students Monday night, until Freddi was expelled from Brazil.

Il Piccolo, which the students raided because of its publication of an article allegedly defamatory of Brazilian womanhood, attempted to publish a special edition last night, but other newspapers refused to print the paper in their plants.

The plant of the Italian newspaper was so badly damaged by students that a paper could not be printed in it.

Students Are Anti-Fascists.

SAO PALUO, Brazil, Sept. 26.—Heavy police guards were placed at the Italian consulate and at the home of Italian residents, following the raiding of the Italian fascist newspaper, "Il Piccolo," Monday night and the consequent parading of students protesting the articles advertising fascism, which appeared in that newspaper.

Police yesterday attacked students parading through the city, with injuries on both sides.

Luiggi Freddi, the editor of the fascist paper, who has just returned from Rome, publishes articles commending adherents of fascism in the house of deputies and threatening that there is "one" in Rome "who acts and does not play." His articles were also highly in favor of the fascist regime in Rome, and the students were aroused by his references to possible fascism in Brazil.

FARMER LABOR DEAL IS SCORED

Communists Plan Big Campaign

Lundeen, the Farmer-Labor party candidate for governor, is another pseudo-progressive and is involved in the deal with the Tammany Hall forces.

Communists Call to Action.

The Workers (Communist) Party which has warned the workers and farmers of the state against these politicians has issued a statement calling upon them to clean out the renegades from the movement. A huge mass meeting is being planned for next Tuesday at the Labor Lyceum, 1426 Sixth Avenue, North Minneapolic at which J. O. Bentall, Communist candidate for governor of Minnesota, among other speakers will score the latest betrayal of the politicians and will outlive the real program for the farmers and workers of the sta.

Another Betrayal.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 26. (U.P.)—Dr. H. O. Alexander, in a telegram to the headquarters of the Farmer-Labor Party at Denver, formally withdrew as the party's vice-presidential candidate, saying he chose to support the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

Alexander, for years an active figure in farmers' activities in this state, praised the farmer-labor platform in some particulars but condemned "a plank which seeks to discredit the Catholic church, and, of course, is a thrust at Governor Smith."

"I was not a Smith supporter before the convention, but I am now," he said. "If this was a campaign address for Smith, a hundred or more facts and logical conclusions could be given to back up my position that Smith is by long odds a better candidate than Hoover."

FORTY KILLED IN BLAST

Morocco Powder Explosion Injures 200

MELILLA, Morocco, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—The powder magazine of the ancient Spanish fort of Cabrerizas Bajas exploded today.

Fifty-four persons were killed and 260 injured, some of them probably fatally.

The explosion demolished the old citadel, on a rocky hill overlooking the town.

All houses around the citadel were destroyed. Women and children were among the dead and injured. Nine soldiers of the Spanish garrison at the fort were killed.

Authorities later expressed fear that the number of injured might exceed 200.

Many people of the town were stll on the streets when the explosion occurred. Others had retired.

The sky was lighted with a red glare, and a second later came the tremendous explosion. Doors and windows were blown out and chimneys knocked down. Stones and bits of debris showered the town.

People emerged from their homes and joined those in the street, running around in all directions and shouting in panic.

The scene of the explosion is about a mile and a half from the center of the town. Soon a thousand townspeople arrived at the citadel. They found the old stone fortress had disappeared entirely. Hardly a stone was left in place, only a vast, smoking crater showing where the citadel had been.

In the darkness cries were heard of the injured buried in the ruins. Rescue work was accomplished with the greatest difficulty owing to the lack of light. Pitiful scenes were witnessed. Early arrivals found a mother wailing beside the bodies of her three sons.

Rescue Difficult.

The fort is surrounded by a small suburb of about 2,000 inhabitants. Most of the houses were demolished and the inhabitants caught in the ruins.

Authorities commandeered nearly every taxicab and automobile in Melilla to carry the wounded to town. About four a. m. a long procession of taxicabs entered the town, loaded with victims. All hospitals were crowded.

COLOMBIA GOV'T SOFTSOAPS U. S.

No Friction, President Tells Demonstrators

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 26.—Addressing a parade of hundreds of students here supporting what it believed to be the government's firm stand in the face of the American state department's threat of intervention, president Abadia Mendez told the demonstrators that the government was taking no decided stand, and that the relations between the two countries were entirely cordial. He further apologized for the American note declaring that the state department had really asked for nothing more than information.

Silence greeted the president's speech, tho resentment was expressed thruout the city afterwards.

The secretary of industry yesterday ordered that an analysis of Colombian oil be made which is interpreted among oil men here as a bid to petroleum competitors, tho the reason given is that high grade Colombian oil is being mixed with inferior American product.

Tanaka May Fall on Manchuria Question

TOKIO, Sept. 26.—The Tanaka government may fall on the Manchuran question at the next meeting of the Diet according to rumors current in political circles.

Premier Tanaka reported at a Cabinet meeting yesterday that negotiations regarding Japan's position in Manchuria were "progressing favorably." Tanaka said that he hoped that egotiations with the Nanking Government would 'e opened shortly.

ORDER MARTIAL LAW BY DECREE IN GUATEMALA

Widespread Unrest on Plantations

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Sept. 26.—Virtual declaration of martial law was made here today with the suspension of constitutional guarantees by decree of President Chacon. The suspension, which will continue for five months, is for alleged seditious activities, though the nature of these activities is closely guarded by the Guatemalan authorities.

Under the terms of the suspension decree, meetings and assemblies will be forbidden, the strictest censorship will be enforced on the press and a close watch will be kept on the transportation of all sorts of cargo and the passage of persons from one part of the country to another.

While government claims that the immediate cause for the suspension of guarantees is the activities of the opposition in various parts of Guatemala, it is known that unrest is far more widely spread and involves large sections of the plantation workers.

FLIERS COMING HERE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Bert R. J. Hassell and Parker D. Cramer, who will sail from Copenhagen Oct. 4, will reach New York City, Oct. 15, the Scandinavian-American Line announced today.

'ARAB' LAWRENCE A SPY

Expose Author as Stoolpigeon in India

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Thomas E. Lawrence, secret agent in the Near East during the World War, whose exploits in the service of the British military and diplomatic departments have been described in "Revolt in the Desert," is reported to be in the employ of the British secret service, ferreting out Indian workers and Communists.

In spite of prior reports that Lawrence had returned to Arabia to participate in the British activities against Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz, it is announced that Lawrence has been seen disguised as a Mohammedan spiritual leader at Lahore. The report, however, remains unconfirmed.

Until recently Lawrence was a mechanic with the Indian air forces.

Blind Ad in Capitalist Papers Calls for Stool-Pigeons in Auto Factories

WORKER IS ASKED TO REPORT ALL TROUBLE-MAKERS

To Make Daily Reports to Bosses

(By a Worker Correspondent)

DETROIT, Mich. (By Mail).—This is to inform you of my experiences in seeking a job in Detroit, after a blind ad calling for auto workers at 2539 Woodward Ave., Room 201.

I was offered a proposition to work in various factories at the disposal of this firm. The man I spoke to was very careful to explain that his firm was selling service to industries, of all kinds, that I would not be a spy or stool-pigeon, but at the same time I was to make daily written reports on the situation among the workers in these factories, to expose Reds and other "trouble-makers."

After carefully questioning me to see if I had any radical tendencies, he asked me to write an essay of five hundred words and make a written application for employment. He then sent me up to the ninth floor of the building to an office called the "Allied Industries, Inc."

There I interviewed the head of this espionage system, who told me he would investigate my references and let me know the results.

I hoped to work for a short time so that I could get a good scoop for the Daily, but I unfortunately failed to get on the inside.

I am enclosing a new ad that the same firm has just run in a local paper. Please keep my name secret.

—R. S.

TARIFF BUNK IS BOSSES NEW LINE

New Sob Story Won't Fool Workers

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (By Mail).—Kensington, the heart of the Philadelphia textile industry, long the scene of strikes, unemployment, wage-cuts, etc., has now been offered a solution of the miseries which capitalism causes the workers; the Kensington Bulletin, the leading paper in that section, sponsored and supported by the Board of Trade and the Manufacturers' Association, has announced that the tariff causes all the evils to the workers. Of course, such things as textile mills moving their plants south to exploit cheaper and less organized labor, rationalization and the speed-up, which eliminates workers, have nothing to do with the case in the opinion of the Bulletin.

Like as not the workers will be asked to support Hoover and the republican party, not that Al Smith smells any sweeter, for this is a gang and republican-controlled section. If the workers were to bolt the gang-controlled party, some of these grafting politicians might lose their soft berths.

The owners of the mills no doubt feel that giving the tariff as the reason for the misery they cause as members of the capitalist class will hlep delude the workers and offer them an excuse for making further wage-cuts. This is no doubt their aim.

So, workers of Kensington, read what the bosses' official sheet, and the organ of Vare, the gang leader of Philadelphia, offers you as a solution of your misery, i. e., the high tariff, and see how soon you will get a job. Oh no, you won't have to drudge on four or five looms instead of one as you did before the bosses forced you to displace your fellow workers. Your wife won't have to go out scrubbing floors to keep you and the kids from starving. All will be rosy—like hell!

So just read the Bulletin and then rush and secure the platform of the Workers (Communist) Party. Then you will curse at the fakers who advocate bunk like that in the Bulletin. Then, don't forget, vote Communist and join the Party of the class struggle and read the paper of your class, the Daily Worker. This will be a sure way to solve your problem which is caused by capitalism, and the abolition of capitalism will alone do away with the misery of the workers in Kensington.

$18 A WEEK IS AVERAGE WAGE

U. S. Workers Average 9-10 Hours Day

(By a Worker Correspondent)

OKLAHOMA CITY, (By Mail).—It was with great pleasure that I recently read a letter in the Daily Worker, our Communist paper, describing conditions in the Soviet Union and asking for letters from the United States.

I don't know what that Worker Correspondent thinks of Americans as a people but I assure him that workers of all nations have much in common, and that almost all working Americans who have made any study of the Soviet government and its aims have a deep respect for it. We hope for the continuation and perfection of the Soviet government.

As for the working conditions of myself and fellow workers, it might be summed up in this way. The average working hours of a common laborer, not skilled in any trade, are from nine to ten a day, six days a week, and almost always with no vacation. He will earn about three dollars a day or $18 a week.

House rent will cost $18.20 a month. Gas and electricity will average about four dollars a month A pound loaf of bread costs ten cents. A quart of sweet milk costs 14 cents. A suit of work clothes costs four dollars and fifty cents and suit of dress clothes for a working man will cost about $25. Shoes for men average three dollars or five dollars a pair.

Women's dresses will cost (for work) two dollars to four dollars. For dress they cost from eight dollars to fourteen dollars and about half of that if they make them themselves.

But a working girl hasn't much time to make dresses for herself. Girls and women make from seven dollars to fifteen dollars a week depending on the nature of the work.

Every store and business is owned by private interests. Very few workers own their own homes. Most of them rent houses from the land and house owners.

We have a small nucleus in Oklahoma City and we are growing. We have to keep our membership secret from our employes for fear of losing our jobs. And it is hard to get a job because there are so many men out of work. Our work so far has been to increase our membership and to spread literature on Communism.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 26.—The Organization Conference of Young Workers (Communist) League, anthracite sub-district, will be held Sept. 29 at 5:30 p. m. at 206 South Main St., this city.

Delegates from Scranton, Pittston, Plymouth, Luzerne, Nanticoke, Minersville and Wilkes-Barre will attend this conference and will lay the basis for stronger and more powerful Young Workers (Communist) League in this section.

Clarence Miller, district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League in Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker.

After the conference there will be a "box party" in Orpheum Hall.

LONDON, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—It is understood a new device for applying power to the rotating vanes of an autogiro airplane enabling the machine to ascend vertically, will be tested soon at Southampton.

Fake Ads Mislead Jobless Workers

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Answering an advertisement in a morning paper, an unemployed barber applied to Messinas Barber Shop at 2853 Broadway yesterday, believing that he had at [illegible] found a job. After slaving a [illegible] day, during which he [illegible] ten dollars for the boss, [illegible] was informed that [illegible] by no means permanent [illegible] in the ad had led him to believe, but that he had merely been replacing a man away that day.

In addition to this he was compelled to pay 35 cents for the white coat he used, and was then told that he would not get more than $5 as pay for the long day put in and no amount of remonstrance with the employer would make him come across with the minimum rate, which is $7.50.

SALOON KEEPER TO LABOR FAKER

Nathan Tried to Stop All Strikes

(By a Worker Correspondent)

John B. Nathan, former saloon keeper and and official of the Ice Cream and Inside Workers' Union, Local 1, died on Sept. 21. The evening previous he had attended a party. Some of his friends intimate foul play.

The funeral was held on Sept. 23 and the remains were taken to the Wilner and Siniyer Synagogue. There religious services were held.

About 60 cars followed the corpse to the cemetery. Many ice cream manufacturers and other bosses attended. A number of religious individuals were also present, among them Rabbi Epstein of the Siniyer congregation of which the late Nathan was a member.

He was typical of A. F. of L. officials and is alleged to have collaborated with the bosses, and to have tried to avert strikes at all costs.

Rumors were circulated recently that the owners offered him $5,000 to leave the union, but Nathan refused. Many believe that this is a pure fairy tale, while others say that there was a better field for money making in the union. At any rate, the readers should draw their own conclusions.

Nathan helped the poor in small ways in order to gain their good will on the style of Tammany Hall.

This ends the story of a "labor leader."

NEGRO WORKERS HEROES IN FLOOD

Yet They are Brutally Treated by Boss Tools

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., (By Mail).—I am sending the Daily Worker the account of the heroism of Negroes in the recent Florida storm and flood. It is taken from the Miami Herald of Sept. 19 and reads as follows:

"The exodus from Bell Glade began as soon as the wind and encroaching waters from the lake subsided. John Fremk of the American Legion in West Palm Beach reported to the headquarters yesterday that 750 Negroes were being cared for there by him and his fellow workers.

"The Negroes, many of whom walked more than twenty miles carrying white women on their backs. all came from the low country around Bell Glade. Trucks were sent out to bring them into West Palm Beach."

And still the Negro is lynched and looked down upon in the "enlightened" United States.

CHINA WORKERS' AID SABOTAGED BY 'SOCIALISTS'

Workers, However, are Wise to "Forward"

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, (By Mail).—The Jewish Daily Forward, largest "socialist" newspaper in the country, is undoubtedly the least dependable journal in all of the forty-eight United States.

This paper, organ of Cahan, Hillquit, Sigman, McGrady and Co., as well as others of their ilk, can be depended upon, on practically every possible occasion, to stab the workers in the back. Failing that, the "Forward" can be depended upon to stab the workers in the side or front. In fact, the editorial staff of the "Forward" have developed, through many years of experience this characteristically social-democratic tactic into a fine art.

The latest effusion of this kind to come to my attention, (I am not a reader of the "Forward' regularly so there probably have been several since) is a vicious attack upon the "Committee to Aid the Chinese Trade Unions." Not content with harming in every possible way the workers in the United States, this alleged "Workers" paper, broadens out into a larger field, that of China. It attacks the efforts of this committee as "Communistic" and advises all Jewish workers and Jewish workers' organizations not to contribute to the relief of Chinese workers.

However, the Jewish workers have not been "taken in" by the lies of this editorial. The Jewish workers are "wise," and attacks of the "Forward" will be greeted with derision. In fact, so "wise" are the Jewish workers to the "Forward" that an attack by that despicable journal upon any organization means a recommendation to aid that organization as far as they are concerned—and aid the Chinese workers they will.

Soviet Union Delegation Arrives in United States to Study the Textile Dye Processes

PLAN TO TRAVEL THRU ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY

Visit Will Last for 3 Months

A delegation from the Soviet Aniltrest (Aniline Trust), which controls the production of aniline dyes in the U.S.S.R., has just arrived in the United States for the purpose of visiting chemical plants and looking over the American equipment market. The delegation, the first representing the Soviet chemical industry to visit this country, is headed by E. L. Brodoff, General Manager of the Derbenoff Works in Moscow.

Praises Soviet Work.

"We welcome the opportunity to establish direct connections with the American chemical industry," stated Brodoff yesterday at the offices of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the principal firm engaged in American-Soviet trade. "Up to the present time, principally because of geographical proximity and past traditions, our commercial and technical relations have been mainly with Germany. The growing aniline industry of the U. S. S. R., which is a development only of the past few years, before the war the bulk of dyes being imported from Germany, can undoubtedly profit greatly from contact with the American equipment field and with American chemical engineering circles. Our trust employs 2,500 workers and its output of aniline products was valued at 25,000,000 rubles last year. In view of the steady expansion of the Soviet textile industry the demand for dyes and equipment to produce them will show a rapid growth."

Will Stay 3 Months.

Besides Brodoff, the commission consists of P. A. Konburov, Director of the Butirsky Plant, G. A. Bonwetch, Chief Engineer and Dr. Celia A. Voskevitch, Sanitary Inspector of the Aniltrest. Their itinerary, which will cover a stay in this country of about three months, will include Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Detroit and other large centers of the chemical industry. The commission will be accompanied part of the time by Prof. Rodionov, Technical Director, and Prof. Vorozhtzev, Director of Research of the Aniltrest, who have come to the United States to take up with Prof. Harry D. Gibbs of Washington, D. C. various matters connected with the recent agreement calling for the technical cooperation of the latter in the production in the U. S. S. R. of a series of products for the aniline industry.

The chemical industries of the U. S. S. R. including allied industries such as resins, match and rubber, employed over 76,000 workers last year and had an output valued at 577,000,000 rubles ($297,000,000). This represented an increase in output of 17 per cent over the preceding year in spite of a small decrease in the number of workers.

Workers School Offers Classes in Marxism to Students in Fall Term

Principles of Marxism, 1, with A. Markoff as instructor, which was one of the most popular courses in the Workers School last year, will be repeated again the coming fall term of the Workers School, which begins Oct. 1, with A. Markoff again as instructor. At the same time a more advanced course, Principles of Marxism, 2, will be given for those who are ready to carry on their studies on Marx's works and the lessons that can be learned therefrom. The Principles of Marxism, 1, will be given on Wednesdays from 7 to 8:20 p. m.; Principles of Marxism, 2, on the same evening from 8:30 to 9:50 p. m.

The first course will make a study of "Socialism, Utopian and Scientific," by Frederick Engels; "Wage, Labor and Capital," by Karl Marx, and the Communist Manifesto. Principles of Marxism, 2, will make a study of Marx's work, the Eighteenth Brumaire, and the Civil War in France, which analyses the historic events of 1848 and 1871.

The aim of both of these courses is not only to make a study of the Principles of Marxism as annunciated in the basic works of Marx and Engels but to know how these principles were applied by Marx and Engels in their interpreting of the events and problems of their days, so that the students of the course will be better able to know how to interpret present-day problems in a Marxian manner, thus being able to cope more effectively with the tasks that confront the American working class today.

For more detailed information workers should write to the Workers School, 26-28 Union Square, for free catalog, or phone Stuyvesant 7770. Registration is now going on.

JINGOES PLAN ANTI-RED DRIVE IN LONG ISLAND

Will Attempt to Break Brooklyn Meets

The John J. Dwyer Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who for the past few months have been stirring up trouble in the Astoria section of Queens by disturbing and attacking meetings held under the auspices of the Workers (Communist) Party, yesterday announced that they will carry their blackjack methods and fights into all other sections of Brooklyn and Queens.

The new step on the part of the jingoes is seen as a move to further blind the eyes of the workers in those districts toward the militant working class platform of the Workers (Communist) Party. So far they have not been successful in their scurrilous campaign in Astoria.

Workers Resist Attack.

In spite of the fact that they repeatedly attempted to break up the meetings of the Workers (Communist) Party in Astoria, several times attacking and injuring the Communist speakers, the jingoes never succeeded in winning the workers of Queens away from the Communist Platform. This was due, mostly, to the splendid fighting spirit shown by the Red speakers, and by the militancy of the Queens workers, who, as soon as they heard of the jingo attack, turned out in great numbers at the Workers Party meeting, and answered the attack of the Veterans with a counter-show of strength in numbers.

The statement of the puppet commander, George Van Etten, of the Astoria jingoes, filled with bombastic attacks on the "red menace," reads, in part, as follows:

"We will fight this un-American institution wherever it manifests itself. A movement is now on foot to check the radical campaign recently started in Bay Ridge."

The Workers (Communist) Party, however, will reply to this challenge with increased turnouts at every open-air meeting to be held in Brooklyn from now on, a statement of the district office said yesterday.

GIANTS NEAR LEAD AS CARDS LOSE TO ROBINS

The St. Louis Cardinals are no further ahead of the New York Giants tonight than you could throw a fair-sized elephant by the tail.

Two little percentage points are all that separate the National League pennant contenders, for the dazzling light of Dazzy Vance's fast ball blinded the Red Birds this afternoon and cut their lead to half a game.

While the Giants were enjoying a well-earned day of rest after their game up-hill fight, in which they won 16 of their last 18 games, the Brooklyn Robins tightened up the pennant tussle by beating the Cardinals, 6 to 1.

Dazzy Vance did the dirty work, striking out seven St. Louis batters (or what the Cardinals are using for batters these days) to bring his season's record to an even 200 strikeouts. Aged Clarence Mitchell essayed to maintain the advantage his club held over the Giants before the game started, but Harvey Hendrick took care of that part of the business with a homer in the seventh just when the bases happened to be loaded.

The defeat of the Cards makes matters just that much more complicated in the National League race.

Even the Chicago Cubs are not yet mathematically out of the running, as they won today at Philadelphia, 8 to 3, while the league-leaders were waving their bats so futilely, it might even be said, fruitily, at Ebbets Field.

STEEL WORKER FACES SENTENCE

Old Frame-Up Revived by Courts

$500.00 dollars in cash was required in order to get the men out of jail.

As this occurred before the organization of the International Labor Defense, an organization to take care of the case had to be formed. Accordingly the Pennsylvania and Ohio Defense League was built up by the District Organizers of district five and six, the one located in Cleveland and the other in Pittsburg. The office of the committee was located in Youngstown, Ohio, and an appeal was sent out to the organized workers of the country to come to the defense of these first victims of the steel trust and the Anti-Sedition laws of the state.

When the case came to trial in Mercer, with attorney Ferguson of Chicago defending the men, the klu klux klan and the American Legion did every thing in their power to raise the passions of the farmers of Mercer County by parading and having the American flag flying on the streets surrounding the court house. The "red" menace was played up and as in the Woodlawn case the Department of Justice was brought into the case by having Henry J. Lennon, the "red expert" appear as an expert on "red literature" and as an "authority" on Communism in general.

The result was that a verdict of guilty was brought in. The case was appealed and has been in the hands of the judge.

Now it seems after these years the case is to be brought forth, and Kovocavich is to be sentenced. From this sentence the International Labor Defense thru attorney Ferguson will appeal to the Superior Court.

This case together with the Woodlawn case make a heavy drain of expense on the resources of the International Labor Defense and large sums of money will have to be raised to send this and the Woodlawn case thru the higher courts. Money for these appeals should be sent to W. J. White, Secretary of the International Labor Defense, 807 McGeagh Building, Pittsburgh.

Cold Snap Spreading Thruout United States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—Generally cold weather is being experienced throughout the country, reports of the U. S. weather bureau showed today. A continued drop in temperatures accompanied by frost was predicted for most eastern sections tonight.

Many western cities that have for some time had warm weather are experiencing the cold snap, it was said. Chicago and Detroit showed a low temperature last night of 34; Des Moines, which had had comparatively warm weather, saw the temperature drop to 34; Ft. Wayne, Ind., 32, and Havre, Mont., 24.

Ravaging the Caribbean Countries

Insatiable in its greed, American imperialism no sooner realizes one predatory goal than it increases its campaign of frightfulness in order to bring more territory under its bloody fist. The state department announcement of a tri-partite agreement between the United States, the puppet government of Nicaragua and the government of Colombia, disposing of some islands off Nicaragua in the Caribbean, which gives the Wall Street government complete domination of that approach to the proposed Nicaragua canal, was followed by a savage attack upon Colombia that had as its object the stealing of oil lands for the benefit of American oil interests.

After a campaign of wholesale murder against the Nicaraguans in order to place in power a government subservient to Wall Street, the United States diplomats use every trick known to virtuosos in chicanery to swindle Colombia into a treaty granting to Nicaragua the Misquito coast and the nearest islands, so that the Wall Street agents at Washington may lease the territory for fortifications.

After completing that piece of imperialist conquest as one more step in conquering the Caribbean, the state department sends an insulting demand to the Colombian government regarding the cancellation of an American oil concession. This is nothing more nor less than another attempt at intervention in the internal affairs of a Latin-American country. The Colombian government is certainly supported by ample precedent in international law when it insists that it has no intention of letting the United States interfere in its action as a sovereign state in cancelling a claim of a private oil concern operating in its territory. But this means nothing to the Washington gang, dominated by Andrew W. Mellon, one of the richest men in the whole world, who holds the office of secretary of the treasury in plain violation of the fundamental law of the land. Capitalist law—national and international—is a class instrument, devised to serve the interests of the ruling class. When it interferes with their purposes, they violate it with impunity. To plead with the United States government to respect international law in regard to Latin America, is like imploring a highwayman to throw away his gun and blackjack.

No one, however, should be under the illusion that the present Colombian government, under President Abadia Mendez, will profit by the experience of other Latin-American countries and take decisive steps to mobilize anti-imperialist sentiment in his own and neighboring nations. Already he has revealed himself as a weakling in trying to discourage student demonstrations by assuring them that the arrogant action of the United States government is not intervention. It is intervention and has deep international potentialities.

The Kellogg-Coolidge-Hoover attempt to steal oil lands in Colombia is of tremendous significance, inasmuch as it involves the conflict between American and British oil interests. The American oil interests fear that the oil land may be leased to the Anglo-Persian oil company, a British concern. In an endeavor to conceal the real motive behind its offensive against Colombia the state department darkly hints that the granting of the oil concession to a foreign power may "menace" the Panama canal.

Such maneuvers on the part of the American imperialist bandits are quite familiar; they follow a well-chartered course. The next step on the part of the state department will probably be to try to foment a "revolution" in Colombia, place in power a puppet president and recognize him as the government and send more marines and battleships and bombing planes into Latin-America.

The savage conquest of Latin-America is a part of the general imperialist war policy of the United States. This latest act is a further attempt completely to crush every vestige of resistance on the part of those small countries in order to clear the ground for the next world war against its imperialist rivals, particularly Britain and Japan.

Every effort must be made by the revolutionists of the United States and of the Latin-American countries to stop this ruthless sweep of American imperialism. The working class of this country must be aroused as never before in order to check this new conspiracy and the masses of Latin-America must drive forward to the creation of an anti-imperialist bloc of states that will hurl defiance at the bloodhounds who are ravaging their territories.

The Taxi Drivers Must Fight

Behind the attempts of the so-called leaders of the taxicab industry to put over on the drivers a city regulation compelling the wearing of uniforms is a far-reaching scheme for the "rationalization" of the industry at the expense of the drivers. Two main objectives are before the big fleet-owners at whose head is the open shop, Morgan-controlled, Yellow Taxicab Corporation: (1) Increased control over their smaller competitors; (2) A more firm and permanent hold over the lives of the drivers.

The agitation for uniforms is only a part of the whole scheme.

The workers in the trade, speeded up and exploited almost beyond endurance, have observed with increasing resentment the various developments which have marked this process of greater centralization and control by the big bosses in the industry.

Raids, persecutions, suspensions and revocations of license by the police, and finally a city-wide blacklist by the big fleet-owners' association have driven thousands of drivers out of the industry. The taxi driver, under the thumb of the police, has no redress and no means of combating these evils—that is, he did not have until recently.

One influential weekly newspaper in the trade, "The Taxi Weekly," which pretends to speak for the drivers, is now one of the chief advocates of the scheme to regimentize the workers. The editor of this sheet, a former army captain by the name of H. A. Innes Brown, is known to be directly connected with the Yellow Taxicab Corporation, with a past record of strike-breaking.

A key to the real meaning of the present move to compel the drivers to wear uniforms is to be found in the words of former police commissioner Enright, who once declared that there is no reason why the taxi driver, a public servant like the policeman, should not wear a uniform.

There is only one way out for the drivers from this tightening hold over their lives: The building of a militant union of all the drivers in the industry. The first step has already been taken with the formation several weeks ago of the Taxi Chauffeurs' Union of Greater New York. This organization has announced a policy of struggle both against the bosses and their police supporters. This is the program before the 60,000 taxi drivers in greater New York. Join your union!

While the Daily Worker welcomes the formation of such a union, we also desire to impress upon the taxi drivers the fact that their persecution by the police, their victimization by the insurance sharks and the oppressive legislation directed against them is the result of the Tammany administration of state and city. In the sharpest manner is revealed the direct connection between exploitation and politics. In order effectively to fight in their own interests the taxi drivers must realize that it is essential that they also fight politically as a part of the working class by supporting the class party of labor, the Workers (Communist) Party.

CAMPAIGN CORNER

[illegible]rom Local No. 471 of the Al-[illegible] Hotel and Restaurant Em[illegible] Alliance comes an order for [illegible] copies of the Workers (Communist) Party election campaign program. The National Election Campaign Committee aims to sell [illegible] copies of the program, and every party member is expected to do his share. Every comrade is expected to buy ten copies and sell or distribute them in the shops, working class fraternal organizations or trade unions. It is absolutely essential that this program should be given as wide a distribution as possible. It analyzes American imperialism, exposes the republican and democratic parties as the political agents of Big Business and the socialist party as a caricature of a party of labor, which has betrayed the interests of the workers and is now fawning on liberals, the petit bourgeois intelligentzia, the small business man and the labor aristocracy for votes. It shows that the Workers (Communist) Party is the only party of revolutionary labor participating in the election campaign. A copy should be in the hands of every Party member and every worker and poor farmer who can be reached.

'Flowers Not Far from the Mills'

By A. B. MAGIL.

"Crouching Mills in New Bedford"; "Best People"; Spiritual "Tonics"; a Strike Meeting

(Note: This is the second of a series of impressions of the New Bedford textile strike. The first appeared in the feature page of last Saturday's issue of the Daily Worker.)

I.

THOSE who are accustomed to the industrial towns of the Middle Atlantic States, with their drabness, their picayune efficiency, their rotting slums like great black sores, will find New Bedford something of a surprise. New Bedford is not so much an industrial town as a town into which an industry has partly crept, sprawling a little incongruously over its rural neatness. Take away the massed brick of these mills, blot out their smoke and the life panting about them—and you still have New Bedford, the pretty New England town, a pattern of tangible orders and decencies.

Frame porch houses, trees, country mansions with great broad lawns and rich flowers—and a short distance away the crouching mills, usurpers, symbols of a new order, bringing their hordes of workers, foreigners, slaves with a buried insurrection.

And the masters of this new order—the mill owners and rich businessmen—have taken possession of these aristocratic mansions. The old families, the "best people," have gradually yielded, fled to serener retreats, where their thin, immaculate blood may flow unperturbed and their cool, sane, well-bred minds may be filled with appropriate grandeurs, far from the hue and cry of Sacco and Vanzetti and textile strikes.

There are really two cities that make up New Bedford—the North End and the South End. Here at these two ends are concentrated the textile mills and the homes of the workers. And the thousands of lives that pass in and out of the mills of the North End, bound to their massive brick and stone, are hardly aware of the thousands at the other end of the town.

"This is the sort of place where a worker in the North End will get married and go for his honeymoon trip to the South End," was the way Jack Rubinstein, youth organizer of the strike, put it.

And so it was until the strike came and made North End and South End one. One against the bosses, against the betrayers, one in their determination not to go back to the mills until they win their demands.

While the aristocratic West End watches, hiding its anger and fear.

II.

IT was Sunday, and feeling myself sorely in need of a little spiritual tonic, I glanced thru the papers to see what the latest sermons were at the fashionable praying emporiums of New Bedford. My Spiritual Tone can stand a little pepping up, I thought.

"How to Get Closer to Christ," "The Meaning of Spiritual Ideals," "Are We Falling Behind In Our Duty to God?" "The Light of Religion."

All interesting topics, no doubt, and probably my parched soul would be greatly refreshed and uplifted by quaffing at these spiritual founts. But I wondered whether the lord god and his shepherds were aware of the existence of a textile strike that had brought intense, rather earthly suffering to the majority of the population of this circumspect, godfearing town.

So I decided to forgo my spiritual tonic and thought that maybe a walk might be just as good. Thru the West End I walked and saw the houses of the rich, beheld the flowers in their gardens, their bold garish heads bending in the wind. Flowers for the rich—out of the workers' sweat have grown flowers. The masters must be happy when they look at the beautiful bending flowers. . . .

The Jewish synagogue was before me. The Jews here are not meanly pious. In the synagogues of the old world god cowered in rags and beat his breast with a loud thin wail. But in America his chosen people build temples where the new-world god, washed and shaven, can dwell in true godliness. Here in New Bedford's West End god travels in the best society, pipe-organed and sermonized, a power in the community.

I remembered it was Resh-Hashanna, the Jewish New Year, when all pious Hebrews prepare to do penance and be purged clean in the immortal fire of the lord. The exalted words of the Jewish Daily Forward's Resh-Hashanna editorial rang in my ears. I will enter, a stranger, a passing wayfarer, and pray with my brethren.

But I had no hat or other head-covering. And it is a well-known fact that the taste of the Jewish god in such matters is the very reverse of his Christian colleague: he cannot endure an uncovered pate.

So again I was thwarted in my search for spiritual food. I walked on. Outside a church a sign glared at me:

"HOW LOFTY ARE YOUR THOUGHTS?"

I walked on in haste.

III.

ON Sunday nights open-air mass meetings of the strikers are the order in New Bedford—one in the North and one in the South End. I went to the South End meeting in Saulnier's lot.

About 2,000 strikers were already gathered there and Eulalie Mendes was talking to them. Eulalie has dark eyes and a beautiful face. When the strike started, she was one of the hundreds of mill girls who went out. She had known the misery of the mills and she was going out to fight against it.

Now Eulalie is a leader, secretary of the New Bedford Textile Workers' Union. Eulalie speaks to thousands and they listen. New Bedford is sending a delegation to the convention that will launch a new textile workers' union, she tells them. Money is needed to finance the delegation. "What will be your answer, fellow workers?"

The answer came eloquently. Nickels, dimes, quarters, even dollar bills, and Eulalie collected them all in a little bag while other speakers went on to tell the strikers of the tasks before them. Eulalie was as happy as a kid with a new toy. Every now and then she would raise her bag and shake it in glee. And then she began counting. Eighty dollars in all—and every cent of it contributed by people who have been on strike for 23 weeks. "Where do they get the money," I ask. No one can tell me. Who can tell the story of suffering and denial that those $80 represented?

The orator of the strike is Antony Samieras, a mill worker. Tho he speaks excellent English, it is in Portuguese that his real power lies. The Portuguese Ben Gold, Amy Schechter has appropriately called him. And he has all of Gold's power to dramatize the daily conflict in a way that sways masses. Samieras has emerged directly out of the strike and the workers' struggles have given him an eloquence he never possessed before.

Portuguese is a soft sinuous language, with crisp lingual r's snapping like whips thru the speech. I understood nothing of what Samieras said at that meeting in Saulnier's lot. But I could feel the burning impact of his words. I could sense them reaching out marvelously, lifting these people up to new horizons of hope and strength.

Syndicalist Law, Packing Bosses' Weapon

Attempt to Railroad Oehler, Other Leaders; Scared by Workers' Response to Red Program

Kansas has two effective laws to use against the workers of the state.

The Industrial Court Law that lays dormant but with the teeth of the law still on the statute books—teeth ready on any mass movement of the workers—and the Criminal Syndicalist law is used to jail militant leaders of the workers. Today Armour and company and the police are using the Criminal Syndicalist law against the Workers (Communist) Party and against the organization of the packing house workers.

In the 1921 period when the militants were doing all possible to prevent the A. F. of L. fakers from betraying the strike, Armour and company had the police arrest "Mother" Ella Reeves Bloor and fifteen others on the charge of "advocating the overthrow of the government by force," etc. That case was squashed but the raid and the arrest gave the company and the fakers time to cooperate and betray the strike.

Frame-Up Record.

In 1928, with the Communist Party on the ballot, with the presidential electors in Kansas running as independent, with the Communists active in all the struggles of the workers in Kansas and leading the struggles of the miners and the packing house workers, Armour and company is trying to stop all political meetings.

First the noon day meeting in front of the plant was raided and the speakers arrested; then the I. L. D. Sacco-Vanzetti meeting was raided and ten arrested.

The outcome of these raids, arrests and persecutions is that seven workers are to be tried under the Criminal Syndicalism law.

Hugo Oehler, district organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party, is to be tried for a speech where he is accused by the police captain of advocating violence, etc. E. B. Eastwood, secretary of the Kansas City International Labor Defense, N. S. Yocum and S. Kassis are charged with unlawful assembly. Now all four are also charged with being members of the Workers (Communist) Party. Three packing house workers are also charged with being members of the Party. They are Jack Kolka, William Miklash and I. Bogdonvich.

Workers' Growing Response.

The attempt to outlaw the Workers (Communist) Party in Kansas is an organized plan to check the growing activity of the Communists in the west, of the growing response of the workers to the Communists. The packing house kings, the coal barons, the labor fakers and the capitalists and their office boys fear and hate the rising Communist movement throughout the west. At the same time the capitalists of Kansas are trying to destroy the Workers (Communist) Party, and the capitalists and their flunkies in three other states of District 10 are trying to keep it off the ballot.

After complying with the laws of the capitalists, with the laws of their own game, the states of Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas are trying to keep the Communist candidates off the ballot. Four states in a row, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, fear the Communist candidates, fear our program of class struggle because they see workers and working farmers in these states moving to the left.

The Kansas City International Labor Defense is employing council for defense and mobilizing to collect funds and are preparing for a state-wide campaign for the repeal of the criminal syndicalist law. The Workers (Communist) Party has intensified its activity under this increased burden that is taking much energy to fight. The District Executive Committee of District 10 calls upon the workers and working farmers to rally to defend the Workers (Communist) Party from this attack, to build a powerful Party of the class struggle, to vote for Foster and Gitlow and to the workers to join the Communist Party.

Told You So

THE national election campaign is now in full swing. Copy readers are running out of headlines. This one is exposing that one and vice versa. They are all right. And likewise all wrong. The Workers (Communist) Party is exposing them all. While that poor little brother of the big plute parties, the socialist party, is shedding tears because the big fellows cannot be clean, decent and moral, the Workers (Communist) Party is striking at the base of things and exposing the capitalist system as the fountain head of all the social corruption in the world today.

T. J. O'Flaherty

AFTER all, corruption is not a vital issue. I mean the kind of corruption that the political confidence man of the capitalist parties bellyache about. It is not a vital issue as far as the workers are concerned. The grafting politicians take it out of the pockets of business and that is why business crusades for "clean government." The worker is no better nor no worse off whether the political party that administers the government for the capitalist class is "dirty" or "clean," politically speaking.

THE masses are not terribly excited over political corruption. Perhaps they know instinctively that it is not their funeral. But under a Workers' and Farmers' government the workers would be concerned over corruption and would shoot the culprits responsible for misappropriating the funds and wasting the resources of their own government. Look at the Soviet Union, where the grafter is punished as severely, and more so, than the murderer.

SOME radicals were naive enough to believe that the Teapot Dome scandal would cause a political upheaval in the United States. It did, resulting in the election of Calvin Coolidge, on a platform pledged to carry out the Teapot Dome policies of Warren Gamaliel Harding, the official head of the Teapot Dome government. Corruption and capitalism are synonomous terms. A society that legalized the robbery of millions of men, women and children under the wages system, cannot be expected to gag when a few of the robbers or the tools of the main robbers turn around and rob one another.

WHILE the Communists in this election campaign point out the connection between graft and capitalism they do not hold that the election of a Quaker instead of a Tammany sachem would make things any better for the masses. Wall Street would undoubtedly prefer a puritan in the white house to an alcoholic crap shooter. Harding was a mistake and his administration a miscarriage. Coolidge was better. He was the perfect robot and his vices were all good capitalist virtues. Wall Street, in all probability, would prever Hoover to Smith, but it is not losing any sleep over the contest. It has money on both animals.

WITHOUT prejudice to any other eatery, we wish to call the attention of our readers to an establishment which should satisfy the gastronomic cravings of the most fastidious proletarian, who is accustomed to scan the menu before giving his order to the waiter. There used to be a strong prejudice against Greeks bearing gifts, but Greeks bearing broiled bass are the Greeks that are dear to me. Ever since I left Chicago I have been bringing pressure to bear on the Greek comrades to bring a little bit of the Blue Island Ave. atmosphere to this city. It has arrived.

SCHIFFRIN IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY BY FRAMEUP CREW

Judge "Changes Mind" About Dismissal of Militant

Socialists Want Blood

Defense Body Rallies Workers

The wheels of the capitalist frame-up machine again moved sprightly yesterday afternoon when Magistrate Dodge in the Bronx Homicide Court announced his decision to send William Schiffrin, left wing trade unionist, to the grand jury for indictment on charges of homicide.

"Socialist" leaders of the right wing in the Jewish labor unions here are not only participants in the framing up of Schiffrin, but are leading the pack that is trying to fasten a long sentence on a militant worker who defended his life against the deadly attack of five knife-wielders.

With appalling brazenness, the same magistrate who had declared at the end of yesterday's hearing that he was quite satisfied that the testimony showed Schiffrin to have defended himself against attack, today rasped a decision that the left winger must face the grand jury panel, where an indictment will be sought for his fatal wounding of Harry Silver, a hireling of the right wing Butchers' Union who led the gang of assailants.

To the stunned courtroom full of people—press representatives, spectators, defendant and attendants—Judge Dodge sneered when the protesting defense attorneys pointed to his remarks yesterday: "Well, since yesterday I've changed my mind."

Defense Strengthened.

The decision to send Schiffrin to the grand jury would not have been so shocking to the hundreds of sympathetic workers waiting outside, and especially to those in the courtroom, if the evidence brought out today would in any way have weakened the case of the defendant. Quite the contrary is the fact, however. If yesterday established beyond all doubt that Schiffrin acted heroically in self-defense, today's testimony makes it all the more clear.

Rarely indeed does a district attorney get up in court to declare to the judge that he had cross-questioned three members of the squad that assailed Schiffrin, and that they had completely reversed their testimony of the day before, according to sympathetic attorneys. And yet this happened in court yesterday, only to be completely ignored by the judge.

Judge "Changed."

Uninstructed by those interested in railroading to a miserable fate all revolutionary workers, the judge yesterday recognized that the socialist frame-up virtuosos could not even get their own followers to tell similar lies, and showed that he recognized that, by practically declaring that he would dismiss the charge against Schiffrin. But today he was a changed man. This was immediately evident by his hostility to the witnesses whose testimony was favorable to Schiffrin. By his encouraging attitude toward Samuel Markewitch, right wing lawyer, who vainly tried to shake the straightforward answers of witnesses to his long cross-examinations.

Defense Witnesses Unshakable.

In the name of the United Hebrew Trades, the Butchers' Union and the relatives of the deceased squad leader Harry Silver, who were his clients, Markewitch demanded the right to cross-examine the witnesses. In spite of the fact that the district attorney was prosecuting for the state. He got permission, of course. Protests of defending counsel were unavailing.

Not a single witness, who though called by the prosecution gave irrefutable evidence for Schiffrin, could Markewitch break down after two court sessions of grueling. Not only did he not break witnesses down, not a single detail in fact was he able to shake.

While on the other side of the case, whatever witnesses the prosecution could count as favorable to themselves, contradicted themselves, going so far as to make confessions to the district attorney that they had been lying yesterday. Every one of the statements made by Schiffrin were substantiated by changed testimony of the right wingers.

"Your honor," said Prosecutor [illegible] to the Judge. "I called in Katz, Palman and Suskowitz, to me

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 27.—Two notes, in which the United States Government is said to have rejected unqualifiedly the secret Anglo-French agreement as a basis for renewed naval arms "limitation" discussions, were sent to the American embassies in London and Paris yesterday.

Although not identical, the notes are understood to parallel each other in all essential respects. They go into considerable detail on this government's stand on naval disarmament as regards cruisers and submarines.

HITS CONDITIONS AT SOSS MFG. CO.

Worker Urges All to Attend Youth Meet

(By a Worker Correspondent)

We, the workers of Soss Manufacturing Co., are the worst exploited, working under the most unsanitary conditions, working 10 to 14 hours a day and under the vicious speed-up system, which means more profit for the bosses and less wages for its slaves.

The leaflet which was distributed by the Young Workers (Communist) League has certainly hit the nail on the head, when it published the miserable conditions in the Soss Manufacturing Co., and most of all when it put up the demand for a minimum wage of $25, for an eight-hour working day and 1 hour for lunch.

These demands can only be realized when we, the members of Soss Manufacturing Co., organize ourselves politically and industrially. Young and adult workers, let's elect delegates to the Working Youth Conference and learn how we can organize ourselves.

The Working Youth Conference will be held tomorrow and Sunday at the Labor Temple, East 14th St. and Second Ave. Onward to the powerful militant union of steel workers. The Young Workers (Communist) League and the Workers (Communist) Party is with us in our struggle.

RED CANDIDATES TO WARN OF WAR DANGER TONIGHT

Big Communist Election Rally at Central Opera House

To Expose Fake Treaty

Speakers to Show Role of Boss Parties

The danger of another imperialist war for the redivision of the world's markets among the robber capitalist countries will be stressed by Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker and Communist candidate for U. S. senate from New York at the huge Communist election campaign rally to be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Central Opera House, 67th St. near Third Avenue.

Minor, who has just returned from an upstate tour during which he presented the Communist platform of unceasing class struggle to the workers of a dozen upper New York industrial centers, will expose the fake Kellogg "peace" treaty, which serves but to cloak the feverish war preparations of all the imperialist powers for another world war. He will cite the secret treaty between England and France as an illustration of capitalist diplomatic hypocrisy, and will point out to the thousands of workers gathered to hear the platform of their class that on only one point are all capitalist governments united —that of suppression of all attempts at militant organization among workers in their own countries and a united imperialist front against the Soviet Union, the first workers' and farmers' government.

To Expose Boss Candidates.

The rally tonight will be turned into a demonstration not only of protest against the anti-labor roles of the other political parties of the country, but one against the whole capitalist system under which workers are crushed and enslaved. The meeting is expected to be the largest of its kind ever held in this city.

All of the speakers at tonight's demonstration are candidates on the Workers (Communist) Party on its state or local ticket. Besides Minor, the other Red standard bearers will be William F. Dunne, Communist candidate for governor of New York; Juliet S. Poyntz, candidate for attorney general; Lovett Fort-Whiteman, running for comptroller; Bertram D. Wolfe, national agitprop director of the Party and Communist candidate for the 10th Congressional District; Richard B. Moore, running in the 21st Congressional District; Rebecca Grecht, state campaign manager and candidate in the 5th Bronx Assembly District, and Phil Frankfeld, district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League.

William W. Weinstone, district organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party, will be chairman.

Revolutionary Music.

A five-piece band will play revolutionary songs, including the "International," the victorious working class battle hymn of workers the world over.

The doors of the Central Opera House will be thrown open at 7 o'clock sharp to accommodate the huge crowds of workers and delegations of trade unions and fraternal organizations who are expected, to attend.

VIENNA WORKERS TO MEET FASCISTI

2,000 Rifles, 4 Machine Guns Given to

(Wireless to the Daily Worker.)

VIENNA, Sept. 27.—As October 7 draws near, the date set for the provocative demonstration of the Austrian fascist organization, the Home Defense Corps, 2,000 rifles from the Kaiserebersdorf arsenal have been secretly distributed to the fascist forces, who seemed to have gained the full co-operation of Chancellor Seipel and the social-democrats against the workers of Vienna and of Neustadt, where the demonstration is to take place.

Four rapid firing guns on lorries will presently be handed over to the Home Defense Corps, according to reliable information.

Fascist-Socialist Coalition.

Today Commander Steidle, of the Home Defense, conferred with Chancellor Seipel, who was accompanied by Major Pabst, the murderer of Karl Liebknecht and Anna Luxemburg and participant in the Ratenow murder and in the Kapp putsch. The conference was secret, but it is very probable that the Home Defense is ready to negotiate with the social-democrats concerning the October 7 demonstrations.

Signs indicate that the police intend to arrest the Communist leaders before the demonstration.

Commander Steidle, in an interview, stated that intellectual means to prevent the demonstrations were useless and that he had resolved on effectual means. "If the Communists fire the first shot," he said, "the Home Defense will deal with them."

Arm Fascists.

Although an official communique from the Lower Austrian government states that Seidle is ready to send the Home Defense Corps to the Vienna-Neustadt parade unarmed, other statements assert that extensive arming of the fascists is going on, even airplanes being provided.

KLEIN SPIES EXPOSED BY YOUNG COMMUNISTS

Five young women workers, employes of Klein's Department Store, Union Square and 14th St., were unmasked as stool pigeons for their employer following their attempt to gain entrance into the Young Workers (Communist) League which has been conducting organization activities within the store.

At the same time, it was learned that the girls are employed as house detectives for the open shop, slave factory. They sought to join the League, it was learned, in order to prevent unionization of the store.

The stool pigeons are Bessie Blitz, Freida Schwartz, Evelyn Schafer, Isabel Rosenfeld and Lillion Brown.

This store, which claims to cater to the needs of the "poorer classes at cheapest prices," exploits its young workers in a most brutal fashion. The average wage for the beginner is $12 a week. The highest wage is $16.

Workers Respond.

These conditions have created a great deal of discontent. When the Working Youth Conference, in conjunction with the Young Workers (Communist) League, began to issue leaflets and raise demands, the young workers responded excellently to the call to be organized. Letters were sent in, young workers made visits to the offices, and some joined the Young Workers (Communist) League.

Later on, due to the efforts of young workers themselves, the five spies were discovered. Two of them even tried to join the Young Workers (Communist) League, one of the active sponsors of the Youth Conference, which opens at the Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Ave., tomorrow at 2 p. m.

SHOOT STRIKERS IN AUSTRALIA

Officers Fire on Dock Workers

ADELAIDE, Australia, Sept. 27. —Provocative action of police and strikebreakers today caused disturbances in several Australian ports resulting in the serious injury of twelve harbor workers here. The strikers were wounded when officers of the steamer Hanau used their revolvers on the men. The number of injured in other cities has not been estimated.

Trouble began when strikebreakers employed by the owners and abetted by them and the police goaded the dock strikers.

2,000 Strong.

Two thousand strong, the dockers turned on the strikebreakers and drove numbers of them from the water front. Many who took refuge in the Free Labour Bureau, the strikebreaking agency were dragged out by the enraged strikers and chased from the harbor.

The strikers then turned their attention to three vessels being loaded by the scabs and ordered the men to desist. Their guards refused to permit this and the strikers drove them from the ships. During the struggle both men and the wool being loaded fell into the harbor.

Police Powerless.

The police proved utterly powerless to cope with the solid masses of port workers as they swarmed along the water front. It is believed that only at Melbourne did they succeed in making a number of arrests.

Officers of a number of vessels, notably the German steamer Hanau used their revolvers on the strikers. It was here that the greater number of the injuries occurred.

Workers Party Ruled Off Ballot in Nebraska; Will War Against Jingo Verdict

Red-Baiters, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Start Drive Against Party

Communists Will Launch Vigorous Fight to Keep Ticket on Ballot

Responding to a campaign of the red baiters of Nebraska led by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other fascist elements, Secretary of State Frank Marsh ruled the Workers (Communist) Party ticket off the ballot, according to a report received at the headquarters of the National Election Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party yesterday from Roy Stephens, Party representative in Nebraska.

While the secretary of state threw the Communist ticket off the ballot on technical grounds, the gist of the protest of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was that the Workers (Communist) Party was "un-American."

The representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was assisted by an attorney. Stephens stated the case for the Workers (Communist) Party.

At the hearing before Secretary of State Marsh, the attorney for the objectors, stated that the Communist ticket was disqualified for a place on the ballot on the ground that a sufficient number of legally registered voters had not signed the roster of the Workers (Communist) Party convention at which the Communist ticket was nominated.

Punctures Petition.

Stephens raised the point that the objection as to legal sufficiency of the petition had not been presented within ten days after the original filing was made, as required by law and therefore it could not be considered. Nevertheless the secretary of state ruled that he could throw the Party ticket off the ballot on receipt of a sworn statement from the election commissioners of the county in which the Party nominating convention was held.

Among the charges made against the Workers (Communist) Party during the hearing were the following: that William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for the presidency is an anarchist; that to allow the Communist ticket on the ballot would be snapping fingers at every true American and ex-service man; that the Communists are opposed to military training in the Civilian Military Training Camps and in schools; that Communists call the Soviet Union the fatherland of all workers and that the Communists would overthrow all American ideals.

Assails Red-Baiters.

Stephens stated that Foster is not an anarchist but a Communist and that the Workers (Communist) Party is opposed to the anarchist theory. He branded the objectors as a bunch of red-baiters, declared that he was proud to be a Commu-

MURDER VERDICT AS SEWER GRAFT EVIDENCE GROWS

D'Olier Not a Suicide, Jury Holds

William L. D'Olier, an important witness in the $30,000,000 Queens sewer graft trial now going on, who was found dead on a lonely road a short time before he was scheduled to testify, was murdered, the Queens County Grand Jury reported late yesterday.

"D'Olier did not die by his own hand," the presentment handed in by the grand jury read.

The first report by the Tammany controlled police was that D'Olier had committed suicide. Graft, concealment, intimidation of witnesses and finally murder have been the methods of the Tammany gang to defeat their exposure.

McMAHON AIDS TEXTILE SPEEDUP

Departs to Help Batty in Sell-Out

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 27.—Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers' Union, yesterday hopped into the field to lend sorely needed aid to his local chiefs, who are straining every resource to sell out the strike as it completes its 24th week.

As was predicted, the reactionary Textile Council officialdom made the expected gesture of turning down the manufacturers' offer to recall five per cent of the ten per cent wage-cut that precipitated the strike, but followed up this "determined stand" with the astounding announcement from McMahon that the strikers insist on obtaining the Frieder Plan, a vicious speed-up system.

The strategy the mill owners have been using in their efforts to end the paralyzing tieup was to make it appear that they are very reluctant to give the workers the energy-sapping speed-up system as a concession.

Altho the officials of the American Federation of Labor Textile Council have publicly endorsed the Frieder speed-up plan, the continuous propaganda for it in the press, has been an utter failure is so far as the attitude of the workers toward it is concerned. This attitude

ASK PUBLIC TRIAL OF POLICE THUG

Mill Striker Brutally Beaten by Velho

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 27. —Charges against Sergeant Augustus Velho, of the New Bedford police force, for an unprovoked assault on Frank Augusto, 63-year-old textile striker, are being pushed by Jacob Minkin, New Bedford attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union. A public hearing on the case has been demanded of the mayor and board of aldermen. Court action will follow if nothing is done at the hearing.

Velho brutally beat Augusto, according to the charges, while the striker was lodged in a cell at the police station Sept. 19, after being arrested for picketing. Bruised and bleeding, Augusto was removed to another cell and later to a hospital. His arm and nose were broken.

LEWIS KILLER IS 'NOT GUILTY'

Coal "Justice" Frees Slayer of Campbell

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WILKES-BARRE, Sept. 27.—Ralph Mellarissi, Lewis machine gangster, has been found not guilty of the murder of Alexander Campbell and Peter Reilly, heroic mine leaders of the anthracite in a trial which ended today.

Drove Murder Car.

Mellarissi was the driver of the car from which the barrage of shot was pumped into the bodies of the mine leaders. The license number of the car, a Peerless, was taken by a police officers previous to the shooting; the policeman is known to have stopped the machine for speeding.

Further evidence of a payment to Mellarissi and the two other gangsters who accompanied him of $10,000 previous to the murder was likewise sidetracked. It is known that this sum was drawn out of a Pittston bank by two coal contractors, closely connected with the then Lewis-Cappellinni machine for payment of the murders.

TALK 'PEACE'; PLAN WAR

League Assembly Session Closes

GENEVA, Sept. 27.—Little hope is seen in the "universal disarmament conference" which is being discussed by the League of Nations. The conference, it is believed, will be called by the next session of the league assembly.

Although the public pronunciamentos of the diplomats here express pious hopes for disarmament, observers here point out that the powers categorically rejected the only genuine disarmament proposals ever made at any league sessions—namely those by the representatives of the Soviet Union. With talk of disarmament going merrily on, diplomats secretly planned war alliances and their governments at home planned for an increase in armaments.

While the ninth assembly, which adjourned today, talked about conferences the diplomats of France and Great Britain were busy ce-

“Hard-Working” Phila. Police Inspector Banked $37,000 a Year on $2,800 Salar

CITY WALLOWS IN GRAFT; HIGHER-UPS INVOLVED

Almost Entire Force Have Taken Bribes

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (UP).—John Stuckert, police inspector and superintendent of the police training school, was questioned today by District Attorney John Monaghan as the grand jury investigation of vice conditions here continued to involve members of the police department.

Stuckert, Monaghan said, with a salary of $2,700 annually, has deposited $37,000 in banks since March, 1926.

The inspector spent ten hours before the grand jury early today and was scheduled for another appearance later in the day. Monaghan, however, said the second questioning had been postponed pending further examination of his bank accounts.

The district attorney intimated a warrant would be sworn out for Stuckert Friday, unless he could explain satisfactorily the source of his prosperity.

Stuckert, it was pointed out, was appointed inspector of the northeast district, in which two captains and several detectives were arrested in March, 1926. Bank deposits for large amounts, in his name, were made soon after the appointment.

SECRET TERROR BY COAL BARONS

“Night Riders” Gang in Ohio

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 27.—John Eberhart, a coal mine foreman, was released yesterday on a $1,000 bond following his arrest on a charge of riotous conspiracy. Eberhardt was charged with being one of the leaders of a “Night Riders” gang which has been conducting raids on homes. Recently two women and three men were dragged from their homes. An attempt made to hang them was frustrated.

Paul V. Waddell, notorious prosecutor of Belmont county who several months ago imprisoned 51 women pickets, announced that he has the names of a number of the gang but did not indicate that he would proceed against them.

In some quarters, it is believed that the move is a scheme of the coal operators to conduct a secret terror against the coal miners of the section.

Spanish Workers Paper in Subecription Drive

The militant paper of the Spanish workers, Vida Obrera, has begun a drive for subscriptions among the Latin American and Spanish workers in the United States. Vida Obrera (Workers Life), is the monthly organ of the Spanish Language Bureau of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The first issue in its new form will appear tomorrow, when it will be on sale at a ball to be held by the Bureau at the Spanish Workers Club, 55 W. 113th St. Typical South and Central American dances, revolutionary songs and costumes will feature the dance.

PHILA. POLICE TERROR

Arrest Workers at Communist Meetings

“Lawless repression and petty persecution” by Philadelphia police in dealing with Workers (Communist) Party election campaign meetings and striking garment workers, according to the American Civil Liberties Union, have followed a decision July 16 by Judge Alessandroni of the Superior Court, who ruled that the police had power to regulate assemblage even in private halls. An appeal against this decision is being taken to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court by the Civil Liberties Union.

Typical recent cases still pending are those of speakers at Workers Party street meetings duly authorized by the police. Dominick Flaini was arrested July 28, charged with violation of the Pennsylvania sedition act, and held in $800 bail, when he told voters that they should not support the republican party because “President Coolidge was a strikebreaker and had suppressed the police strike in Boston.”

More “Sedition.”

Emanuel Epstein, who went to the police station to ask the charges against Flaini, was quizzed by the police captain as to whether he “believed the same things Flaini did.” When he replied that he did, he too was arrested, charged with “sedition,” and held in $800 bail. So far prosecutors have been unable to get indictments returned against these two men.

At an authorized street meeting held Aug. 14 Herman Pinsker presided and introduced Benjamin Weiss, a high school student of 14. Weiss told his audience that Germany and England had gone to war to protect their imperialistic interests and that America had entered the conflict for similar reasons. Altho the meeting was entirely orderly, both were arrested upon the instigation of world war jingoes. Young Weiss was released after being detained three days, but Pinsker is held in $500 bail, charged with “inciting to riot.” He did nothing but introducue the boy. No indictment has as yet been found against him.

Israel Lazaar was arrested for “making seditious remarks” when he addressed a Workers Party outdoor meeting on Aug. 28. Lazaar’s bail, at first set at $5,000, was reduced to $1,000 when his attorneys refused to put up the first sum and started habeas corpus proceedings.

Herbert Benjamin, district organizer of the Workers Party, was arrested for “disorderly conduct” and fined $10 because the sergeant at the police station disapproved of his “attitude” when he appeared and demanded a copy of the charges against Lazaar.

Russian Workers, Peasants to Celebrate October Revolution Soon

Photo taken during celebration of October Revolution last year, shows Bolshevik soldiers who will defend the Soviet Union when the inevitable attack against the first Workers' and Peasants' Republic is made by the imperialists of the World. On November 7, the Eleventh Anniversary will be celebrated. Thousands of visitors from other lands are expected to view the impressive ceremonies. In the United States, the World Tourists, Inc., Inc., 69 Fifth Ave., is arranging for a party which will leave on the "Mauretania" October 17, and arrive in time for the celebrations.

SCHIFFRIN HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Socialists Back the Frame-Up Crew

privately, and in the presence of Detective Wabbenhorst who acted as a witness, they told me that Schiffrin had not advanced to attack them as they were getting out of the automobile, as they said yesterday, but that Schiffrin backed up to the wall and remained their while the three of them, and three others who were in the car with them, got out and approached Schiffrin.”

Despite this astounding statement, the judge granted Markewitch the floor to announce that the three had confessed to the prosecutor were again ready to deny the confessions. He asked permission of Judge Dodge to call in the three referred to. This permission was immediately granted. But the frame-up machine of the socialist’s lawyer was so clumsy, that when they appeared on the stand again, they were unable to withstand the cross-examination of the defense, and they again admitted that Schiffrin did not get away from the wall.

Under cross examination from the district attorney the business agent of the right wing Butcher Union even admitted that Andrew Jansen’s testimony of the day before was correct. Jansen stated that all six had encircled Schiffrin and closed in on him. The business agent Susskowitz, confessed that all six of them had advanced on Schiffrin to “take away his knife.”

The William Schiffrin Defense Committee, thru its manager S. Lipzin, yesterday declared that the workers here and from out of town were rallying to the defense of the framed up worker by sending in contributions to its offices at the Workers’ Center, 26 Union Square, Room 603.

Many workers organizations announcing their intentions of participating in the conference. Sunday afternoon where plans for a broad defense campaign will be launched. The conference will be held in Irving Plaza, 15th St. and Irving Place.

The Defense Committee is empasizing in its appeals to the workers, broadcast in leaflets, that particularly important is it to have direct representation from workers in the shops. All workers are appealed to choose their delegates from among their shopmates.

Mill Striker, Hungry, Faints On the Street

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 27.—Edward Karza, 21, of 183 North Front St., a striking textile worker formerly employed at the Bristol Mill, was taken to the city infirmary following his collapse near his home recently.

Karza has been on strike for the past 24 weeks and has been living with his father, Antonio Karza. For the past three weeks, Karza told Workers International Relief workers, he has lived on two loaves of bread. As he was leaving his home the other day the street suddenly seemed to revolve and he collapsed with weakness.

W. I. R. records show that Karza has not applied to the relief stations here for help. When asked why he did not avail himself of relief, he said that he did not want to deprive more needy strikers of food. Karza is single.

The city officials here were reluctant to admit Karza to the municipal infirmary when it was learned that the starving man was a striker. Mr. Poirier, secretary of the Board of Public Welfare, said: “If they went back to work they wouldn’t be wandering around the city dropping from malnutrition.”

Members of the Young Workers (Communist) League who are minors are being threatened with arrest for “vagrancy” for distributing leaflets and aiding in relief work in New Bedford, Fred Biedenkapp, national secretary of the Workers International Relief, said yesterday. The young workers, he said, are threatened with terms in the reformatory.

Dance Tomorrow at the Greek Center to Give Funds to Daily Worker

A dance, arranged by the Greek Progressive Center, will be held tomorrow evening, beginning at 8 p. m. at the Center, 101 W. 28th St.

All workers have been invited to attend the affair, 25 per cent of the proceeds of which will be donated to the Daily Worker, which is now campaigning for 10,000 new readers.

The Greek Progressive Center, situated as it is, in the heart of the fur and millinery district, expects to draw most of these workers not only to the dance tomorrow evening, but to the activities which will be part of its daily work.

STORM FREAK

BUFFALO, Sept. 27 (UP).—After a severe hail storm, accompanied by terrific wind and lightning today, a waterspout was sighted on Lake Erie, four miles west of Buffalo. Thousands of persons in office buildings in the downtown section of this city witnessed the rare occurrence.

FOSTER HITS AT RACE INEQUALITY

Big Crowd in Frisco Greets Red Nominee

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., (By Mail).—William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for the presidency received an ovation when he rose to address an audience estimated at between eight hundred and one thousand workers in the Civic Auditorium, this city, on Friday evening, September 21.

The meeting was more than twice the size of that addressed by Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate, a few days previously and in contrast to the Thomas meeting which was attended mostly by liberals and small business men, the Foster meeting was one hundred per cent working class.

Exposes U. S. Imperialism.

The most significant characteristic of the meeting was the large number of Orientals and Negroes present. The speaker exposed the imperialist role of the United States government in China, its war against the Chinese revolution in conjunction with Great Britain and Japan, and how the United States is now bolstering up the reactionary Kuomintang regime, that betrayed the revolution to the foreign imperialists and slaughtered hundreds of thousands of Communists and militant workers and peasants.

Foster pointed out that the Workers (Communist) Party, the only political party in the United States having for its aim the overthrow of capitalism, was a section of the Communist International, the leader of the struggle of all workers and oppressed colonial peoples, regardless of race or color to throw off the yoke of the imperialists.

Champion of Negroes.

The speaker dwelt on the persecution of the Negroes by the capitalists of the United States and declared that the Workers (Communist) Party stood for full social and racial equality for the Negroes in contradistinction to the capitalist parties, the parties of lynching and segregation, Jim Crowism and discrimination. He urged the white workers to fight for the rights of the Negroes declaring that the ruling classes nourished race and color prejudices in order to weaken the fight of the workers against the capitalists, the common enemies of all workers.

A collection of $180.00 was taken up for the Communist election campaign. Unemployed workers were admitted to the meeting free of charge.

MUST DIE IN CHAIR.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 27 (UP).—William R. Phillips, 22, and Jesse G. Parker, 20, of Delaware county must die in the electric chair at the Rockview State Penitentiary Monday, the State Board of Pardons decided today in refusing their plea of commutation of the death sentence. Phillips and Parker were convicted of the killing of Norman E. Gibson, son of a deputy prothonotary last March.

PUBLIC SPEAKING FIRST MOVE BY COURSES AT THE WORKERS SCHOOL

Many Special Classes in Fall Term

During the summer months the Workers School laid out many plans for the strengthening and improving of its public speaking departments, and as a result will offer three courses in that subject during the coming fall term which begins Monday, Oct. 1, at 26-28 Union Square, fifth floor. The courses are as follows:

Platform Speaking, Beatrice Beck, instructor. Monday, 7 to 8:20 p. m.

Speech Improvement, Dora Johnson, instructor, Tuesday, 8:30 to 9:50 p. m.

A special course in Public Speaking for women workers and working class housewives only, V. I. Jerome, instructor, Wednesday, 7 to 8:20 p. m.

Classes Already Held.

During the past summer, many brief neighborhood and section speakers classes have been held throughout the city in the different sections of the New York organization of the Workers (Communist) Party of America, with the cooperation and aid of the Workers School. Many of the students that have attended these classes will be eligible for, and are urged to attend the course in Platform Speaking that will be given at the Workers School on Monday evenings.

Due to the present election campaign a great deal of interest has been aroused among the militant workers for courses in Public Speaking. The offering of these courses in the Workers School is a result of these increased demands. The formation of new unions, the great participation of the rank and file workers in the work of their unions, as well as the development in the building up of shop and mill committees thruout the city, have been other factors that have made it imperative for the Workers School to offer more and better courses this coming term in Public Speaking. The Working Women’s Federation and the United Council of Workingclass Women have requested a special course for their members.

Courses For Foreigners.

Foreign speaking workers with an accent who wish to improve their voice and speech for all speaking occasions will have a special class to meet their needs in speech improvement, which will be given Tuesday evenings.

Those desiring more information concerning courses to be given at the Workers School this year should come to the office of the Workers School or write for a free copy of the catalogue. Registration is now in progress.

AMERICAN TRUST IN WORLD OIL WAR

U. S. Trusts Consider Combine

The first indication of a stronger American oil combination to offset the British Royal Dutch oil and chemical trust alignment, which has already been countered by an United States-German oil-chemical combine, occurred here yesterday with the meeting of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company. The company is controlled by Standard Oil of Indiana, which is reported to be considering a closer affiliation with the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation.

Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil of Indiana, one of the Rockefeller strongholds, is here conferring with principal persons representing various financial and industrial interests.

Stewart, who figured in the Teapot Dome Oil scandal, is rumored to have been offered the chairmanship of the Sinclair Consolidated.

Final Mobilization Thruout the City in Red Signature Drive

The signature drive in New York City, which members of the Workers (Communist) Party have been vigorously pushing for the last two months, will be finally ended on Sunday, Sept. 30, when each section of the city will have a final mobilization for the putting across of all assembly districts for which a sufficient number of signatures have not yet been obtained.

Tomorrow and Sunday are the last two days of the signature drive. Four thousand signatures more are needed throughout the city, according to the District Campaign Committee, and those 4,000 signatures will have to be obtained by Red campaigners this week-end.

In every section of the city members of the Workers (Communist) Party are urged to respond to the call of the section campaign director and report for the final mobilization drive.

WAR LORDS GET FOREIGN ARMS

German Munitions Up Yangtze River

SHANGHAI, (By Mail).—A second consignment of huge orders for war munitions given by one of the Szechuan province militarists to foreign firms will, upon its arrival here, be taken up the Yangtze by a foreign ship, according to one of the leading Chinese papers, the Eastern Times.

This installment consists of 10,000 rifles, four field batteries, a number of machine guns and two airplanes. The first installment, which arrived some time ago, was seized by the local military after a bitter protest had been made by Szechuanese living in Shanghai, who pointed out that for many years their province had been ravaged by senseless militarist struggles and that these supplies would merely prolong such conditions.

It is rumored that the supplies are of German origin despite the official “prohibition” which that government was reported to have made against the further exportation of war materials to China.

WAR MACHINE ON FLIGHT

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 27 (UP).—The non-rigid dirigible Puritan, which arrived here Tuesday from Akron, Ohio, left the naval air station at 9:20 a. m today on a flight to New York City and vicinity. The Puritan is one of the smallest dirigibles in the world and carries a portable mooring mast.

5 PULP EXPERTS FROM SOVIET UNION IN U. S.

Will Study American Methods, Machinery

G. G. Khramtzoff, chief engineer; E. G. Goryatcheff, vice-president, and E. A. Kayatz, consulting engineer of the Government Central Paper Trust of the U. S. S. R., have arrived in the United States to complete negotiations for the purchase of over $600,000 worth of paper machinery for the new Balakhna mill on the Volga River. The Central Paper Trust is the largest paper combine in the Soviet Union, accounting for about 30 per cent of the total paper and cardboard output and for over 80 per cent of the cellulose production.

“While considerable American equipment has been purchased for Soviet paper mills during the past few years,” stated Khramtzoff, head of the delegation, “this equipment has been for handling and transporting materials. The present order is for the first American paper-making machinery to be bought for the Russian industry. The Volga mills, on which work was started in 1926 and which are now nearing completion, are among the largest in Europe and have already installed the largest paper machine in use on the continent. After the installation of this machine, which was purchased in Germany, and the American machine we plan to add a third unit which will bring the annual capacity of the mills up to 305,000 tons of newsprint.”

Two years ago Khramtzoff visited the United States on behalf of the Central Paper Trust, while Kavatz was one of the group of engineers and workers who recently made a five months’ study of the American and Canadian paper industries. The favorable impression of American equipment and methods gained on these visits was undoubtedly instrumental in bringing about the present purchases.

The Soviet paper industry employed 30,600 workers and produced 267,000 tons of paper and 30,000 tons of cardboard last year. This year the output is running 8 per cent ahead of last year. About $20,000,000 was expended for capital construction in the industry this year.

Mukden Assures Japan of Manchuria Protectorate and Anti-USSR Military Base

MANCHURIA STILL INDEPENDENT OF NANKING REGIME

To Extend Railroad to Korea

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 27.—The Manchurian government, under the dictatorship of Chang Hseuh-liang, will allow complete freedom to foreign capital, meaning mostly Japanese, even removing the restrictions of approved concessions, which will result in the strengthening of Japan economic and military position directly htreatening the Soviet Union thru Siberia and its port at Vladivostok, according to reports received here from Mukden.

The report states that Chang Hseuh-liang had declared himself in favor of this policy and further that there was very little likelihood of Manchuria joining the Nanking regime, thus almost absolutely guaranteeing complete Japanese control and continued fortification of the latter in Manchuria.

The immediate result of this policy, it is generally thought, will be the extension of the Kirin Railroad eastward to Northeast Korea, thus giving Japan a direct line of communication and a means for the transportation of troops directly from her own provinces into and across Manchuria, to the inner borders of the Soviet Union.

This new declaration of policy is also taken to mean that many of Japan's twenty-one demands made in 1915, those especially concerning further land leasing and the further development of the mineral resources in Manchuria, will be granted.

The only opponent now to the separation of Manchuria and Nanking is Yang Tu-ting, who has not been won over to Japanese cause. It is almost certain, however, that by November, the time set in the Japanese utimatum, Manchuria will not join Nanking and will be left entirely to Japanese exploitation, being considered as her sphere of influence.

Chain Store Company Hogs Up Two Others

Kroger Grocery and Baking Company yesterday completed negotiations for the acquisition of more than 109 Piggly Wiggly stores and 43 Kohn stores of the Missouri and Illinois Stores Company, located in St. Louis and surrounding territory.

Included in the transaction is the large Piggly Wiggly warehouse located in St. Louis, together with all automotive equipment of the Missouri and Illinois Stores Company.

Ford Is Charged With Ship Laws Violation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (UP).—An investigation of charges that Ford Motor Company, of Detroit, violated the shipping act by failing to file maximum rates for its vessels operating in intercoastal trade will be started soon, the U. S. Shipping Board announced today.

The charges were filed by the United States Intercoastal Conference. Notice of the investigation will be filed with Ford Company officials in Detroit and hearings will be held here.

British Imperialism Keeps Eye On Egypt

Fearing the growing strength of the separatist elements in Egypt, the British imperialists are keeping a watchful eye on that country vital to economic life and the military defense of the interests of British finance-capital. The British "good-will" ambassador, the Prince of Wales, and his younger brother, the duke of Gloucester, who is learning his brother's "profession," have been dispatched to Egypt and are shown plying their trade on arriving in Alexandria. Not far off the coast, the British fleet keeps guard.

LATIN AMERICA'S EYES ON COLOMBIA OIL GRAB

A sharp conflict has developed between Colombia and the United States over the cancellation of a 5,000,000 acre petroleum concession (about 20,250 sq. kilometers) controlled by the family of Andrew Mellon, United States secretary of the treasury. The concession was originally granted in 1905 to a Colombian General Virgilio Barco, as a reward for defeating the liberals in the Colombian civil war. In granting the Barco concession, the conservative government stipulated that General Barco develop a national petroleum industry in the 5,000,000 acres involved. Instead, Barco sold his concession to the "Colombian Petroleum Company," which is controlled by the South American Gulf Company of Pennsylvania. This American firm is, in turn, controlled largely by the Mellon interests.

In March, 1926, the Colombian government cancelled the Barco concession on the ground that General Barco had failed to fulfill the stipulation of developing oil production. The Colombian Petroleum Company appealed to the courts, but in August, 1928, the courts issued a second decree upholding the cancellation.

At this stage the United States government intervened. The United States minister at Bogota filed a memorandum requesting a hearing on the Barco concession. The Colombian government did not reply to this memorandum. Thereupon, secretary of state Kellogg sent a sharp note to the Colombian government. The state department did not inform the American press about this note. It was only from the storm which the note aroused in the Colombian press that the American press learned of its existence. The contents of Kellogg's note have not yet been published, but it is known that Kellogg accused the Colombian government of violating the customary diplomatic procedure between friendly nations in refusing to answer the American minister's request for a hearing.

The Colombian press has called Kellogg's note an act of intervention on the part of the United States in the internal affairs of Colombia, saying this is an attempt to enforce the "Coolidge Doctrine" that the United States has the right to protect American citizens and American property wherever they may be. On September 22 the Colombian senate and chamber of deputies unanimously approved the government's refusal to permit any intervention in the cancellation of the Barco concession. This unanimity is noteworthy, in view of the fact that the Colombian congress is divided into liberals and conservatives, who are bitterly hostile to each other; the congress has cast no unanimous vote for many years. In addition, students paraded the streets, approving the stand of the government and congress in "rejecting American intervention."

Dr. Carlos Uribe, Colombian minister of foreign affairs, has announced that Colombia has replied to Kellogg's note. He said the Colombian government would not make the note public, but that he would read it at a public session of congress if that body insisted.

The conflict between the United States and Colombia has aroused considerable interest in other Latin American countries. The leading Latin American newspaper, "La Nacion" of Buenos Aires, devoted more than half of its editorial page on September 23 to condemning the intervention of the United States in the internal affairs of Colombia. "La Nacion" pointed to the conflict as another instance of mistaken American policy, as in the case of Nicaragua.

JINGOES ATTACK NEBRASKA PARTY

Communists Fight to Stay on Ballot

nist and called attention to the fact that crooked politicians in Washington had violated the laws, stolen public property, yet were at liberty.

The fascists boasted of the existence of a criminal syndicalist law on the statute books and declared that the Communists could be jailed for their beliefs.

The Workers (Communist) Party will carry on a vigorous fight to have its ticket on the ballot in the November elections, Stephens declared. He charges the state authorities with not checking the names according to law. All those who have not registered this year have been checked off, tho one does not have to register each year unless he changes his residence.

The action of the state authorities in Nebraska in throwing the Communist ticket off the ballot exposes the sham of capitalist democracy, which refuses to permit the revolutionary workers to avail themselves of their constitutional rights to propagate their views and appeal for support to the workers and farmers in election campaigns.

That the Workers (Communist) Party is the only political party that is feared by the ruling classes is shown by the fact that in this election campaign the socialist party has not been interfered with and the socialist candidates have been treated as courteously in the capitalist press as the candidates of the democratic and republican parties.

TEXTILE FAKER IN SPEEDUP PLEA

Says Strikers "Want" Frieder Plan

has been one of overwhelming condemnation of the speed-up.

Due to uncompromising demand of the workers that no concessions be made the bosses, and that no speed-up be regarded as a boss "concession," and the fact that the ranks of the thousands of strikers are stiffening to enforce the demands raised by the left wing Textile Workers' Union for a wage increase, the bosses and their "union allies" are becoming frantic.

McMahon Called In.

This is the motive ascribed to McMahon's statement, the strike leaders of the T. W. U. declare. McMahon had to be called in to make these statements because his agents here failed completely to date.

In making his statement McMahon says: "We believe the Frieder Plan submitted to the Textile Council would in a short period do more to stabilize conditions in New Bedford than any other thing we know."

To Fight Betrayal.

"Under the continued leadership of the Textile Workers' Union the 28,000 strikers will fight against any attempt at a betrayal of their bitter struggle," declares a statement of the National Textile Workers' Union, which further announces that the workers have repeatedly shown that they are convinced that even a recall of the entire 10 per cent cut would mean a lost strike if the bosses were permitted to install the speed-up system.

Another glaring piece of evidence to show how closely the A. F. of L. chiefs are working with the mill owners was presented here today when Samuel Ross, president of the Mule Spinners' Local of the Textile Council, announced that he is in favor of the five per cent wage cut mediation proposal of the State Arbitration Board, of which he is a member.

When asked for the reason for such an action Ross said that the board had made its final effort, and there would be no more conferences. Textile Council officials here do not even try to hide their alliance with the bosses and frankly serve on "impartial boards" of the mill owners' creation. This explains why the thousands of mill strikers have almost completely deserted the council and now follow the lead of the left-wing union.

PLAN TRUST MERGER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (UP).—Merger of the Sanitary Grocery Co., Inc., of Washington, and the Safeway Stories, Inc., of Baltimore, is being planned, Edward G. Yonker, president of the local corporation, has announced. The proposed amalgamation involves $17,000,000, Yonker said.

BRITISH LABOR THROTTLER FOR WORLD WAR UNIT

Melchett Now Here to Complete Plan

Two of the leading British industrialists and advocates of class collaboration scheme, Lord Melchett, formerly Sir Alfred Mond and his son, Henry Mond, millionaires, war profiteers and preparers of the the next war, arrived in New York yesterday, preaching their self-salvation doctrine of class peace while on their way to attend a meeting of the directors of the Mond Nickel Co. in Canada.

Lord Melchett, together with reactionary British trade union officials, has done much to thrust class collaboration upon the workers of England.

While the Monds are here, the conference which he convened between leading capitalists and the corrupt officials of the Trades Union Congress is still proceeding in London. It will be followed, it is generally understood by the complete capitulation of the trade union officials.

Empire Trust Scheme.

After visiting their nickel mines in Canada the two financiers will confer with the American committee of the Finance Committee of Great Britain and America, Ltd., which includes John J. Raskob, Charles M. Schwab and other labor-hating American capitalists.

Melchett, who is also chairman of the Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., and many other industries in Great Britain, admits that he has been working consistently for a complete trustification of Britain's most important industries. His latest accomplishment in this line is the reported combine of the British Royal Dutch Shell Oil and the chemical and dye industry trust.

Prepare War Unit.

Just before leaving England, Melchett presented a scheme for the complete trustification of all the mines, smelting furnaces, fuel producing companies, electric concerns, oil industry and the chemical industry. His avowed aim is to completly rationalize and trustify the industries of not only England, but the whole British Empire, in such a way as to complete an impregnable economic and war unit.

The Sunday Worker, official organ of the Communist Party of England, is carrying on a consistent campaign against the Mond scheme and the accompanying Melchett scheme of empire trustification.

Brazilian Government Will Prosecute Anti-Fascist Students Now

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 27.—Following the protest by the Italian ambassador, government officials here said that they would prosecute the students responsible for the attack on the Italian fascist paper "Il Piccolo." The Italian ambassador said that the students' protest attack and parade were incited by anti-fascists.

Groups of students visited the various newspaper offices here and declared that they would continue their demonstrations until Luiggi Freddi, editor of the fascist newspaper, was expelled from Brazil. They objected to his articles, which threatened Brazil with fascism and his alleged insult of women.

"Czar Ivan" Film at Chicago Playhouse

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Due to the current vogue of Russian films, and more particularly to the phenomenal success of the "End of St. Petersburg," the management of the Playhouse Theatre has booked the greatest of all Russian films, "Czar Ivan the Terrible," for a two weeks' run, commencing Sunday.

The acting in this film is excellent and all the leading characters are portrayed by members of the Moscow Art Players, with Leonidoff in the stellar role of Czar Ivan.

The National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, in a special report dated Jan. 13, 1928, wrote as follows:

"The concensus of opinion of the members of our board is that 'Czar Ivan the Terrible,' as the re-creation of a man and his times, is the most remarkable that the screen has so far afforded, and that the acting of Leonidoff and the cast has seldom if ever been equalled in motion pictures. This is really a wonderful film.

"Czar Ivan" played in New York for months. The two weeks at the Playhouse will positively be the only showing of this film in Chicago.

Obregon Slayer to Be Tried in Mid-October

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27. (U.P.)—The trial of Jose De Leon Toral and the 16 men and women accused with him of complictiy in the Obregon assassination, may not start before mid-October.

The "diligencias" or preliminary judicial proceedings, were adjourned today for a week or ten days.

VIENNA WORKERS CALLED TO MEET ARMED FASCISTS

Counter Demonstration Planned

day for the Austrian workers. It calls upon the workers to organize a counter-demonstration and to boycott the transportation of the fascists to Vienna.

(When this appeal appeared in the Rote Fahne, official organ of the Communist Party of Austria, the issue was confiscated and the editor was arrested.)

Remember July 15!

The appeal reminds the workers of the many victims of Austrian fascism, and particularly of the 90 killed on July 15 of last year. It declares that the continual retreat of the social-democracy in the face of fascism is the factor which makes fascism a serious danger for the workers. The appeal further terms the hope that the government will prohibit the demonstration an illusion.

The possibility of the fascists abandoning their demonstration exists, declares the appeal, but only if they receive their price, which is the voluntary abandonment of the tenants' protection law.

Appeals to Transport Workers.

The Communist Party appeals to the workers to prevent the fascist parade, and to the railwaymen and transport workers to refuse to transport the fascists. It further appeals to the workers to answer the fascist parade by a march on Weinerneustadt on October 7.

The workers are asked to join the newly formed workers' defense corps, whose inaugural congress will take place in Weinerneustadt on September 30. Workers are also asked to elect in all factories, in all working class organizations, in all labor exchanges, delegates to a national convention to decide upon defensive measures against the fascist parade. This congress will take measures for a general mobilization of the whole working class against the fascists.

Bosses' Police Terrorism Fails to Break Solidarity of Steel Strikers in Canton, Ohio

NOT A WORKER GOES BACK, BOSS CARRIES ARMS

Deportation Used as Threat

(By a Worker Correspondent)

CANTON, (By Mail).—The strike of the chippers and grinders in the Central Alloy Steel Mill remains unchanged. Not a man has gone back to work—on the contrary they are stronger than before in their determination to win the strike and get organized.

Although six men have been held by the immigration authorities, on the charge of illegal entry into the country, this has not frightened the strikers, all of whom are foreign-born, mostly Greeks, Italians, Rumanians, Spaniards, Arabs, etc. The men have been fooled so much by the Central Alloy Steel that they see that a fight must be made if they are not to be reduced far below even a living standard.

Press Lies.

Mr. Fairless, manager of the Massillon plant, came to Canton some time ago with the intention of persuading the men to go back to work. According to the local press, which published this account as the only document of the strike, 200 of the men have gone back to work, and the others are returning. This is a bare-faced lie, for not a single man has gone back.

On the contrary, the strike committee told Fairless clearly that his promise of 55 cents a day and the bonus, which is supposed to net them $6 to $7 a day, is bunk. When they figured out for him that $6 a day is what they want—a flat rate and no bonus, he replied that that cannot be done, for there is a universal scale, established by the steel manufacturers. When they told him further that he would have to deal with the Mill Committee, he waved them off entirely.

Hold Massillon Meet.

A meeting was held in Massillon, which is only about eight miles from Canton, for the purpose of acquainting the chippers and grinders there with the situation in Canton. A good part of them signed up, and it is only a matter of days when the Massillon chippers and grinders will be out.

The other departments in Canton are closed down as a result of the strike—Nos. 5 and 8. The men in the entire plant recognize the justice of the demands of the chippers and grinders, and now the Mill Committee will do everything to get them out actively in the strike and to organize them.

Police Active.

The police are on the job. There is a reason for it. The company has imported 40 scabs—white and Negro. But these men did not all stick. Eleven left at once, when they learned that there is a strike on. The other 29 know nothing about chipping and grinding, and as a result, they stand round doing nothing. There is a report that one of the scabs handled the job so poorly that a bar struck another man and he was seriously injured.

Mr. Smith, assistant superintendent of the plant, goes about with a gun in his belt, accompanied by two policemen. He follows the men, dogs their every step and does everything to provoke them. It is clear that this is a foretaste of what the city intends to do in order to protect the interests of he Central Alloy Steel, which together with the Timkin Roller Bearing Works, controls the city of Canton.

This time, however, they have reckoned without their host. The men are aroused, and will continue the fight. They are not intimidated by the arrests, but are on the picket line. The International Labor Defense is taking care of the four men arrested on Thursday, and the six held by the immigration authorities.

COMPOSER WILL APPEAR WITH BEETHOVEN ORCHESTRA

What is regarded as the season's most important musical event, is the visit to American, of the noted Russian composer Alexander Gretchaninoff. For years, Gretchaninoff has resisted the urgent invitations of American musicians and orchestras to come over as guest conductor and pianist. Final radio negotiations have been closed and Gretchaninoff will make his American debut with the Beethoven Symphony Orchestra.

Georges Zaslawsky invited his countryman to take over the baton, conducting some of the Gretchaninoff music which has made the composer certain of immortality in his own day. Yesterday, Zaslawsky was unable to say which compositions Gretchaninoff would conduct with the Beethoven Symphony Orchestra at his American debut. The Russian composer also plans to give a number of recitals here with Nina Koshetz.

ESPERANTO HAS RAPID GROWTH

U. S. S. R. Workers in Lead

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Sat is an organization composed of Communists, socialists, anarchists etc.—all tendencies that claim as their purpose the emancipation of the world's proletariat from capitalist oppression and the establishment of a cooperative commonwealth. It is not a political party. However, since it recognizes the class struggle, its cultural mission, according to Marx must be of a political nature.

Its congress lasted from Aug. 14 to 19. 500 delegates represented the Worker-Esperantists of 23 countries. The Soviet Union contributed at least one-fourth of that number under the leadership of Comrade Drezen from Moscow, an important official of the Communist Party there.

The session was opened, with singing of the International, under protection of the Metal Workers' Union of Goteborg and the All-Swedish Seamens' and Railroad Workers Unions. Comrade Nathans of the International Transport Workers' Union greeted the assembly in the name of 80 locals from 30 countries and emphasized the feasability of Esperanto as a means of universal understanding for the workers to enable them more efficiently to combat capitalism. Comrade Drezen reported that official recognition of Esperanto, as a universal language, by the Soviet authorities is not far distant, as semi-official recognition is already a fact (Postal and Telegraph Dpt. etc.).

"Communist youth in the U. S. S. R. is eager and anxious to communicate with Communist youth in other lands," said Comrade Drezen.

Admirable were the tactics of the Communist delegates. Altho in majority, they have proven extremely tactful in not openly showing, and throwing in the faces of the social-democrats and anarchists their dominance. Thereby the official leadership of Sat not only remained in Communist hands, but it was even strengthened.

A letter from Marcel Cachin was read in which he urged the Communist Youth not to remain dumb, but take up the study of Esperanto and begin to speak directly to one another, not depending any more on faulty translations of the speeches of their leaders.

A vote of commendation had been given to Comrade Paul Crouch of the U. S. A. who so ably had fullfilled the pioneering aims of Sat—while in the U. S. S. R. he virtually had forgotten his native language and had spoken to workers and soldiers, before large and small meetings, in the International language.

JAIL FOR CRIME OF BEING JOBLESS

Aiding Coal Miners Is Another Crime

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (By Mail) —"Guilty," said the jury.

"Sixty days," said the judge. And the city of Los Angeles was saved again.

A young, pale, hungry-looking, unemployed worker was brought into court, picked up by our savers of liberty. He was found asleep in one of the employment offices. He was charged before the jury with a furious crime, "vagrancy," while Mr. Julian Peet and Teapot Dome gentlemen are back at their good work, robbing people of their savings through oil schemes. Men are picked up for a crime consisting of "being out of work."

And at the top of his voice the prosecuting attorney shouted, as though to overcome his conscience, calling his victim "a menace to society," "a dangerous character" for going around without work, when there is plenty of work to be gotten.

Yes, Mr. Prosecutor, plenty of work in Los Angeles. Only 100,000 people without work here, and about 5,000,000 throughout the country.

"Guilty," said the jury"; "sixty days," said the judge.

"Next," said the court.

Three sympathetic, plainly-dressed working women prisoners! Caught in the act! Two big detectives saw them with their own eyes! Soliciting help for striking miners!

A new atmosphere surrounds the courtroom; these were not ordinary prisoners. You could see that in their clear, steady eyes. No fright or pleading there! They seem to know what to expect in this courtroom. They were to follow their comrades, already convicted of the same crime. But prosecution worked overtime when it seemed as though the defendants would be let free for lack of evidence. The country had to be saved, so Justice Sheldon suggested to the prosecutor that some amendment could be found which would put the charge on legal grounds, thus enabling them to convict the prisoners.

Our women comrades were not surprised when the jury found them guilty, and the judge gave them the extreme sentence for so small a crime, "ten days" or $50.

The judge praised the jury, commenting on the good service rendered to the community; the good Christian ladies and gentlemen thanked the judge for the wonderful time this afternoon, your honor.

And so, another page is written in history, the page of Los Angeles class justice!

'SOCIALISTS' LICK JUDGE'S BOOTS IN WISCONSIN COURT

Misleaders, Injunction Judge Join Hands

(By a Worker Correspondent)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 2.—Yesterday's session of Judge Gustax Gehrz's Court was the scene of a bitter attack against the Communists in which the Adler Co., representative attorney Lamfrom, the representative of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, the "socialist" lawyer Wm. F. Quick and the Amalgamated Union bureaucracy represented by G. Piepenhagen and the injunction Judge Gehrz joined hands.

The session of the court was devoted to the hearing of the case of the burning of suits manufactured in one of the Adler Co. scab shops several weeks ago for which the company blamed the union. During the hearing without any connection with the case whatsoever, circulars were introduced which were attributed by the above mentioned individuals to Communists. The leaflets in question contained criticism of the union bureaucracy for their class-collaboration policy and failure to conduct mass picketing in violation of the court injunction. It also exposed the "fairness" of the judge whose injunction is helping the Adler Co. to fill its shops with scabs.

The Amalgamated Union officialdom and the socialists of this city have hailed the decision of the judge as fair at the time it was rendered. This criticism was represented as an attack upon the entire union although it was directed only against its leadership. The object of this attack upon the Communists three-fold:

(1) To create the impression that the Communists are responsible for such acts as the burning up of the suits, etc.

(2) To antagonize the striking clothing workers against the Workers' (Communist) Party of America.

(3) To pave the way for the getting together of the union officialdom with the scab company for the liquidation of the strike upon conditions unfavorable to the strikers.

The Workers' (Communist) Party of America does not need to defend itself against the slander that it is attacking the strikers. Our Party, which stood loyally by the miners in their struggles, by the clothing workers and which is loyally supporting the struggles of the textile strikers, has given sufficient proof of its loyalty to those who fight against capitalist exploitation. The Workers' Party in Milwaukee is loyally supporting the struggle of the Adler Strikers and is doing its duty in exposing the reactionary officialdom and its failure to conduct this strike militantly. We stand for mass picketing and are opposed to policy of individual terror and sabotage as ineffective in the struggle for the winning of the strike.

Only by mobilizing all the strikers for mass picketing to break the court injunction and to prevent the scabs from entering the shops will the struggle be won. This mobilization cannot be effected by the reactionary leadership of the Amalgamated, but only under the left wing militant leadership. The Adler strikers will learn the truth of the position of our Party through their own experiences with their reactionary leaders.

Co-operative Workers Donate Part Wages to Red Election Campaign

The workers of the United Workers' Cooperative Association recently decided to donate five per cent of their weekly wages to the election campaign being waged in New York City by the Workers (Communist) Party.

At a meeting of the cooperative workers held recently at 2700 Bronx Park East, one of the workers, a member of the Workers (Communist) Party, proposed that all members of the party present voluntarily tax themselves with five per cent of their weekly wages for the Red election fund. The rest of the members agreed unanimously. Following this, a worker who is not a Party member took the floor, and pointing out that all progressive workers who are engaged in struggles against exploitation and reactionary misleadership appeal for aid to the Workers (Communist) Party, stated it as the duty of all progressive workers to help the Communist campaign fund.

This was taken up by other non-Party workers present. Many of them took the floor and seconded the proposal of the original speaker, with the result that all workers present, those of whom are members of the Communist Party and those who are not, will donate 5 per cent of their weekly wages to the Workers (Communist) Party for the remainder of the campaign.

FORCE WORKERS TO BUY CLOTHES FROM THE BOSS

Men Cheated; Must Pay for Raffles

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Here is a neat little scheme practiced against the workers in the Heidelberg and Wolf Shop of men's clothing at 65 Bleeker St. Since 1922, when the Amalgamated knife and blackjack picket committees lost the strike, the shop has been unorganized, and Mr. Hilman has never made an attempt to reorganize the shop.

The shop is on piece-work basis, of course, and as soon as the workers speed up sufficiently to make more than $25, the rate is reduced, and so it goes in this witches' caldron.

But here is the funny scheme which my father who works in the shop told me. The workers are forced to buy suits and overcoats from the shop whether they need them or not, and in this way the shop gets back one fourth of the wages it pays them. It might not be so bad if the suits were sold at shop prices, for after all, workers must dress, but the same suits can be bought much cheaper in the stores than the prices the workers are forced to pay in the shop, and the suits are usually damaged goods which cannot be sold otherwise. I know workers who have to buy these suits in the shop and then sell them for half price outside to get back a few dollars which they need to pay rent or buy bread for their families.

And here is another little scheme, a refinement in graft and efficiency. When all the workers in the shop have been stocked up with suits which they do not need, the suits which are left over are raffled off to the same workers again. Workers are forced to pay a dollar a week for raffles, and those who refuse are fired immediately. Suits which have a value of $15 are in this way raffled off for $50.

I do not know whether this little graft goes into the coffers of the Heidelberg and Wolfe Co., one of the biggest in the trade, or if it is divided between the foremen and management for pin money for their wives and sweethearts. Anyway, this little scheme robs many workers of their lunches and other necessities.

'NIGHT HOSTESS' THRILLS

Philip Dunning's Play at the Martin Beck Throws More Light on the Great White Way.

THEY are still rattling the skeletons along Broadway. Philip Dunning in his play "Night Hostess" has contributed to the rapidly accumulating store of knowledge in the process of collection by those who are interested in learning what takes place in thespian dressing rooms and in the mysterious hang-outs of gamblers and wealthy roysterers behind the barred doors of Broadway's night life.

Ben Fischer, an honest night club impressario was driven into the gambling business by the exactions of prohibition agents who would not stay paid. They wanted more and more. His ambition to run a straight gambling joint was frustrated by crooked employes who became corrupted in the process of fleecing the suckers. Chris Miller, his chief of staff, with the aid of a bartender and others of unquestionable integrity made business brisk for Ben but when he tried to balance his books, the poor fellow almost keeled over.

This is a condition that no self-respecting sportsman will stand for so Ben sent for Rags Conway, who used to play the piano for him in the "Half Moon," to get the goods on his own crooks. It happens that Rags is in love with Buddly Miles a hostess at the "Little Casino," where the action of the play takes place. This is just about what Rags would like to find in his sock on Christmas morning.

Rags soon realizes that he is in for a man-sized job but he buckles to it. He foils the attempt of the villianous Miller to inveigle Buddy to Chicago. Buddy by the way likes Rags but she wants to "improve" herself and cannot see the ulterior motive behind Mr. Miller's interest in her welfare.

After the necessary number of mistakes the play ends happily for everybody concerned except Chris Miller who fell down an elevator shaft and presumably broke his neck, the lucky gambler who was done to death in a chop suey joint and the whisky-bottle-blonde, and a hostess, who was suffocated to death by Miller because she "knew too much." It must be understood that Mr. Miller took the leap into eternity after the latter two victims of Mr. Dunning's art, passed out. Retribution, by heck.

The audience takes the loss in human life quite good-naturedly and when the dead arose in response to a curtain call they were greeted as cordially as a keg of beer at a dry picnic.

Norman Foster as Rags Conway performed his duty with neatness and dispatch, Gail de Hart, as the detective's wife, permitted herself be smothered peacefully, Averell Harris as Chris Miller was a noble villain and the good-hearted gambling king was so generous to the grafting limbs of the law that one was frequently tempted to hit him up for a loan.

trike of More Than 5,000 Workers on Tow Boats in New York Harbor Looms

RINE WORKERS EMAND RAISE; SSES REFUSE

[illegible] Want Working Conditions Improved

A strike of over 5,000 marine workers, employed on towboats in New York harbor, loomed today as a result of the harbor bosses' refusal to grant an increase in wages demanded by the workers. A meeting to vote on a strike, will be held Sunday. The workers demanded of their 300 employers a new working agreement, effective October 1, which would include a $10 increase and better working conditions. The demand was submitted by William [illegible] Maher to the boat owners' committee at the New York Towboat Exchange. The bosses refused the workers' demands.

Masters, mates, pilots, marine engineers, oilers, firemen, deckhands, cooks and floatmen will be effected if a strike is called. A demand that Sunday be specified as a day off and that the 10-hour day be specified as from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m., with time and a half for work before or after these hours, was also made by the towboat workers.

Argentina Not in League of Nations

BUENOS AYRES, Argentina, Sept. 27.—The decision of Argentina to refuse further co-operation with the League of Nations was evidenced today when the chamber of deputies approved the recommendation of the finance committee that Argentina's quota for the league's expenses be eliminated from the budget.

Some socialists in the chamber opposed the motion.

menting secret agreements for naval and aerial co-operation, for joint policies in the Balkans and for espionage on the Soviet Union.

The new agreements, which are directed primarily against the United States, Great Britain's chief imperial rival, are certain to intensify the struggle for supremacy between these two great powers. The struggle between the United States and Great Britain for oil in Colombia and Venezuela, for rubber lands, the struggle over the war, debts, over markets and colonies has grown more acute and has admittedly led to a race for armaments.

The solidification of the bloc against the Soviet Union is another development of extreme importance which has taken place. The Anglo-French pact not merely provides for joint espionage but formulates plans for a future aerial attack against the Soviet Union. In the meantime, Great Britain and France are steadily welding the states bordering the Soviet Union into a solid anti-Soviet bloc.

Soviet officials have repeatedly charged (and evidence presented and confessions made at recent trials of White Guardist spies have borne out their charges) that Great Britain and France have been supporting White Guardist terrorist groups operating in Soviet territory.

Numerous international struggles, any of which is apt to serve as a pretext for the outbreak of hostilities on a large scale, are going on in Europe. Neither Poland nor Lithuania will yield an inch in the Vilna struggle, while the struggle between France and Italy in the Balkans and north Africa has been sharpened by the recent fascist inroads in Albania and by the treaty recently concluded between Italy and Abyssinia.

YANKS' DOUBLE VICTORY ALMOST CLINCHES RACE

(By United Press)

The world series of 1928 will open at Yankee Stadium next Thursday afternoon, barring a miracle, and in all probability the visiting National League club will be wearing the red and grey of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Both major league pennant races were brought appreciably closer to conclusion as a result of today's ball games, the New York Yankees virtually clinching the American League flag by winning two ends of a double header at Detroit.

The New York Giants divided a double-header with the Chicago Cubs and lost ground to the St. Louis Cardinals, who won at Boston. The first game at New York, which the Giants lost, has been protested by Manager McGraw.

The Chicago Cubs were definitely eliminated as possible pennant winners when they lost the second game to the Giants, and so the fog of uncertainty which has shrouded the desperate September battles in both leagues was somewhat cleared away.

By winning two games at Detroit, the Yankees gained half a game on the Philadelphia Athletics, who kept themselves from complete annihilation by defeating the Chicago White Sox.

The situation in the American League race is such, however, that the Athletics must win all their remaining games while the Yankees are losing all theirs if the pennant is not to go to New York for the third year in succession.

NEW BEDFORD MILL STRIKE AID WORK SPEEDS UP

Boston Workers, Unions Donate Relief Funds

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Relief activity for the textile strikers of New Bedford and Fall River is speeding up here, according to Jeanette D. Pearl, local secretary, of the Workers International Relief, 5 Lowell Street.

At a special meeting here the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union, Local 157 levied a one dollar per capita tax for relief purposes. A. Roosar, president, advanced a check for $200 on account. He promised $400 to follow soon. Several branches of the Workmen's Circle have made generous donations, Secretary Pearl reported.

converted into a huge shopping center on the four days of the bazaar. Every sort of article will be on sale at prices far below those prevailing at the regular capitalist stores. Men's, women's and children's clothing, dresses, hats, caps, umbrellas, blankets, sheets, towels, groceries, shoes, flowers, candy, cigarettes, knit goods, gloves are only a few of the items that will be sold.

Varied Program.

In addition, games and entertainments of all sorts are being arranged that will keep every visitor interested at all times. A handsome souvenir program, forming a permanent momento of the bazaar, will also be distributed. This program will contain greetings from hundreds of working class organizations and individual names on a Red Honor Roll.

In order that the souvenir program may go to press, the National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee requests that all money for greetings and for the Red Honor Roll be brought to its office, 30 Union Square, not later than tomorrow.

Something for Hoover to Answer

Harbert Hoover, in his campaign speeches, constantly reiterates his full approval of the Coolidge administration and promises, if elected to the presidency, a continuation of those policies. It would be interesting for Hoover to try to reconcile the pacifist pretenses of the Kellogg-Briand pact with the announcement from Washington that "the bill now pending before the senate for construction of fifteen cruisers and one airplane carrier will be taken up and passed this winter if President Coolidge has his way."

The Kellogg pact decreed the outlawing of war as a national policy. Naturally any nation, even the most aggressively imperialist, could sign such a document for the simple reason that no government proclaims war as a national policy. Each group of imperialist war-mongers indulges in the building of armaments and preparations for new wars under cover of national defense, security, peace, and the other shibboleths now familiar to all who observe the duplicity of the statesmen of capitalist nations.

It is not often that the capitalist press is so frank as was the Wall Street Journal, on Wednesday, September 26, when it said editorially:

> "Mr. Kellogg's treaty was readily signed because it really bound nobody to anything specific. It was a profession of altruism to which any civilized nation might subscribe. It had none of the sanctions of the league of nations and it is quite conceivable that its value, other than as a shock absorber, was not much more than that of a series of peace treaties negotiated by Bryan which the whole world forgot in a few months in the horrors of the Great War."

Such a statement is important not only because of its open ridicule of the peace gestures of Kellogg, but because of the cynicism with which it suggests the approach of another world war. The fact that Kellogg's treaty of today is placed in the same category as the series of Bryan treaties before the outbreak of the world war is no mere flair of speech. It reveals the deliberate political estimates of the spokesmen of Wall Street, regarding the approach of another war.

At this moment the war-mongers and their government at Washington are incensed because Britain, dominating the ninth annual assembly of the league of nations, has succeeded in making the pact ridiculous before it is one month old, by proposing enforcement clauses. British imperialism is, of course, the last power that would seriously consider such clauses. Diplomats have perfected to a high degree the use of language to conceal thought. The proposals at the league assembly were brought forth only in order to hold the Kellogg pact up to the contempt of the whole world. It would have been impolite to laugh at the antics of "Nervous Nelly" Kellogg, the butcher of Nicaraguans in behalf of the imperialists of the United States, while he was soberly defending such a farce as the pact.

If Britain or the United States or any of the other signatories of the pact really intended to outlaw war the proposals of the Soviet Union to instantly and completely disarm would have been accepted by them long ago. The Soviet government was perfectly right when it declared that the pact, without even such an elementary guarantee as limitation of increasingly growing armaments will remain a dead letter.

In spite of the pact, and as if to mock the thing, the race for armaments goes madly forward. The war clouds grow ever darker. Instead of approving the stand of the one power in the world that advocates real peace and has a program capable of realizing peace, the imperialist nations of the earth are daily plotting new conspiracies against the government of workers and peasants that now thrives in the domain of the former Russian Czars.

The workers of the whole world must be alert to prevent the imperialist conspirators, the Coolidges, the Kelloggs, the Hoovers, the Briands, the Chamberlains, from attacking the Soviet Union.

Hoover, the personification of international banditry, must be rebuked in the United States by the workers and farmers piling up a large vote in support of the one party that fights against war and that represents the international solidarity of the working class, the Workers (Communist) Party.

Let the butchers of the working class know that there is a veritable army of workers and farmers in the United States that will fight with every weapon at hand against the war conspiracies.

The Recognition of Nanking

The dejure recognition of the bloody regime of Chiang Kai-shek in China by the United States government is a direct slap in the face of Japan and England. It is one more step in the ever-increasing determination of American imperialism to take the lead in world reaction.

At the moment when Japan was fighting against the nationalist regime at Nanking a few months ago the United States aroused the fury of the Tokio government of Tanaka by concluding a tariff treaty with Nanking. At that time Secretary of State Kellogg publicly stated that the conclusion of the treaty constituted de facto recognition "at least." After a study of International law and American precedents it is now announced that the treaty constituted de facto or actual recognition of Nanking as the government.

The recognition of Nanking is also another affront to England, inasmuch as the policy of the Baldwin tory government in China has been directed toward joint action of the imperialist powers having interests in China.

Thus, while antagonisms are sharpening in Europe as emphasized by the British-French naval treaty on the eve of the signing of the Kellogg pact, the open assault by the German representative, Count von Bernsdorff, on the policies of England and France at the annual assembly of the league of nations, and the constant provocations of all imperialist powers against the Soviet Union, the insatiable Wall Street gang intensifies its drive in the Far East, bringing nearer the war that is now in preparation by every predatory nation on the face of the earth.

Not a moment is to be lost by the class conscious workers in energetically working with all speed to perfect machinery that will be able to withstand the impact of the next world war and prepare forces that will be able, in the course of the conflict, to change the imperialist war into a civil war against capitalism.

Tammany Favorite Wants Fare Boost

Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Company, speaking in Cleveland before the American Electric Railway Association, urged abolition of the five cent fare in New York. Young is high in the councils of the Tammany branch of the democratic party and is one of those favored by Al Smith as candidate for governor.

The open declaration bears out our contention that the Tammany city administration under Al. Smith's night-club, song-writing mayor, Jimmy Walker, in spite of his declarations to the contrary, is aiding the traction trust in its attempt to boost fares in New York for workers who are compelled to risk their lives on the subways and elevated railways.

CAMPAIGN CORNER

Funds for the Communist Election Campaign are coming in to the national headquarters in increasing volume. But it takes a lot of ten dollar bills to make $100,000. The capitalist parties will spend at least $20,000,000, between them to hoodwink and corrupt the workers in this election campaign. Raskob boasts that the democratic party will use up $1,000,000 in an effort to debauch the farmers. Al Smith's radio speeches will cost over half a million dollars. In face of this gigantic capitalist slush fund the sum asked by the National Election Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party looks very small indeed. But Communist campaign funds will be used to educate the masses and not to hoodwink them. It means millions of leaflets and hundreds of speakers. "AMERICAN POLICY HAS NOT BEEN CHANGED" By Fred Ellis

Another Bankrupt Convention

District 7 Meeting Exposes Corrupt Lewis Cliques; "New Union Only Solution"

LANSFORD, Pa. (By Mail).—The convention of District 7, United Mine Workers of America, adjourned after a five day session, at which two cliques of reactionaries charged each other with corruption in the district elections, extravagance, and that one of the cliques was supported by the republican party while the other by the democratic party.

The convention selected for district president Mike Hartneady, who was declared "elected" after the votes of 5 local unions were thrown out, in this way defeating Bert Williams, a candidate in the opposition, selected by the Lewis machine.

Williams surrendered himself to the Lewis machine, rumor reports, and he has been promised that they will take care of him. It is interesting to note that the Lewis machine candidate "received" only 3714 votes, out of 12,000 members of District 7. Williams, after the votes of 5 local unions were thrown out, was credited with 2,657 votes, while Mattey, the present president, received 2,070 votes.

Progressive Delegates Unseated.

At the first day of the convention, by the decision of Thomas Kennedy, the International secretary-treasurer, 7 delegates, representing over 800 members of the Local 1376 of Hazleton, were unseated, because they had failed to pay assessments and, according to Kennedy, they had sent delegates to the National Miners' Convention at Pittsburgh. This local union contributed money for the striking soft coal miners direct to the rank and file thru the National Miners' Relief Committee. The votes of this local were also thrown out by the Lewis machine.

During the speech of John J. Casey, who is running for congressman on the democratic ticket from Luzerne County, delegates Joe McCoy and John Podesva interrupted his speech declaring that they do not want to listen to the capitalist politician, and that the union should support only candidates on the labor party ticket. They also brought out the point that the railroads are hawling scab coal and that the miners and railroad workers should stick together. They were ruled out of order by the chairman of the convention, but many delegates expressed their approval.

Attack Progressives.

During the entire convention, leaders of the Lewis machine attacked and slandered the former Save the Union movement. Andrew Mattey, ex-president, opening the convention made the following statement:

"During the past two years our union has been harased from within and without, by the activities of certain radical elements masquerading under the title of "Save the Union Committee."

John J. Casey and Thomas Kennedy attacked the Save-the-Union movement in a similar way. Mike Hartneady, former sheriff of Carbon County, in his speech admitted that the Save-the-Union movement had made inroads into District 7 and was making progress. He said that he met at this convention delegates who were delegates to the National Miners' Convention at Pittsburgh. (Hartneady was one of those who led the gangster attack on the delegates at the hall of the National Miners' Convention in Pittsburgh.)

The Lewis machine at this convention passed a resolution forbidding members of the local unions to listen to the new union organizers, or permit them to speak at local union meetings.

Nothing About Miners' Conditions.

During the time of the convention, which lasted five days, not five minutes was spent by the Lewis machine in discussing the problems confronting the miners and the working class in general. They did not even pay attention to the strike which has been in progress for some time. The miners in these collieries are fighting against indirect wage cuts, worsening working conditions and for seniority rights in the Sandy Run colliery. The problem of unemployment was not taken up either. In Panther Creek section, Collieries 4, 5 and 6 have been closed down many weeks by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co., as unprofitable mines. Four thousand five hundred men are idle and many of them are on the point of starvation. Sometime ago the miners of this company went out on a general strike with the view of forcing the company to operate all the mines equally. The strike was broken by the Lewis-Kennedy-Mattey machine. The idle men appealed to the convention for help, and the convention under the control of the Lewis gang "promised to make an appeal for relief."

Money For Officials.

Thru expulsions of local unions and general neglect of the organization, the membership in District 7 has dropped down considerably. There is not enough money coming to the district to pay its officials. So the Lewis machine passed a resolution demanding the annexation of 20,000 members of the 4th Inspection District of District 1. By adding that number, they are figuring on getting enough revenue for their fat salaries and expenses.

New Union Necessary.

"If there was any question as to the point that a new union had to be built, it was proven by the Lansford convention, and this must be done by the militant rank and file." This is a statement by one of the delegates to the Lanaford convention. Although the convention was controlled by the Lewis gang by packing it with officials, the pressure of the rank and file was felt at the convention. It was under the pressure of the rank and file that Bert Williams and his supporters threw the convention into an uproar by submitting several hundred affidavits signed by members that they had not visited the union polls on election day. The fraud, stealing of fake votes, was exposed at the convention and proved beyond doubt that the Lewis gang controlled District 7 only by this method, and by terror and expulsions.

The militant element in District 7 will use this to prove to the rest of the membership that the union here is controlled by an unscrupulous gang of officials and that the new National Miners' Union must be built, which will take up the fight for the interest of the rank and file. The militant element in District 7 are progressing in organizing their forces and will wage a vigorous fight to win the rank and file for the new union.

Thomas Nixon Carver, for twenty-six years professor of political economy at Harvard, is one of the leading apologists for imperialism and tries to rationalize all its ramifications, including defense of labor-fakers and labor-banking. Harold J. Laski, Oxford graduate, a typical liberal with fabian socialist leanings, is a consistent villifyer of Communism. Morris Hillquit has been for years the theoretical leader of the socialist party of America and is high in the councils of the second international. Militancy Grows Among Negro Workers

By H. C. WILLIAMS.

There is a marked radical change taking place among the Negro masses of North America, despite the fact that there are so many obstacles in their way. With the open betrayal of the race by the republican and democratic parties, we are observing an ideological revolt on the part of the entire race. This revolt is being symbolized and developed under the hegemony of a black leadership. The Negro masses have been predominantly under the influence of the republican party for over sixty years. The republican party has been able to symbolize Abraham Lincoln as the martyr, the man who freed the Negro race from chattel-slavery. It is with this myth the capitalist class of America has been able to tie the Negro race of America hand and foot to the bandwagon of republicanism.

Recently in Chicago at the Elks national convention, the slogan was for the nomination of a black president. The National Inter-Racial Independent political party announced in Washington that a meeting of Negroes had been called at Philadelphia September 3, to make known their purpose to bolt the republican ticket, and give their reasons for doing so. Other conferences are to be held in Chicago and New York. The notice of the meeting says: "Negroes to bolt the republican party and vote for Dr. S. P. W. Drew, vice-presidential running mate of Gen. Jacob S. Coxey of Ohio, inter-racial party."

The Independent Order of Elks, with a membership of almost half a million Negro men and women, were on the verge of bolting the republican party, but was betrayed by the treacherous petty bourgeois Roscoe Simmons, and Robert B. Church, who had not guts enough to stand with their persecuted comrade Perry Howard, the last Negro republican national committee man from the state of Mississippi. He has been indicted by the United States grand jury in Mississippi on charges of selling federal offices.

The argument was made that now is the time for a "protest vote." These are signs of a new era in the life of the Negro people of America, which will take on great momentum against the ruling class of America.

Many Negroes are still laboring under the illusion that in order to spite the republican ticket they should vote for the democratic party, notwithstanding that the democratic party is just as ruthless as the republican. Did not this same party openly kick the Negro in the face when not a single Negro delegate was seated in the democratic convention, and a Jim-Crow cage was provided for Negro visitors.

The Workers (Communist) Party realizing its historical role in the class struggle was the only political party that had 24 Negro delegates that actively participated in all its sessions at their national nominating convention which took place last May.

Read the program and see for yourselves. It was the Communist Party which demonstrated to protest against Wall street bankers on behalf of little Haiti, China, Nicaragua, Philippines, etc; no other party could have demonstrated such solidarity but a truly revolutionary party, against their own white oppressors, the capitalist class of America.

WHO owns Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner Nelson Ruttenberg of New York City? By his meal ticket you shall know them. As these lines are being written, Wednesday, September 26, the taxicab industry of Gotham is spending thousands of fares on a luncheon tendered to Mr. Ruttenberg at the Hotel Astor. Twenty industrial organizations connected with the taxicab business are of the opinion that the fourth deputy police commissioner is their man. No doubt other business interests have a "piece of him," as they say in sporting circles, but it appears that the taxi magnates own the lion's share.

LITTLE black books are as incriminating as little black satchels. It was a little black satchel that caused a general suspicion at one time that A. B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, had profited to the tune of $100,000 from the leasing of the Elk Hill naval reserve oil lands to Edward L. Doheny, the oil magnate. Albert said they were all wrong and evidently he was right, for is he not at large and very much so? Indeed Albert was recently offered $800,000 for the ranch purchased by him with Doheny's oil dough. The reward of honesty!

A little black book is figuring in the misfortunes of the Philadelphia police force which is being charged with an alliance with the bootlegging industry to the great comfort of the bluecoats and the mirth of the mellowed population. Why the police should be indicted for serving such a great and flourishing industry is not very clear. It is not fair. The police are the servants of business. That's what they get paid for. Why discriminate against the malefactors of bad booze when the other malefactors of great wealth are treated decently?

PERHAPS the Hoover campaign managers got their idea of wide-spread prosperity from reading the income tax reports of the Chicago bootleggers. The Internal Revenue Collector in Chicago has tax liens ranging from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 against Terry Druggan, Frankie Lake and John J. Nolan. Great powers that they are, it is reported that Lake and Druggan are treating with government plenipotentiaries for a compromise.

MAYOR WALKER has suddenly come to the conclusion that some churches are political institutions. He would therefore tax church forums. The only thing the matter with this discovery is that it is not a discovery. With hardly an exception churches are supporters of the present social order and religion is one of the strongest bulwarks of capitalism. Walker's decision results from the hippodrome conducted by the mountebank Straton in his Calvary Baptist Church. Had Straton confined his political raving to attacking Communism instead of Al Smith, the mayor would not grudge the churches the money they save in taxes at the expense of citizens who would not give a hoot if all the preachers in the metropolis were fighting fleas in Bowery flop houses.

Imperialist Clash in Arms Is Intensified; France Sharp to U.S.

"Does Not Mean Death of Anglo-French Pact," Briand

U. S. Notes Delivered

Admit Pact Applies to Land Forces

(By United Press)

PARIS, Sept. 28. — The American reply to the French-English naval agreement, while apparently unfavorable, is not regarded by France as meaning the death of the agreement.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, after reading the American note closely, said to the United Press:

"The American attitude has been known in France for several days, but I do not consider the discussion closed as long as France, England, and probably other nations, support the European viewpoint on naval disarmament."

Imperialist Clash.

The American note was delivered to Philippe Berthelot, secretary of the foreign office, at 12:30 p. m. today without comment. It expresses the American attitude toward the position taken by England and France in favor of no limitation on small cruisers and submarines.

A high official of the foreign office pointed out that the United States makes not even the slightest concession in the note to the European viewpoint, but "attempts to dominate the other nations." Nevertheless, he continued, the American note near its end reopens the door to a proposal by France or any nation for definite limitation, both by tonnage and numbers, of craft of all categories.

No Reply.

The official expressed the opinion that there is no need for haste, as naval disarmament experts already have months of work ahead, which they now will study with the new expression of American views in mind.

Neither France nor England, it was said, would reply immediately to the American note, as the subject will be handled with a view to possible modifications by the foreign offices concerned.

PARIS, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—It was admitted in official circles, after weeks of denials, that the question of land armaments was included in the Anglo-French agreement.

The admission was that at least a "moral promise" exists between England and France by which England supports the French views regarding land armaments, especially extensive fortification of the French frontier and the maintenance of French troops in her colonies. It was insisted that nothing had been put in writing, although the land agreement was considered an essential part of the naval accord.

The apparent determination of France to maintain her naval and military agreement with Great Britain will undoubtedly intensify the bitter struggle for power which is now going on between the United States and her chief imperialist rival, Great Britain.

The agreement is primarily directed against the United States and grows out of the conflict over war debts and the bitter imperialist struggle for raw materials, colonies and markets.

AUSTRALIA DOCK STRIKE SPREADS

Government Declares "Crisis Exists"

SIDNEY, Australia, Sept. 28.—Five hundred special police of a projected force of 2,000 were yesterday issued rifles and put under the command of army officers by the Australian government.

In a proclamation issued at the same time as the rifles, the government stated that the extraordinary measures were the result of disturbances between strikebreakers and dock workers now on strike in all Australian ports.

"A national crisis exists," the government's proclamation asserts.

Police clubs today beat dock pickets from the water front injuring many while the newly armed special platoons stood by to lend a hand should the strikers prove as superior to the police as was the case during yesterday's disturbances.

Attempts of the strikers to dissuade strikebreakers from loading cargoes were everywhere violently dispersed by the police. Premier Stanley Bruce in a statement issued today declared that the government is determined at all costs to operate the maritime service at maximum.

It is expected that the 2,000 special police will be encamped at Port Adelaide by tomorrow. The government has announced that the platoon will be armed with rifles and bayonets. They will also carry side arms.

The strike of harbor workers began following the refusal of the government to alter its ruling that shippers may hire on a two shift basis, discharging in the afternoon men hired in the morning and taking on new workers to fill their places.

BAZAAR WORK AT FASTER TEMPO

Many Organizations Increase Activity

Not as big as the great Nijni Novgorod Fair which has just closed in the Soviet Union, but certainly one of the greatest bazaars ever held in this country will take possession of Madison Square Garden next Thursday when the National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar opens. The bazaars will continue for four successive days, closing Sunday.

From every part of the country workers' organizations are responding to the appeal of the National Daily Worker-Freiheit Bazaar Committee and are busy collecting articles, greetings and names for the Red Honor Roll and selling tickets. During these last few days before the opening of the bazaar work is being especially intensified in order to assure the success of this all-important event.

Thousands of articles of all sorts will be on sale at prices suitable for proletarian pocketbooks. In addition there will be many features and entertainments. Saturday, Oct. 6, will be children's day and special events are being arranged for that day.

An announcement from the committee also states that all money for greetings and for names for the Red Honor Roll must be turned into its office, 30 Union Square, today, in order that the souvenir bazaar program may be able to go to press.

SOCIALISTS HOLD "RALLY."

While the mass meeting of the Workers (Communist) Party was in progress last night, a handful of "socialists" attended a Party "rally" at Carnegie Hall. The place was less than half filled with an immaculately dressed group of small business men.

The pot boilers of the socialist party, McAllister Coleman, Professor Robert Morss Lovett, August Claessens, James Maurer, William Carver and Norman Thomas spoke. Carver praised the "patience" of the socialist party which "year after year" has been waiting for its turn. Other speakers assured the assemblage that Norman Thomas was a fine candidate.

Call Conference in Cleveland Oct. 16

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 28.—Mobilizing all forces in order to combat the Community Fund Movement by which workers are fleeced of thousands of dollars, the Workers (Communist) Party has called a conference for Tuesday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 p. m. at 3046 E. 4th St.

An appeal has been sent to trade unions, fraternal clubs, and other workingclass organizations to send two delegates to this conference, which will lay plans for combatting the Community Fund on a large scale.

The appeal points out that the Community Fund drive is being backed by some of the biggest open-shop firms in the city who compel every worker to contribute from $1 to $10 to this fund. Much of this money is used not to aid the workers, but is diverted to such institutions as the Y. M. C. A. and the Boy Scouts.

GITLOW HAILED IN MINNESOTA

Exposes Steel Trust at Big Meeting

(Special to the Daily Worker)

VIRGINIA, Minn., (By Mail—Delayed).—Benjamin Gitlow, vice-presidential candidate of the Workers (Communist) Party ticket spoke here on September 19th to several hundred workers mostly in the employ of the steel trust, on the issues of the election campaign and the program of the Communist Party.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one despite the spy system of the steel trust which keeps tabs on the activities of the iron workers who braved the driving rain to hear the message of the class struggle. There was considerable applause when Gitlow declared: "We can tell the agents of the steel trust present at this meeting that the conditions prevailing in the metal mining industry are making for an organization campaign in that industry, that the campaign will be started, that the workers will learn how to fight the steel trust and its agents, and that a militant fighting union will in the near future be established in the metal mining industry."

Speed-Up Low Wage.

Gitlow, speaking of the metal mining industry said, "Five years ago there were 10,000 workers employed in the Mesaba Range, today less than 5,000 workers on the range turn out more tonnage than five years ago. The steel trust that owns the mines, maintains a big spy system to terrify the workers and to keep them away from organization. The wages paid by the companies are from $3.50 to $4.50 per day. Thousands of miners have been eliminated from the mines. The introduction of machinery has been costly to the miners in the industry."

The great game of high-speed graft and big-business rake offs was further elaborated yesterday at the trial of Maurice E. Connolly, former Queens borough president, and Frederick Seely, former borough engineer on trial in connection with the $30,000,000 Tammany graft exposure. What little has hitherto been left undisclosed as to the ways of the Tammany politicians and their big business masters, is being reluctantly broadcasted.

John F. O'Rourke, millionaire contractor who accumulated his wealth building tunnels for the generous Tammany contract donnars and among whose happy hunting grounds were two tunnels under the East River, testified that his connections with "See Jack" Phillips, the late sewer pipe king were sufficiently powerful to compel Seely and indirectly Connolly to do his bidding.

At first, O'Rourke testified the Queens politicians "had refused to look" at him, but after he had seen "See Jack" Phillips, the Queens sewer department wrote O'Rourke's own specifications into a contract.

"Phillips told me he wanted $50,000 for his compensation," O'Rourke said. But somehow O'Rourke managed to get off with a tax of only $8,500. Phillips was so mad he used an expletive and followed it with language so forceful "that I don't believe I'd repeat," the modest O'Rourke declared.

RED CONFAB IN NEW ENGLAND

Will Stress Election Issues

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 28.—Declaring that the old capitalist parties are both enemies of the working class and that the so-called socialists are a party to the political confidence game being played on the workers, the New England Election Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party has issued a call for a conference at which the militant elements of the labor movement in that section will unite their forces against the parties of the capitalist class.

The district conference will take place Sunday, October 14, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon

"The two big parties are spending millions to bluff the masses. There are no real political differences between the republican and democrat parties. Both are the enemies of the workers. Hoover and Smith are the candidates of big business. The Wall St. interests will win regardless of which of the two are elected.

"S. P." Petty Business Men.

Non-Party Workers Attend

Indicative of the growing influence of the Workers (Communist) Party over the militant sections of the working class, more than 4,000 workers crowded Central Opera House last night in an enthusiastic demonstration of their support of the program of the Party of the class struggle. Fully one-half those present are believed to have been non-Party members who have participated in the militant struggles led by the Communists and are now ready to support the Party politically.

First Big City Rally.

The meeting was the first New York State election rally of the Party in this city and marks the real opening of the Communist campaign here. The chief candidates for the state offices and a number of candidates for congress were greeted with a renewal of the enthusiasm which marked the recent national and state conventions of the Party held in this city.

Speaking on the role of the Workers Party in the coming imperialist war, Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker, and candidate for U. S. Senate, declared that one of the great claims that the Communists make for the support of the workers in every locality is the fact that they alone have the correct program on international issues. "The great fact to which the Communist Party points and against which it is rallying the working class," Minor declared, "is the war danger. While the other parties, including the bankrupt socialist party, are deliberately camouflaging the war danger; the Communists expose its growing menace."

Great Enthusiasm.

Spontaneous applause greeted the speakers throughout the meeting. At various times the "Internationale" was struck up to the lusty singing of four thousand workers. "Tis the final conflict, Let each stand in his place!" Several in the audience who earlier had dropped in casually at the socialist "rally" staged simultaneously at Carnegie Hall were heard to remark: What a difference! This is a meeting of life; here is the growing working class."

Expose Smith.

Analyzing the hypocricy and inconsistencies in the speech and position of Al Smith as revealed in his speech delivered at St. Paul, Minn., Thursday night, Bertram D. Wolfe, candidate for congress for the 10th Congressional District, and National Agitprop Director of the Workers Party, traced the connections of the Tammany Hall candidate with the same power interests, who Smith declared are in control of the republican government.

Acting as chairman of the meeting, William W. Weinstone, organizer of District 2, promptly struck the keynote of the meeting when he declared: "The Communist Party is not only a Party of the ballot but of the class struggle, we call upon the workers not only to vote with us but to fight with us—and we lead their battles."

Richard B. Moore, organizer of the American Negro Labor Congress and candidate for congress from the Twenty-first District, spoke on the Communist Party and the Negro Masses, exposing the

WORKING YOUTH MEET TO OPEN HERE TODAY

Several hundred delegates are expected to attend the 2-day Working Youth Conference which opens at the Labor Temple, 14th St. and Second Ave., today at 2 p. m.

These delegates will represent many industries and trades, local unions, youth organizations, and many organized and unorganized shops where young workers are employed. Leading left wing trade union leaders, including Ben Gold, Louis Hyman, and others, have endorsed the conference.

The problem of organizing the unorganized young workers will be dealt with thoroughly at this conference. Practical steps and plans will be worked out for carrying on a systematic campaign for organization.

The report for the Provisional Committee, as made known by its spokesman in advance, will announce the printing of over 50,000 leaflets for various trades and industries, several mass meetings, contacts with many local unions, youth clubs, and shop committees, and the individual activities of organizations which have endorsed the Working Youth Conference such as the Young Workers (Communist) League, Local 43, Millinery Workers, the Knitgoods Workers Union, the Needle Trades and other organizations.

Among the speakers will be Robert W. Dunn, labor economist; Albert Weisbord, secretary-treasurer of the newly-formed Textile Workers' Union; John J. Ballam, industrial organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party in District 2; Philip Frankfeld of the Young Workers (Communist) League and a young textile striker, who will present the greetings of his fellow strikers in New Bedford.

HOLD CONFAB ON SCHIFFRIN CASE

Defense Body Rallies Workers of Shops

Militant workers are responding speedily to combat the frame-up of William Schiffrin, who is to come before the grand jury charged with homicide. This is indicated by the large numbers signifying their intentions to participate in the conference to be held tomorrow afternoon by the William Schiffrin Defense Committee. The conference will open at 1 o'clock in Irving Plaza, 15th St. and Irving Place.

Their suspicions of an attempted frame-up against Schiffrin, lulled for a short while because of the overwhelming evidence presented in court proving that Schiffrin was defending his life, the progressive workers here were jerked awake with a start when Magistrate Dodge Thursday held Schiffrin for the grand jury, in face of the irrefutable evidence of his innocence.

Increasing Efforts.

When the Schiffrin Defense Committee saw a judge hold Schiffrin without bail when the witnesses for the prosecution themselves were compelled to admit facts that proved Schiffrin a hero, fighting for his life, they heightened the defense campaign. They therefore are warning the workers to be on the watch to halt the capitalist and socialist coalition that hates militants in the labor movement equally well. The workers are being appealed to, to stop this unholy alliance from claiming another victim.

Numerous mass meetings are being held throughout the week in all sections of the city where Jewish workers live. The campaign, the committee says, will be broadened

Attention: Members of Dist. 2, Workers Party!

"By directions of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party the District Executive Committee is calling a meeting of all members of the district to hear a report on the World Congress of the Communist International and on the Election Campaign.

"The meeting will be held Tuesday, October 2, at 8 p. m. at Central Opera House, 205 E. 67th St. Admission will be by membership book only.

"Further details will be announced in the press.

"William W. Weinstone, District Organizer."

PARIS WORKERS PROTEST PRICES

PARIS, Sept. 28.—The working class section of Paris has assumed a sullen mood that has awakened considerable concern in the Quai D'Orsay, due to the tremendous jump in prices during the last six months.

The price of commodities, chiefly food, has increased more than 20 per cent since last January. The government is trying to avert serious demonstrations by assertions that it will "attempt to prevent" profiteering in food and try to fix prices.

WORKERS PARTY TO FIGHT NEBRASKA JINGOES

Campaign Committee Asks for Funds to Put Communist Ticket Back on Ballot

The action of the labor-baiting government of Nebraska in throwing the Workers (Communist) Party ticket off the ballot after the Communist petitions were properly filed according to law with the secretary of state and accepted by him for filing, will be answered by the National Election Campaign Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party with a vigorous campaign to get the Party ticket back on the ballot in that state before the dead line for filing is reached.

This was made clear in a statement issued yesterday from the headquarters of the National Election Campaign Committee, 43 E 125th St., by Alexander Trachtenberg, chairman of the committee.

Take Up Challenge.

Trachtenberg said: "The ruling class of Nebraska, fearing the effect of Communist propaganda on the exploited workers and farmers of the state, decided to make use of every means to throw the Communist ticket off the ballot. With this aim in view they put up the fascist Veterans of Foreign Wars and the strike-breaking American Legion to protest against the appearance of the Communist ticket on the ballot on the ground that the Party was 'un-American' and 'subversive.'

"The 'un-Americanism' and 'subversiveness' of the Communist Party consists in its agitation and propaganda among the exploited workers and farmers of Nebraska and the United States with the object of organizing them for the struggle to take possession of the land they till and the machinery they operate for the profit of the exploiters instead of for the benefit of the producers.

Accept Challenge.

"The Workers (Communist) Party accepts the challenge of the labor-hating ruling classes of Nebraska and will wage a vigorous campaign to have the Party ticket on the ballot in the November elections.

"The National Election Campaign Committee therefore calls on every Communist and Communist sympathizer and every reader of the Communist press to contribute at once to the cost of defraying the expenses of this campaign. The path to proletarian victory is strewn with obstacles and only by a relentless struggle against the ruling class can this victory be achieved. This fight calls for further financial sacrifice on the part of the class-conscious workers who see in this election campaign an opportunity to rally the opponents of the capitalist system for the struggle and to help

City-Wide Conference of Needle Trade Workers to Aid Red Campaign on October 9

CALL IS ISSUED DENOUNCING THE 3 BOSS PARTIES

To Lay Definite Plans at Meet

Workers in the needle trades industry of New York were yesterday called to elect delegates and representatives of their labor organizations and factories to a conference called to endorse the presidential candidates running in the fall elections on the ticket of the Workers (Communist) Party. The call was distributed in the thousands in the markets and gathering places of needle trades workers, by the Needle Trades Campaign Committee. It was signed by Aaron Gross, leader of the Furriers' Union as chairman, and I. Stenzer, chairman of the Cloakmakers Joint Board as secretary.

Cites Bitter Struggles.

After showing in its appeal the anti-working class character of the three boss parties, republican, democratic and socialist, the call states the conference will be held Tuesday evening Oct. 9, at 6 o'clock, in Bryant Hall, 42nd St. and Sixth Ave. The appeal declares:

"Within the next few weeks we will be called upon to cast our votes in the coming presidential election.

"We, the needle trade workers, have gone thru a bitter struggle during the past few years; a struggle in which we had to meet the combined hostile forces of the socialist trade union bureaucracy, the bosses and the capitalist state, with its democratic and republican judges; a struggle in which we have seen the interests of the workers sold out to the bosses by the misleaders of the union, and where every attempt of the workers to defend their union and union conditions was met with the full power of the brutal police force of the democratic Mayor Walker and Governor Smith, whom the bureaucrats of the American Federation of Labor have endorsed as "the friend of labor."

Socialists Are Enemies.

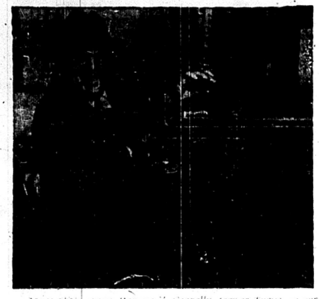
"The experience of the past few years have demonstrated to the workers that the socialist party, (under whose leadership the pogrom against the needle trade workers was launched), just as the big capitalist parties, is only an instrument of oppression against the workers. The struggle has thought the workers of our industry to distinguish their friends and their enemies. It has taught them the need for building real unions, controlled by the rank and file. It has taught them the need of a real political party of the working class which will stand ready to defend the interests of the mass of workers against the bosses and their agents.

"Now the time has come when the workers of our industry must translate these lessons into definite action. During this coming presidential campaign the needle trade workers will have an opportunity to demonstrate that their bitter experiences of the past few years have not been in vain, that as a class-conscious worker they will throw their entire support to that party which has championed their interest, that party which has always been the first to support every effort of the workers of our industry as well as other industries to improve their conditions, The Workers (Communist) Party.

Ready to Fight.

"Let this conference be the answer of the needle trade workers to all the acts of treachery of the socialist party, the instigator and leader of the present struggle. Let this conference in no uncertain terms tell all the enemies of the working class that just as we are ready to fight them on the economic field, just as we are ready to fight against their destructive deeds, their treachery and provocations on the picket line, just so are we ready to fight them on the political field."

Seems Sure "Trial" Will Whitewash Him



Above photo shows Maurice V. Connolly, former Tammany boro president of Queens, after he stated the other day that the jury "trying" him on sewer graft charges was a "blue-ribbon" jury, and perfectly satisfactory to him. He does not appear worried about the outcome of the "trial," knowing that capitalist political grafters always get off.

treacherous role of the socialist party, which, Moore showed, was not different from the other capitalist parties in its program for the Negro masses.

Poyntz Stresses Campaign.

Juliet Stuart Poyntz, candidate for attorney general and national secretary for Women's Work of the Party, stressed the importance of the present campaign in America and showed its relation to the growing left movement of the international proletariat.

Rebecca Grecht, election campaign manager of the district, spoke on the old parties and their betrayal of local issues in the city. She made an appeal for financial support for the campaign which netted several hundred dollars. An appeal for new members to the Party resulted in about fifty responses.

Phil Frankfeld, district organizer of the Young Communist League, spoke on Youth in Industry and the Militarization of the Youth. A Young Pioneer, Bernard Berner, spoke on the Pioneers and the Boy Scout movement.

Final Signature Drive to Be Held Tomorrow

Tomorrow, the last and decisive day of the intensive campaign waged in New York for signatures to put the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party on the ballot, will witness the final mobilization of Party members in all sections to complete the required quota.

While Williamsburg, Brownsville and the Co-operative Bronx sections are those most in need of signatures, the drive must be continued with increased vigor in other sections, according to the District 2 Campaign Committee. All members are urged to report at their headquarters Sunday at 9 a. m. The Bronx branches of the Young Workers (Communist) League will report at 2075 Clinton Ave. for the the final drive in the Third Bronx Assembly District.

EAGLE PENCIL SLAVES

I. L. D. Protests Police Attack on Meets

Charging direct collaboration between the Tammany police and officials of the open shop Eagle Pencil Company, the New York section of the International Labor Defense, 799 Broadway, in a statement issued last night, denounced the police action in interfering with meetings of the Workers (Communist) Party, in front of the Eagle company, 14th St. and Ave. C and demands that there be no interference with future meetings. The statement, signed by Rose Baron, secretary, follows:

"The breaking up of the Workers (Communist) Party meeting in front of the Eagle Pencil Company early this week was one of the most brazen acts of police-boss terror against workers that have recently occurred in this city.

Aiding Bosses.

'Every action of the police gave evidence that they were working upon orders from the officials of this viciously open shop company. The slaves of the Eagle company, working long hours for miserable wages under unendurable conditions must be kept in subjection and their minds must be drugged and guarded against receiving any message that would enlighten them as to the reasons for their misery. This is the program of the company and this is the program of the Tammany police, long notorious for their terror against workers.

"The meeting of the Workers Party was an election campaign meeting which aimed to expose the role of the capitalist parties in keeping the workers enslaved. Had it been a meeting of the democratic or republican party, would it have been broken up? Not only did the police forbid the meeting, but finding themselves unsuccessful in completely disrupting it, they drove the workers of the Eagle Pencil Company who were listening to the speakers back into the factory to prevent their minds from being 'polluted' by this 'Red' propaganda.

"The New York section of the International Labor Defense strongly denounces the abrogation of all the legal rights of citizens of this country in the attack upon this meeting. We charge this to be part of the general drive against the militant working class in which the Tammany police is helping the bosses to keep the workers in complete subjection.

"We demand that the police cease from interfering with Workers Party meetings in the future and pledge our fullest support in fighting against the attacks of the boss-controlled police and courts."

NEEDLE TRADES IN BRONX RALLY

Three More Meets Are Scheduled Today

The Red Election Campaign of the Needle Trades Campaign Committee was opened with a bang Thursday night, when at the corner of Intervale and Wilkins Aves., the Bronx, one of the largest open-air meetings ever held for the Workers (Communist) Party was held by needle trades workers.

Chief among the speakers were Ben Gold, prominent leader of the left wing furriers and Communist candidate in the Twenty-third Congressional District, and Charles Zimmerman, Red candidate for assembly in the Fifth Bronx assembly district and manager of the Dress Department of the National Organization Committee of needle trades workers.

Despite the chilly weather, hundreds of Bronx workers crowded around the Communist platform and listened to the platform of class struggle of the Workers (Communist) Party. The speakers were greeted enthusiastically and received large ovations.

Other speakers were Rose Wortis, of the Dressmakers' Union; Winogradsky, Furriers' Union, and Silkowitz, Cloak and Dressmakers. S. Hertz, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, was chairman.

Three more open-air rallies will be held today by the Needle Trades Campaign Committee. In East New York, at the corner of Williams and Sutter Aves., L. Cohen, Liptzin, Taft, Jones, Lena Charnenko, Nat Wilks will speak. Ostrinsky will be chairman.

Under the chairmanship of H. Sazar, the following needle trades workers will speak in Brownsville, at the corner of Bristol Street and Pitkin Avenue, Ph. Goodman, Zeibel, Sylvia Blekeer, J. Goretzky and L. Cohen.

In Williamsburg, at Grand Street Extension and Havemeyer Street, J. Weisberg, A. Zirlin, William Abrams, I. Potash, Pinchefsky, Cibolsky and Wishnefsky. The chairman will be Kadrinetsky.

Mussolini Calls Meet of Fascist Editors to Dictate News Policies

ROME, Sept. 28.—To dictate the policy that all newspapers in Italy must follow in their handling of news and editorials Mussolini has called a conference of the fascist editors for October 10 at the Chigi Palace.

At that time he will also instruct the newspaper corporations to "insure" the success of the fascist agricultural colonists which will be held on November 3.

Mother Bloor to Speak at Boston W.I.R. Meet

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 28.—The conference of the Workers International Relief to aid the striking textile workers here will be held Sunday, Sept. 30, at 2 p. m. at the Credit Union Hall, 62 Chambers St.

Ella Reeve Bloor will be the principal speaker. Plans for a house to house collection to help the mill strikers will be taken up at the meeting

LONDON MURDER TRIAL.

LONDON, Sept. 28 (UP).—The case of San Dwe, Burmese, Christian Mahout and former guardian of the late Pa Wa, sacred White Elephant, was resumed in Marylebone Police Court today. San Dwe is accused of the murder of his friend, said Ali, Mohammedan Mahout, with whom he lived at the London Zoo.

MINERICH NAMED AS A CANDIDATE ON LABOR TICKET

Pennsylvania Party Selects Militant

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 28.—Papers were filed today in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by Max Jenkins, County Secretary, of the Labor Party, for the nomination of Anthony Minerich, a militant leader in the miners strike, and chairman of the National Miners' Relief Committee, it was announced today by E. P. Cush, State Secretary of the Pennsylvania Labor Party. Minerich was named to fill a vacancy on the Labor Party ticket, for Congress in the 32nd Congressional District, N. S. Pittsburgh, and a portion of Allegheny County along the Allegheny River.

"The County Executive Committee of the Labor Party, has used good judgment in selecting Tony Minerich," Cush declared, "as he is one of the most consistent fighters against all those who oppose organized or unorganized labor."

Mrs. Anna Mondell, militant wife of a fighting miner of Renton, has also been selected to represent the Labor Party, as a candidate at a special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of the state senator in the 45th senatorial district of Allegheny County.

Anti-TrustProceedings Are Filed Against 8 Leading Cinema Firms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (U.P.)—Anti-trust proceedings have been filed against eight leading motion pictures producers and the West Coast Theaters, Incorporated, of Southern California, the Justice Department was advised today.

Distributors and producers named include Paramount famous Lasky Distributing Corporation, First National Pictures, Universal Film-Exchanges, United Artists Corporation, Fox Film Corporation, Vitagraph, and Pathe.

The West Coast Theaters operate 100 motion picture theaters in Southern California.

Red Squads Will Wind Up Williamsburgh and Brownsville Drives

Williamsburg will be the chief scene of the activities of the Red Squads of Sections 2 and 3 tomorrow. All members of these sections are required to report at 46 Ten Eyck St., the headquarters of the Williamsburg section, for the drive to put across the Thirteenth Assembly District, or at 154 Watkins St., the Brownsville headquarters, for work in the Twenty-second Assembly District.

In sending out the call to the Red Squads of Sections 2 and 3, the District Campaign Committee urged that emphasis be placed on an especially large mobilization for Williamsburg.

Three-Cornered War Looms as Radio Trust Seeks More Control

(By United Press)

The possibility of a three-cornered struggle for supremacy in the domestic communications field was seen here as a result of the Radio Corporation of America's request for 68 new short wave channels in the United States.

The company announced its intention of establishing a radio network over the United States to compete commercially with the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies.

Australian Workers Leader Is Acquitted

SYDNEY, (By Mail).—"Jock" Garden was acquitted today of the charge of wilfully inciting to murder on which he was arrested on June 13, under the States Crimes Act following a speech relating to the marine cooks' strike in which he was alleged to have said: "If scab cooks man vessels our own tactics may change. We may supply union men even though scabs are aboard. The scabs won't be good sailors. They will have to go to the railings occasionally. They may lose their balance . . . in which case the sea is deep and dead men tell no tales."

W. Allen White, Power Trust Hireling, Back

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (UP).—Willim Allen White, Kansas author and editor, will return to the political battlefield "within 24 hours," he announced today on his return from a two months' European trip.

He admitted having received $500 for a speech to the National Electric Light Association convention at Atlantic City, N. J., before he sailed.

BRITISH-U. S. OIL WAR PROCEEDING

Royal Dutch Adds to Capital

LONDON, Sept. 28.—To further complete the reported British oil-chemical combine and to complete steps in the trustification of these industries, the Royal Dutch-Shell, English oil company, has bought the Flintkote Company, a manufacturer of asphalt and other petroleum products, according to the announcement of Chester E. Rahr, president of Flintkote.

Eight to nine millions of additional capital has been added to the company by the Royal Dutch-Shell. An effort will also be made to buy up the stock held by American financiers in Flintkote. The asphalt company will be assured of all its raw materials and petroleum.

Many Workers Attend Cutters' League Meet

At a crowded meeting of the Cutters Welfare League, held last night at the headquarters of the Joint Board of the Cloak and Dressmakers Union, 16 W. 21st St., the reports delivered by the officers showed that the organization is increasing by leaps and bounds.

I. Horowitz, organizer, reported that many cutters are joining. Representatives of the National Organizational Committee reported on its activity in New York and out of town, emphasizing the accomplishments in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago.

TORIES TO FIGHT COMMUNISTS ON CLASS ISSUE

Baldwin Shifts Strees at Conference

GREAT YARMOUTH, England, Sept. 28.—Prime Minister Baldwin of England admitted that the real danger facing England now was the "threat" of Communism and the extreme laborites and Communists among the British working class, at the conference of the conservative party here today.

A conference had previously adopted a resolution that would make the chief issue in the coming election campaign the question of "safe-guarding" the coal and iron industries and declared itself in favor of a stronge protective tariff. Baldwin in his speech, in part to save the tories from a split on the protective tariff, mostly to meet the opposition of the MacDonald labor party, shifted the emphasis to the danger of the militant working class movement, which, he said, MacDonald and his group could no longer control.

The maneuver was largely due, it is thought, to the danger of a conservative party split and the possibility of a MacDonald-Liberal coalition gaining power.

out so that workers in other industries can be told of this vicious attempt to railroad an innocent worker.

The conference tomorrow is expected to be representative of many thousands of workers in New York City. Leaders of the militant labor movement in New York are to be the principal speakers. Plans for work are to be passed on. Labor organizations will be reached through speakers and literature to apprise them of the true facts in the case.

Schiffrin had defended his life single-handed against an attack of six "committeemen" armed with knives and sent to attack Schiffrin by the right wing officialdom of the Butchers Union. With his back against the wall, as witnesses proved, Schiffrin fought off his assailants and wounded two, one dying later.

Company Stool-Pigeon

Patrick Connolly, head of I. R. T. Company Union, stool-pigeon among the traction workers, has been made a director in the I. R. T. as reward for services to company. Connolly owns valuable real estate in Yonkers, which seems suspicious to I. R. T. workers in view of the fact that Connolly claims he gets only 86 cents an hour, just as the other workers do.

WILL DEVELOP USSR UTILITIES

Foreign Concessions to Be Granted

MOSCOW, Sept. 28.—Following the change in the policy of the Soviet Government, which is more favorable to foreign capital investment in concessions, the Concessions Committee has announced that foreign capital would be welcome in helping to develope the public utilities in sixty principle cities.

The announcement says that the population in the cities is growing with great speed and that a 20 per cent increase is expected during the next five years. To meet this, an expansion in city utilities, at a cost amounting to about a billion and one half rubles will be necessary of which foreign concerns are asked to invest about 400,000,000 rubles on a concession basis. These concessions will be subject to the same restrictions as previous ones, namely that at the end of a certain period all the developments are to be handed over to the Soviet Government.

"SPLENDOR" OF PAST

TOKIO, Sept. 28 (UP).—Yasuhito, Chichibu-No-Miyra, heir presumptive to the throne of Japan, and Setsuka Matsudaira, daughter of the Japanese ambassador of Great Britain, were married today at Chiyoda castle. The army salute of 21 guns heralded a new princess of Nippon as Setsuka was registered as Princess Chichibu.

NEW YORK CITY WORKERS AIDING TEXTILE RELIEF

Many Respond to Call of W. I. R.

As a result of the Textile Relief Conference held recently by local New York, Workers' International Relief, workers organizations, unions and individual workers who pledged contributions, have been sending in their quota fulfilling their promises, according to a statement just issued by the secretary, Harriet Silverman. Organizations which were represented are urged to take action immediately if they have not yet done so, and at the same time begin the drive for clothes and shoes. Plans for the opening of the clothing station are under way and announcement of the location will be made within the next few days.

In accordance with the program adopted at the conference, workers are actively laying plans to raise money to meet the needs of New Bedford and Fall River strikers. Section 4 must be given credit for being the first to put through a plan that of taking a collection at the Vegetarian Restaurant, 1606 Madison Ave. during four days, Sept. 25, 26, 27, and 28. The restaurant in cooperation with the workers has arranged to contribute 10 per cent of the prooceeds to the strikers. Jacob Ginsburg is in charge.

Sections in the Bronx, Brooklyn, Harlem, Williamsburg, and all parts of the city should communicate immediately with the Local Secretary of the W. I. R. for arrangements to give motion pictures performances of "The Crowd." All workers are expected to do their utmost to answer the relief call from New Bedford and Fall River.

Greek Center Will Hold Dance Tonight

A dance, arranged by the Greek Progressive Center, will be held tonight, beginning at 8 p. m. at the Center, 101 W. 28th St.

All workers have been invited to attend the affair, 25 per cent of which will be donated to the Daily Worker, which is now campaigning for 10,000 new readers.

The Greek Progressive Center, which is situated in the heart of the fur and millinery district, expects to draw most of these workers not only to the dance tonight, but to the activities which will feature its daily work.

British to Construct Singapore Naval and Air Base in Grab for Power in East

PREPARATION FOR COMING WAR ON SOVIET UNION

Total Cost Will Amount to $50,000,000

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Demonstrating its determination to continue its naval pact with France and to strengthen all its military outposts in spite of the objections of the United States government, the British admiralty has announced that construction of the great new naval base at Singapore will be immediately completed.

Singapore, located as it is on the Malay Peninsula, offers a strategic point for a British naval base, from which the fleet could oprate in the protection of the British route to India and the far east. From this point effective operations can be launched against any power that threatens the British Empire in the east upon which England depends so much for maintenance.

Threatens Other Powers.

When the MacDonald "labor" government came into power and suspended operations on the naval base in 1924, the Japanese government unofficially expressed its approval, for it considered that a British naval base at Singapore would threaten its expansion in China and southward.

The base will be one of the largest in the world, enabled to accommodate the largest warships. It will be strongly defended by long range guns and will also contain one of the principal British air bases. The total cost is estimated to be about $50,000,000 and the initial clearing work has already been completed on a six-mile frontage.

To Fight U. S. S. R.

In view of the British colonial empire in the east and the dissatisfaction of the natives with the English rule, it is generally evident that the base will be used for purposes other than to protect British interests from American and Japanese encroachments. The base will further strengthen the British eastern cordon against the Soviet Union.

Need Funds for Drive in Nebraska

build the Workers (Communist) Party.

"The need for funds is vital. Marshal your dollars against the red-baiters of Nebraska. The National Election Campaign Committee will supply the propaganda and the speakers."

Other Difficulties.

In Kansas, Hugo Oehler, the district organizer, and several active comrades are under indictment for alleged violation of the state criminal syndicalism law. These comrades are being defended by the International Labor Defense, but side by side with the legal struggle must go the political campaign of the Party, exposing the capitalist dictatorship masked under the camouflage of democracy, a democracy that never hesitates to use every legal and extra-legal method to crush any working class organization that threatens its existence. Money is needed to wage a militant campaign in Kansas.

Let Your Money Talk!

The job of putting 23 states on the ballot has cost a great deal of money. New states are being added weekly and before the last filing date has arrived we xpect to have over 30 states in the red column. The success of the Communist election campaign, despite the numerical weakness of our forces and the desperate lack of funds, should be a challenge to the enthusiasm of every member of the Workers (Communist) Party and every sympathizer. The raising of funds is a political duty of the first order. Those who are active in the organizational work of the campaign are asked to contribute every dollar they can afford. Those who are not in a position to take any active part should make up in part for this inactivity by the largest possible financial contributions.

Let your money talk.

propagandistic, to compel the strikers to accept the proposal of a 5 per cent wage-cut, offered by the manufacturers as a strike settlement.

The 28,000 men and women on strike, however, are unanimous in their condemnation of all forms of compromise, their spokesmen expressing their determination to continue the tieup till their demands are met.

Frantic editorials appear daily in the local press calling on the workers to accept the proposal. Ministers preach that the workers "whom they have till now supported" should capitulate. Business men and the papers appeal to the leaders of the Textile Council to bring the proposition to their locals with a favorable recommendation.

Broaden Relief Drive.

So united are the workers in following the slogan of "no compromise" which the militant Textile Workers Union has put forward, that the officialdom are afraid to [illegible] their isolation from the [illegible] giving any such endorsement.

Leaders of the T. W. U. and local heads of the Workers International Relief announce that the national campaign to gather relief funds and supplies is being broadened because of the expectation that business men here will now refuse credit to the only real relief source of the strikers. Till now they were more liberal in their credit extensions, because 28,000 strikers and the rest of the sympathetic working class of the city are no mean proportion of the total population.

Plan Secret Ballot.

Batty and his gang in control of the Textile Council are to go tonight to the meetings of their locals with intentions to carry thru a secret ballot on the question of acceptance of the five per cent wage-cut offer. Although their statements hitherto lead to the belief that they are opposed to the 5 per cent offer, concern is nevertheless being felt among the few that still belong to that union for the honesty of the vote count.

It would not be exceptional for the Council officialdom to pull the same stunt of ballot box stuffing as was done by the officials of the Fall River section of their union.

A Catholic "Reverend," Father Noon, in a statement to the press, urges eloquently that the workers "be big and show the country that some real people traverse our streets." These "appeals" he, as well as the numerous other clergymen, are addressing to husbands and wives of families who have been starved and exploited by the mill barons and their fat-bellied women for many years.

Tightening of the union machinery to meet any attempt on the part of Batty to sell out is now the order of the day at the headquarters of the T. W. U. Thousands of leaflets are being distributed among the strikers by the union and picket lines are being called to each mill again.

T. W. U. Issues Statement.

In a statement issued to the press, the T. W. U. asks all businessmen, and their clergymen aides to mind their own business and not give uncalled for advice on what the mill workers should or should not accept as wages.

Over 6,000 strikers jammed Elm Rink last night at the first showing of moving pictures of the New Bedford strike and the Passaic strike of 1926.

Leaders Speak.

Leaders of the local Textile Workers' Union and of the new National Textile Workers' Union of America addressed the huge gathering. Mother Bloor, old fighter for labor, also spoke and was accorded a tremendous welcome.

Ellen Dawson, Joseph Costa, and Marion Botelho were arrested yesterday evening while on the picket line. They were fined $20 when they appeared on charges of parading without permits at court today.

KILLED IN PLUNGE.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 28 (U.P.)—Edward Lee Randolph of Pleasantville, N. Y., was killed today when he fell or jumped from a fourth-story window in Haughton Hall, a Yale dormitory.

former Queens borough officials, charged with graft in connection with the awarding of sewer contracts, was heightened yesterday with the admission of Dr. William Matthews, that he had offered $20,000 for the nomination for sheriff of that borough.

Matthews, former personal physician of John M. Phillips, sewer pipe king, said he did not get the nomination and later told the jury he left the city to avoid further questioning in the investigation of alleged political graft.

Is Go-Between.

Previously he had told of the activities of Phillips in his rule of the sewer contracts and testified he had received checks for Phillips, one for $3,500 and another for $5,000. These, he said, were Phillips share of the Linden Street contract, for which he was to have received $50,000.

Earlier evidence had connected Phillips with John F. O'Rourke, whose company had the contract for the Linden Street work, in which Phillips wanted to sell O'Rourke a substitute for the steel plates used in the construction work.

Matthews said Phillips wanted $50,000 for getting the substitution in installments as the city pa[illegible] approved, with his part to be paid O'Rourke. Later vouchers introduced tended to prove the substitution had been made.

EXPLOSION KILLED 45

MELILLA, Morocco, Sept. 28 (UP).—The official casualty list in Wednesday's explosion which destroyed the Spanish citadel here was issued today.

It showed 45 known dead and 342 injured. The death list may have been greater, since parts of bodies were found which could not be assembled.

BRITISH IN IRAQ THREATENED BY 40,000 NATIVES

Wahabi Tribes Launch Attack

JERUSALEM, Sept. 28.—Forty thousand Wahabi, Mutair and Ateibah tribes are preparing for an advance on Iraq, where British troops, tanks and airplanes are concentrated, refugees from the district of Maan, near Transjordania, report.

The refugees declare that about 20,000 of these forces are now encamped at Juf, about 250 miles east of Maan. They also report that forces of similar strength, under the leadership of Feisaled Dawish, are advancing upon Iraq, formerly called Mesopotamia, which contains the famous British controlled oil fields at Mosel.

All the natives living in the direct line of the approaching forces are reporting to be fleeing towards the west side of the Hedjaz Railways.

Music Lovers.

Mr. Surma, of the Surma Music Co., 103rd Ave. A, asks us to tell the Daily Worker readers that quite a few of them have availed themselves of the opportunity of buying records, piano-rolls, etc., many of them being revolutionary songs, at the cheap rate at which he sells them. But, of course, he would like to see more revolutionary music lovers.

The Ukrainian Workers Club has had many of their songs reproduced on the record; there is also the International which can be obtained in English as well as foreign languages.

Besides being able to buy the music desired, one has the chance of listening to any musical selection without charge. Special booths are provided for this, in which, after a hard day's work, one can comfortable lounge while listening to songs or dances.

Since we read books and newspapers, Mr. Surma has provided a section of his store with books, magazines and papers so that one may either come to read, buy or just discuss.

The place is open to you

Booze Sleuths Held for Shooting Girl

LORAIN, Ohio, Sept. 27 (UP).—Twenty-two-year-old Betty Haywood lay in hospital today with a bullet wound in her head, and three members of Mayor J. C. Standan's liquor squad were in jail, as a result of a fusillade of shots fired into a private automobile last night.

Richard Haywood, father of the girl, said his daughter was hit by one of several bullets fired at his automobile when he failed to stop at the command of three men.

25 Years as Soft-Soaper for Murder by State

Photo above shows Rev. William Cashin, catholic chaplain at Sing Sing prison, whose job for the past 25 years has been to stage the farce of "spiritual consolation" for prisoners about to be murdered by New York State in the electric chair. Religion is thus used to white-wash the brutality of the capitalist legal system. Cashin posed with his grand-niece, in an attempt to hide the hideousness of his job by sentimentality.

vine oaths at the "wicked politicians."

"While this political confidence game is going on the Workers Party membership are to be found in the forefront of the heroic struggles of the New Bedford textile workers, the miners, shoe workers, needle trades workers, etc., always in the vanguard of the struggles of labor.

"Our Party enters this campaign with the main object of utilizing the elections as a means of reaching the masses, to make class conscious and mobilize the workers for struggle against capitalism. The Workers Party aims to unite the local and sectional struggles of the workers into a united working class struggle against the whole capitalist dictatorship. In order to do this we appeal to your organization for active support in this campaign.

"The Workers Party is therefore calling a conference for the purpose of gathering together all the forces of labor into one united labor-front in the election campaign to express its class solidarity against capitalism in the elections this year; we therefore invite and urge your organization to send two delegates to this conference which will be held on Sunday, Oct. 14, at 2 o'clock at the New International Hall, 42 Winonah St., Roxbury, Mass."

RECOGNITION OF NANKING LIKELY

Murder Regime Is Regarded de Jure by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The state department is planning formal recognition of the Nanking regime after the de jure recognition which it accorded Nanking thru the tariff treaty signed June 25th, it was rumored here. That the tariff treaty means virtual recognition of the Nanking government was admitted by the State Department yesterday.

In the meantime the United States continues to maintain a large force of warships in Chinese waters.

Formal recognition of the Nanking government is expected to occur in view of the policies which that government has been pursuing. Its attitude toward the Soviet Union and the efforts which it is making to crush the struggles of radical workers and peasants, have met with the approval of the State Department. The government has also showed itself markedly friendly to the United States.

50,000 HAMBURG WORKERS LIKELY TO STRIKE TODAY

Arbitration Award Is Rejected

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 28.—A strike affecting 50,000 shipyard workers in the port of Hamburg is likely to be called today or tomorrow, when the existing agreement terminates.

When the shipowners refused to grant the demands of the workers an attempt was made to avert the strike by submitting the points of dispute to a board of arbitration.

When the board of arbitration gave its decision in favor of the shipowners the workers rejected its award, and the feeling among the workers is such that they will not work under the terms of the existing agreement. When the agreement terminates tomorrow all the 50,000 shipyard workers are expected to be on strike.

Conditions in 2 Phila. Prisons 'Deplorable,' Grand Jury Admits

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28 (UP).—The September grand jury, in its final presentment before Judge Raymond MacNeille, today declared conditions of two major county prisons were in a deplorable condition. Those which were condemned are the Moyamensing prison and the new county prison at Holmesburg, Pa.

Charges were that the grand jury in its visit of Holmesburg had found the food not palatable and prison conditions deplorable, due, apparently, to the crowed conditions.

Fruit was wormy, the bread a mass of dough, beef stew bad, and some of the prisoners were without underclothing, one charge stated. Lack of employment was also scored. The prisoners said they were afraid to complain in the report.

SNAPSHOTS of GREAT NEW BEDFORD FIGHT

(Note:—This is the third and concluding article of impressions of the New Bedford strike. The first two appeared last Saturday and Thursday (yesterday in the National Edition.)

By A. B. MAGIL.

BESSIE KATSIKARIS is 18 years old. She is a weaver and has been working since she was 15. When the strike started she was making $19.80 for a 48-hour week—better pay than the average. Her father, Louis Katsikaris, is also a weaver, and father and daughter worked together in the same mill.

Besides Bessie there are six other children in the Katsikaris family: three boys and three girls. "Baby" is two years old and Korila is four. The mother is dead.

Bessie was ironing when we entered the gloomy, dilapidated house in the north end that these children call home. Her dark thin body looked tired and wasted as she bent over the table, but her black eyes were brilliantly alive in an intense sharp face and the movements of her hands were restless and eager.

Poverty stares from the walls of the Katsikaris home, poverty like an old festering sore spreads over everything. But Bessie is a bright thing in this house. She is sister and mother and all things to these six small children.

Bessie talks eagerly of the strike. Her voice is animated and determined. "I've been arrested five times and my father six," she says with proud, flashing eyes, "but they can't scare us.

"Me and my father used to belong to the Textile Council. But it didn't take us long to learn that they're a bunch of fakers and scabs. Batty and Binns are out only for themselves and to help the bosses. They don't care what happens to the strikers. The T. M. C. really fights for us and organizes us and keeps our people together. Why, the whole of New Bedford isn't worth as much as the T. M. C."

She went on relating incidents of the strike, but never for a moment dropping her ironing. Every now and then a howl went up from one of the kids who had gotten into some trouble, and Bessie would run over and set things right again. Though Baby and Korila were bashful children, they were up to all sorts of mischief when left alone.

"When do you intend going back to the mill, Bessie?" I asked half-jestingly.

Again her eyes flashed. "Not until they take away the wage-cut and give us our 20 per cent. increase!" And she added: "Yes, and not until they recognize our union. None of our people will go back. We would rather starve."

Her thin, 18-year-old body quivered and defiance looked out of her dark eyes. I knew she meant it.

WE were on the point of leaving when she stopped us: "Wait!" She ran into the kitchen and quickly emerged with a bottle and several small glasses. She poured out a liquid that looked almost like water. Its taste, however, was decidedly unwatery. "This is a Greek drink," he said, calling it by a name which I made no attempt to repeat. "My father made it."

Just then the father came in. Louis Katsikaris is a Greek worker of about 40, with a sharp, bony face and bright, deepset eyes. His body is thin and wiry, his gestures have his daughter's sharpness and he speaks in short, nervous phrases.

Katsikaris looked sharply at four-year-old Korila. He dug his hand into his pocket, pulled out a penny and tossed it to the child. A smile lit up his face as the child grabbed the coin.

He talked readily. "I don't care dey arrest me 15 times—I go to picket-line. Every day I get up 5 o'clock, go to mills, look around, see no scab should work. I no 'fraid of [illegible] Dey arrest me five times ('six,' corrected his daughter), but I no 'fraid. Batty and Binns—dey no good. Dirty bastards. Tell us not to picket. Go home, go to sleep. What for dey tell us not to picket? If we no fight, we no win strike. I go among people—I say: T. M. C. is good union, T. M. C. no 'fraid of bosses or police. Come to T. M. C."

He paused a moment and then burst out: "Me—I a straight BOLSHEVIK!"

"How long have you been working in the mills?"

"Fifteen year."

"How many hours do you work?"

"I work 14 hour—at night—from five o'clock to seven next day."

Fourteen hours a day—84 hours a week!

Think of it, delicate-souled idealists, humanitarians, Nation and New Republic liberals, poets and preachers and apostles of peace—think of it: in the year 1928, in the land of the greatest wealth, the land where all men are free and equal, Louis Katsikaris, mill worker, toiled 14 hours a day, spent more than half his life, nearly all of his waking hours slaving behind a bastille of dark mill walls in order that he and his own might enjoy the miserable fruits of that society which human civilization, after thousands of years of struggle, of pain and blood, has gloriously brought to birth!

II.

THERE was a hubub around Potomska Hall, the south end meeting place, as Jack Rubinstein, youth organizer, and I came up. An excited worker pointed to a truck coming down the street. The truck was carrying a player piano and a group of happy, smiling workers. A great shout went up from those outside the hall as the truck drew up. Strong shoulders were placed under the pianola, arms lifted it up and a dozen panting, perspiring workers dragged it upstairs to the hall. Pipes were connected, bolts fastened. Somebody put on a roll and began grinding out a jazz tune. There was a cheer. Those who knew the words sang, while other kept time with their feet.

An old man pushed his way through the crowd. His gray hair straggled from his battered felt hat. He sat down and began to play. "Solidarity Forever!" The room shook with a hundred voices. Solidarity Forever!

Elevi Rachappell, an American-born textile worker of French-Canadian stock, had been a member of the American Federation of Textile Operatives for many years. He was a loom-fixer and was one of those who composed the Textile Council, consisting of the 27 representatives of the various crafts.

For 22 weeks of the strike Elevi Rachappell had stuck with the Textile Council. And as further evidence of his loyalty he had brought his pianola over to Textile Council headquarters to liven things up. For 22 weeks the instrument had faithfully served Mr. Batty and Mr. Binns and their organization of betrayal.

But Elevi Rachappell wasn't stupid. Nor had association with Batty and Binns entirely corrupted him. He watched hundreds of Textile Council strikers gradually deserting, going over to the Textile Mill Commitees and their fighting program. His fellow-workers talked to him, and after 22 weeks Elevi Rachappell finally began to understand.

And so on this Saturday morning Elevi Rachappell walked into Textile Council headquarters with an unusually determined stride. Mr. Batty was sitting there alone. Rachappell looked him in the eye. "I want my pianola," he said.

"Who says it's your pianola?"

Rachappell pulled out the papers he had received when he bought the instrument. "Good enough?"

"I'm leaving your outfit," he said. "I'm going to join a real union—the T. M. C."

Mr. Batty was visibly downcast. He had heard that tune before.

He began to plead with Rachappell. He offered him $20 if he would let the pianola stay. "No!" said Rachappell. Finally he grew angry. "You're nothing but a bunch of dirty yellow scabs!" he shouted, flinging his union card to the floor. He called together his friends of the T. M. C., who secured a truck, and the pianola was taken out.

Mr. Batty looked on in silence.

I talked to Elevi Rachappell. He felt a little contrite, like a person who had been consorting with thieves. But he was glad that he had at last come over to the T. M. C. to fight side by side with the thousands of his fellow-strikers.

"They're nothing but yellow scabs!" he repeated.

The wife of Elevi Rachappell is in the hospital. Once she weighed 215 pounds; now she weighs only 88. Count that up on the credit side of the mills. He has two sons, one 14 and the other 18. The older one he refused to mention by name.

"He's no better than a scab, a yellow scab. And I told it to him, too. He's a member of the National Guard, and when there was that big picket demonstration at the Whitman Mill, at which 256 of us were arrested, he came down with the National Guards. And what do you think? He put a bayonet to my chest. I slapped him in the face and told him he was nothing but a dirty scab. He belongs with Batty and Binns!"

III.

MY last memory of New Bedford—a picket demonstration at the Page Mill.

Two picket-lines were walking up and down in front of the mill. Another group of strikers stood nearby. Police were stationed at strategic points and questioned every passerby. There were 65 scabs in the Page Mill, 65 sneaking, groveling scabs who were trying to stab their fellow-workers in the back. And, where there are scabs, there are always police to protect them.

Casmiero Lamieras, one of the most militant and most frequently arrested of the picket leaders, came riding by on his bicycle. One of the uniformed guardians of the mill owners' interests grabbed the handle bars and threw Lamieras to the ground. Instantly the mass of workers surged forward. Cries and imprecations filled the air. The cop grew pale. A colleague, more experienced in such matters, whispered a few words to the frightened policeman. They decided to let Lamieras pass. The strikers moved back, a dark, defiant tide.

It was only a light skirmish, but it showed the hidden power of the workers—and gave intimation of sharper conflicts. Only two days later police fired at strikers marching from the Page Mill, clubbed many and threw several into jail. One of those arrested, a 63-year-old striker, was so brutally beaten that he had to be taken to the hospital.

Remember, it is a crime to strike in America.

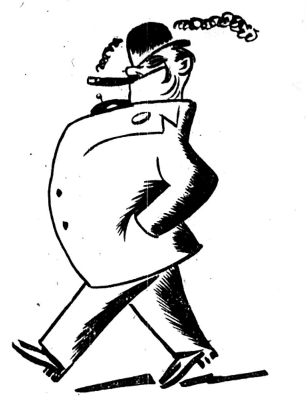
New Bedford fights on and will fight on. It is hard to straight-jacket one's emotions in stiff, orderly words. Those who attended the convention that brought the new National Textile Workers Union into being know how useless it is to try to give even a fragmentary impression of the heroic struggle of these 30,000 workers. Something too alive and intense, too full of tragedy and great, strong hope is happening in New Bedford. And victory is more tangible, more near than the largest and most terrible mill.

Batty Comes From a Boss Conference



Election

Old elephant shined it's nose
With oil draught from a pot,
Covered by the great big dome,
Where rotten tea could be got.

The elephants nose shined in the sun
In the great circus of Uncle Sammy,
Said in fun: everything is done,
Let's pay a visit to Tiger-Tammany!

The Tiger was tamed, it knew it's tricks,
As it grew up in the Sewer,
It's dwelling was built from good grafty bricks,
The circus owners were good teachers to her!

She knew what was coming; awaited the visit,
So dressed up especially for the affair,
Her skin was spotty, so she greased it,
Clean and spotless glittered her hair.

"Old Alp is coming," yelled the stout Tamer
"Get into the old trick, don't make any fuss!
Show that you are angry, make faces at her,
For now has started the greatest Circus!

Old Alp has entered with it's oily skin
From which the oil was slowly dripping
And yelled in defiance: this fight I'll win,
So started to give the Tiger a whipping.

The Tiger hissed; Old Alp moaned,
The circus crowd was full of fire,
The battlers mouth from hatred foamed
As the stout Tamer managed the wire.

The circus ground was covered with oil,
Like a sewer of filth it looked,
The stout tamer seen the crowd boil
So had both wires on a nail hooked.

And laughed with contempt at the mob
Which witnessed the sham-fight,
Yellow to his partner: say listen Bob
Old Man Barnum was perfectly right!

Mengelberg to Conduct Opening Philharmonic Concert

Willem Mengelberg, conductor of the Philharmonic-Symphony Society, opens the eighty-seventh season on Thursday evening at Carnegie Hall with a program comprising the Beethoven "Coriolanus" Overture, the Mozart Divertimento, Strauss' Till Eulenspiegel, and the Schubert C major Symphony. The program will be repeated on Friday afternoon. On Sunday afternoon the Schubert work will be replaced by Bernard Wagenaar's First Symphony, a premiere performance. Another novelty, by an American composer, the Fata Morgana of Emerson Whithorne, is scheduled for the Thursday afternoon and Friday evening concerts of October 11 and 12. Mr. Mengelberg conducts one other concert, that of Sunday afternoon, October 14, before turuning over his baton temporarily to Walter Damrosch. The latter makes his first appearance of the season on Saturday afternoon, October 13, at the opening of the Young People's series.

'Lonesome,' All-Sound Film Opens at Colony Tomorrow

The opening of the Colony Theatre, which has been wired for sound, is announced for tomorrow presenting "Lonesome," Universal's first synchronized and talking special to be seen and heard on Broadway.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., who supervised the production and Paul Fejos, who directed it, are expected to arrive here in time to view the showing of "Lonesome." At present the pair are working on "Broadway," an adaptation of the play of that name which was the outstanding stage success of last season.

OSSIP GISKIN

The noted cellist is one of the Russian Trio, who will appear in Town Hall this evening at the concert given by the ICOR for the benefit of Jewish Colonization in Soviet Russia.

"Germany's Side of the War," photographed from behind the German lines on all fronts in Europe, will remain a third week at the Fifth Avenue Playhouse.

The Roxy Theatre beginning today will present "Win That Girl," a new William Fox comedy, with Sue Carol and David Rollins in the principal roles.

"Q Ships" is being held over for a third week at the Cameo Theatre.

CONGRESS AGAINST FASCISM IS NEEDED

By HENRI BARBUSSE.

Since its inception fascism has spread itself gradually, almost automatically, over the whole world. It drives its tentacles deep and reaches over to countries which are still free. Fascism poisons the whole of contemporary culture.

This terrible spread of fascism is a logical phenomena. It would be a great mistake to ascribe the success of fascism in establishing itself master over whole peoples, to the individual daring and luck of a small group of adventurers. There are positive reasons why such a system of robbery should grow out of the ground in such a highly organized form.

Supported by Capitalism.

Fascism which drives its roots into capitalist countries according to the political and social circumstances of the countries, may take what form it likes, it may be official or semi-official, but it is always supported by the capitalist governments. All governments use fascism, either openly or covertly, in order to maintain "order." Even when they openly condemn fascism, they use it nevertheless in secret. Up to the present the necessary measures to drive fascism from its seat have not been taken.

What is fascism? Fascism is essentially the fighting formation used as a supplementary force to the official and "legal" means of power for the maintenance of a given social condition. Fascism offers the possibility of carrying on an energetic offensive supported by certain elements of the bourgeoisie and upon certain bourgeois masses whose economic existence is threatened by the difficulties of the present period (added to these social forces there are certain elements which are ready and anxious for anything) against the actual and possible progress of the working class. Fascism is an extra police force and an extra army in addition to the regular forces of the capitalist state, whose aim it is to hold down the rebellious masses by force and keep them within the framework of the capitalist social order.

It is perfectly clear that the reaction has always the same aim, i. e., to maintain the status quo of the social order in capitalist society. The same aim is held by all capitalist states who place their state apparatus at the disposal of the possessing classes in order to protect them against any encroachments on the part of the working masses.

Types of Fascism.

But fascism as a combined form of legal and semi-legal organizations of the counter-revolution which has grown up on the basis of the experiences of the post-war revolutions and the revolutionary actions of the working masses at a time when the official state apparatus and the reaction were unable to prevent social convulsions, differs from the normal reaction by the fact that with its two methods, its reactionary intensity, the number of its victims, etc., it strives to create the so-called preventative counter-revolution, or in other words it strives to prevent the coming of the social revolution.

It is sufficient to make a short review of the countries where fascism has expressed itself in one form or another, in order to see that fascism, no matter what its form, does not represent any specific fighting methods of the Italian bourgeoisie or any other country, but that at present it is applicable to all capitalist countries. The open state fascism in Italy, Spain, Finland, the Baltic and Balkan countries, the South American countries, Venezuela and Chile, and the semi-legal fascism which maintains the fiction of independence of the state apparatus, as in the United States, Germany, France, Great Britain, and even in the "classical land of democracy," Switzerland and in the Scandinavian countries, strive after the same aims and both represent the ruthless advance guard of the counter-revolution.

What Shall Be Done?

What are we to do in the face of this growing danger, in the face of the growing net of these political class murderers who are determined and conscious of their aims, who are subsidized by capitalism and who are urged onward by the theories of the heaven-sent right of imperialism?

Become excited, shout, expose the wounds, count the number of victims, keep count of the murdered? That certainly, but no complaints, no matter how eloquent they may come from the hearts of honest people, no lyrical condemnation can halt the onward progress of a machine which has been let loose amongst humanity with the express aim of preventing a transformation of human society by physical force.

Organization must be opposed by organization, numbers by numbers. Co-ordinated measures must be adopted and a united movement of disapproval organized whose voice is strong enough and determined enough to prevent this artificial catastrophe.

Action Urgent.

Two years ago together with Romain Rolland and other persons I founded an international anti-fascist committee which mobilized the most prominent personalities of the left wing movement from the idealists and democrats to the revolutionaries. In these two years the committee has acted. It interfered every time murder and brutality threatened. To a certain extent its activity has been successful and on certain occasions its moral authority and its energy has succeeded in placing bounds to the bloody excesses of international fascism.

That, however, is not enough. The time has come for a grand demonstration, an organized concentration of the anti-fascist forces by calling an international anti-fascist congress.

That is an idea which I am now expressing for the first time here to people with hearts and consciences, i. e., men and women who revolt against the brutalities, crimes and excesses of fascism which no honest citizen can continue to tolerate.

This congress must be convened upon the broadest possible basis and must naturally be kept apart from any direct political agitation and be above the political parties. A tribune will then be formed from the representatives of the victims, the executed, the persecuted can come from all corners of the world and expose facts to which the world must listen. The congress must also be an organization for work. It must examine all means which can be used in order to build up a damn, mighty and powerful, with which the proletarian organizations of the people can offer at least effective resistance to the forces of fascism.

Sylvia Lent, the talented young violinist, will appear in recital at Town Hall Wednesday night. The program: Partita, Johann Sebastian Bach; Sonata for Violin and Piano, Guillaume Lekeu; Saudades do Brail, Darius Milhaud; Nocturne, Lili Boulanger; La Fontaine d'Arethuse, Karol Szymanowski; The Flight of the Bumble-Bee, Rimsky-Korsakov-Hartmann; Hopak, Moussorgsky; Pavane, Ravel-Kochanski; Rapsodia Piemontese, Leone Sinigaglia.

Romberg's 'The New Moon', Well Done at the Imperial

"THE NEW MOON" at the Imperial is really a light opera, in the traditional manner, with massed choruses, a million dollars worth of sailor's uniforms, real singing, no jazz and quite a plot. The music is ascribed to Sigmund Romberg. This fellow has not only written a few marching songs for the French revolutionary sailors, of 1788-9, but he has evidently become converted to some kind of superficial and warped theory of nationalization; he has simply taken wholesale out of its original home the Barcarolle from Tales of Hoffman, a good chunk of La Paloma, and that tune, whatever it is, that the wooden soldiers in Chauve Soris march to. A lot of the rest of the opera sounds pretty familiar, too.

Evelyn Herbert

But ti is all good, and no one should seriously object to see some good use made of the Barcarolle at last.

The ladies of the New Moon are selected for slimness rather than beauty, but they can all sing. Marie Callahan, as Julie, has an especially pleasing voice. Evelyn Herbert, as Marianne, the principal feminine character, can not only sing, but is easy to look upon from certain angles—if only she and the others did not have quite so many angles!

The plot is a quaint one, about one Robert Misson, a revolutionist, fleeing from King Louis XVI to the extent of selling himself as an indentured servant in Louisiana, and taking with him (see the snobbish twist) his groom, Alexander. Alexander 'Gorgeous Alexander" of the song is responsible for the most of the comedy by-play. He has a touching skill in dancing on the nape of his neck. The part is taken by Gus Shy. Robert, sung by Robert Halliday, is the character used to introduce the fine marching chorus, "Stouthearted men," the refrain, "Shoulder to shoulder, bolder and bolder, we grow as we go along" alone is worth the price of admission and is good revolutionary theory as well.

The story in brief is that Robert and his friends, when Robert is trailed down and arrested by the royal police spy Vicomte Ribaut, mutiny, seize the ship, and land on a Caribbean island, where they set up a republic and prey on the French king's merchant ships. Ribaut is carried along out of spite; when he protsets that he would rather die than become a "pirate" they tell him that this is a promotion from police spy.

The love interest is largely concerned about the affair of Robert with Marianne, daughter of the ruling class. It will take more than a couple of revolutions, apparently, to shake this notion out of the heads of romance writers.

The scene of the first act is timed 1788, in the second act, and after a year on the island, that is, in 1789, a French fleet appears, the island is betrayed to them by a letter from Ribaut, and they land and take possession. Our bourgeois audiences are so little familiar with history that they gasp with astonishment as much as the stage character, Ribaut, when the commander of the landing party confirms Robert in his governorship, and announces that there has been a revolution in France. "The king is done," he says, with fine disregard for the historical detail that Louis was not even "suspended" until 1792, and not executed until 1793. But who learns historic details at a musical comedy? It is enough that some of the solvent New Yorkers should be reminded that 1789 was a red letter year in world affairs.—V. S.

efy Police Interference on Red Meets at Eagle Pencil and National Biscuit Plants

OSSES FAIL IN INTIMIDATION OF WORKERS

Hear Platform of the Workers Party

Nearly 500 workers of the Eagle Pencil Co. for the second time defied police and company officials yesterday and attended an open air election meeting held by the Workers (Communist) Party in front of the Eagle plant at 14th St. and First Ave. yesterday at noon. Intense interest in the meeting was shown by the workers, following the attempt by a cordon of police called by the bosses to force the workers back into the plant.

The speakers at the meeting yesterday were Rebecca Grecht, Workers Party candidate for the assembly from the Fifth Assembly District, and D. Benjamin, Workers Party candidate for state senator from Brooklyn. The speakers showed the workers that both the republican and democratic parties were the tools of the bosses, and cited the readiness of the Tammany officials to cooperate with the Eagle Pencil bosses by sending police against speakers who exposed the conditions in the plant. A distribution of several hundred copies of the Daily Worker and the Workers Party election platform was made. A third meeting will be held in front of the plant next Tuesday at noon.

A cordon of policce, maintained daily around the National Biscuit Company plant at 10th Ave. and 15th St., did not prevent workers at the biscuit plant from attending an open air election meeting held by the Workers' (Communist) Party. Besides a large crowd of National Biscuit workers, many longshoremen who work along the nearby North River waterfront were interested listeners. Bert Miller, organization secretary of District 2, Workers Party, was the speaker. He explained the Communist election platform, and showed the function of the capitalist parties as servants of the bosses. A meeting will also be hled at the biscuit plant next Friday at noon.

Kissing Babies Is Capitalist Candidates' Bunk Trick

Instead of squarely facing the important issues facing the workers, the capitalist candidates dodge these issues by attempting to mislead the workers with such tricks as kissing babies, hand-shaking, etc. Al Smith is shown above in a characteristic baby-kissing about to kiss a baby. Baby kissing and keeping silent about the corruption of Tammany are two of the things at which Smith excels.

HOLD FILIPINO WORKERS JAILED ON TRANSPORTS

To Work on Hawaiian Plantations

MANILA, (By Mail).—Conditions on board ships engaged in the transportation of laborers to Hawaii are about the same as if the laborers were convicted prisoners, according to charges filed here with the officials in the case of the Norwegian steamship, Sandviken.

This ship was chartered to take some 500 Filipino workers to Hawaii for employment on the sugar plantations. The repeated revelations of oppressive practices on the part of the ship charterers in the transportation of laborers has at last forced the officials to act.

In this case the laborers on board were not allowed to leave the ship although it was many days in port, the reason being this fear that they would file complaints with authorities for the recovery of their passage money. In addition the revelation of conditions on the ship and attending the making of the contracts, it was feared, would lead to criminal charges against the charterers. It is also charged that the laborers were not given enough to eat.

13 WORKERS KILLED

PIACENZA, Italy, Sept. 28 (UP).—Thirteen workmen were killed today by the explosion of a great vat of molten metal in the government arsenal here. Five persons standing outside the works, including a woman and her baby, were seriously injured.

SPEED SUB DRIVE, SOUTH RESPONDS TO "DAILY" DRIVE

Expect Hundreds of Subs in Few Weeks

Various cities in the South are getting behind the election campaign drive of the Daily Worker to get 10,000 new readers. Di Santo, touring organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party, reports much enthusiasm for the Daily Worker campaign and assures the Daily Worker in a letter received yesterday that hundreds of subscriptions will be raised within the next few weeks, particularly in Richmond, Va., where a recent meeting elected a new Daily Worker agent and an organizational committee for special Daily Worker activity.

Wilmington, Del., writes as follows: "We here in Wilmington are trying hard to win one of the prizes offered during the campaign drive for our press. We are enclosing a few subs as a beginning."

Sioux City, Iowa, also sent in five subscriptions with the assurance that they will make every effort to complete their quota during the campaign.

The increase in circulation of 400, as reported in yesterday's issue of the Daily Worker, applied to New York City alone, and not to the entire country. The total number of subs received so far are many times 400, and will be announced in the Daily Worker within a few days.

YANKS CLINCH PENNANT BY WIN OVER DETROIT

(By United Press)

The Chicago Cubs administered another crushing blow to the New York Giants' pennant hopes by beating John McGraw's team yesterday, 7 to 5.

The Giants made a game uphill battle, and knocked Bush out in the 9th but fell two runs short of tying the score, and the Cubs forged ahead again in the ninth.

Larry Benton pitched the first eight innings for the Giants and Joe Genewich finished the game.

Home runs by Gonzales and English in the fourth inning accounted for the Cubs' early lead.

Going into the ninth four runs behind, the Giants scored two runs and threatened to tie the score. After one was down, Ott walked and Lindstrom singled for his fourth hit of the game. Terry singled scoring Ott. Jackson walked, filling the bases. Bush was replaced by Carlson. Hogan forced Jackson at second, Lindstrom scoring. Reese popped up for the final out.

The St. Louis Cardinals virtually clinched the National League pennant by defeating the Boston Braves in a 15-inning game at Boston, 10 to 3, while the New York Giants lost to the Chicago Cubs at the Polo Grounds, 7 to 5.

Two games behind the Cardinals, the best the Giants can do is tie for the pennant by winning their two remaining games and the Cards losing their two.

The New York Yankees clinched the American League championship for 1928 by defeating the Detroit Tigers, 11 to 6. Although the Philadelphia Athletics, runners up for the pennant, also won today, the Yankees' victory made it impossible for the Athletics to tie them for the title.

Babe Ruth hit his 43rd home run of the season off Page, Tiger twirler, in the eighth inning.

Planes and Marines Keep Close Watch as Nicaraguans 'Register'

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 28.—The squadron of United States army planes, which is acting in an "observing" capacity while registration for the "elections" is proceeding, has reported to the army headquarters that they had not been resisted and that they could not observe any disturbances on the second day of registration.

One more registration day is to take place before the elections. Registration occurs while the American marines are on watch and squadrons of army planes fly overhead.

The Greatest Danger to the Working Class

So terrific is the momentum generated in the drive of the imperialist powers toward another world war that many class conscious workers, even a considerable number of revolutionists, fail to perceive its imminent danger. In such a situation the gravest menace to the whole working class is the danger of yielding to pacifist illusions—succumbing to the poison propaganda of the liberals, pacifists and social democratic agents of imperialism who indulge in dirty sermonizing to the effect that we are living in an era of peace and democracy. Closely akin to pacifism, and a symptom of its widespread permeation of the working class, is the tendency to underestimate the speed with which the world is being driven toward the next war. That danger manifests itself in an underestimation of the events of the past few weeks, particularly since the signing of the Kellogg "peace" pact at Paris.

Every lackey of imperialism, from the avowed spokesmen of the type of Briand, Kellogg, Chamberlain (or his substitute Cushendun), Tanaka to the miserable apostates in the camp of social democracy, the Otto Bauers, the Kautskys, the MacDonalds, the Hillquits the Thomases, is engaged in open or covert assaults on the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. Ever since the convening of the Sixth Congress of the Communist International, when the representatives of the vanguard of the proletariat throughout the world—the general staff of the whole revolution—met and decided the chief task of the proletariat of the world is to combat the war danger, the reptile press of Europe, particularly of those vassal nations of imperialism bordering the Soviet Union, has been foaming at the mouth like bloodhounds and violently traducing the Soviet Union. In this assault they were abetted by the congress of the second international, where some of the leaders of that organization of traitors to and assassins of the working class declared that the existence of the Soviet Union was the greatest menace to the peace of the world. At the identical time the imperialist powers are trying to outdo one another in villifying the workers' and peasants' government, they are using every trick known to diplomatic duplicity to strengthen their individual positions at the expense of their imperialist rivals.

Since the signing of the Kellogg pact, which was conceived in an effort on the part of American imperialism to weaken the influence of the League of Nations and prevent it, under the domination of England, from building a bloc of European nations against the United States, events have moved with amazing rapidity. Simultaneously with the signing of the pact came the announcement of a secret naval agreement between England and France. This was deeply resented at Washington as a move against the United States. Then came the assembly of the League at Geneva and the action of the German representative, Count von Bernsdorff, in refusing to approve the decisions of the commission dealing with the question of a preparatory disarmament conference. The revival of Germany, with the support of Wall Street capital, enables the capitalist class of that country to play what appears to be an independent role, and without doubt the German bourgeoisie, like all other national ruling classes, have definite interests for which they fight on the field of international politics—the desire for colonies, etc. But let no one for a moment fail to perceive that the action of Bernsdorff at Geneva is the symptom of an alliance between the German and United States governments against Britain and France. Count von Bernsdorff, in his actions at Geneva, spoke more for American imperialism than for his own government. At the same time certain political opponents of Briand, the French foreign minister, who maneuvered the naval pact with Britain, are mobilizing their forces against him and may likely gain sufficient support to cause the fall of the Poincaire cabinet. These forces favor an alliance with the United States as against Britain. The final moves on the world diplomatic stage will soon be concluded. Britain and the United States are playing for nations to support their respective interests. The same double-dealing that characterizes the European situation also exists in the Far East, where the United States, utterly contemptuous of Japan and Britain, officially recognizes the Nanking murder regime of Chiang Kai-shek in order to strengthen its position there.

Just as the Pilsudski government of Poland became more violent in its provocations against the Soviet Union, after the American fiscal agent, Charles S. Dewey, the advance agent and watch-dog of the Wall Street finance capitalists, had been on the job a sufficient length of time, so the government of Chiang Kai-shek at Nanking will launch a barrage of calumny against the workers' and peasants' government from its vantage point.

To underestimate the war danger is objectively to aid the war-mongers who try to lull the masses into a false sense of security while their war preparations are going ahead full blast.

It may be temporarily comforting to those who wish to avoid the realities of life to feel that war is far distant. But, as Lenin well said, "he who comforts a slave, instead of inciting him to rebel against slavery, thereby lends a helping hand to the slave-owners."

The Communist International has sounded the alarm and every Communist Party throughout the world faces the task of mobilizing mass sentiment against the imperialist conspirators. In this country the Workers (Communist) Party, the United States section of the Communist International, is the one Party that is following the inernational policy in the struggle against war. All those who would fight effectively against the war-lords of this country must support the Workers (Communist) Party in this election—and in the struggles that will inevitably come after the election.

Tell Us Something New

Another professor has made a great discovery. This time it is Professor E. M. Borchard, of Yale University, who informs us that practically every war that has ever been fought would have been legal under the terms of the Kellogg-Briand multilateral peace pact signed in Paris by representatives of the various powers.

The Sandwich Man Walks the Streets

By SHIRLEY ETLIN.

HE is old and his body stoops. He wanders aimlessly through the business streets of New York. His eyes stare vacantly as though blind. From his shoulders hangs a sign which reads :"Eat at Cafe Rich . . . best meals in town . . . delightful music and Table D'Hote Service."

People hurry through the streets . . . skyscrappers touch the soft white clouds . . . and the sandwich man walks up and down the crowded streets. A fat woman in a leghorn hat pushes against him, he leans toward the lamppost for support. But only for a moment . . . he mustn't stop walking. People must read the sign on his back, then he will get seventy-five cents. Seventy-five cents . . . a bed for the night, a glass of beer and something to eat. He won't have to stand in the bread line for endless hours to receive a plate of beans. He will keep on walking until they give him seventy-five cents.

He walks until he reaches the corner, then he stops to wait for the cars to pass . . . at the next corner he stops again until the cars pass. It is hot . . . the sun, searching for space to dig its tendrils, scorches his body. The sweat pours from his face, down his scrawny neck and through his tired body. His clothes hang limp and ugly. Who do the people push him so, how can they do it? It takes so much strength to push a man aside. How strong these people must be.

Yes, things move so fast . . . so fast that automobiles, trains, street cars, people, intermingle and dash around in streaks and circles, bumping into each other. Only he must walk slowly, he must evade the streaks and circles blinding his eyes, these atoms that crush his body and leave bruises.

People read his sign. Maybe they eat at Cafe Rich and taste foods. Mouths open and shut, eating food. There must be so much food to eat. Will they never finish eating all the food in the kitchen of Cafe Rich? Oh well, he will also eat food tonight, He will have seventy-five cents and a glass of beer. If it is still hot when night comes he will sleep on a bench in the park. He will save twenty-five cents. Some more food. Suppose the policeman walks through the park and tells him "move away" . . . "move away." In the park the stars shine so bright at night, and the cold gusts of wind blow on his face. In the hot room where he rents his bed for the night there will be only the smells from sweating bodies and dirty linen . . . and the stifling heat. He must sleep in the park tonight.

SOLITAIRE—HE CAN'T LOSE

"Thru Fellowship, Conciliation"

Socialist Party for Protection of the Capitalist System

By JAY LOVESTONE

IN the election platform of our Party we characterized the socialist party of America as follows:

"The socialist party of America, which still claims to be a working class party, is in fact a party of the lower middle class. Its leadership has become part of the bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor. Its whole ambition is to inherit the traditions of the LaFollette third party movement. The militant spirit of Eugene Debs has been completely wiped out from the socialist party.

"The presidential candidate of the socialist party, Norman Thomas, is the worst kind of pacifist, a typical preacher, who performs the greatest service for American imperialism by creating illusions about the League of Nations, about the possibility of preventing war by peaceful means. . . .

"The socialist party of today is for the protection of capitalist law and order, is against revolution, is against the working class government of Soviet Russia, and supports every measure of the American Federation of Labor bureaucracy for class collaboration. It has shifted its class basis from the working class entirely and definitely to the lower middle class."

Facts Confirm Analysis.

Every word of this characterization has proved to be true. An examination of the developments and events of the election campaign to date affords the best proof of this. Let us pose some questions and recount some facts to understand some of the evidence at hand.

The campaign waged by the socialist party to date has dropped all semblance of a working class character. The slogan of the Reverend Dr. Norman Thomas, the trailblazer for the socialists today, is "Fellowship and Conciliation." This was his keynote in Colorado, the scene of the recent murder of striking miners at Columbine, at the hands of the liberal democratic Governor Adams, a supporter of Al Smith. If we examine the friends and enemies that the socialist party has, to date, made in this election campaign, we will find the correctness of our estimate of its program and role borne out with terrific weight. Here are some facts.

1.—Capitalist Press Boosts Socialist Party.

The metropolitan bourgeois press is keeping silent about the Workers (Communist) Party and its campaign. At the same time, the socialist party is getting very effective, widespread publicity. Judging by the columns of S. P. publicity, one would think that the socialist party or some of its "angels" are heavy owners of New York Times stock. The radio is open to the socialist reverend. For the Communists the radio is closed.

Why is it that the capitalist press is giving the socialist party full blast publicity? To pose the question is to answer it.

2.—Government Attacks Communists—Protects Socialists.

State troopers and private steel, coal and iron police, in a number of localities, are working overtime to break up the Communist election campaign. In the state of Ohio, in Martins Ferry, we have a classic example of capitalist democracy at its best, when it deals with class-conscious workers. No election meetings of the Communists are permited there. In West Virginia, in Wheeling, the situation is no different. Contrast this persecution of the Communists with the energetic protection given by the capitalist government to the socialists in their election efforts. There's a reason. And it's to be found in the basic class difference, the difference in class interests, for which the Communists and the socialists speak. Throughout the country, the agencies of republican and democratic government welcome socialist speakers. Throughout the country, the agencies of capitalist government are doing everything in their power, utilizing all conceivable methods to interfere with and disrupt the Communist election activities.

3.—Fake Democracy and Its Blessings.

State authorities, American Legion organizations, representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, are working feverishly to keep the Communists off the ballot in those states where, despite almost insuperable legal technicalities, set up by the capitalists to disfranchise the workers, our Party has succeeded in getting on the ballot. The case of Nebraska is typical. Here the Party complied with all the legal regulations. Here our comrades worked well and overcame sundry technical obstacles. No sooner was this achieved than the government authorities, inspired by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, took our Party off the ballot. In Montana, technical pretences of a ridiculous character are invoked against the Communists in order to hide the implacable hostility of the capitalists, of the copper barons and the bankers to our Party. In Montana, we complied exactly as the socialist party did with the election requirements, yet we are taken off and the socialist party is put on the ballot.

How is it that the socialist party cannot point to a single state where the government is trying to keep it off the ballot? How is it that the socialist party has no difficulty in getting on the ballot, while our party has to fight every inch of the way in order to secure even the slightest opportunity to appear before the workers in the coming election campaign? Here we again have a class question. The socialist party no longer has anything to do with the defense of the interests of the working class. The capitalists are past masters in the art of welcoming new friends and new supporters. And that is why the path of the socialist party in the election campaign is so smooth. That is why we Communists face so many difficulties.

4.—Who Are the "Socialists"?

The Workers (Communist) Party is carrying its election fight to the factories, to the Negro masses, to the masses in the mills and mines, to the striking textile workers, to the battling miners, to the poverty-stricken farmers. But the socialist party is simultaneously merged with the reactionary trade union bureaucracy which is responsible for the destruction of some of the basic organizations of the American working class, like the United Mine Workers. The socialist party is busy fighting for LaFollettism. It is claiming that it is the inheritor of the LaFollete tradition. It is announcing from the housetops that the LaFollette vote, largely petty-bourgeois, especially in certain sections of the country, will go to the socialist party.

The socialist party is deliberately completely discarding the Debs tradition, the tradition of the conscious anti-capitalist support which Debs once drew for the organization. Reverend Thomas does not speak of the class struggle in the terms or spirit of Debs. The slogan of Thomas is "Fellowship and Conciliation." That is why it is hard to draw even a faint line of distinction between Smith and Thomas, between the socialist party and the democratic party in the election campaign. Senator Blaine of Wisconsin, a LaFollette republican, is for Smith. Senator Brookhart of Iowa, a LaFollette republican, is for Hoover. Senato rWheeler, of Montana, a LaFollette democrat, is for Smith. Senators Nye and Frazier, non-partisan LaFollette republicans, are for Hoover. The Nation, edited by the Reverend Dr. Thomas himself, at first makes a gesture towards the socialist party. One day it leaves some doubts in the minds of many of the muddled liberals as to whether they should vote for Thomas or Smith. The next day Smith receives the endorsement of the Nation, edited by Thomas.

Supported by Union Wreckers.

It is not an accident that it is hard to distinguish between Smith, managed by the anti-union Raskob of the General Motors Company, and Thomas, managed by the supporters of Sigman, Lewis, Woll, Green and other notorious trade union smashers and lieutenants of Wall Street in the labor movement.

An Associated Press dispatch of September 23rd, dealing with a statement issued by the socialist party in reference to the election campaign, takes the prize. In this release, issued by the socialist party, it is claimed that the socialist party will elect the next president of th eUnited States. Of course, the socialist party is careful to point out that the candidate they will elect will not be Norman Thomas. This dispatch declares that the socialist party considers that "it holds the balance of power, that it can take enough votes away from one of the major party candidates to assure victory to the other."

Whether this is the strategy of "fellowship and conciliation" or insanity, we will let the reader decide. The significance of this dispatch is brought home when it goes on to say further: "Whether this left-handed support will be given to Hoover or Smith, socialist officials have declined to state in so many words for publication, but it has been indicated that Hoover is their favorite on the ground that what they see of Smith's playing for the liberal vote is a trespass on socialist domain and should be combatted." Here is the point. Here is the confession! Smith must be stopped from trespassing on the socialist domain. The preserves of Smith is the home of Thomas. Smith is close to Thomas and Thomas is close to Smith. The pressure of the democratic party on the socialist party must be eased a bit. Frank P. Walsh and Norman Thomas are singing the paens in their march to appropriate the corpse of the LaFollette votes.

5. An International Menace.

Internationally, as well as nationally, there is little to distinguish the "New Socialist Party" from the "New Tammany Hall." At the Sixth World Congress of the Communist International, the American Communist Party participated actively in the formulation of policies aiming to mobilize more effectively the workers for the destruction of imperialism, for the wiping ou tof capitalism, for the victory of the working class, for the establishment of Communism. Simultaneously the socialist party, thru Mr. Hillquit, participated in the Brussels Congress of the Second International. This dead congress, in which Mr. Hillquit was one of the leading spirits, made frantic efforts to secure the affiliation and support of the Kuomintang party of Chiang Kai-shek, Feng Yu Hsien, and other militarist hangmen of the Chinese workers and farmers. It is interesting to note that while the Kuomintang gave the slightest impression of having revolutionary objectives and was conducting its northern campaign against the Chinese militarists, led by Chang Tso-lin, and the imperialist protectors, the socialist party of the United States and the Second International, of which it is a member, was hostile to it. But no sooner than this Kuomintang and its militarist clique betrayed the workers, became the barbaric butchers of the working and peasant masses, the Second International of Mr. Hillquit and the American socialist party welcomed them. No sooner had these Kuomintang forces sold out boot and baggage to American, British and Japanese imperialism and broken its relations with the working class government of the Soviet Union than the American "socialists," hand in glove with their brethren overseas, joined in vigorous applause of the Kuomintang's murderous campaign against the workers and peasants of China.

6. Vote As You Strike.

No class conscious worker can or will vote for Hoover or Smith. That is why no class conscious worker can or should vote for the socialist party today. The "new socialist party" has passed even from its previous shame-faced defense of capitalism to playing the role of an active, open defender of capitalism in its ugliest manifestations; from "industrial democracy" to "fellowship and conciliation." This is the path the socialist party has been traveling. This is the path which no honest class conscious worker can or should take. The class conscious worker of the United States will vote as they strike. They will vote for the Workers (Communist) Party of America.

Brazilian Scientist Discovers Fuel Water

LONDON, Sept. 28 (UP).—Scientists were sceptical today of the claims of Walter Hohenau, Brazilian, that he had discovered a method of using water for fuel.

Hohenau told the world fuel conference yesterday that, using intense electrical vibrations, he could convert water into hydrogen gas which could be used for power. The merit of the discovery lies in the claim that, after the ordinary process of splitting water in hydrogen and oxygen, the oxygen is further converted into hydrogen. The potential energy of water thus is made highly available as a gas.

Some scientists expressed the view that the energy required for the conversion of the water would cost more than the energy obtained would be worth.

Told You S

COLONEL T. E. LAWRENCE, th English soldier who won militar fame as a servant of British imperialism in Arabia during the war, is now playing his familiar role of stool-pigeon in India, according to reports in the press. Lawrence wrote a book on how he induced the Arabs to make war on the Turks and though this book was obviously the report of an agent of the British government it met with high favor and enjoyed a sale that would bring tears of envy from the [illegible] of Messrs. Simon and Schuster.

T. J. O'Flaherty

GALLONS of neurotic tears were shed over the treatment accorded to this fink by the British government. Lawrence refused to accept a title, we were told. He was indignant because the British government failed to keep its promises to the Arabs made under the stress of necessity. Hokum! Lawrance cared no more what happened to the Arabs after he had succeeded in inveigling them to risk their lives fighting against the Turks to save the empire's neck in the near east than Morgan cares for the fate of the suckers who risked their lives fighting for his investments and the interests of American imperialis on the battlefields of Europe.

LAWRENCE, who was supposed to have enlisted in the British air service because he wanted to be away from the haunts of society in London, now pops up in India as a spy on the activities of the Hindoo revolutionary leaders who are aiming to free the country from the British yoke. All the bunk put out in the press about Lawrence was designed to put the British workers off the track of his movements. He has been discovered. Let us hope that he will not succeed as well in India as he did in Arabia.

WHILE on the subject of stool-pigeons a word about Patrick Connolly, head of the Interborough company union, recently elevated to the directorship of the big traction company. Mr. Connolly is no ordinary dick. Neither is Colonel Lawrence for that matter. They have abilities of a kind that justify their employers in treating them generously. But they are [illegible] stool-pigeons. They bear the same relation to a fink that the Morris Plan bears to a pawn shop.

• • •

CONNOLLY was used by the I. R. T. to call a fake strike in 1919 for a fare increase. In return for his services he was recognized as the president of a union that was in the pocket of the I. R. T. Now he has been officially taken into the family. The only difference between Connolly and the so-called bonafide officials of the American Federation of Labor is that while Connolly is openly a company agent with the title of labor leader, his competitors are doing the job under cover.

• • •

THE keen rivalry between England and the United States is shown by the turmoil caused in diplomatic circles by the publication of the secret understanding regarding the disposition of naval and military forces by England and France. The United States regards this entente as a threat against herself. It is that. But it is also a threat against the Soviet Union.

• • •

THE republican and democratic vice-presidential candidates are a bit under the weather these days. Robinson is fishing and Curtis is down with a pain in the neck. This is retribution, one of the first laws of nature. Charlie's speeches have done that to lots of people.

AT the International Progressive Center, 101 West 28th St., you will find not only food and drink to tickle the palate but a subdued atmosphere which only Greeks, Turks and Bulgarians can furnish. The waiters seem to divine your requirements. There is no attempt to force raw carrots on an unwilling guest. In fact, you are allowed the most liberal degree of self-determination. There is only one warning that you must heed. Don't cast any reflections on the roast lamb. Greece has been famous for philosophers and mutton, and the International Progressive Center, while fighting capitalism in Greece and elsewhere tooth and fork, will not stand for any pleasantries at the expense of this proletarian dish. It's about time to eat, I guess.

ANOTHER CHICAGO BOMBING

CHICAGO, Sept. 28 (UP).—Chicago's 65th bombing of the year and the fourth within 12 hours occurred today when a bomb was thrown through the window of a south side store. Walter Robinson and his two children, Walter, Jr., 13, and Agnes, 11, who resided above the store, were thrown from their beds by the blast.
